Deputies Arrest Suspect In Massacre At Soquel Mansion

Drop-Out Mechanic Is Seized At Dawn

SANTA CRUZ (UPI) — Sheriff's deputies today arrested John Linley Frazier, charged with the slaying of Victor M. Ohta and four others, less than a mile from the scene of the mass murders at Ohta's mountaintop mansion.

The suspect, a 24-year-old Santa Cruz mechanic who "dropped out" and became a hippie, was picked up at 7:30 a.m. in a heavily wooded area staked out by officers since soon after the killings Monday night.

An hour later, Santa Cruz County Sheriff's Assistant Lou Keller told newsmen the man in custody was definitely Frazier.

He was brought out of the mountainous, heavily timbered terrain and taken to the Santa Cruz County Jail.

It was reported that shooting occurred during the capture, but this could not be confirmed. There were no reports that anyone was wounded.

Other investigators at the scene searched it for evidence, particularly for any indication that anyone else was involved.

When Frazier was charged in a warrant Thursday, prosecutors said the "present evidence" indicated there were no others involved.

WIFE IN CUSTODY

Sheriff's officers said they located Frazier with the help of his estranged wife, as well as hippies. She was in protective custody today.

Officers said the Fraziers had been separated for several months, and the wife told them Frazier had been living in a cabin near the home of the murdered family since then. She said she helped him move out of the cabin two days before the slayings.

A search of Frazier's old cabin in the area turned up a pair of binoculars and some shoes that had not been there Wednesday, indicating someone had been in the cabin during the night.

The hunt had turned to Frazier Thursday after hippies in the area gave police information about him.

The suspect is an auto mechanic "who dropped out and entered the hippie-style life", according to sheriff's deputies. The FBI joined the hunt for him Thursday.

The suspect was seized shortly before funeral services were scheduled to be held for the Ohtas today.

WARRANT ISSUED

Peter Chang, Santa Cruz county district attorney, announced late Thursday that a warrant had been issued for John Linley Frazier. Chang declared that "on the present evidence we are seeking one person," in the killing of Dr. Victor Ohta, his wife, two sons and secretary.

Asked how one man could have bound five persons, blindfolded them and then shot them beside a swimming pool, Chang replied: "It sounds ridiculous, but it's possible that it happened."

Frazier, 24, had lived in a cabin near the $300,000 Ohta mansion until two days before the Monday slayings. He has a criminal record and was

U.S.-Soviet Ties Highlight Speech

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — President Nixon invited leaders of the Soviet Union today to join him in building a "new road" to peace by ending the arms race and competing instead of leading the world to economic and social progress.

In a speech to the 25th anniversary session of the General Assembly of the United Nations, Nixon made this appeal:

"I invite the leaders of the Soviet Union to join us in taking that new road—to join in a peaceful competition, not in the accumulation of arms but in the dissemination of progress; not in the building of missiles but in waging a winning war against hunger and disease and human misery in our own countries and around the globe.

"Let us compete in elevating the human spirit, in fostering respect for law among nations and in promoting the works of peace. In this kind of competition, no one loses and everyone benefits."

In his second speech before the world organization since becoming President, Nixon said there were many sound reasons why the United States and the Soviet Union should seek a new course towards peaceful rivalry.

Nixon cautioned against underestimating the "seriousness of the disagreements" between Moscow and Washington but cited four specific areas that he said provided a basis for U.S.-Soviet cooperation.

He listed these as:

—Avoiding a nuclear exchange that would cost the lives of tens of millions of people.

—Reducing "the enormous cost of arms" and redirecting resources toward progress.

—Increasing trade and contact.

—Competing in the "global challenge of economic and social development."

Nixon did not refer specifically to a hardline U.N. speech two days ago by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, but his reference was clear when he remarked pointedly:

"I see no point in responding in kind to traditional cold war rhetoric. The facts of the recent past speak for themselves. An effort to score debating points is not the way to advance the cause of peace."

The major thrust of the speech dealt with improvement of Soviet-American relations. There were no major surprises or explicit new offers in the address although Nixon stressed the need for the two super powers to prevent war in the Middle East.

He touched only briefly on his recent Indochina peace plan which included a proposal for a standstill cease-fire.

Of America's role in the world, Nixon said: "We can with complete honesty say that we maintain our strength to keep the peace and not to threaten the peace. The power of the United States will be used to defend freedom and never to destroy freedom."

In the Middle East, he said, the United States and Russia should work for "continuation of the cease-fire and the creation of confidence in which peace efforts can go forward."

In mentioning his Vietnam peace proposals he urged the United Nations to register its concern about treatment of prisoners of war taken captive in the conflict.

At another point, the President told the assembly:

"In Southeast Asia, let us agree to a cease-fire and negotiate a peace. In the Middle East, let us hold to the cease-fire and build a peace.

"Through arms control agreements, let us invest our resources in the development that nourishes peace."

Fairhills Residence Destroyed By Blaze

Fire today swept through the spacious San Rafael home of building contractor Spero P. Spiliotis leaving a charred shell.

As firemen wearing breathing apparatus fought the blaze inside the home at 490 Fairhills Drive, Spiliotis stood outside with an expressionless face. He had built the four-bedroom home nine years ago and estimated its worth at about $40,000.

Firemen said no one was home when the fire erupted at 9:57 a.m. The blaze was completely out at 10:30 a.m. as fire crew began mop-up operations.

Fire Chief Vance Trivett said early indications point to the fire having started in the master bedroom. Its floor was burned through.

He said it was too soon to estimate damage or determine a cause.

Spiliotis said a neighbor had spotted the fire and phoned the fire department. He said he learned of the fire while at his Northgate Industrial Center office.

"My wife was at work and the children are at school," he said, but wondered about the fate of the family's cats. "I don't know if they got out or not."

As Spiliotis spoke, his wife arrived. She said the family had already received many offers from neighbors for a place to spend the night.

A small crowd of neighbors gathered at the smokey scene to watch two pumper trucks and 12 firemen fight the blaze.

Pilot Crashes Plane Into Filled Church

SAN JUAN, Tex. (UPI)—A small plane smashed into the Shrine of San Juan Catholic Church at high noon Friday, sending about 100 priests and worshippers fleeing from the crumbling, burning ruins.

The pilot of the single engine Piper Cherokee called a nearby airport tower demanding that all Methodist and Catholic churches in South Texas be evacuated. Twenty-seven minutes later, he crashed the aircraft into the San Juan church and died.

Police said the 60 priests and about 40 persons worshipping inside the white stone structure got out safely.

"We were in the house of God and he protected us," the Rev. John Ward said.

Charles Wardroup, chief of the control tower at the nearby airport at McAllen, Tex., said the pilot of the plane called at 11:33 a.m.

"He called on an emergency frequency to advise fire departments to evacuate all Methodist and Catholic churches from Weslaco to Mission and from Hidalgo to Edinburgh," Wardroup said.

All are towns in the Lower Rio Grande Valley of Texas.

San Juan is six miles across the border from Mexico.

"We queried the pilot as to why the churches should be evacuated," Wardroup said. "He said, 'Due to a serious plot.'"

13th Student Is Arrested In Arson, Rioting Charges

KENT, Ohio (UPI)—A Kent State University student was arrested today by deputy sheriffs under an indictment handed down by a special state grand jury which investigated the campus killings of four students last spring.

Peter C. Bilek, 22, of Rochester, N. Y., the 13th person arrested of the 25 indicted, is a junior at Kent. He was charged with arson and first degree riot and freed on $5,000 bail.

While deputies continued their arrests, students held a series of campus workshops to discuss the grand jury's report on its month-long investigation of the incidents at Kent from May 2 to May 4 when the four students were killed.

A group of students presented Kent President Robert I. White with a petition which said the university's problems were caused by "outside agitation." The petition was signed by 2,100 students, who said they were at the school "primarily for an education."

The workshops, part of a campus "civil liberties moratorium," examined such topics

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Consumer Report

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon plans to give consumers a pre-election promise to release the government's own data on the quality of various products, administration sources said today.

The disclosure program will include some brand-by-brand comparisons, long sought by consumer advocates but bitterly opposed by business.

Sources said the announcement will be made before the Nov. 3 election in hopes of boosting Republican candidates.

The information would include data on new cars and tires, one source said. He said it would not tell the consumer that a Ford is better than a Chevrolet or vice versa, but would disclose the government's own criteria in car selection, and how each brand performs.

My Lai Interlude

FT. HOOD, Tex. (UPI)—Col. George Robinson banged his gavel at 1:35 p.m. to reconvene the court martial of the first American to be tried in charges stemming from the My Lai massacre. He called the court into session for only one purpose—to announce its suspension.

Ossie Brown, the chief defense attorney for S. Sgt. David Mitchell, was hospitalized Thursday with an undetermined ailment. Robinson, the military judge at Mitchell's court martial, said the trial would be postponed indefinitely presumably until Brown could return to court.

An ambulance picked up Brown Thursday morning at a motel in Killeen, Tex., the central Texas town outside Ft. Hood. The ambulance took Brown to a hospital in nearby Temple where he is reported in satisfactory condition.

UAW Assessment

DETROIT (UPI) — The United Auto Workers Union, within two or three weeks of draining a $120 million strike fund to its last reserves, has moved to assess the union's 900,000 working members to support the 38-day strike against General Motors Corp.

The UAW's ruling International Executive Board (IEB) met here Thursday and indicated it will ask a special financial convention Saturday to boost dues to nonstriking members. Sources said the increase was likely to be $10 monthly and raise an extra $9 million a month.

The Union is currently paying out about $14 million a week in strike benefits to 350,000 workers who struck GM at midnight, Sept. 14, and some others idled by the strike.

Tanks For Israel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States will supply Israel with 200 modern tanks in a $500 million arms aid program, the Washington Post said Friday.

The newspaper quoted informed sources that Israel would receive the M60 tanks — best in the American arsenal — over a one-year period.

The tanks, built by the Chrysler Corporation at a cost of from $200,000 to $220,000 each, are considered by American military experts superior to any produced by the Soviet Union. The Egyptian armed forces are equipped with Soviet T54 and T55 tanks. They have not been supplied with the more modern Soviet T72 tanks.

Radio Bomb Alert

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chairman Dean Burch of the Federal Communications Commission has asked broadcasters to cooperation in keeping bombed-out radio stations on the air.

In a letter to President Vincent T. Wasilewsky of the National Association of Broadcasters, Burch asked the organization "to take all appropriate steps of assistance to ensure that no station in this country is silenced by dynamite."

Burch did not spell out what type assistance he had in mind, but an FCC spokesman said the implication was that broadcasters should lend equipment or power to any station whose facilities are bombed.

Mexican Blackout

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—An evening rush hour power failure blacked out this city of 8 million for one hour and 13 minutes Thursday. Thousands were trapped in subways and office building elevators.

The blackout that occurred just before sunset extended to cities of neighboring states as far as 75 miles away. Within minutes it plunged this capital and other towns into total darkness that prevailed until power began to be restored at 7:40 p.m. (9:40 p.m. EDT).

PROTEST JEWISH TREATMENT

Students in Lafayette Park in Washington, D.C., wave a replica of a Russian flag with a swastika on it as Andrei Gromyko's limousine passes. The protest came yesterday as the Russian envoy traveled to the White House for a conference with President Nixon. The students were protesting what they called alleged mistreatment of Jews in the Soviet Union.

Algeria Balks At Allowing Leary To Talk

ALGIERS (UPI) — Algerian authorities today refused authorization for Black Panther leader Eldridge B. Cleaver to stage an international news conference to introduce Timothy F. Leary, advocate of free use of the drug LSD and a fugitive from U.S. justice.

The Algerian Information Ministry gave no explanation for the cancellation of the conference, originally called for Thursday by Cleaver, "information minister" of the militant Black Panther movement.

Informed circles said, however, Algerian authorities refused authorization to hold it today because Cleaver did not clear the matter with them first and because of possible embarrassment in Algeria's relations with the United States.

Announcing the conference, Cleaver said he would also present Bernardine Rae Dohrn, 28, a fugitive from the United States on the FBI's most wanted list.

Although formal diplomatic relations between the United States and Algeria were broken by Algeria at the time of the six-day Arab-Israeli War in 1967, both countries maintain small missions in each other's capital.

Officials Call Church Bombing Vicious, Psychotic, Despicable

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Gov. Ronald Reagan said it was "vicious," Mayor Joseph Alioto called it the work of a "psychotic crew" and Police Chief Alfred Nelder declared it was "despicable."

All three were discussing the exploding of a time bomb Thursday outside a Roman Catholic church as 300 policemen from 15 departments joined mourners at a funeral for a patrolman killed during an attempted bank holdup.

There were no serious injuries, but the bomb blew a three-foot-deep hole in the ground, discolored the stucco front of St. Brendan's Church and hurled nails, screws and bolts as far as 400 feet.

Reagan, who asserted the bombing was part of the "fiendish tactics" of revolutionaries, declared: "It gives you some idea of the viciousness of the jungle animals that are loose among us and must be contained."

Alioto told reporters, "We're going ahead with the funeral service immediately to show these bums they can't scare us out."

"We're not going to turn this city into a police state," he added. "But there's a lot of room for rough, tough law enforcement within constitutional limits . . . and this is going to be done. Believe me!"

A $5,000 reward is being offered "for information leading to the arrest and conviction" of those who planted the bomb, Alioto said.

"The terrorists will be defeated and brought to justice," he asserted.

Nelder remarked: "A man lays down his life doing his duty and we come to pay tribute to him at a mass and then someone does this. It just makes you wonder what we are coming to."

The services were for Patrolman Harold L. Hamilton, 32, who was killed Monday during a robbery attempt at a Wells Fargo bank branch. James Sanchez, 27, accused of the attempt, was wounded critically.

Nelder said three of Hamilton's small sons were in the church vestibule when the bomb exploded, 13 minutes before the scheduled start of services.

"If the intention was to injure, kill or maim police, the fact of the matter is that it almost did that to some children—particularly the Hamilton children," Nelder added. There were 20 other youngsters in the church.

Rock Atop Auto Fatal To Driver

SAN FERNANDO, Calif. (UPI)—A 22-year-old graduate student died at Holy Cross hospital Thursday of injuries suffered when a 50-pound rock was dropped from an overpass onto his car.

The rock caved in the roof of William Hoyt's four-door sedan Wednesday night. A passenger, Stephen Freed, 22, was hospitalized for treatment of shock.

Authorities said several rocks had been dropped from the Peoria Street overcrossing onto the Golden State Freeway in Sun Valley in the past year.

Banned Defoliant Used By Soldiers

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. command said today troops of the U.S. Army's Americal Division used 5,500 gallons of the controversial chemical "Orange" to kill vegetation in the war zone even after its use was forbidden in Vietnam.

The military said "appropriate disciplinary measures" may be forthcoming, depending on the outcome of the investigation, which is still underway.

Communiques also reported the loss of two American helicopters to Communist ground fire in Vietnam and a Viet Cong ambush against a Cambodian convoy on a part of Highway 4 southwest of Phnom Penh which the Cambodian Command had declared safe.

The U. S. Command disclosed today that one American was killed and 55 were wounded in last Sunday's Communist shelling of an Allied navy base in the Mekong Delta. Officials had originally said U. S. casualties at the base, 165 miles southwest of Saigon were light.

The U. S. Command said today an investigation by its inspector general's office showed the Americal Division sprayed "Orange" from helicopters and ground units in the northern sector of South Vietnam in May, July and August.

American troops were ordered on April 17 to halt the use of "Orange," which the National Cancer Institute said produces a higher than normal rate of deformities in the offspring of mice and rats. It is used to defoliate the heavy jungle and undergrowth in Vietnam. It contains the herbicide 2,4,5-T.

Spokesmen for U. S. military commander Gen. Creighton W. Abrams said the investigation was still going on and "depending on the outcome of the investigation, appropriate disciplinary measures will be considered." The spokesmen declined to elaborate.

Offending Sewage To Be Impounded

I-J Special Report

MENLO PARK — The Air Force announced yesterday it has found a solution for its sewage problem atop Mount Tamalpais — its men at the radar station will swim in it.

The Air Force station has been under fire from the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board for allowing its partially treated sewage to trickle down the mountain into Alpine Lake, which provides drinking water for the Marin Municipal Water District.

The board got the word yesterday, however, that emergency funds will be sought by the Air Force to impound all sewage wastes at the station for use in the existing swimming pool. The emergency funds also would provide for tertiary treatment of the waste to meet standards assuring their suitability for body contact, the board was told.

The amount of money needed was not mentioned, but Col. Lee A. Sarter Jr., commanding officer at Hamilton Air Force Base, which has jurisdiction over the sewage problem, promised that the work will be completed by Oct. 15, 1971 — if the funding is approved at higher levels.

His letter said that the construction schedule was based on gettting the funds by Dec. 1.

An Air Force attorney last month had asked the regional board to give the station time to study the health hazard this winter, but the board made it clear then that it would enact a cease and desist order against the station at its October meeting if the Air Force did not come up with a schedule to eliminate the problem.

The station's present system is to spray its treated sewage, some 17,000 gallons a day, on a field, where it is supposed to percolate into the soil. In rainy weather, however, it runs down the mountain.

In other business, the regional board ordered Gilardi's Resort on the Petaluma River to construct a septic tank and leach field system by Dec. 1, or be certified to the attorney general for prosecution for dumping raw sewage into the river. The penalty for violating the board order can run up to $6,000 a day.

The board has been pushing for five years to stop the discharge, and a new state law gives it power to act against polluters far more directly and swiftly than under the previous law.

Chosen by council

Robert Bode Selected For Scout Honor

Robert Bode, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Bode Jr. of 200 Center Street, San Rafael, has been selected by the Marin Council, Boy Scouts of America, as the council's National Youth Representative.

From council nominees nationwide, youths are chosen to make the Boy Scouts' annual report to President Richard M. Nixon.

Young Bode, a College of Marin student and cross-country runner, has been in scouting through all ranks from Cub Scout membership in Pack 52 at West End School to Eagle Scout.

He is assistant scoutmaster of Troop 18, and chief of the Talako Lodge, Order of the Arrow, as well as commander of Knights of Dunamis, Eagle Scout organization. For the past several summers he has taught archery at the Marin council's Sierra Scout Camp.

Scientists Think Pulsar Doubles Speed Of Light

LONDON (UPI)—Two British scientists said today their studies have turned up electromagnetic fields trillions of miles from earth which are traveling at twice the speed of light.

The report appeared to challenge some of the findings of Albert Einstein involved in his theory of relaitvity and were expected to touch off arguments among physicists around the world.

In part, the Einstein theory holds that the speed of light is 186,282 miles per second and that this is the absolute limit.

The new phenonenon was described by Dr. John S. Allen and Geoffrey Endean of the department of engineering science at Oxford University in the latest issue of the magazine Nature.

The Allen-Endean report was on electromagnetic fields whirling around the Crab nebula, a huge cluster of stars more than 5,000 light years from earth.

It said the fields achieve twice the speed of light—or about 372,000 miles per second.

Replying to their own question as to whether this denies Einstein's equations of 1905, Allen and Endean attributed their findings to the violence of the processes going on in the Crab nebula.

Inside the Nebula, the report said, is a collapsed star, or pulsar, about 10 miles in diameter that radiates 100 times more energy than the sun.

The pulsar is so dense, Allen and Endean said, that a piece of it the size of a sugar cube would weigh 100 million tons. The report said the pulsar rotates 33 times a second.

The findings were based on mathematical and astrophysical calculations that followed experimental observations carried out by other scientists.

Atlanta was first known as Terminus where four rail lines met.

Lane Change Flips Car, Driver Hurt

A 23-year-old Napa man was treated Wednesday for a fractured foot and multiple bruises suffered when his car rolled over on Highway 101 near the Marinwood exit at 10:30 a.m.

The California Highway Patrol said Loren E. Vanderschoot was southbound on the freeway when he swerved to the left to avoid a car driven by Mary V. Perry, of Sebastopol, which made a lane change in front of him.

His car hit the center divider and overturned, throwing him from the vehicle, officers said. He was taken to Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Rafael for treatment.

Mrs. Perry was cited by the highway patrol for making an improper lane change resulting in an accident.

Jury Asked To Probe Official In Petaluma

The Sonoma County Grand Jury has been asked to investigate charges of misconduct on the part of Paul Stanley, Petaluma Planning Commission chairman.

Attorney Leroy J. Lounibos Sr. said he had made the request because he feels the city failed to investigate fully charges made against Stanley at the Oct. 5 city council meeting.

At that meeting, Lounibos said Stanley had made telephone threats to three clients, warning them not to oppose a planned apartment unit at 833 Petaluma Boulevard North.

On Oct. 13, the council met with Stanley behind closed doors, but took no action in public.

Mayor Helen Putnam said today that the council had attempted to investigate the charges fully, but that none of the three persons allegedly threatened would appear to substantiate the complaint.

"The council at this moment has the matter open and under investigation; however, in the light of the accusers' present refusal to appear before the council, I find it difficult to give credence to the statements made . . ." Mrs. Putnam said.

Lounibos said he hoped the grand jury investigation would be extended, if necessary, to other elected and appointed city officials.

He said he expected that 25 to 50 witnesses would be called and said the 1970 grand jury might not be able to complete the entire investigation and that the 1971 grand jury may become involved.

Victor de Carli and Francis Lazio, both Lounibos's clients, reported that Stanley called them and threatened pressure against their businesses if they raised objections to apartments planned by C and S Enterprises of San Rafael. The third person allegedly threatened has not been named.

Stanley denied the charges of misconduct and said he would welcome a grand jury investigation to clear the air.

Water Control Board Backs Novato Bonds

I-J Special Report

MENLO PARK — Novato Sanitary District's proposed $5.5 million bond issue won unanimous support yesterday from the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board.

The support was voted at the request of district officials who said that there was confusion in the district over the board's position on the bond measure, to be voted Dec. 8 in a special election.

The confusion, according to district officials, arose last month when the regional board ordered the district to anticipate joining adjacent sewage agencies in a subregional treatment system.

The board made it clear yesterday that the bond measure and the need for a long-range regional system were not in conflict.

Yesterday's support of the bond measure came as the board also set a deadline of Feb. 1, 1973, for construciton of the improvements to be built with the bond money. The improvements include removing discharges from Novato creek and instad putting them through a 300-foot outfall near Hamilton Air Force Base.

This outfall, however, will not meet the board's long-range program of discharging into deep water. The 300-foot pipe will not clear the mud flats at low tides.

The board also gave the district until Jan. 1 to submit a time schedule to develop a subregional system, and authorized the executive officer to go to the attorney general for "proper legal relief and civil monetary remedies" if the deadlines are not met.

The monetary remedies provide for a fine up to $6,000 a day.

The adjacent sewage agencies that would be included in the subregional system are the City of Petaluma, Sonoma Valley County Sanitation District, Hamilton Air Force Base and Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District. The board's staff reported that each had been informed of the notification given last month to the Novato district, but that no response had been received from any.

The board adicated that it soon will consider orders against three other agencies to force them into a subregional system.

Fairfax Planners Approve Changes

The Fairfax Planning Commission last night recommended that the city council approve proposed new sign and zoning ordinances.

The sign ordinance which would allow one square-foot of sign for each foot of storefront up to 100 square feet was passed on without change, secretary Ernestine Healy said.

The only significant difference between the old and the proposed new zoning ordinance is the boundary of the business district, Eckles said.

The business district under the proposed ordinance would be restricted more to Sir Francis Drake and Center boulevards and Bolinas Avenue, he said.

Study Reports Teens Smoking More Today

By THOMAS PLEDGE

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UPI)—A new study reported by University of Illinois researchers has bad news for those who hope young people are being weaned away from cigarettes.

Its conclusion is that a larger percentage of teen-agers may be smoking now than before the federal government put its weight behind the warning on the pack: "Cigarette smoking may be hazardous to your health."

The researchers checked smoking habits among 23,724 public and private school students in north central Illinois. They came up with evidence of a "new wave of smokers."

They concluded there are signs of a sharp increase in smoking by girls between the ages of 13 and 15. The girls tended to equate cigarettes with maturity and were more determined to continue smoking than were boys, the report said.

The researchers reported that all the television admonitions, the classroom warnings, and even the example of nonsmoking parents apparently have less influence on a teenager's decision about cigarettes than do the habits of friends.

Starting in early 1966, when precautionary health warnings first became mandatory on cigarette packages, Profs. William H. Creswell, Warren J. Huffman and Donald Stone, plus a group of graduate students, set out to examine the smoking habits of students in grades 7 through 12 in Rockford, Ill., and surrounding Winnebago County.

The study, financed by a $184,500 grant from the Department of Health Education and Welfare, was broad enough to indicate the teen-age smoking trend in the Midwest, and probably the nation, Creswell said.

The findings were correlated with those of a similar study conducted in 1958 among 9th through 12th grade students in Portland, Ore. —prior to the surgeon general's report linking smoking and some types of cancer.

The results appeared to indicate that teen-agers are going counter to an over-all trend that dropped cigarette sales by over 2 million packages daily during the 1960s.

In comparing the two studies, the researchers found that 23.8 per cent of Rockford high school students were smokers in 1968 compared to 23.3 per cent of those in Portland in 1958 —only a 1-2 per cent difference, but one that Cresswell said may be statistically significant.

For the purposes of comparison only the Rockford city figures were matched with Portland, excluding the rural Illionois youngsters.

The smoking rates of boys in the two cities were roughly equal, but there were striking differences among freshmen and sophomore girls in high school. In Rockford, 13.8 per cent of the ninth grade girls when researchers made a were smokers, compared to only 6.3 per cent of those checked in Portland. In 10th grade the Illinois girls led 19.5 per cent to 13 per cent.

—The proportion of regular smokers—those who had at least a cigarette a day—was about equal between boys and girls in the upper grades. But more girls than boys said they intended to keep on smoking.

—State and local ordinances against teen-age smoking had no apparent influence on a youngster's cigarette habits. However, most young smokers said they were concerned about the effect of cigarettes on their health.

—An unusually high percentage of smokers were absent indicated teen-age smokers are when researchers made a second or third visit to a school. The report said this indicated teen-age smokers are more prone to illness, play hookey more often, or are more likely to be suspended or drop out of school. The smokers also generally had poorer grades and lower academic aspirations, the report said.

—A high proportion of regular smokers had parents who smoked, usually the father. The level of education among smoking parents was lower than that of nonsmoking parents.

—Regular classroom teachers had more influence on teenagers' feelings about cigarettes than mass media advertising or lectures by outsiders. Individualized instruction appeared to have the most impact.

—The smoking "clique" was evident among both boys and girls, with smokers seldom associating with nonsmokers and vice versa. Smokers also tended to be dissatisfied with their age and wished to be older.

Union Pacts Giving Higher Pay Hikes

released by the California Youth Authority in 1965.

The suspect—also known as Pascal, his mother's present name — was described as a "white, male American with brownish hair, combed to one side and reaching his collar."

His estranged wife who last saw him when he left the cabin recalled he was wearing a three-quarter inch beard, a beige straw hat with a wide brim and a red, white and blue band, a green coat, dark trousers, which might have been jeans, and ankle high moccasins.

The wife, whom the district attorney did not name, was quoted as saying that when he left the cabin, he had a pistol in his waistband, a backpack of food for several days, expensive binoculars and a book on Tarot.

Tarot is a medieval method of telling fortunes with playing cards. The names of Tarot cards were signed to a note left by the killer under a windshield wiper of Dr. Ohta's Rolls Royce outside the hilltop mansion which had been set on fire.

The note declared "World War 3," opposed materialism and vowed death to those who "misuse the environment."

Sheriff's deputies have determined that .38- and .22-caliber pistols were used in the killings and an unnamed friend of Frazier's told detectives the hunted man owned a .38-caliber Smith and Wesson revolver.

One of Dr. Ohta's two surviving daughters said there had been a .22-pistol in the house which overlooks the Pacific Ocean.

Another unnamed friend told police Frazier had said he had been in the Ohta house where he had taken a pair of binoculars.

That friend also quoted Frazier as saying that those who lived like the Ohtas were too materialistic and "should be snuffed," a district attorney's affidavit said.

THE PROPOSITIONS

Six Education Issues At Stake

By ROBERT P. LAURENCE

(Third of four articles)

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Education issues are at stake in six of the 20 propositions on the Nov. 3 ballot.

One of the measures, Proposition 5, would require the Board of Regents of the University of California to meet openly in public. Now the board meets behind closed doors whenever it wants.

"We, the people, have a right to know how the decisions affecting our tax money, and our sons and daughters, are made; who is making them and why," claims Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, author of the proposed constitutional amendment.

Other education measures on the ballot would allow early legislative school appropriations, permit part of the teachers' retirement fund to be invested in stocks, designate the speaker of the Assembly an ex-officio member of the state college trustees, authorize an extra non-civil service deputy superintendent of public instruction in the state Department of Education, and allow counties to appoint their school superintendents rather than elect them.

Presently, other government bodies must meet in public. (The Legislature still is not legally required to meet in public session, but does as a practice.)

Proposition 5 "conforms the law governing the activities of the board of regents to that governing" other governmental bodies, according to Bagley.

But Sen. John L. Harmer, R-Glendale, opposes the measure, arguing that opening up the regents' meetings could lead to disruption.

"The presence of television and the press at a crucial point in the decision-making process can be inhibiting when the issue is a highly charged, emotional one," Harmer says. "Decision affected by disruptive presence is not consistent with the California electorate's desire to separate the regents of the university from politics as completely as possible."

But Bagley notes that the regents would retain the power to prevent disruption at meetings and to hold closed meetings on matters affecting national security and personnel.

Proposition 4, another proposed constitutional amendment, would allow the legislature to make school appropriations before passage of the state budget if the budget bill is delayed. Presently the constitution forbids passage of any other appropriation bill before the budget, except emergency bills recommended by the governor or appropriations for legislative salaries and expenses.

Under the present system, school assistance bills are "not enacted until long after the fiscal year begins, making it impossible for school districts to plan with assurance," argues Assemblyman Victor V. Veysey, R-Brawley, chairman of the Assembly Education Committee, and Assemblyman March K. Fong, D-Oakland, a member of the committee.

"Spare your local school officials the agony and inefficiency of setting budgets in June and then learning in August or September how much the state has appropriated," they say.

But Assemblyman Robert H. Burke, R-Huntington Beach, another education committee member, argues that the appropriation for school finance is contained in the budget bill itself, and that the school assistance bill contains only supplemental funds.

Proposition 6 would amend the state constitution to allow investing part of the teachers retirement fund in common stocks. Approved by the Legislature and endorsed by the California Teachers Association, it has drawn no opposing arguments on the voters' pamphlet.

Investment of other public retirement funds is already allowed.

"Increased investment earnings obviously will benefit both taxpayers and teachers," say Assemblymen E. Richard Barnes, R-San Diego, chairman of the Joint Legislative Retirement Committee, and Jack R. Fenton, D-Montebello, who signed the voters' vamphlet argument.

Proposition 7 would add the speaker of the Assembly as a voting member of the State College Board of Trustees.

Assemblyman William Campbell, R-Hacienda Heights, author of the proposed amendment, says the speaker is already expected to attend trustee meetings and take part in state college affairs, but is denied a vote. The statement is also signed by Sen. Albert Rodda, chairman of the Senate Education Committee.

Campbell argues that the speaker already has voting privileges on the University of California Board of Regents and should have the same power on the trustees.

But Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, opposes the measure, maintaining that politicians should instead be removed from the higher education boards.

"Too often elected officials have exploited the university and state colleges for their own political purposes," he says. The presence of political figures "tends to polarize public opinion and to prevent the constructive resolution of the serious problems facing higher education in California."

Proposition 8 would allow the appointment of an additional non-civil service deputy superintendent of public instruction in the state Department of Education.

Presently under the state constitution, the board of education is required to appoint one deputy and three non-civil service associate superintendents named by the superintendent. Under the proposed amendment the board would be permitted — not required — to appoint two deputies and three associates, all nominated by the superintendent.

However if Proposition 14, a measure to revise Civil Service provisions, also passes, there could be two deputies and four associates.

The author of the Legislature-approved measure, Assemblyman John Stull, R-Luecadia, argues that the last such additions in the department of education were made in 1947, and that education has mushroomed in the state since then.

But the measure would lead to "Educational leadership on a political basis rather than a professional basis," objects Assemblyman L.E. Townsend, D-Torrance.

Proposition 9 would allow counties to appoint rather than elect their school superintendents. The proposed constitutional amendment by Assemblyman Robert Wood, R-Greenfield, would permit local voters to make the posts appointive. The elected county boards of education would then name the superintendent.

The superintendent "should be the best qualified person for the job rather than a politician," argue Wood, Mrs. Fong, and Sen. Donald L. Grunsky, R-Watsonville, in the voters' pamphlet argument.

Cancellation Of Election Sought

MONTREAL (UPI)—The separatist Parti Quebecois demanded today that the Quebec government cancel Sunday's Montreal city election because of "the climate of panic provoked by the events of the past two weeks." There was no word about the fate of kidnaped diplomat James R. Cross.

The party, which seeks independence for Quebec through peaceful means, said the political atmosphere of the province is so tense from separatist terror and the accusations of politicians that the election would be a farce.

There was silence for the fifth day from the terrorists of the Front de Liberation du Quebec (FLQ) on the fate of British Diplomat James R. Cross, kidnapped 18 days ago.

The last such word from the FLQ, a letter from Cross "to the authorities," was found Sunday, the day after the FLQ killed its other hostage, Quebec Labor and Immigration Minister Pierre Laporte. He was strangled with the chain of his religious medal.

Police said they had run out of clues, after more than two weeks of the most intensive manhunt in Canadian history.

"We're getting a bit anxious," said Inspector J.R. Melancon of the Quebec Provincial Police.

"Nothing has led to anything. There are no clues," he said.

"We're raiding blind," said another police officer. "All we can do now is investigate tips."

Controversy continued about the effect of the kidnap crisis on the oCntreal city elections scheduled to be held Sunday.

The administration of Jean Drapeau, mayor for 13 of the last 17 years, is opposed by the Front D'Action Politique (FRAP), a coalition of leftist groups.

Montreal Archbishop Paul Gregoire proposed formation of a special committee to help ease the problems of those arrested under the emergency War Measures Act, which suspends civil liberties.

Police said they had released 102 persons, rounded up earlier in the raids on suspected separatist sympathizers to locate the kidnapers, but 232 others were still in jail.

Geothermal Resources Are Hailed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Geothermal resources in the Imperial Valley are capable of producing 15 times as much electrical power as Hoover Dam, the State Geothermal Resources Board was told Thursday.

James Van Logan, general manager of the Imperial Valley Development Agency, told the board at the windup of a two-day hearing that the steam and hot water wells could produce 20,000 megawatts of power.

Sen. John A. Nejedly, R-Martinez, told the board that it should urge the state to accelerate California's development of the resources.

This, Nejedly said, would help solve the air pollution problems and help fill the water and electricity demands of the future.

Van Logan also said, "Geothermal production of power is pollution free.

He also said distilled water produced from the steam from the wells could amount to 4.5 to 5.5 million acre-feet of water. He said the yield of the state water project will be 4.4 million acre-feet.

Secret Talks Over Long Labor Dispute

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Representatives of Bechtel Corp. and International Officers of the Plumbers and Pipefitters union met secretly Thursday in an attempt to work out a lengthy labor dispute involving construction of a multimillion-dollar power plant in southern Nevada.

Management and labor officials did not reveal the location of the meeting because the controversy has caused many tempers to flare, according to a spokesman in Las Vegas, for Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev.

Cannon was instrumental in bringing labor and management together in an attempt to solve the dispute at the Fort Mohave power plant near the Colorado River about 100 miles from Las Vegas.

The Las Vegas local of the Plumbers and Pipefiiters Union originally had jurisdiction at the construction site. Following more than 30 wildcat walkouts against Bechtel Corp., the international union took jurisdiction away from the Las Vegas local and gave it to two Los Angeles locals.

The maneuver threw about 250 southern Nevada plumbers and pipefitters out of work.

Cannon as well as Clark County officials objected to the loss of work for southern Nevada residents and were successful in getting labor and management together for the first time Oct. 15 in a meeting at Phoenix.

Bechtel is building the $200 million coal-burning power plant which will be operated by Southern California Edison. A portion of the plant is to be in operation in about a month and the entire facility is to be operative by next spring.

During the preliminary meeting in Phoenix both sides reached agreement whereby some southern Nevada plumbers and pipefitters would be put back to work.

The agreement called for the immediate return of 20 or more apprentices from the southern Nevada area. An agreement in principle said as many Nevada workmen as possible would be returned to their jobs.

The following meeting here was designed to work out a formula for returning southern Nevada workers to the jobs.

Novato Boy, 14, Is Hit While On Bicycle

An 11-year old Novato boy was treated at Novato General Hospital yesterday for scrapes after he was struck by an auto while sitting on his parked bicycle eastbound on Vineyard Drive in Novato about 8:15 a.m.

Officers said Timothy A. Brown, of 2901 Vineyard, was hit by a car driven by George Louis Tocalino, 60, also of Vineyard Drive (no street number given). According to the California Highway Patrol, Tocalino said he was blinded by the sun and did not see the boy.

Incorrect Quote

Esther Anne Smart of Larkspur, nominee of the American Independent Party for state Senate, was quoted incorrectly yesterday by the Independent-Journal as advocating "another bridge or two" between Marin and San Francisco. She called for "another bridge or tube."

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Marin Dining And Wining

Gregory's Gone, Not Forgotten; Les Tonneaux Takes Its Place

A new name in Marin County restaurants is Les Tonneaux in Corte Madera.

Translated from the French, this means The Barrels and refers to the wine barrels which project from the walls of the dining room as part of the restaurant's remodeling.

Remodeling work, by the way, has been going on for several months. You must have noticed it if you have eaten recently at what was previously Gregory's Restaurant.

Yes, the name of Gregory's is being surrendered, not without some regrets by owners John Napoli, Angelo Camilleri and Bernard Epstein, for it was a good name and brought them a continuous flow of business. And if original owner Gregory Seubert should ever move back to Marin and reopen another place, it should be his to use again.

But it is the custom of creative restaurateurs to want their own thing - in name as well as in substance. With a different personality emerging here, perhaps it is right that the change be carried all the way.

Redecorating is still going on and should be finished by grand opening time - Nov. 10, 11 and 12. Most of the work that remains to be done is in the bar and lounge. A brick facing has already appeared behind the bar and the piano bar has been moved to the banquet room, which will have new wall decor and carpeting for sound damping and small tables. This room can still be used for parties at lunchtime and for dinners during the week when there is no nightly entertainment.

For a simple dish but a very satisfying one, I suggest the wiener schnitzel. Bernard's version is different from Gregory's - but that's what makes eating at different restaurants interesting. It could be pretty dull if every chef cooked exactly the same way as every other chef.

PRETTY DORI GREEN, who has been piano entertainer here since early this year, has picked up a 12-months contract in Santa Barbara at The Harbor Restaurant on Stearn's Wharf that was just too good to turn down. As her contract at Gregory's was expiring, she decided to move to the southland. With winter coming on in Marin, maybe she was smart. She'll do well there.

There is still weekend music at Les Tonneaux, but the last I heard a regular entertainer had not been signed - something which may happen any day.

TABERNA in San Rafael, closed for the past couple of weeks, is expected to reopen again by early next week - probably Tuesday. This will give it time to get ready for its third anniversary celebration on Thursday, Oct. 29.

As usual, the celebration will include a buffet dinner from 8 p.m. The regular entertainers, Terry Ryan and the Midnight Sons, will play for dancing.

They will also continue to play here Friday and Saturday nights and Taberna will continue open seven days a week from 11 a.m. to 2 a.m., featuring its early evening cocktail hour with hot and cold hors d'oeuvres. At this point I am not sure about other food service and neither are the owners Bob Czyz and Roland Ledtke, who were swamped with phone calls when they closed, pleading for a reopening.

More about food service as soon as this has been determined.

THE MUSTARD SEED RESTAURANT has closed in the Strawberry Town and Country Village, but plans to reopen elsewhere as soon as a place is found for their vegetarian operation. They are still looking.

Michael Peri, 234 Hawthorne Avenue, Larkspur is the one to contact if you know of a suitable location.

BUFFALO MEAT is not a regular offering of very many restaurants in the Bay Area (there are none that I know of in Marin), although some places may serve it on occasions as a one-time specialty.

Yet in recent years it has become very popular with the comeback of buffalo herds. An average buffalo weighs about 1,800 pounds but the meat is usually very tender, particularly that of the young bulls and is sold commercially by some meat wholesalers - though not inexpensively.

In Marin County, the new Buffalo Smoke House, which opened Tuesday at 1707 Fourth Street, San Rafael, has it as an everyday menu item - buffalo steaks, stews and burgers. Dinner (not including dessert) runs $5.50 with buffalo steak as the entree, which actually isn't bad. Regular beef steak and lobster combination goes at $7.50 and lobster tails at $5.75. Other dinners featured are roast beef au jus at $5, broiled steak $4.50, buffalo stew $3.50 amd barbecued ribs at $3.

Buffalo stew and burgers are a la carte lunch specialties at $1.75 and $1.25 respectively, along with barbecued beef, beef burgers, sandwiches, salads and a diet plate.

Buffalo Smoke House is open seven days a week from 11 a.m. to 2 a.m. (except Sundays when it opens at 5. Lunches are served from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and food service is renewed from 5 to 10 p.m. (both the lunch and dinner menu). After 10 p.m., beef stew and barbecued beef can usually be obtained.

Owners Tom Reddock and Tom East, who use the first names of Buff and Max respectively to avoid confusion, have remodeled this place, giving it an appropriate western atmosphere. They have a wine and beer license and have a bar which serves during the entire time the restaurant is open.

It's very neat and clean and should prove popular both as a specialty house and to business people in the West End and nearby areas.

FRED CHERRY'S WINE DISCOVERY SHOP probably will not get moved from San Anselmo to its new Sausalito location until the middle of next month. And that means a corresponding delay before the restaurant operation starts up again at Cafe Bon Vin, San Anselmo by George Loizos, who has applied for an on-sale wine and beer license.

Meanwhile Cherry is holding California and Provincial Nights each month and his following of Les Bon Vivants has grown to 1,100 members. Next California night is next Wednesday when the Mirassou family brings in its wines and favorite recipes for this banquet. And another International Night in San Francisco is planned for Nov. 11, featuring the wines and food of Australia - a black tie affair.

CHEF WALLY PRICE at Bernard's Executive Lounge, San Rafael is now preparing a regular Thursday night bouillabaisse - a sort of lazy man's cioppino (without the clamshells in the Italian version). Tab is $3.50, which includes gobs of hot French garlic bread to help in the mopping up operations.

CHRIS BOLTON of Cloud 5, Novato and three members of her staff have returned from Germany. While the purpose of this trip probably was not connected with the restaurant business (but to get away from it), undoubtedly some ideas must have been picked up for new additions to the German side of the Cloud 5 menu.

SINGER-GUITARIST Don Snyder has returned to the Bay Area after a year, having been working in Palm Springs and in motion pictures.

He has opened for an extended engagement at Chumley's at the top of Ghiradelli Square in San Francisco.

Novatan Arraigned In Marijuana Case

Robert Morrison Gould, 19, of 25 Corona Court, Novato, has been arraigned in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of possessing marijuana when arrested by the California Highway Patrol Tuesday.

He is to return to court next Wednesday to enter a plea.

Black bears may live as long as 30 years in the wild.

Charge Reduced In Assault Case

A reduced misdemeanor charge of battery has been filed in Marin Municipal Court against Richard Ralph Martinez, 40, of San Francisco, formerly charged with attempting to rape a San Rafael housewife.

Martinez had been arrested after the 29-year-old woman whom he had met in a bar complained that he tried to rape her in a parking lot in July. He denied this and said that the woman panicked when he tried to kiss her and that he shook her by the shoulder to try to calm her.

A jury trial on the battery charge has been set for March 8.

Hollis Says Friese To Keep Reed Job

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

County Schools Supt. Virgil S. Hollis has relented on his cancellation of superintendent service to the Reed School District as of Oct. 31.

Hollis said today he is willing that his assistant, Stanley Friese, remain longer on loan to the Reed district "to help them in their problem of transition until a permanent superintendent is hired."

Friese, he emphasized, will not be that permanent superintendent. "He will return to the county office," said Hollis.

Also, Friese will continue to report to the county board of education on his stewardship of the Reed district. His next report is scheduled Nov. 2, Hollis said.

Friese's Oct. 9 report to the county board, in which he said he "had to step on a lot of toes" since taking over as interim superintendent of the Reed district, brought a blast from Reed Trustee Leo Souza, who contended the interim superintendent should report only to the district board. On Souza's motion, the Reed board voted 3-1 to send a letter to Hollis objecting to Friese's reporting to the county board.

Hollis promptly notified the Reed board that the contract for the county to provide an interim superintendent would be canceled as of Oct. 31.

The county superintendent said today several members of the Reed board had urged him to relent on the deadline created cause of the difficulties rraeted for the district if it had to find another temporary superintendent. He said he had agreed to allow Friese to remain longer "to help them out," possibly as long as Der. 31, the terminal date of the original agreement of last June for the county to furnish superintendent services.

He emphasized that the contract was for the county schools ofice to furnish superintendent services, not a contract between the Reed district and Friese. Although paid by the Reed district, Friese remains a county schools employee and is obligated to report to the county board, Hollis stressed.

Meanwhile, a new set of brochures has been prepared by the Reed district in its search for a permanent superintendent, and the screening committee named to go over applications has been reactivated.

When the screening committee was set up following resignation last spring of Supt. Robert D. Gaw, the Reed board removed itself entirely from the process of winnowing candidates. Members of the screening committee were selected by various citizen committees in the district and by the Reed District Parent-Teacher Club, not by the board.

The committee presented two names from among some 60 applicants. Both were rejected by the board.

A new law effective next month eliminates the requirement that a district superintendent hold teaching and administrative credentials. Under the Teacher Licensing Law of 1970, signed July 30 by the governor, no credential is necessary for a superintendent. This could mean that the Reed district could recruit outside the education profession.

Chairman Gordon C.Wright of the Reed board said no move for such recruiting has been made yet, but "we might do it." The job is advertised to pay $22,000 to $26,000 per year.

Football Death Plane Had Earlier Mishap

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI) — Documents presented at a hearing into the crash of the Wichita State University football team's chartered airplane indicate the plane had maintenance problems partly resulting from an earlier accident.

Thirty persons, including 13 starting football players, the team's head coach and the school's athletic director, were killed Oct. 2 when one of two chartered airplanes crashed in the Colorado rockies en route to Logan, Utah, and a game ith Utah State.

An Oklahoma City mechanic, Henry H. Oltermann, 37, file a written report Thursday with the National Transportation Safety Board inquiry panel saying the right engine of the aircraft which crashed used 40.5 gallons of oil and the left engine used 27.5 gallons of oil in the nine days before the crash.

After the plane was ferried to Oklahoma City from Las Vegas, Nev., Oltermann said he added 80 gallons of oil to the right engine and 15 gallons to the left Sept. 24. He said he also put two gallons of hydraulic fluid in the landing gear struts, which are similar to shock absorbers.

As the plane was being taxied for a hop over Oklahoma City to Will Rogers World Airport, the left main landing strut and the nose wheel strut "went flat" and the plane sagged so low propeller blades tore up the ground, he said.

As a result of this incident, Oltermann said he had to replace the propeller and fix the landing gear. Oltermann will testify before the inquiry board in person later in the hearing.

Marin's Program For U.N. Provides Wry Commentary

Marin will observe the 25th anniversary of the United Nations with a program tonight at the Festival Theater in San Anselmo.

The program, featuring San Francisco Supervisor Dianne Feinstein as speaker, originally was scheduled for the Civic Center. It was moved to the Festival Theater because the Civic Center now is closed at night as a part of security measures adopted after the Oct. 8 courtroom bombing.

The fact that it no longer is safe to have public night meetings in Marin County's No. 1 public building says a great deal about the state of civilization in our county, and the respect for law, order and mutual responsibility on which civilization rests.

The fact that the Civic Center therefore is not available for a program celebrating the birthday of the United Nations affords another wry commentary.

THE UNITED NATIONS was born amid high hopes a quarter-century ago in San Francisco.

It has not, to date, fulfilled those high hopes. It has failed to keep the world free from war. It has failed to bring the degree of international cooperation which its founders envisioned. It has failed to prevent unilateral actions by the great powers, secret treaties among nations great and small, the imposition of dictatorships upon people who did not ask for them.

There are those who therefore call it a failure, a Communist front, a worse-than-useless expense saddled principally upon the United States.

THE UNITED NATIONS Building is for New York a tourist attraction comparable to the Civic Center for Marin County.

Hundreds of people from throughout the world — from fascist countries, communist countries, democracies, autocracies — work in the United Nations Building. There, in scores of tongues, leaders from countries as disparate as the United States and the Byelorussian Soviet Socialist Republic debate matters of national and world import. Thousands of tourists throng the building's halls. Pickets protesting something as far away as Rhodesia or Outer Mongolia are not-unusual sights outside its doors.

In December, 1964, three Cubans fired a rocket across the East River at the United Nations Building. Their aim was bad.

That was as close as the U.N. skyscraper, with its thousands of windows, has come to being closed by a bomb.

THE UNITED NATIONS is 25 years old. The United States of America is nearly two centuries old. Marin County is well beyond its first century mark.

Those who attend the program at 8 o'clock tonight at the Festival Theater will be honoring a world organization that, for all its shortcomings, seems to have succeeded a little better in its first 25 years in subjecting disagreements to civilized discussion than our nation and county have done in their much longer lives.

Perhaps the U.N. is really the hope of the future which its founders dreamed it might be.

About That Ecology Flag

The San Rafael Board of Education is mulling over what response to make to a student request that San Rafael High School be permitted to fly a green ecology flag beneath the Stars and Stripes and the California Bear Flag on the school's flag pole.

We really don't see a sound reason for not allowing a third flag on the pole. However, if a third flag is to be run up, it should mean something. Flying a green flag won't do anything for the ecology.

We have a suggestion for the school board: Why not make the ecology flag a symbol of a clean campus — which is the most direct and immediate way the students can contribute to improving the environment? Let the flag be flown when the campus is clean, but not when the campus is littered.

The ecology flag then would be a banner of honor which the school could fly with pride.

When Government Sells Names It's Misuse Of Information

(Reprinted from Washington Evening Star.)

Government agencies have no business contributing to the flood of unwanted mail that the average American has to deal with. Yet many federal agencies regularly sell lists of names and addresses they accumulate in the course of carrying out their official responsibilities. This is a boon for some businesses and lobbyists, but a nuisance and an invasion of privacy for most of those whose names are thus sold.

Ironically, an admirable piece of law-making, the Freedom of Information Act of 1967, is used by many agencies as justificiation for selling the names and addresses. And contradictorily, an exemption in the same law, guarding against invasion of privacy, is used by other agencies to refuse to sell the lists.

Representative Horton of New York earlier this year introduced a bill to prohibit sales of mailing lists for "commercial or other solicitation" or for illegal uses. His investigation of the matter, on a constituent's complaint, put an end to a dangerous practice by the Internal Revenue Service — selling lists of gun collectors, a good way to advertise where guns could be stolen.

Countless groups of Americans, such as airplane pilots, amateur radio operators and boat owners, still are subject to having their names sold from federal records set up for other purposes. Horton's bill deserves congressional approval, in the absence of executive action that would straighten out the variant policies of the agencies.

One point not clear in Horton's proposal is whether the wording would ban the sales of lists for vote-solicitation and lobbying purposes. Buyers of the IRS gun-collectors' list included the Firearms Lobby of America and Citizens Against Tydings. Without getting into the merits of the Maryland senator's fight with the gun lobby, the ban on sales of federal mailing lists should be applied unmistakably to lobbyists as well as commercial users.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Backing For Judge On Decorum Rule

Just wanted to say hooray! for Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. in his stand on proper attire and respect in the court room. We have too little proper attire or respect in this day. I for one think more power to him! Hold fast! He's right. There is a place for each thing and action. Perhaps the attorney would gain the respect he should have if he, too, set an example for his peers. Stand fast judge, there are still some that are behind you.

Volunteer Bureau Needs More Drivers

I would like to use this means of expressing my thanks for the publicity that you have given to the Volunteer Bureau of Marin, and especially to our effort to develop a volunteer driver program for the people of the county. I would also like to thank the many good citizens who have offered to drive their own cars to transport patients to docor and dental appointments. These patients would otherwise have been deprived of needed medical and dental care.

Marin County is deeply indebted to several business firms and agencies for help in providing this service. So far we have had enough, but our supply is running out, and the number of requests for transportation increases daily. Volunteers can be assured their services will be deeply appreciated by those who are being helped.

Why Issue Bonds Without A Vote?

Several days ago you threw a "brickbat" at the Marin County Board of Supervisors because of a joint venture with Corte Madera in which bonds were issued without voters' approval. I concur.

Since reading the above I have been doing much thinking, and have arrived at the conclusion that answers are needed to the following questions:

1. Why is it necessary to have a provision in our laws that allows the issuance of bonds without a vote of the people?

2. Why would any elected representative or officer want to issue bonds without reference to a vote of his constituents?

Sierra Club Letter Not Endorsement

I am extremely disturbed that a letter recently sent by the Sierra Club to a number of public figures in California has been misconstrued and advertised as "the nearest thing in the history of the Sierra Club to an endorsement. . ."

It is our practice to review conservation battles after the dust has settled and to send letters of gratitude to those public figures who in some way contributed to the success of the projects. We find that many of these men are pleased with such a personal courtesy, and we ourselves, of course, are always appreciative of the help we recevie from public officials. It is highly unfortunate that an incorrect and political interpretation was placed on this communication. . .

The Sierra Club has never endorsed candidates and does not contemplate doing so. . .

MICHAEL McCLOSKEY
Executive Director

(The Sierra Club letter was addressed to Sen. George Murphy, Representatives Donald H. Clausen, Jeffery Cohelan, William S. Mailliard, Phillip Burton and Paul McCloskey, and state Senate candidate Peter H. Behr. It said: "I wanted to let you all know how much conservationists are indebted to you all for your successful efforts to rescue Point Reyes National Seashore." It went on to cite each of the recipients by name, lauding Behr for an "inspiring campaign. . .to rally public opinion" and Murphy for "personally persuading the President." It was read at a Murphy campaign dinner by Behr, who termed it "the nearest thing in the history of the Sierra Club to an endorsement." — Editor.)

Government Ties Itself Into Knots

Years ago, when employed in the land department of the Southern Pacific Co., I was struck with the duplication of effort involved as California made do with 58 counties, 58 assessors, 58 tax collectors, and their concomitant offices and staff, to say nothing of other non policy making bueaus of a similar routine or clerical nature. In theory, many of these could be consolidated. . .

On a national level, still farther back, President Hoover set up a study group of what had become a mindless governmental monster of duplicating appendages, all of them doing their self-serving thing. Without editorializing on pork barrel and myriad self interest groups his recommendations died aborning.

Recently, the city manager of a Southern Marin city was quoted to hold the belief that cities should not only license businesses: they should "regulate, extend regulation and generally increase interest in the operation." In other words, go from the governmental to proprietary. . .

Sum it up with cliches — Parkinson's law — you can't beat city hall — perpetuation of the species — you're still talking about thousands of little offices, hundreds of thousands of people, and millions of machines, all doing the same thing their neighbors are doing across the hall or on the other side of the county line.

History relates the Germanic tribes beat Rome and I believed the history books when I read it. I don't now. A modern parallel is the British Empire which toppled of its own weight.

Tennessee Senate Election Clear-Cut Test For Nixon

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

NASHVILLE — The Senate election in Tennessee will be one of the best barometers of whether the political strength of the President is rising or falling.

It is a crucial, clear-cut, head-on test for the Nixon administration.

The reason: One candidate is sharply pro-administration, his opponent sharply anti.

Richard Nixon wanted it this way. The candidates made it so.

DEMOCRATIC Sen. Albert Gore is a dedicated, determined, unwavering populist-liberal who is a vigorous opponent of nearly everything Mr. Nixon stands for.

His Republican opponent, Congressman William Brock, is a dedicated, determined, unwavering conservative who is a vigorous supporter of nearly everything President Nixon stands for. The President personally asked him to run.

The collision could hardly be more complete or the outcome more conclusive.

THE RESULT of this election, more clearly than almost anywhere else in the country, will:

— Increase opposition to or support for the whole range of Nixon policies, foreign and domestic.

— Directly reflect the vote-producing popularity of the President and his policies in congressional elections.

— Reveal whether the substantial trend to the conservative right here is the wave of the future or is about to recede.

— Indicate whether forceful political liberals in the tradition of Cordell Hull, Estes Kefauver and Gore are on the way out in Tennessee and in the South generally and whether forceful conservatives like Representative Brock are on the way in.

That's the stake in the Gore-Brock contest.

NO TENNESSEE voter can fairly claim that he has no choice, only an echo.

Gore is a long-standing easy-money man who thinks the federal government should regulate more than it now does, including interest rates, and who votes for larger appropriations rather than smaller.

Brock is an economic conservative who would like to see the government doing less regulation rather than more and who has one of the most consistent voting records in Congress when it comes to cutting spending.

Both are men of means conducting well-financed campaigns. They are honest, honorable and outspoken in their convictions.

Tennesseans will know what they are getting.

THIS IS THE FIRST time Senator Gore has been seriously challenged in his long career in politics. He could see it coming.

In national politics this state has been moving consistently to the right and away from the Democratic party. It went Republican in four of the last five presidential elections — twice for Eisenhower and twice for Nixon. During this period — '52 to '68 — the only Republican nominee the state rejected was Barry Goldwater in the Johnson landslide of 1964.

Senator Gore himself sa[w] how much political trouble h[e] was in when he won h[is] fourth-term nomination w[ith] only 51 per cent of the vote.

Neither side feels at all secure today. At this stage the evidence is it could go either way and that the final outcome will be close.

THE WHITE HOUSE is doing everything it can to help Brock. His election is important to President Nixon's future.

We have recently been in Illinois and California where the trend was adverse to incumbent GOP Senators Ralph Smith and George Murphy. The Republicans must retain these seats and defeat Gore if President Nixon's all-out campaign effort is to reach its goal of capturing the Senate.

Why Did ACLU Attempt Radical Speaker Secrecy?

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — The answer as to who and what was behind the suit to block publication of the House Internal Security Committee's report on radical revolutionaries who got fancy fees for lecturing at universities may rest in the committee itself.

A committee member is strongly suspected by his colleagues of being involved in the American Civil Liberties Union's surprise attempt to enjoin the committee's report — an unprecedented legal action, so far as is known.

The suspected member is a militant civil libertarian with reputed ties with the ACLU; he disapproved of the investigation and sniped at it throughout its duration; the ACLU obviously was in possession of an advance copy of the report because it quoted from the document in the injunction petition filed in a federal court before the report was released — in flat defiance of the court's temporary restraining order.

STILL UNKNOWN is why the ACLU sought to suppress the committee's findings.

The ACLU professes to be a vigorous foe of secrecy and great champion of the "people's right to know." Yet the express purpose of its sudden suit was to bar the publication of the names of "radical revolutionaries" who were paid thousands of dollars for delivering extremist lectures to college students.

The committee's findings are explicit on that, as follows:

At the 134 colleges and universities surveyed, 1,168 outside speakers delivered 1,411 talks for which they received $909,335 in honoraria. A considerable percentage of highly paid lecturers were communists, radicals and a wide range of other militants and extremists.

Concludes the report:

"If, in a sampling of 3½ per cent of the institutions of higher education, payments of this magnitude are derived by such individuals, the Congress and the people of the United States have a right to conclude that the campus-speaking circuit is certainly the source of significant financing for the promoters of disorderly and revolutionary activity among students. Such speaking engagements are not only revenue producing, but afford a forum where the radicalization process may be continually expanded."

PROMINENTLY listed among the "radical revolutionaries" who were paid thousands of dollars for lecturing at colleges are the following:

Angela Davis, H. Rap Brown, Stokely Carmichael, Rennie Davis, David Dellinger, Herbert Aptheker, Tom Hayden, Abbie Hoffman, William Kunstler, Jerry Rubin, J. Mark Rudd, Claude Lightfoot, Bobby Seale. The committee found that in many instances extremists were selected as lecturers where student funds were involved. Declares the report:

"Analysis of the fees shows that students (through student funds) and not college and university administrators are primarily responsible for giving radical orators a campus platform . . . Where school administration is involved in invitation and payment of fees, it was found most campuses provide a balanced diet of speakers.

"The movement of the New Left quite candidly published a 'guide' of names, addresses and fees charged by a list of some 100 radical Pied Pipers of pernicious propaganda."

You Can't Avoid Spotlight When You Get Public Office

When you're famous (even just a little bit famous), the world is always watching, as Sausalito City Councilman Stephen Fraser learned the other day.

Fraser was driving a van on Highway 101 near the Waldo Grade when he noticed the ominous flashing red light of a highway patrol car directly behind him.

According to Steve, the officer made "one of those eloquent little gestures" which mean the jig is up and he pulled over to the side of the road.

A bit nervous that some of his constituents would see him in the predicament, the city councilman got out of his van through the righthand door — away from the highway. He says he edged over to the patrol car with his face carefully averted from the road.

He stood with his back to the freeway while the patrolman was writing the citation (for no outside rearview mirror). When it was all over, Fraser sneaked back to his van and jumped in —through the righthand door again — breathing a sigh of relief that no one could possibly have recognized him, thanks to his cautious maneuvers.

That night at a political dinner County Supervisor Michael Wornum called out to Fraser: "Say, Steve, wasn't that you I saw being stopped by the highway patrol today?"

IT MAY BE time for the Sausalito City Council to take another look at a leash ordinance it has discussed — on and off —for several years.

Tuesday a male husky dog jumped a fence into the yard of Carole Lester and attacked the city's best-known and best-liked ducks, Peter and Patsy, Mrs. Lester's pets for the past 13 years. Patsy was killed instantly and Peter maimed beyond recovery.

The ducks were subjects of a charming book "To Make a Duck Happy," written by Mrs. Lester and published last year.

Mrs. Lester called police and made a small investigation of her own. She learned the dog was not a neighborhood dog, but probably one of the mutts that roam Sausalito creating problems.

A leash law won't bring the two friendly little ducks back, but it could save some other owner the grief of losing a well-loved pet.

PERSONS WHO READ about Mrs. Jeanne Creemer, new volunteer fireman for the Tamalpais Valley Fire Department, may recall the all-women civil defense fire squads formed in Sausalito during World War II..

Although the women never fought an actual fire, they were always prepared for battling blazes which could have been caused by incendiary bombs, according to Mrs. Edward R. Souza, who served as a fire captain and squad leader.

Firefighting was a family affair for the Souzas. Edward served 42 years as a volunteer fireman for the Sausalito department and the couple's son, Robert, is now a firefighter with the department.

It Wasn't All So Beautiful Before The 'Spoilers' Came

Fusselman

"Urban Planner Backs Open Space Preservation Buying." That was the heading of a story in the I-J Wednesday. It puzzled me so I read the article, then it wondered me.

The gentleman was the speaker at a meeting of the Marin Conservation League the evening before. Here are some excerpts from the article:

"Buying up open space in Marin County to preserve it may be cheaper for taxpayers than developing the land," he told the group of 80 who were present.

He said "housing developments create corresponding service requirements such as schools, sewers and police which cost the taxpayers money."

"The contention that houses do not pay their way is correct," he told the audience.

He based his conclusions on long-term benefits to the taxpayers on a study his firm recently concluded in Palo Alto. He predicted the same results if a land use study were made in Marin County.

HE SUGGESTED that citizens form regional districts, taxing themselves to preserve nearby open space.

"Our program is a selective one. We recommend that the most vulnerable land should be purchased first."

Stalling actions such as zoning potential open space lands for one-acre lots may be used, he said, to prevent development of vulnerable lands until studies have been conducted to determine the best long-range use of vacant land in Marin County. But, he warned, "The way to keep it open is to buy it. You dare not wait."

LATE IN SEPTEMBER I was sitting in the front seat of a friend's car at the parking lot of the pharmacy on San Anselmo and Bolinas avenues. The car was headed west. Suddenly my attention was attracted by the graceful swaying of some beautiful tall trees along Bolinas.

How day dreaming will go along! I thought of the early pictures of Ross Valley areas, showing isolated homes with picket fences around them, homes surrounded by acres and acres of unattractive barren land (open space). It would have remained that way if the "spoilers" had not come along and built the nice friendly homes for themselves, such as those on Bolinas Avenue, and planted trees and shrubs and lawns to provide the frame for the most wonderful open space one can find anywhere, which I saw that September afternoon — the limitless blue sky.

The speaker gave as examples of areas to be preserved, the North Ridge area of Mill Valley — Larkspur — Corte Madera and the Nicasio Valley area.

AS I READ the article, my thoughts went to the Del Mesa area, Kent Woodlands and Greenbrae, with their lovely homes surrounded by gorgeous bloom, trees and shrubs. You know what?

I couldn't feel sorry that the spoilers had made it all possible for nice families to came here to live, where their children could grow up in such wonderful surroundings.

Then I wondered where those 80, present at the meeting, lived themselves — and where the speaker lived in Sausalito? Yes, it really wondered me.

Seashore Auto Use Report Hit

An ad hoc committee has been organized to protest reported plans to let public auto traffic use roads in remote areas of Point Reyes National Seashore.

Jerry Friedman of Inverness was named chairman of the ad hoc committee formed Tuesday night at a meeting of interested conservation group representatives and individuals in Inverness. It was the second such meeting in recent weeks.

Friedman said the ad hoc committee has no formal name yet. The committee has set a goal of obtaining a National Park Service hearing in San Rafael, similar to the park officials' "pre-planning" hearing last month on the public's wishes for the seashore.

Friedman said citizens stressed at the hearing that autos were not wanted in the remote areas. He said however, plans have been made to open roads on which vehicles now are banned.

The ad hoc committee plans to circulate petitions and begin a letter and postcard drive to gain the park service hearing, Friedman said.

Redondo's Ethnic Plan To Be Given

A Redondo Beach School District trustee Tuesday will outline that district's multi-ethnic studies program for parents, teachers and administrators of the San Anselmo School District.

Supt. W. Kenneth Lowry said Redondo Beach trustee Helen Colwell will discuss her district's program with the curriculum advisory council from 1 to 3 p.m. at the Red Hill School library and district teachers, parents and administrators from 3 to 5 p.m. at the Wade Thomas built-use room.

Lowry said the Redondo Beach program is adaptable to San Anselmo because the communities have a similar ethnic composition and economy.

He said that city's multi-ethnic studies differs from others because it emphasizes social contact besides text and class study. He said it has a sister city in Mexico with which student exchanges are made. Such exchanges are also made with a school district in Watts, he said.

Pen Paintings At Bookstore

An exhibit of monotype pen paintings by Enid Foster of Sausalito will be at the Tides Bookstore in Sausalito during November.

Miss Foster's paintings are all of witches.

Jewish Center Sets Candidates' Night

Three candidates for different offices will participate in a candidates' night at the Marin Jewish Community Center, at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Scheduled to participate in the session at 200 North San Pedro Road, Santa Venetia, are Joseph A. Forest, candidate for the state assembly from the Seventh District; Ernest C. Zunino, seeking a Municipal Court judgeship, and Ernest N. Kettenhofen, running for the state Board of Equalization Third District seat.

Ravenna Arsenal Back In Operation

RAVENNA, Ohio (UPI)—The Ravenna Arsenal, one of the largest ammunition manufacturing operations in the nation, re-opened today after a three-week strike.

Members of the United Steelworker Local 4581 began returning to work Thursday night. The local and Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., which operates the facility under a Defense Department contract, reached tentative agreement on a new contract Wednesday.

Some 1,200 workers struck Oct. 2 when the old contract expired. The new contract calls for a raise of 82 cents per hour within three years, improved fringe benefits and a 10th paid holiday.

Issue Of Buying Water Systems On Ballots In Two Communities

Residents of Point Reyes Station and Inverness Park will vote Nov. 3 on whether to float bonds to acquire two privately owned water systems.

A $250.000 bond issue is propised to be paid from taxes assessed in the two communities, set up as an assessment district within the North Marin County Water District.

The bond funds would buy the Point Reyes Water Co. and Inverness Park Water Co. from James J. Downey, drill new wells, install new treatment equipment and pipelines, and expand the system to serve this portion of the water district — which draws its water supply for its major portion in and around Novato from different sources.

There are 339 registered voters in the area. Two-thirds approval is necessary for the bonds, despite a recent contrary ruling by the California Supreme Court.

The bond issue would either be sold by public sale or would be turned over to the Farmers Home Administration, a subsidiary of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, for a 40-year loan.

Eugene S. Churchill, general manager of the North Marin County Water District, said the latter system is what the district hopes to use. An application for a Farmers Home Administration loan was filed about three months ago. If that agency grants the loan, it will take over the bond issue at 5 per cent interest with 40 years for retirement. By public sale, the bonds probably would command about 7 per cent interest with 25-year retirement.

The two methods make a great deal of difference in the tax rate necessary for bond retirement. Under Farmers Home Administration financing, the highest tax rate would be 73 cents per $100 assessed valuation in fiscal 1971-72, dropping to a low of 33 cents in 1995-96, Churchill said. Public sale of 25-year bonds would call for a maximum rate of about $1.07 in 1971-72 and a minimum of about 8.7 cents in 1995-96.

These figures are based on projections of increased assessed valuation from the present $1,690,234 to $4,195,114 in 1995-96.

Besides the tax rate, acquisition of the two water systems would be accompanied by some increase in water charges.

The North Marin County Water District proposes to meter Point Reyes Station-Inverness Park water use. Most customers now pay flat monthly charges.

The proposed schedule calls for a minimum of $3.50 monthly for the ordinary residential user, to include the first 400 cubic feet of water. Additional use would be at 30 cents per 100 cubic feet.

Inverness Park Water Co. charges residential users a minimum of $2.25 per month. Those with more than 50 square feet of lawn or garden to irrigate pay an additional three cents per square foot.

Point Reyes Station Water Co. charges a flat $2 per month to 95 of its customers. The other 67 have metered service. Minimum charge to them is $1.50 a month, with the water used charged at 30 cents per 100 for the first 700 cubic feet and declining rates above that.

Despite the low rates, residents of both Inverness Park and Point Reyes Station have complained frequently about their water service. On several occasions use of the water has been outlawed because of impurities. Also, there has been inadequate water for fire fighting some times.

North Marin County Water District proposes to augment the supply from a well in Papermill Creek, and to erect a new 100,000-gallon storage tank.

It proposes to use $93,000 of the bond issue to acquire the properties of the two water companies. It would also buy from Toby Giacomini the property on which a present storage tank is located. The remainder of the money would go to upgrade the system.

Giacomini is co-chairman with Adeline Arndt of the West Marin Citizens for Better Water, a group promoting the bond issue which produced the argument in favor of it to accompany sample ballots. No argument against the issue was presented.

Highway Projects For Marin Gain Commission Nod

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — State Highway projects in Marin totalling $4.8 million have been approved by the state Highway Commission for funding during fiscal 1971-72, according to state engineer John A. Lagarra.

The sum is in addition to $3.6 million earmarked to begin the $14 million Novato freeway bypass, reported in yesterday's Independent Journal.

Projects approved were: Richardson Bay bridge widening, $2.7 million; addition of one northbound lane on Highway 101 from the Golden Gate Bridge 4.1 miles almost to the Richardson Bay Bridge, $675,000; improvement of the alignment and drainage on portions of Route 1 near Stinson Beach and at Panoramic Highway near Mill Valley, $315,000; widening of Sir Francis Dake Boulevard between East Laurel Grove Avenue and Maple Avenue in Kentfield, $550,000, and purchase of highway rights-of-way, $516,000.

Cartons Available For UNICEF Drive

Coin cartons to make Halloween contributions to the United Nations Children's Fund are available at homes displaying the UNICEF sign in Terra Linda and after school at Bernard Hoffman and St. Isabella schools, according to UNICEF volunteer Mrs. Peter B. Howard.

Lucas Valley children may pick up their donation cartons at 185 Mount Lassen Drive or at Dixie School while Marinwood donors may obtain theirs at the Marinwood Community Center, Mrs. Hayward said.

Ten Are Sentenced For Drunken Driving

Ten persons have been sentenced by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein of Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving.

Dennis Gentry Tobin, 26, of 208 Corrillo Drive, San Rafael, arrested July 10 on Highway 101, was placed on probation for one year and fined $150.

Edward Newburn Hayes, 46, of 63 Grande Paseo, San Rafael, arrested March 10 on Highway 101, has also been placed on probation for one year and fined $150.

David Eugene Tolson, 38, of San Francisco, arrested in Ignacio March 6, was placed on probation for two years and ordered to spend one weekend in jail.

Elza Edward Tibbets, of 715 Center Boulevard, Fairfax, arrested Nov. 23, 1969 on Highway 101, was placed on probation for three years and sent to jail for five months.

David Alan Landauer, 33, of San Francisco, arrested April 12 on Highway 101, was placed on probation for one year, fined $100 and ordered to spend one weekend in jail.

Harry Edgar Manuel, 57, of 102 Ensenada Drive, Novato, arrested Jan. 20 on Highway 101, was placed on probation for one year, given a 15-day jail sentence and fined $150.

Robert Bruce Melcher, 41, of San Francisco, arrested Aug. 23 on Panoramic Highway, was placed on probation for one year and fined $100.

John Leonard Worley, 39, of Daly City, arrested Sept. 6 on Highway 101, was placed on probation for one year, sent to jail for five days and fined $250.

Gordon Elmer Dresser, 45, of 883 Fourth Street, San Rafael, was placed on probation for two years, given a five-day jail sentence and fined $250.

Legislators' Proposition Positions

Marin's two state legislators have endorsed separate propositions on the November general election ballot.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, endorsed Proposition 18, which would allow counties to divert one-quarter of their gas tax revenues to transit.

Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, endorsed Proposition 20, a $60 million bond measure to finance recreation and wildlife facilities along the State Water Project.

Bagley said he was mailing a letter at his own expense to Marin voters urging them to vote for the proposition, strongly opposed by highway interests. Bagley said he also was launching a two-day flying tour of the state in support of the proposition.

Bagley termed the proposition "unquestionably the most important measure on this year's ballot" because it would finance needed transit systems and may be the last such chance to do so for years because of legislative opposition.

McCarthy said the bond measure was "essential if recreational facilities are to be ready for the people when these water projects come into being."

Headline Wrong

A headline on a story in yesterday's Independent-Journal incorrectly indicated that Mitchell Andrew Howie, 20, of Tamalpais Valley pleaded guilty to a charge of possessing marijuana as the story correctly stated, Howie pleaded innocent.

Unattended Campus Dogs Are Booted

The College of Marin may have been going to the dogs but not any more. New campus rules put into effect this week outlaw canines from running loose on campus, entering buildings or being tethered and left unattended.

The new rules, which have been approved by the student body executive council, college district trustees and college cabinet, went into effect Wednesday.

At the request of the college, five humane socitey officers patrolled the campus Wednesday in search of dogs. They nabbed three and cited one owner, according to Christopher Arend, study body president.

"We hope to have the (humane society) dog catchers here at least once a week," said Arend. "Yesterday's (Wednesday's) collection went without incident."

Last year when the dog catchers went on campus, students hung signs from building windows proclaiming "Keep Dogs on Campus."

"The students were very cooperative," Mel L. Morse, executive director of the humane society, said yesterday. "It was their idea to ask us (society) to come on campus."

The new rules, which were drafted by the students, are expected to be expanded by the board of trustees to encompass all animals on campus, not just dogs.

A fact sheet drafted by the students on the dog problem says about 50 persons have been bitten on campus by dogs during the last three years and the college is spending about $50 a week cleaning up dog droppings. An intangible, the report also says, is the lowering of morale among maintenance men because of this extra duty.

Discussion On Housing For Low Incomes Slated

The need for low-cost housing in Petaluma and the advantages of a housing authority will be considered at a meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m. at St. Vincent's Parish Hall, Petaluma.

The meeting, sponsored by the Sonoma County People for Economic Opportunity, will include Wallace K. Shepherd, acting executive director of the Marin Housing and Redevelopment Agency, speaking on the mechanics of housing authorities.

The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors is scheduled to consider establishment of a housing authority at its meeting Tuesday at 11 a.m.

An advisory committee headed by Supervisor Arthur R. Ruonavaara is expected to recommend that an authority be formed in the eight cities of Sonoma County as well as unincorporated areas.

All Happiness Now: Dillon Beach Counted

Uncle Sam now knows not only that Dillon Beach is on the map — but that it has people in it. Seventy five people, in fact.

The community in the far northern corner of Marin fretted as national census time came and went, and no one showed up to count noses.

Led by William M. Purvis, Dillon Beach neighbors turned to radio talk shows, TV stations and newspapers to complain when their efforts with federal census officials seemed fruitless.

Leonard Isley of Los Angeles, regional director for the census finally heard about Dillon Beach on a telecast and promised immediate action.

Last week, Marie MacDonald of San Francisco arrived in the coastal village, counted the people and used Purvis's telephone to speed the results to Isley, and also to a census official in Washington, D.C.

Purvis, a semiretired investment counselor and amateur columnist, yesterday voiced satisfaction about it all.

"Seventy five people aren't going to make a great difference — but we like to know we've been counted."

Disabled Veterans Up Since Vietnam

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Veterans Administration reports that compensation payments to veterans disabled while on active duty since the beginning of the Vietnam War now total $285 million a year.

It said in three years the number of such Vietnam era veterans receiving the disability compensation has soared from 8,287 to 188,353. Such payments are made not only for battle injuries but for any disability, including accidents and diseases, incurred while on active duty.

MRS. DANIEL Sullivan in her Victorian gown adds just the right touch as she stands by a lion that is one of the stuffed animals in the museum-like home of Ted and Lillian Williams furnished in 19th century grand manor life style. In the left foreground is a faience (French porcelain) rabbit on an English pub table. The home is one of those open for a tour Wednesday.

TWO BABY GRAND Steinway pianos, back to back, are an extraordinary feature of the living room-dining area in the home of Jack Howland, AID, on Wolfback Ridge. The mirror wall with its Baccrat crystal sconces relfects a dining table of plate glass on brass saw horses. Mrs. Michael Harris stands near a wall displaying original art from an antique Imari plate to a Joshua Reynolds painting and a 14th century erotic East Indian carving.

Specialty Style Homes Open On Tour

A wide variety of life styles in Sausalito will be represented in the house tour Wednesday given by the Sausalito Nursery School.

Guests will visit a refurbished tug-boat; a mansion built in 1880 that was part of the Miller-Lux estate; a flat near the waterfront in one of the oldest homes in Sausalito; and two houses on Wolfback Ridge .One is a Mario Corbett designed house that has a view of seven counties and the other, a contemporary home with oriental influence designed and built by a 70-year-old woman.

The tour, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Thomas Hook, will begin at 12:30 p.m. with a champagne reception at the Deck House at 660 Bridgeway, and will continue until 4:30 p.m.

Nursery School mothers will act as hostesses in the homes and point out the many interesting objects in each house.

Hostesses will be Mmes. Arthur Taylor, Walter Wright, Donald Albert of Sausalito and Sam Coombs and Robert Henson of Mill Valley.

Homes on the tour, together with some of the points of interest are:

The bachelorette apartment of Susan Chandler Blue on the waterfront is said to be in one of the oldest homes in Sausalito. Owned by a sea captain and his wife, it was probably the only house in the south end of town before the road and development were in existence.

The flat was furnished through auctions, Goodwill, etc., more or less on a shoe string. Decor includes a priest's robe made into a wall hanging, a collection of primitive art and contemporary art done by Susan herself.

Two houses with spectacular views on Wolfback Ridge are those of Jack Howland, A.I.D., and Mrs. W.F. Thompson.

Howland's home was built in 1947 by designer Mario Corbett. Pictures of it appeared in "Life" magazine in 1948, when it was called one of the most unusual houses in the country, and since then it has doubled in size. The Bay, Pacific Ocean and seven counties can be seen from the deck.

Unusual features in the living room-dining area are a pair of Steinway baby grand pianos, a Japanese tea ceremony table and original art by Buffano, Reynolds, Lautrec and Picasso. A huge slab of glass on brass saw horses forms the dining table.

Leading to a bedroom-sitting room with fireplace is a wrought iron spiral staircase, and bathrooms are exceptionally luxurious.

Mrs. Thomspon designed and had her home built in an unusual combination of contemporary and oriental styles. Double Chinese doors open into a garden, and the house itself built of adobe and redwood, is entered through two more double doors that open into an atrium with a fish pond, plants and an enormous philodendron.

Adjoining the atrium through shoji screens is a room done in Japanese furnishings including genuine ta tami beds.

The unique museum-like home of Ted and Lillian Williams, built originally in 1880 by the Miller part of the Miller-Lux estate, is a funky interpretation of the 19th century grand manor life style.

It contains authentic French antiques which Mrs. Williams selects on her numerous jaunts to Europe. Special points of interest are a late 17th century Armoire that had belonged to Louis XIV and an Italian Renaissance table of Frank Lloyd Wright's, some amazing stuffed and china animals, and fur rugs and bed spreads.

A Peterson tug boat laid down in 1949 and operated out of Alameda is the home of Mrs. Ted Nash. The engine was replaced with cement to carry the same weight, and Sidney Koalkin, a ship builder, transformed the boat into a home.

Pictures of beavers gave it the name of "The Beaver." Furnished in blues and greens, the house has in the shower an extraordinary sculpture of driftwood shaped like a skeleton.

Mrs. Donald Albert is ticket chairman. Tour proceeds will go toward support of the Sausalito Nursery School.

ONE OF THE attractive rooms in the home of Jack Howland on Wolfback Ridge is this bedroom-sitting room with its fireplace and floor-to-ceiling window with ocean view. It is reached by a wrought iron spiral staircase. Louis XV armoire doors form the headboard of the bed, and night stands are English Regency. Lamps are 18th century bronzes. Members of the Sausalito Nursery School, which sponsors the house tour including this house, are left, Mrs. Donald Albert and Mrs. Gloria Sparrow.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

If Husband Won't Seek Help Wife Should Leave With Kids

DEAR HELEN:

I have been married five years, have two darling toddlers and a husband who is driving me crazy.

He claims to be a "saver" but "miser" is a better word. Every time I need something for the house or family I get the third degree: Is it on sale? Can we do without it? What have we done to deserve it? When I have bought items the kids needed badly (out of the grocery money), he has made me take them back. One day I bought some material to make myself a pair of slacks. I got called filthy names. Thank goodness I have a girl friend who gives me hand-me-downs. It's been "Wear out what you've got" ever since we were married.

He does the housework sometimes —not to be nice but because I "can't do it right." When he comes home he inspects the house — his precious belongings —to see if the kids or I have harmed them. If the children accidentally break something they get beaten. I can't protect them by hiding the breakage. He even counts our glasses.

He belittles me in front of friends, never shows affection —says he's too old for love, though he's under 40. I'm 29. He hates to go out, mainly, because of the expense, and we have to refuse invitations because I couldn't "pay back." He doesn't like people —even himself. A favorite saying of his is, "I'll sure be glad when I'm dead and gone from this filthy, cheating world." He thinks everyone is out to get him.

Really, Helen, we have a lovely home, nice kids, a moderate income, and I try to be a good wife. I enjoy people and like to laugh, but there's no laughter for the children and me when he's home.

Even our priest said I should walk out on him to keep my sanity and save the children, but I consider marriage vows are forever. He wouldn't go to a counselor because it costs money.

Your advice will be most welcomed —so long as it's free. I want to keep the family together. But I may go crazy trying. — ALMOST A NERVOUS WRECK

DEAR ANW:

Your family may be living under one roof, but they're not together. Nor is a marriage forever even though you don't separate physically.

The "love, honor and cherish" part of your vows has already been strained to the breaking point. Perhaps the threat of a total break might bring your husband to the professional help he needs. If not, I'd suggest you follow your priest's advice.—H.

DEAR HELEN:

When I was 18, I ran away from home and got involved with Bill, a man twice my age. We had two children, but he left me before the second was born.

I vowed I was through with men, but then I met Brian, and he convinced me to change my mind. We've been happily married for over a year. The kids call him Dad and love him as much as I do.

But a month ago their real father came back into the picture. He has never given us any support — not even his name. But now he claims the children. We were about to start adoption proceedings when this happened. Brian wants to be their real Dad all the way. Bill says "No."

I think Bill might fade away if we offered him a big sum of money, but must we buy my children back from a man who never wanted them? — N.P.

DEAR N.:

A small fee to a good lawyer can save you paying a large sum to a scoundrel. Call one right away. — H.

Time To Get The Family In Shape For The Skiing Season

Chilling winds, warm clothes and little red noses signal skiing mothers that it's time to get their families in shape for a safe and enjoyable winter on the slopes.

Put the whole family in the skiing mood with the types of group exercise even the smallest child will enjoy. Running works as a season-starter — especially running with ski poles. This builds your family's wind and leg muscles and ski coordination. While you're runing, have one person set the pace by starting with a jog. Work into a run and add an occasional sprint or two.

If that one tires them out, try getting the kids ready for the slopes while they get ready for bed. Have them stand with the balls of their feet on the edge of a thick book placed on the floor. By lowering the heels and lifting, they'll develop the balance and leg muscles.

Many families enjoy during-the-week armchair skiing as much as the real thing. Sit in chairs with their ski boots on. One at a time, lift each leg so it becomes parallel with the floor. Hold it there a few seconds, lower, and try it with the other leg. Repeat this several times, and they'll find that a few mintues of this type of armchair skiing will develop strong muscles to withstand a full day on the slopes.

Most parents know how important properly functioning equipment and well-adjusted bindings are to the safety and enjoyment of their family's skiing. Children grow up and some parents grow out during the summer months. Weight changes such as these necessitate minor start-of-the season binding adjustments by your ski shop.

In addition to a binding-check, look over the bottoms of your family's skis. A smooth running surface aids control — a safety element important to all skiers. Last spring's gouges should be cleaned and warmed before poking holes in their sides. Fill the area with the drippings from a lighted filling candle and, while still warm, smooth it over with a knife blade. Once the patch cools, even off with a piece of smooth sandpaper.

ON BEING BLACK

Black Voodoo Queen Marie Laveaux Is Paid Tribute At Halloween Time

By SANDRA HAGGERTY

This is the month for the appearance of ghosts, witches and other magical and mythical spirits — when children sit wide-eyed as they listen to weird stories about sorcerers and their unnatural powers.

Most black people, especially those from the South, have for generations heard stories about the greatest sorceress of them all — the black voodoo queen, Marie Laveaux.

Originally African snake worshipers, the voodoo cult was brought to this country via the West Indies. It particularly flourished in New Orleans. Though called voodoo by most, the sect is also referred to as hoodoo.

MARIE LAVEAUX reportedly lived and died (several times) in the 19th century in New Orleans. She was said to be a stunningly beautiful woman who could place a hex like no one else. And once she had fixed you, "you were fixed for good!"

To the believers, she was both respected and feared. Parents would tell their children that Marie Laveaux — not the boogy-man — would get them if they didn't behave. Her name always caused an immediate, positive shift in behavior.

Marie was also a shrewd business woman and soon peddled her power for sizable fees. Her gris-gris (the trinkets of her craft — rocks, dolls, powders, herbs, human hair, cat's bones) were said to be the most powerful in the world.

It is interesting that the voodoo cult was a predominantly female cult with the queen the most important figure. Occasionally there was a king or witch doctor on the scene, but he was always on the side lines. This initially all-black cult attracted a few whites who became zealous followers.

OVER THE years, the cult had several brushes with the law. They were accused of being cannibals, charlatans and the like — and were eventually forced underground. Consequently, it is almost impossible for an outsider to participate in or gain information about its activities.

Long after the death of Marie Laveaux, one could purchase various voodoo novelties at local drugstores in New Orleans — Get-Your-Man Oil, War Powder, Come-Back Oil, Go-Away Drops, Get-Rich Today Powder and Eliminate-Your Competition Oil. Probably these novelties were merely scented water and powders. In Marie Laveaux' day they were often concocted of cats' dung and human hair or ground rose petals — depending upon the purpose of the gris-gris. Positive gris-gris had to smell good and negative gris-gris had to smell terrible.

Supposedly, voodoo cults no longer exist, but it is whispered among older blacks that there are still many active participants and believers in voodoo.

Robert Tallant's book, "Voodoo in New Orleans," provides fascinating reading on the subject.

WHILE RESEARCHING Marie Laveaux in local public and college libraries, I learned that books on the subject of witchcraft, astrology and black magic are currently "short lived" in libraries. They simply disappear, and pages in the various reference books on the subject are torn from the books. Mix that bit of information in this year's brew.

Anyway, as the witches and sorcerers haunt you this Halloween, be assured that somewhere, even today, there are those who are paying tribute to the powerful Marie Laveaux.

Fall Scarves

Scarves will be a very important accessory on the fall scene. The Glentex fall '70 collection includes a wide selection of autumn oriented printed squares in plaids, paisleys, foulards and conversation motifs.

Coiffure Styles

Off-the-face coiffures, smooth tops and a variety of chignons will make the fall headlines. Helene Curtis has created face-hugging waves by using falls under tight fitting cloche hats for daytime. For dramatic evening looks, her styles are off-the-face with a peacock burst of feathers fanning out from looped chignons.

White Rugs And Walls Are Now Favorites

NEW YORK (UPI)—The filth of our cities, the dirt in the air, do not deter the homemarker at all when she starts decorating.

For instance, the clear and creamy whites are moving up rapidly as a favorite color in floor coverings.

Robert V. Dale, vice-president of style and design for a rug mill, said "some people may be surprised, but white is rapidly becoming one of the most popular carpet colors. It's apparent that the decorating concept of 'start with white and fill the colors' is making a large number of converts among homemakers across the country.

"Obviously, a white carpet is the perfect foil for any color you wish to introduce in a room."

Running closely behind white as a floor "neutral" is something Dale called "Berber", a multi-color combination of black, brown and white. Despite its strong coloration, Dale said, this mixture blends well with almost any other color in a room and permits a homemaker to change her decor at will . . ."

Dale said the new neutrals have more personality than the former "play it safe" beiges that dominated floors a decade ago.

Dale noted that golds, which had reigned with the greens as the top colors of the 1960s, are giving way to lighter tones bordering on yellow. He finds increasing demand for bright canary and jonquil. The orange family also is gaining strength.

In surfaces, the shags continue the most popular in the nation, Dale continued. But some new textures are being used. His firm, for instance, is using pile yarns in several thicknesses to give the texture a more varied look and feel.

Good For Feet

Backless wooden clogs are good for feet, in the opinion of some medical experts, who believe the new shoe fashion exercises feet, supports arches, aids circulation and provides foot comfort for those who must stand for long perids. However, a Danish pediatrician warns that the clogs are not suitable for the feet of growing children.

Trucks Are Designed For Women

By PAMELA H. REEVES

CHICAGO (UPI) — There's something new on the scene for American women — trucks.

Thousands of women are now as much at ease in the driver's seat of a pickup truck as they are in a car.

Manufacturers have replaced bulky trucks of old with streamlined, convenient vehicles which respond readily to a soft touch and appeal to the eye as well.

There are trucks with power brakes, power steering, air conditioning and thermostatic heat control, and campers with toilets and showers, gas stoves and ovens, bedding and Am-Fm stereo radios.

THE NUMBER of campers seen in many neighborhoods seems to be increasing. Women apparently are appreciative of the newly-designed vehicles, which are used for shopping as well as for family campouts.

MANUFACTURERS PREDICT a heavy increase in camper units when more women shed preconceived notions that truck driving is unpleasant.

Dora Green is one woman who became convinced that driving a camper is "as easy as driving a car." With her husband, Ludwig, she plans to travel from Chicago to Canada this fail to see her father.

"I love it," she said, smoothing her hands over the table in the newly-acquired "honeymoon cottage" which they bought after trading in a larger camper.

Coming this Saturday in Marin Magazine
Special features you'll enjoy:

A Marin artist has been capturing in watercolor the beauty of Marin's landscape before it disappears under the onslaught of development. The story of the artist, Henry Walter Smith, is told by writer Gil Pearson in the Marin Magazine, the Independent-Journal supplement, Saturday, and Smith's art work covers several pages. Familiar scenes take on added meaning under his skillful touch as one comes to the realization that they are disappearing with time.

The annual show of the Chrysanthemum Society of Marin has been a crowd pleaser for years, carrying on a tradition, yet at the same time offering something new. The latest in the chrysanthemum world is the growing of chrysanthemum bonsai and the Marin Magazine carries the story of Dr. Norton J. Schlesinger of Mill Valley, who has had success growing the miniature mums, creating plants of his own design.

The College of Marin, Marin's cultural center, has grown beyond all expectations and has placed two financing proposals before the voters for decision Nov. 3. A status report of the college's current plans and financing picture rounds out the feature stories in the Saturday supplement.

HANGING POTS — Rough, earthy ceramics by Dale Roush plus weaving by Cynthia Sterling Williams create a stunning exhibition at Dominican College's San Marco Gallery.

ART REVIEW

Weaver, Potter Are Quality Craftsmen

By LAURA DEVENDORF

Weaver Cynthia Sterling Williams and potter Dale Roush are both highly sensitive craftsmen. And the combination of their talents in an exhibit through Nov. 13 at Dominican College's San Marco Gallery only multiplies the satisfaction they individually give.

Miss Williams handles fragility and strength with equal grace. One bold geometrically patterned "headboard tapestry" is especially lush with its natural browns and grays, lacings of twine, purple wrapped cord and tassels ending in fluffs of white. It is all substance. Others by the artist have more the element of air.

Such are Miss Williams's window curtains. These thin fragile cobwebs spun through with rippling threads and beads are made even more gossamer by the morning sunshine playing shadow patterns behind them.

And she also combines the delicate with the bold, stretching net-like designs between thickly woven bands and coloring these weavings in deeper tones of slate, mustard, rust, gold, purple and brown.

Roush's element is more one of earth. And he glorifies the very earthy quality of the clay itself, letting it appear raw, but inscribing and imprinting it with calligraphic scrawls and deep flowered designs.

His handling is as freely natural as the ground itself whether applied to stately chimneys, huge footed tubs cut deeply with organic designs, spattered plates or in an assortment of vessels which come in simple, determined shapes such as modified cylinders and cones.

This easy freedom is repeated in Roush's hanging pots. Rope-strung from wood beams, their finishes vary from understated glazes to rough sand. Their shapes can suggest cauldrons or upside down ancient war helmets. And their surfaces might be only simple ribbings or have areas embellished with almost gingerbread ornateness.

Throughout this exhibit both Roush and Miss Williams express a great affinity for natural things, their imperfetcions as well as their refinements. And both artis's have lovingly incorporated both aspects in their work. Which is probably why there is a particular sense of harmony and genuine completeness about this weaving and ceramics exhibition.

Hunt For Town Manager Narrows

The Corte Madera Town Council, meeting in closed session last night, narrowed the field to 10 applicants seeking the position of town manager.

Councilman Robert P. Simmons said today that the council in two weeks will begin oral interviews of the remaining applicants for the position vacated in September by Ronald L. Usher.

About 45 applications were received for the job.

Severe Frosts Cut Napa Grape Crop

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Partly because of severe frosts early this year, the Napa Valley grape crop "turned out to be about 40 per cent lighter than last year," a Christian Brothers Wines official reports.

Brother Justin FSC also told newsmen Thursday that all grape flowers were not properly pollinated and that there had been some sun burn.

Cash, Radio Taken

Burglars took an undetermined amount of cash and a radio from Vita-Fresh Donut and Coffee Shop at 811 Fourth Street sometime prior to 4:10 a.m. today, San Rafael police reported.

McGovern Admits Top Post Interest

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—Sen. George McGovern says he is definitely interested in the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination and will announce his plans after the Nov. 3 elections.

McGovern said here Thursday he is making an assessment of support around the country for the positions he has taken.

"If I do decide to run I expect to make a rather early announcement shortly after the 1970 elections," he said.

Nixon Adds More Campaign Stops

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has added two more stops—Miami Beach, Fla. on Tuesday and Omaha, Neb. on Thursday—to the campaign swing he plans to make next week.

The previously announced schedule includes appearances in Palm Beach, St. Petersburg and Talahassee, Fla.; Mt. Prospect and Rockford, Ill.; Dallas; Rochester, Minn., and Anaheim, Calif.

Wage Report Filing Deadline Announced

Nov. 2 is the deadline for businesses to file California unemployment wage reports and contribution returns for the third quarter of 1970, according to Charles J. Brady, auditor-in-charge for the state Department of Human Resources Development in San Rafael.

Penalty and interest will be charged late filers. Those needing help with returns may obtain it at Brady's office, 877 E Street.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies now being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from the California and National Parent-Teacher Association magazines and the Parent's Magazine, unless otherwise noted. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael Library.

FAMILY

"On A Clear Day You Can See Forever" — Lively, entertaining musical with Barbra Steisand playing several parts, a Bronx college student, a London cockney guttersnipe and an aristocratic English woman. Good fun for the whole family.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Adam at 6 A.M." — A film about young people, made by young people, presents this drama about a young man's quest for a more meaningful way of life. It captures something of the gap and polarities dividing us as a nation.

"Airport" — Outstanding star-studded cast in this gripping story of the workings of a large airport during a paralyzing blizzard. Build up very intense and may be too exciting for the younger children.

"Dr. Zhivago" — With magnificent scenery and music the story of Dr. Zhivago's life in Russia during the revolution is told in flash back. A monumental version of prize winning novel.

"Kelly's Heroes" — Irreverent World War II satirical comedy, melodrama about a group of soldiers who combine forces in stealing 16 million in gold bullion from behind the German lines. Big cast gives excellent performances.

"Monte Walsh" — That time in American history when Eastern progress came rolling over the old wild West. It is a serio-comic study of lonely dispossessed men with no job market for their skills.

"Patton" — Excellent characterization by George C. Scott who portrays an indomitable spirit that could achieve its destiny only in wartime. A strong film makes use of violence and frequent profanity.

"Sicilian Clan" — Head of a Mafia clan arranges a jail break. The contrast between their professional and personal morals is well dramatized. Film travels slowly over too familiar roads. English subtitles.

"Sunflower" — Emotional melodrama tells of a woman who travels to Russia after the war to trace her last husband. What to do when she finds him is the core of the film plot. Well acted.

"Where Eagles Dare" — An excessively brutal, tense, explosive World War II adventure about a mission to rescue an American General held captive in a castle on a mountain top.

"Cheyenne Social Club" — Two carefree cowpokes inherit a bawdy house with six prostitutes. It is adult material masquerading as family fare. It lacks wit, taste and honesty.

BORDERLINE

(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Angels Unchained" — Motorcycle riders and hippie commune dwellers join forces against antagonistic townspeople. Sex, cursing and violence. All find the price of peace is high.

"Bird With Crystal Plumage" — In this Italian made film one terrifying sequence after another creates sustained terror and horror as a psychopathic killer with a knife, stalks his women victims. Some very bloody death scenes.

"Goodbye Columbus" — Sophisticated, very frank comedy about a love affair between college aged couple which survives a dispute over the use of contraceptives, founders in the end on a choice of values.

"Gypsy Moths" — Sky divers in mid-air acrobatics are featured in this well photographed film. Nudity, explicit sex scenes in an illicit love story makes it unsuitable for the immature.

"Losers" — Would you believe a motorcycle gang sent on a mission by the government to rescue a CIA agent in Vietnam? They do so with maximum ugliness. South Vietnamese are portrayed with racial hatred. (Film Information)

"Lovers and Other Strangers" — Amusing, well acted comedy about a couple who have been roommates and decide to marry. Series of vignettes about their relative's martial affairs are intercut into the wedding preparations. Bedroom scenes crude and profanity abundant.

ADULTS ONLY

"Barbarella" — Sex oriented tale is based on a French adult comic book world of sex, sadism and perversion in a pseudo-science fiction setting of the distant future. A gilded corruption pervades the whole garish gimmicked-up thing.

"Landlord" — This slick, salty satire works effectively to emphasize the stupidity of racist attitudes. A rich young man becomes romantically and otherwise involved when he buys a tenement in a black ghetto in Brooklyn. There is nudity, sex and cursing.

"Performance" — This strange film is offensive, pretentious and confusing. A London racketeer in trouble with his underworld associates takes refuge in the weird house of a freaked-out former rock star. He shares their far out psychedelic and sexual games that are shockingly explicit.

"Thomas Crown Affair" — A sophisticated tale of a female insurance sleuth becoming an intimate companion of a thrill seeking millionaire to trap him for masterminding robberies of banks.

"M-A-S-H" — Hilarious, subtle anti-war comedy of three army suregons who develop outlandish life-style to survive the gore that passes before their eyes. Sex, nudity and profanity.

60-Year-Old Man Is Still Growing

LES SABLES DOLONNE, France (UPI)—Edmond Durand, 69, said Thursday doctors have told him he is still growing despite his age.

Durand, who is 7 foot 1 inch tall, said he began growing again at the age of 36 and physicians said he will probably continue growing until he dies.

Mill Valley Sets Drama Classes

Creative dramatics classes for children will be held Tuesday afternoons starting next week at the Mill Valley Golf Course Clubhouse, 267 Buena Vista Avenue. Classes will start at 3:30 p.m. for children ages 7 and 9 and at 4:30 for children 10 to 12.

The course is sponsored by the Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Department and will be taught by Eleanor Babat, former program director of the Oakland Children's Fairyland and director of the New Children's Theater in San Francisco.

The classes will include improvisation, games, body movement, pantomime, voice and acting.

Radical Convicted In Gun Purchase

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A secretary of the Black Panther Party in Berkeley was convicted Thursday of falsifying statements in the purchase of shotguns.

Sharon Hazel Williams, 24, was convicted of a federal charge of falsely telling a Watts gun dealer who sold her three 12-gauge shotguns, that she was not under indictmen for a crime punishable by a sentence of more than a year.

U. S. Attorney Richard Kirschner presented evidence that Miss Williams was under indictment in New York for possession of heroin.

She is also awaiting trial in connection with a shoot-out between Black Panthers and police here last December.

She was ordered to return to the court of U. S. Dist. Court Judge David W. Williams for sentencing Nov. 16.

$3.25 Million Street Bond Issue Is On Novato Ballot

Novatans will go to the polls Nov. 3 to pass judgment on a $3.25 million bond issue for street improvements — Measure D on the ballot. Passage will require approval by two-thirds of those voting.

The money, according to Public Works Director Clifford E. Temps, will be used to improve long neglected major collector streets and for work the city must do in connection with the state's planned Highway 101 bypass of the city.

The latter obligation of the city, called "freeway accommodation work" by Temps, will cost about $500,000 and must be done whether or not the bond issue passes.

The city council this year levied a five-year tax of 30 cents per $100 to pay for freeway accommodation work.

However, the proposed bond issue would cover this work as well improve collector streets and if it passes, Temps said, the 30-cent tax will be used to retire the bonds.

Passage therefore, according to Temps, would require no increase in the tax rate, at least not for the five years that the city is already saddled with the 30-cent tax the city fathers found unavoidable.

If the bond issue fails, Temps said, Novatans will still be taxed, but all the revenue must be devoted to freeway accommodation while collector streets, given only minimum essential repair, must continue to suffer until such time as a bond issue does pass.

Tentative plans call for selling the bonds over a five-year period as the money is needed, he said.

If 24-year bonds are sold, redemption would require a tax rate ranging from 28.3 cents in fiscal 1971-72 to a high of 39 cents in fiscal 1974-75 then drop gradually to a low of 2.3 cents in 1994-95, averaging out at 22.4 cents annually.

An 18-year redemption program would average 30.1 cents annually.

This is the third time that a bond issue for street improvement has been before the voters and Temps said yesterday that if it again fails to pass, "we'll try again every six months until it does pass."

In the argument accompanying the ballot, proponents state that street mileage has increased since incorporation through annexation and development from 47 to 87 miles, an 85 per cent gain. But cars using those streets have increased from 9,084 to more than 25,000, a 175 per cent increase. This has been accompanied by a 223 per cent increase in pedestrian accidents and a 260 per cent increase in vehicle accidents.

An additional argument in favor is that use of bond issue money to improve collector streets and do freeway accommodation work will free between $170,000 and $250,000 in gasoline tax revenue for other streets in the community badly in need of repair.

No argument opposing the bond issue accompanies the sample ballot.

Freeway accomodation work, according to Temps, includes:

Signalization of two intersections at a cost of $100,000, at Novato and Rowland boulevards and Redwood and Rowland boulevards to accommodate the planned Rowland offramp from the freeway.

"Substantial improvements" at a cost of $250,000 on Diablo Avenue and Novato and South Novato boulevards to accomodate increased traffic.

Channelization of the intersection of Rowland and South Novato boulevards at a cost of $100,000.

Widening of Delong Avenue at a cost of $50,000 from existing Highway 101 to the new bypass.

The balance of the money to be spent on collector streets would pay for reconstruction of:

The Ignacio Boulevard connection across San Jose Creek to San Jose Junior High School and to the Marin Junior College campus, giving a direct route to that area from the Ignacio overpass on Highway 101.

Reichert Avenue crossing of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad.

Center Road from Lu Sutton School to Wilson Avenue.

Simmons Lane from Novato Creek to San Marin Drive.

Feliz Road from Simmons Lane to San Marin subidivision.

Tamalpais Avenue from Novato Boulevard to Center Road.

Railroad Avenue from the new railroad crossing to Olive Avenue.

Olive Avenue from Highway 101 to Fourth Street.

Vallejo Avenue from Highway 101 to Seventh Street.

Fourth Street from Grant Avenue to its north end.

Seventh Street from Grant Avenue to Vallejo Avenue.

Landscaping a big cut when San Marin Drive is moved south to connect with Atherton Avenue.

U. S. Presence In Japan Reduced

TOKYO (UPI) — The United States maintains 126 military bases, occupying about 76,500 acres, in Japan, the Japanese Self Defense Agency reports.

This is a reduction in U.S.-occupied land of 16 per cent in the past two years the agency said, but pointed out that American base land totals about one-sixth the area of Tokyo and is 90 times bigger than the site of the 1970 world exposition in Osaka.

Aid To Hong Kong

HONG KONG (UPI) — The United States will donate about $176,000 to Hong Kong welfare agencies during the 1970 under the U.S. Government's Far East refugee program.

The funds are to help provide social services to refugees from Communist China and are channeled to several local voluntary agencies under an annual contract.

With Vengeance

LIMA (UPI) — Women's lib has come to Peru in the form of a female tax driver, believed to be the only one in Lima. But she put a new twist in her work. She picks up only women passengers.

Today is Friday, Oct.23, the 296th day of 1970.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1915 about 2,500 women marched in New York City, demanding the right to vote.

In 1942 the British VIII Army launched an offensive at El Alamein, Egypt, to start a campaign that was to sweep Axis forces out of North Africa.

In 1947 the state of Maine was declared a disaster area as forest fires caused damage estimated at $30 million.

In 1955 Ngo Dinh Diem was chosen to take over the South Vietnamese government in the country's first election. He later was assassinated.

A thought for today: Carl Sandburg said, "Time is a sandpile we run our fingers through."

Woman With Seven Aliases Gets TV

McPhail's appliance store in San Rafael told police Wednesday that a woman who has seven known aliases bought a $628 color television set on June 3 and has not paid for it.

After the woman had not paid within the 30 days alloted, the store at Third and C streets learned from the Marin Credit Bureau that the buyer, Mrs. Elmer Gunnar, who last gave a San Francisco address, has made similar "purchases" under the names Florence Brown, Lorraine Brown, Elizabeth Mitchell, Elaine iMtchell, Nicol Hammond and Lorraine Gunnar, police said.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Would He Rather Play Hand At Four Spades Or Defend?

You may be able to win a bet with a bridge-playing friend if you give him today's hand as a problem. Would he rather be South, playing the hand at four spades, or the defenders, trying to defeat the contract?

KING OF HEARTS

West leads the king of hearts, and your friend will want to bet on South if the defenders take the first two heart tricks. East can then return his singleton club, but West never regains the lead. The defenders get two hearts and one trump.

You may win the bet by saying that East takes the first trick with the ace of hearts and returns the singleton club. If declarer then leads a trump, East steps up with the ace of trumps to lead a low heart to West's queen. West returns a club, and East's ruff defeats the contract.

A CLUB TRICK

But if your friend bets on the defense, you win the second trick with a club, cash the king of diamonds, overtake the queen with dummy's ace of diamonds and lead the ten. East must put up the jack of diamonds, and you discard your losing heart. Now West cannot gain the lead to give East a ruff.

MORE TWISTS

If your friend wants to bet on declarer, adopting this line of play, have East lead a fourth diamond. South must ruff with the ten to shut West out. Now South leads the king of spades to drive out the ace. East leads a fifth diamond. If South ruffs with an honor, West's nine of trumps becomes established; and if South does not ruff high, West will take the setting trick at once with the nine of spades.

TWIST REMAINS

In short, with best play on both sides, South goes down. But one twist remains. If your friend bets on the defense, let him. He collects a penalty of 50 points, but South collects 100 for the honors, scoring a profit despite all!

DAILY QUESTION

Partner bids one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ — 9 6 2
♥ — K Q 10 6
♦ — 6 4 3
♣ — 8 7 3.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

The hand is not quite worth a response. If your partner opened with one heart, you would raise to two hearts, counting something extra for the picture cards in partner's suit.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Good Outlook For American Heritage

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. My late husband was given shares of American Heritage by a friend. Are they worth keeping? — F. H.

A. Unless you are in need of increasing your income, I would hold these shares for possible growth. American Heritage Life Investment is a life insurance and real estate service holding company, operating primarily in the Southeast and California. Life insurance in force gained over 12 per cent; premium income rose 15 per cent; investment income increased 13 per cent; and capital gains added 5 cents a share to earnings last year. The company's investment assets in 1969 were 44 per cent in cash, governments and bonds, 26 per cent in mortgages, and 8 per cent in common stock, with the remaining 22 per cent in other non-specific investments. The heavy investment in bonds helped to restrict portfolio shrinkage in the recent market decline. An expanding sales force, improved profitability in health and accident business and higher interest return on investments should lift 1970 earnings above the (adjusted) 61 cents a share reported in 1969.

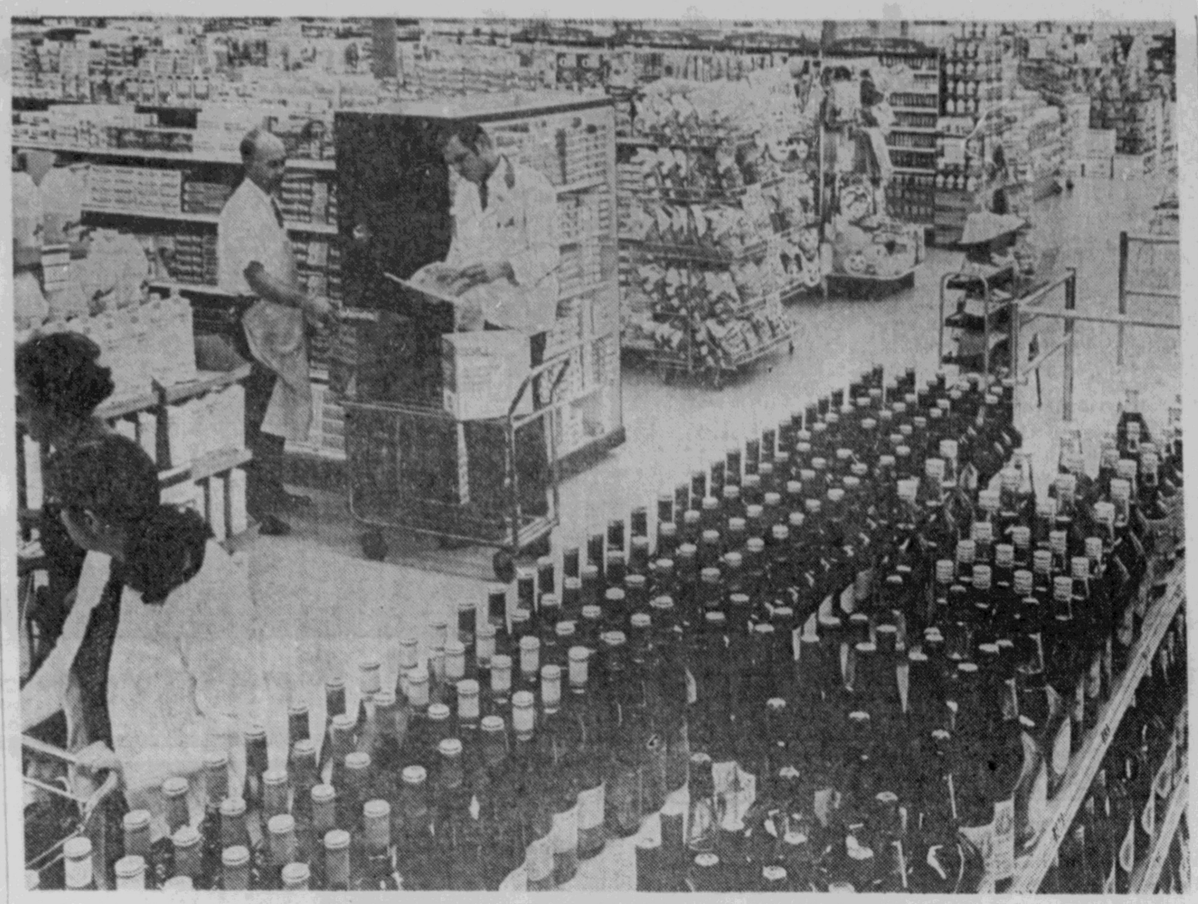
Q. Can you tell me what is wrong with Harvard Industries? Shares have taken a nosedive. Do you think they will recover? — M. H.

A. Not immediately. Harvard Industries is struggling with industrywide problems as well as internal issues. Since aerospace and electronic products accounted for 43.7 per cent of sales in 1969, and U. S. Government business contributed some 40 per cent of revenue, company has been severely affected by stretchouts and cutbacks on Defense Department contracts and the general softening in the economy. For the nine months ended June 30, 1970, sales dropped 7.8 per cent from the restated year-earlier level; and a net loss of over $3 million, or $1.31 a share, was sustained. Also contributing to this poor showing were depressed conditions in the housing market (where Harvard has a sizeable commitment) and higher interest costs. Pending lawsuits against the operations of Alsco, Inc. (acquired in 1969) are seen as potentially unfavorable, for it is uncertain what the final effect will be on Harvard's financial position. This is a situation I would rather watch than hold.

Mine Operators Use More Machinery

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — With coal being burned in record quantities by power plants to generate electrical energy, mine operators are turning more and more to time-saving and cost-reducing machinery.

One continuous mining machine recently developed by Joy Manufacturing Company is capable of cutting and collecting up to 12 tons of coal a minute, a quantity equal to the per man output for three full working days in the industry's pick and shovel era. The machine is operated by one man.



MARKET OPENED AGAIN

A long vacant supermarket became active again as Cala Foods moved into Marinwood after remodeling the store once occupied by Lee Bros. at Miller Creek Drive and Miller Creek Road. Staff members checking shelf stocks are department head Wally Walberg and store manager Walter Leptein. In moving into Marinwood, Cala has given up its store in Santa Venetia.

Stock Market Makes Small Gain In Quiet Trading

NEW YORK (UPI) —The stock market finished with small gain in quiet trading Friday.

Near the final bell, advances were leading declines, 690 to 551, while the Dow Jones industrial average was up 0.96 at 758.83 after being ahead between 1 and 2 points most of the session.

Volume amounted to around 10,000,000 shares, versus 9,000,000 shares Thursday.

Closing prices included: AT&T 43 1-8 off 1-8; Bethlehem Steel 21 1-4 off 1-4; Chrysler 24 5-8 up 3-8; DuPont 118 off 1-2; Ford 49 1-4 off 1-2; General Electric 86 up 7-8, and Gen Motors 72 up 1-8.

Analysts noted that the market has entered into a "drifting phase" and was likely to follow this pattern at least until after the November elections, or until some motivating news appears.

One analyst observed that Wall Street seems to be less optimistic about chances for an economy recovery in the fourth quarter as a result of the strike at General Motors Corp.

Prices showed a steady tone in routine trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Construction Down A Third From 1969

September new construction activity was down slightly from August and 31 per cent below construction a year ago at this time.

According to figurs from the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau, building permits last month totaled $3,806,510 in Marin County, compared to August's $3,828,028 and $5,517,648 in September, 1969. About 82 per cent of September construction was residential.

San Rafael and its neighboring districts accounted for almost 39 per cent of the total — $1,479,164, almost all residential. Sausalito's total was $560,160, 90 per cent residential, with new apartment buildings started. Tiburon and the Tiburon peninsula accounted for $407,400 — 87 per cent residential, slightly topped by Mill Valley (mostly unincorporated areas) at $413,613, largely residential construction.

Novato construction ($369,881) was nearly 80 per cent residential. San Anselmo had no residential starts, very little commerical and the rest miscellaneous construction — all totaling $104,364. Larkspur's $84,735 was 88 per cent residential. Fairfax showed permits totaling $37,410, about two-thirds residential. Corte Madera accounted for $71,185 in permits, all residential and miscellaneous construction.

Greenbrae had no residential construction — it's $31,100 was two-thirds commercial and the rest miscellaneous permits. Ross permits totaled only $21,500 — $5,500 of this commercial and the rest miscellaneous. West Marin and other unincorporated areas, with 56 per cent in residential starts, totaled $225,710.

Total permits for the first nine months were $37.8 million — 23.3 per cent below last year.

DALLAS (UPI) — Great Southwest Corp., which is 90 per cent owned by Pennsylvania Co., a subsidiary of the bankrupt Penn Central Transportation Co., announced it has completed an $83 million refinancing program.

Victor Palmieri, new president of the land development firm, said a banking group led by First National City Bank of New York had advanced $19 million in cash.

A Surprise Leader At Kaiser Golf Tourney

NAPA, Calif. (UPI)—Jack Montgomery makes no bones about it. He'd like to take home a sizeable check one of these days.

The 29-year-old blond Texan hasn't won a golfing check in a long time. In fact, he has been off the tour for nearly two months.

Thursday in the opening round of the $150,000 Kaiser International Open golf tournament, he showed he will be the man to beat this week.

Montgomery, who dropped off the tour just before the Hartford Open during the Labor Day weekend, did everything right in the opening round of the Kaiser, bagging seven birds and not a single bogey for a sparkling seven under par 31-34 —65.

The effort gave him a stroke lead today over Ken Still, a two stroke edge over Bob Goalby, Ben Kern, Chi Chi Rodriguez, Mason Rudolph and Dale Douglass and a three stroke edge on seven others.

By contrast, defending champion Jack Nicklaus, Masters king Billy Casper and PGA champ Dave Stockton were six strokes back at 71.

Montgomery left the tour because he couldn't control his driver.

"It got so that I couldn't tell where I was shooting," said Montgomery. "That's when I decided it was time to go home and work on my game."

Accepting a new driver from a friend who used to beat him regularly a few years ago, Montgomery said he hit "at least a million shots and somewhere along the way I lost my duck hook."

With that, Montgomery, who won only $26,398 on the tour last year and $10,702 thus far in 1970, decided he would start a comeback in the Kaiser. On Monday, along with other "rabbits" he played in a qualifying round and shot a 68.

"I figured after that round that maybe I could go on to score well in the tourney itself and maybe take home a good check," Montgomery said. "I sure could use one these days."

Still, another player having his troubles this year, shot a 33-33-66 to stand just a stroke behind Montgomery. He did it with six birdies and no bogies.

A total of 79 players in the field of 155 shot par or better in the opening round, played at the Silverado Country Club's north and south courses. Play was from both the first and 10th tees to speed things up and it will be more of the same in today's second round. The cut will be made to the low 70 and ties today for the final two rounds over the north course only.

Seven players—Vern Novak, Tom Shaw, Dave Hill, Babe Hiskey, J. C. Snead, Roy Pace and Bert Yancey—were tied at four under 68, 10 players were at 69, 12 at 70, 20 at 71 and 23 at even par 72.

Both Silverado courses play to even par 72 but the north layout is considered a bit tougher. Montgomery and Still shot their fine opening rounds over the south on a perfect day for golf with the sun bathing the picturesque Napa Valley.

Nicklaus had no alibis for his opening round, which ran all the extremes. He started out by putting his drive on No. 1 into the left rough and took a double bogey six. Later, he missed four putts of three feet, but sank others of 15 and 10 feet for birds.

"It was just one of those rounds," said Nicklaus, "There really is no way to explain it."

Montgomery said just about the same of his round, adding:

"I'd take another one like that right now."

Haywood Considers Jumping To NBA

ABA Star Wants New Contract

DENVER (UPI) — An attorney for Spencer Haywood, most Valuable Player in the American Basketball Association last year, has asked the Denver Rockets to renegotiate a contract with the young athlete for $3.25 million.

The renegotiation request came only hours after published reports that the 21-year-old superstar was thinking of jumping from the ABA to the National Basketball Association.

LAST YEAR

Similar reports were circulated last season shortly before the 6-foot-g forward, then a rookie, signed a six year pact for a record $1.9 million.

Don Ringsby, general manager and president of the Rockets, announced late Thursday that attorney Al Ross of Los Angeles informed him Haywood was unhappy with his present contract and wanted a new one.

Ringsby said the Rockets planned to consult with their attorneys over the situation. Haywood has been the nucleus of the Denver team and averaged 30 points and 19.5 rebounds per game last year.

OPTION

"There was nothing said about threatening to jump to the NBA," Ringsby said. "We have an option for a seventh year."

Haywood has not played at all this season because of a broken finger, but had been expected to resume play early next month.

Ringsby said he had not yet talked with Haywood about the situation. He said he presumed the former Olympic star, who signed with Denver despite two years of eligibility remaining at Detroit University, was in Los Angeles.

ENDORSEMENTS

"Many months ago, Ross presented Spencer with a contract for endorsements only," Ringsby said. "It was completely unreasonable and one-sided so I had my attorneys rework it and present it to Ross. Haywood apparently did this a couple of weeks ago, and this seems to be the contract under which they are working."

Earlier, J.W. Ringsby, chairman of the board of the Rockets, said he was unaware of reports that Haywood was considering moving to the NBA.

AT SAN RAFAEL

Tamalpais, Drake To Clash Tonight

Tamalpais and Drake will be getting each other on the rebound, so to speak, when the teams meet tonight, 8 o'clock, at San Rafael High School in the weekend's first Marin County Athletic League prep football game. (Stories on tomorrow's high school football games on page 26.)

Both the Indians of Mill Valley and the Pirates of San Anselmo have league records of one win and two losses coming into this game, which marks the halfway point in the 1970 season. And since no team in the last decade has won the MCAL championship with two losses, it's safe to say that Tam and Drake will be fighting for pride, rather than prizes, from here on out.

Last week the Indians lost, as expected, to San Rafael, while Drake was upset by lightly regarded San Marin. But the Pirates' fortunes may be on the rise, as halfback Jim Dominguez is scheduled to return to the lineup after missing two games with a ligament tear in his leg.

Color this contest a tossup. The teams are almost identical offensively, relying predominently on the rushing game to move the ball. For Tam, halfbacks Clifford Hall and Bill Washington are the main threats. Drake has Dominguez, John Loane and Steve Hale.

Drake coach Bob Franceschini has plenty of respect for Tam. "They're a very explosive club with outstanding running backs and adequate line," he says. "If we can hold Hall and Washington from breaking loose, we'll have a good chance."

Mike Davlin, Tam's coach, indicated his team will have to stop the Pirates' passing attack as well as their formidable rushing. "They'll be up, but we should be up, too," he said.

HE'S ANTI-CLAY

Maddox Declares Day Of Mourning

ATLANTA (UPI)—Gov. Lester Maddox, who failed to halt next Monday night's bout between Cassius Clay and Jerry Quarry, has gotten in his last word by declaring Monday "a day of mourning."

He urged Atlantans Thursday to boycott the fight and added hopes that "Clay gets beat in the first round—flattened for a count of 30." However, Mayor Sam Massell of Atlanta came back with a proclamation to call Oct. 23-26 "Sports Spectacular Weekend", noting that two college football games, an international motorcycle race and professional football and basketball are being held in the city along with the Clay-Quarry fight. Massell said the events show that Atlanta has "something for everyone" and is a city of "good sportsmanship."

Maddox has opposed the fight from its inception because of Clay's refusal to enter the Army, a move that cost Clay the heavywight title three years ago and brought him a five-year prison sentence that is under appeal. Maddox said Clay's appearance is "an insult to Georgians who have fought for their country and served in uniform." He criticized city officials for allowing the fight to be held and urged patriotic groups to "let the city know" how they felt. "All citizens who love their liberty appreciate sacrifices of their fellow Americans," he said, urging Atlantans "to pray that the cause of American freedom by spread any further affront to the memory of their loved ones.

"All citizens are implored to abstain from participating in or contributing to any action which would demean the sacrifice made by those Americans who have answered their country's call," he added.

Cardinals Trade Taylor

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Carl Taylor, a journeyman major-leaguer with experience in the infield, outfield and behind the plate, was traded to the Milwaukee Brewers today by the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Cardinals acquired Taylor a year ago from the Pittsburgh Pirates in exchange for Dave Giusti and Dave Ricketts.

The Cardinals shipped Taylor to Milwaukee along with minor-league pitcher Jim Ellis in exchange for catcher Jerry McNertney and pitchers Jesse Huggins and George Lauzerique.

Miss Walsh Loses To Virginia Wade

MANCHESTER, England (UPI) — England's Virginia Wade gained revenge for last week's defeat when she beat 18-year-old Sharon Walsh of San Rafael 6-4, 6-3 yesterday in the quarterfinals of the Dewar Indoor tennis tournament.

Patti Hogan of La Jolla, threatened with disqualification after a series of temper tantrums, finally beat Scotland's Winnie Shaw 8-10, 7-5, 6-4 in another match.

Miss Hogan was told by umpire Bertie Bowron, "Behave or I will disqualify you" when she climaxed a series of outbursts by slamming a ball high into the stands late in the second set.

Miss Hogan, upset by doubtful line calls, replied, "I wish you would, it would save me a lot of aggravation," but she went on to win the two hour, 22 minute match and reach the semifinals.

The 20-year-old Californian produced some brilliant attacking tennis in between her shows of temperament and was well in control at the finish.

Miss Wade's semi-final opponent will be Francoise Durr of France, who overwhelmed Scotland's Joyce Williams, 6-2, 6-0.

Top-seeded Tom Gorman of Seattle, Wash., reached the semi-finals of the men's singles by eliminating 39-year-old former British Davis Cup player John Barrett, 3-6, 7-5, 6-3.

Knicks Tip Warriors In Closing Seconds

NEW YORK (UPI)—The San Francisco Warriors head for home today after completing their first road trip of the young National Basketball Association season with a 1-2 record.

At Madison Square Garden Thursday night, the defending NBA champion New York Knicks scored the last five points to turn back the Warriors, 95-92.

2-3 RECORD

It marked the first time in five starts that the Warriors failed to top the 100-point mark. And the loss left them at 2-3 in the Pacific Division race.

Mike Riordan, one of the Knicks' super-subs, was the rallying figure for New York as he scored nine of his 15 points in the fourth stanza, including the last three in the final 40 seconds. His tie-breaking field goal came after Walt Frazier netted a pair of free throws with 1:41 remaining to tie the game at 92-92.

San Francisco fashioned a 54-47 halftime lead mostly on the work of Jerry Lucas. The former Ohio State All-America scored 11 of his 19 points and collected 19 rebounds before the half.

DEFENSE FALLS

After battling to a 75-75 standoff at the three-quarter mark, the Warriors held a two-point advantage with less than two minutes to play before collapsing on defense.

Nate Thurmond shared high-point honors with Cazzie Russell of the Knicks with 20 apiece.

San Francisco returns to action Saturday night against the new Portland Trail Blazers at the Oakland Arena.

Hindman Is Only 49er Still On Injury List

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The casualty list of the San Francisco 49ers should stand at one when game time rolls around Sunday against the improved Denver Broncos.

The only non-participant will be defensive end Stan Hindman, who is still nursing a bum leg.

Linebacker Dave Wilcox (knee) is geared for a return to the starting lineup and guard Randy Beisler (back and neck) should see plenty of action, although it is doubtful he will start. Both sat out last Sunday's 20-20 tie against the New Orleans Saints.

Coach Dick Nolan also revealed Thursday that wide receiver Dick Witcher is ready for duty. Witcher has been out for the past three weeks with a shoulder separation. However, Nolan has indicated that rookie Preston Riley will start against the Broncos.

Raider Linebacker Conners To Start Against Steelers

OAKLAND (UPI)—Dan Conners has had his first taste of regular season contact and he wants more. He'll get more as a starter Sunday when the Oakland Raiders host the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Conners, who broke a bone in his right arm against the San Francisco 49ers in a pre-season game, played a little at his old middle linebacker spot Monday when the Raiders dumped Washington, 34-20.

"I made a tackle on the first play," he said Thursday. "That felt good; to know I could still do it."

During his lonely sideline vigil, Conners stayed in shape by running daily but admits he needs playing time to get sharp.

"I think one game will do it," he said. "But it will have to be a physical game. A rout wouldn't help much."

ONE THAT DIDN'T STOP

Winless Seals Host Winless Penguins

OAKLAND (UPI)—By the end of tonight, there should be only one team in the National Hockey League without a win. That is, barring a tie.

And the California Golden Seals, who are 0-5-1, hope it won't be them. They host the equally luckless Pittsburgh Penguins (0-3-2) at the Oakland Arena.

The Seals came close to their initial campaign victory two nights ago, but fell apart in the final period and managed only a 2-2 tie against the St. Louis Blues.

"We have to return to the basic way of playing this game and maybe it'll come against Pittsburgh," general manager Frank Selke said Thursday. "We're not getting enough goals to take the pressure off and we go into a defensive shell.

Redwood To Host San Rafael

The Redwood High School Giants will have the home field advantage, and little else going for them tomorrow when they host the speedburning San Rafael Bulldogs at 2 p.m. in Larkspur.

The Bulldogs, who have won four of five games this year, should roll to their third straight Marin County Athletic League victory over what may be the weakest Redwood team ever. The Giants have failed to notch a win in any of their five games, including two MCAL contests.

In fact, this game is probably the biggest mismatch of the 1970 MCAL season. It pits the league's most prolific offense against the most impotent; San Rafael is averaging well over 200 yards a game, while Redwood has scored just three touchdowns all season.

And to add injury to insult, the Giants will be without the services of half their first string backfield. Quarterback Bob Brown is out with a bruised knee, and fullback Andy Anixter has resprained an ankle.

Sophomore Daryl Edralin, who handled the club during most of last week's 26-0 loss to Burlingame, will call signals. "The kids seem to perk up a little when he's in," says Giant coach Phil Roark.

San Rafael, on the other hand, is healthy, as has been the case all season. "So far this year we've been pretty fortunate," says coach Bob Muster.

Muster doesn't believe his team will suffer a letdown after last week's tough 14-0 win over Tamalpais. "We're a pretty hungry bunch," he says.

Prospects for a rainy day will help Redwood, since San Rafael's offense depends on speed. Flanker Scott Duncan makes the outside game go, while fullback Mark Farrar handles the inside running attack.

If both of them are bottled up,quarterback Dirk Gansloser can go to the air, primarily to split end Duke Besser, who was instrumental in the win over Tam.

UPSET MINDED SAN MARIN

Terra Linda Is Cautious

Terra Linda High School, sitting atop the Marin County Athletic League with a three win, no loss record, could very well run away from San Marin when the teams meet tomorrow at 1 p.m. at Novato High School.

But if the game is close, and close games are the thing this year in the MCAL, then the Mustangs, whose record is even at one and one, could pull a major upset.

"We're cautious of what San Marin can do," says Trojan coach Don Lucas. "Their whole ball club is a pretty feisty bunch of guys. They don't quit, they have tremendous quickness and they really play together as a team."

Mostly, however, the Trojans are cautious of what placekicker Urbano Boucsiequez can do. Last week he kicked field goals of 28, 43 and 41 yards to lead the Mustangs to a 17 - 10 upset of Drake.

Anywhere from the 35 yard line in, Boucsiequez is a threat. But against Terra Linda's league-leading defense, the Mustangs aren't likely to penetrate much farther too often.

"They've got an awful strong line," San Marin coach Bob Martin says, "and they've got good balance. I think we'll have to play for a break or two."

Both Terra Linda and San Marin made their own breaks to win last week. Linebacker Larry Mandin intercepted a Novato pass in the last quarter to set up a 7 - 0 Trojan victory, and halfback Marty Larsen had two interceptions in the final minute of the first half to set up the Mustangs' win.

Neither team has a spectacular offense, although Terra Linda, with Larry Kerr at quarterback, has been able to move the ball consistently in every game.

The game will be preceded at 11 a.m. by a non-league clash between the Novato Hornets and the Salesian Chieftains of Richmond.

Marin 'Cats Up Against Tough Foe

The Marin Catholic Wildcats better hope somebody up there likes them. They'll need all the help they can get tomorrow at 1 p.m. when they go against undefeated St. Patrick's High School at Corbus Field in Vallejo.

The Wildcats, coming off last week's 27 - 14 win over St. Elizabeth's of Oakland, will be out to even their 1970 record at three wins and three losses. But the powerful Bruins have other ideas.

Winners of their last 10 games including six this year, the North Coast League leaders have allowed just one touchdown this season. Last week they were particularly impressive in shutting out Menlo, 32-0.

For their part, the Kentfield boys have gained better than 300 yards in every game this year and should provide St. Pats with as stiff a test as anyone.

The only basis for comparison of the teams gives the Bruins a definite edge. They knocked off Salesian of Richmond, 12 - 0, and Marin lost to the Chieftains, 19 - 13.

Wildcat coach Rev. John Heaney is confident his team can move the ball against anybody. "We always knew we could run, and we figure we can pass, too," he says.

Fullback Pat Parnow and tailback Mark Lewis carry the Wildcats' running attack. Each has averaged better than 75 yards a game. The passing chorse belong to Steve Sherry, who, while no spectacular, has been effective, especially throwing to flanker Chuck Lauderback.

Pistons Keep Unbeaten String Going

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The one-two punch of Jimmy Walker and Dave Bing and the one-punch swing of Bob Lanier can really flatten a club.

Walker scored 29 points and Bing added 20 Thursday night as the unbeaten Detroit Pistons smothered the Atlanta Hawks, 120-101. Lanier caught opposing center Bob Christian with a left to the nose after a jostling session between the two rookie pros.

In other NBA action, New York edged San Francisco, 95-92, and the San Diego Rockets routed the winless Cleveland Cavaliers, 140-110.

Detroit, the only team in the National Basketball Association with a perfect record, won its sixth straight and bid to bear out pre-season reports the Pistons would wind up with Milwaukee in the Midwest Division playoffs.

The Pistons rolled to a 15-point halftime lead, 62-47, and when Atlanta closed the gap to 80-73 in the third quarter, drew away with a 14-point surge.

Pete Maravich collected nine field goals enroute to leading Atlanta with 23 points. Lou Hudson chipped in with 19 points for the Hawks.

It starts with four doors that open wide. That swing out a full 85 degrees and hold there.

So, it's no trick to get in or out of the front or back of a Peugeot 504.

A sliding roof opens to the sky to let in plenty of sunshine and fresh air.

Unlike most cars built today, the spare tire doesn't take up valuable space in the trunk —but is locked in place underneath the trunk floor. So, you get additional room for baggage.

The front bucket seats are fully reclining, so you can stretch out —even go to sleep if you like when the day's driving is done.

Three adults can sit comfortably in back. Or, put the armrest down and you've got two luxurious lounge chairs.

But all this spaciousness would be for nothing if the car didn't have a comfortable ride. That's why the Peugeot 504 has independent suspension on all four wheels—to soak up the bumps and potholes; and four-wheel disc brakes to slow you down quickly but gently.

Hunting In The Rain Can Be A Tough Job

By AL GIDDINGS

BEIBER, Lassen County — My wife, Mary, and I left Bob Wilson and his gang in the mountains above Cauley, Modoc County, earlier this week. Those fellows just get up too early — 5 a.m. — and it's about

We needed baths and some laundry service, and we thought we might spend a few days at a motel just to have the last week of this hunting in some comfort. Wilson and the boys hadn't killed any bucks by the time we left, but they were full of vim and vigor.

I TOOK a hunt in the Beiber country Monday and saw seven deer but no bucks. That evening, riding home, I saw about 20 deer, one forked horn. Only three-pointers are legal in the Lassen-Modoc areas. The deer seemed to sense the impending storm and were moving down off the mountains starting their winter migration.

Of course this pepped me up, so Tuesday morning I planned an early morning hunt, and when the time came it was raining hard enough to make things rough.

I took the jeep, and Mary as a scout, and Bruno, the dog, just to have some problems besides the rain. We also took the shotguns. There's a little backwoods pond that I've always got a duck or two from, but upon getting there, and it raining cats and dogs, we decided that there would be no ducks there this day. As we drove by, there were five mallards there! You know, the older I get the dumber I get!

IT RAINED and rained. So I just drove the jeep through all the deer country in the area. About noon it stopped raining, so I decided to go for a hike. Within five minutes I saw eight deer, again one had forks. I would guess that I jumped or saw close to 40 deer for the day, but nothing legal to shoot.

Hunting conditions were frustrating with the scope of the rifle getting wet, the binoculars getting blurred, and the mud and the cold wind. The dog was actually a big help. He would see many deer before I would, and by his actions I would know that something was cooking.

WITH THE migrating deer, you might have a chance in this area on the last weekend of deer season starting tomorrow. The locals don't want a storm; they would rather have their wild bucks still running than your bucks in the till. They have had a deer shortage so long that they are hoping only a few deer are taken this year so the herd can continue to build up again.

Now we're planning a final duck hunt. I think that will be fine, except the early morning temperature is forecast for 20 degrees. I think old age is beginning to creep up on me, or maybe it's that marvelous Marin County climate that makes this place seem so very, very cold.

Softball Game For Firemen

The Tiburon fire department softball team, coming off an undefeated, championship season in the Marin County Firemen's Association League, will be heavily favored to win for the fourth straight year tomorrow in the seventh annual Belvedere-Tiburon firemen's game at Judge Field in Tiburon.

Tiburon racked up 14 wins without a loss in league action and overall had a record of 30 wins and one loss. It was the team's most successful season since 1964.

Belvedere has only one victory in the series, a 35 - 34 decision in 1966.

Game time tomorrow is 2 p.m.

Stable Fire Damages: $500,000

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (UPI) —Garden State race track spokesmen estimate damages at $500,000 in the disastrous fire which killed 30 horses and destroyed a stable.

A trainer died of a heart attack during the blaze, which raged out of control for an hour late Wednesday and early Thursday.

The body of Thomas W. Rearson, in his late 60s, was found Thursday near the ruined Stable D, which housed 50 horses.

Football

BOSTON (UPI)—The Boston Patriots of the National Football League Thursday announced the acquisition of place kicking specialist Charlie Gogolak from the Denver Broncos for an undisclosed 1971 draft choice.

Baseball

ANAHEIM (UPI) — Former St. Louis Cardianls' pitching coach Billy Muffett has been signed by the California Angels as their minor league pitching instructor.

Bowling

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (UPI) —Dave Davis of Miami held a slim 18 pin lead over George Pappas of Charlotte, N.C., Thursday night at the 44-game mark of the $75,000 National Championship of the Professional Bowlers Association.

Shooting

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)— American shooters doubled their gold medal total Thursday, grabbing off three standard rifle events in the 40th World Shooting Championships.

Russia won the other medal in the rifle event while Sweden picked off two in running boar. The trio of American victories cut the Russian gold medal lead to 10-6.

WEST COAST FOOTBALL

Stanford In 'Crucial' At USC

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

By midnight Saturday, the Stanford Indians will know whether they are closer akin to Cinderella or an immobile pumpkin.

At that hour their night game with UCLA in the Los Angeles Coliseum will have been history. A Stanford victory would give the Indians practically an unobstructed path to the Rose Bowl for the first time since 1952 with a 4-0 record in the Pacific-8 Conference and games remaining against Oregon State, Washington and California.

But the game means more than just clearing the Rose Bowl muddle.

The opposing quarterbacks — Stanford's Jim Plunkett and Dennis Dummit of UCLA — are being boomed as Heisman Trophy candidates. So far, Plunkett has a decided edge as the greatest yardage gainer in NCAA history, but one game could change things rather quickly.

Plunkett and Dummit rank 1-2 in total offense in the Pac-8 with 273.5 yards a game average to 231.5.

In another key Pacific-8 battle at Eugene, Ore., the USC Trogans, tied the UCLA at 2-1 in the conference, throw their devastating ground game against the Oregon Ducks, the nation's top passing team. USC is a 13 1-2 point favorite but the Ducks 3-1 can't be counted out of the race.

With sophomore quarterback Dan Fouts throwing and Bobby Moore and Bob Newland catching, the Ducks have the potential to whip any team in the conference. Matched against them will be a host of talented Trojan runners like Clarence Davis, Rod McNeill and Sam Cunningham.

In other games Saturday, San Jose visits Pacific at night and Fresno State 5-1 hosts Los Angeles State in another Pacific Coast Athletic Association night contest; Santa Clara travels to Neveda-Reno and the University of San Diego provides the opposition for St. Mary's Homecoming game.

NEW CITIZENS

Not Australia, But Wooded Marin Hills

Helen Oesterman of 23 Sienna Way in San Rafael thought — when her husband, Richard, left his native England in 1956 — that the family would find its new home in Australia.

But when he sent back to England for her, the call came from San Francisco, not Australia. He found the bay and the wooded hills of Marin to his liking and decided to stop here.

Mrs. Oesterman, too, has found the area to her liking and last month became a United States citizen. She left a lucrative career in the British film industry as a script girl where she worked on such films as "Let's Be Happy," with Tony Martin, a film produced by the Mirish Brothers, the same people who produced the comedy, "The Russians Are Coming, The Russians Are Coming."

As a script girl, or continuity girl, Mrs. Oesterman was responsible for checking the continuity of a film's story, checking thousands of small details in a film, such as clothing, hair styling and make-up over several days of shooting the same scene.

"You can imagine how ridiculous it would look," she said, "if in a love scene an actor wore one shirt one day and a different shirt when the scene was shot on another day."

She claims a photographic mind, which she says was helpful in checking the continuity of films. Memory also came in handy in helping her husband, a San Rafael mortgage broker and investment counselor, when he entered the last supervisorial election in Marin's First District.

"When Dick had to make a speech, I'd go over it with him in the car," she said. "I could remember it, word for word, and correct and prompt him."

Even though her husband withdrew from the supervisor's race, both the Oestermans remain active in the politics of their new country, working on the current campaign to reelect Ivy Baker Priest as state treasurer.

Politics and hobbies such as bridge and needlepoint have taken the place of her film career.

"When you work in the film industry," she said, "you give it your whole life, but when you give it up, it's completely gone, it's a completely new world. It's the most marvelous life for a person who's single or doesn't have children (she has two, Janice, 5, and Paul, 17, who has also applied for his American citizenship), but as you get a family, well, they become your career."

She says she has no plans to get involved in the local film scene, but will instead concentrate on her roles as a mother and housewife, and of course help with any future political plans her husband may have, "if that comes up."

Petaluma Youths Held As Suspects In Burglaries

Two 16-year-old Petaluma Boys were arrested yesterday on suspicion of committing seven residential burglaries and attempting burglaries at seven other homes.

Michael Gregg of 3624 Petaluma Boulevard North and Gary Gypsy Nations of the Petaluma Hotel, were booked into Sonoma County Juvenile Hall.

Sgt. William Reed said he found the youths walking on Hill Boulevard near the home of George McGee, 132 Hill Boulevard, where theft of $90 cash had been reported.

Police said the boys were linked to other burglaries at 339 Walnut Street, 201 Kent Street, 17 Tenth Street, 18 Payran Street, 608 English Street and 204 Hill Boulevard.

The youths were also accused of attempting burglaries at 148 Payran Street, 407 and 413 Oak Street, 46 and 76 Raymond Heights and 412 West Street.

Judge Dismisses Gun Selling Charge

A felony charge, selling a machine gun, against Frank Thomas Garrison, 37, of Fairfax, was dismissed yesterday in Marin Municipal Courty by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. who ruled that Garrison had been the victim of entrapment.

Garrison had been accused of selling the gun to detective John Squier of Monterey, whom he met at a San Jose gun show in February. The officer also had said that Garrison had agreed to give him parts to make the World War II gun operable.

Fontez Defends Tax Lists In Newspapers

Several tax collectors attending a Northern California convention in San Rafael yesterday proposed eliminating annual publication of lists of tax delinquent properties to be sold at public auction.

However, the consensus, including Marin County Tax Collector-Treasurer Stanley J. Fontez, defended the publication of the list in newspapers as a useful tool in giving public notice.

"Lots of people have mortgages against the properties," said James Malstrom, Fresno County tax collector. "I think the newspaper publication is the best way to give notice."

"I agree with him," added Fontez. "You have an easy and simple record of the public notice"

Wallace Martin, tax collector of Humboldt County, charged that the tax sales publication "is harassment of the taxpayers."

A delegate from Santa Clara County complained that publicaltion costs keep rising. "It's an archiac, horse and buggy system."

Some 175 tax collectors and auditors from throughout the state registered for the conference at Holiday Inn, San Rafael. Marin County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell and Fontez were hosts for the two-day conference, which concluded today.

California tax collectors and auditors meet annually to discuss new legislation and methods of improving office efficiency.

Gerald E. Roth of San Rafael, president of the Micro-Datamation Corp., demonstrated the use of microfilm to record and file material directly from computer magnetic tapes, thus eliminating some of the mass of printed sheets that pour from computers.

"It's a good idea," commented Fontez. "Marin will probably be using it in a few years."

Mailliard Backs Sewage Proposal

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, today endorsed state Proposition 1 on the November ballot, a $250 million bond measure to upgrade sewage treatment facilities.

Mailliard said the proposition would provide needed matching funds so community sewage systems can qualify for federal grants, thus cutting the local share of such projects from 70 to 20 per cent.

If the state will fund 25 per cent of the costs, he noted, the federal government will increase its share from about 30 per cent to as high as 55 per cent. The proposition, Mailliard said, will help Marin and San Francisco to meet new state water quality standards and fight water pollution at the lowest possible cost.

OPEN EVENINGS AND SUNDAYS

By tomorrow the world will have changed . . .

Between today and tomorrow news which is unexpected and unforeseen will change YOU . . . your attitudes, your values, perhaps even your personal life. For all of us live on a turning world, on the very threshold - second by second - of the future.

We at the I-J can't know what the news will be but we DO know it will happen . . . and on a thousand fronts.

Which explains why we use the enormous "nervous system" of United Press International and the eyes and ears of its 6,000 reporters to keep us - and keep you - in sensitive touch with every country in the world.

Strange thing is that this vast network of words and wire is almost instantly connected to our newsroom in San Rafael. And even UPI's electronic magic which sends us photographs by tiny impulses over the wire.

The world will change but news of these "new" events will as inevitably reach us in time to reach you in every evening's I-J.

The point then, is that the strange and complex world of "what hasn't yet happened" will be reported to you when it does. The UPI and the I-J have their nerves ready . . . and plenty of paper for tomorrow.

Sierra Bank Vote Ends Two Trusts

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Shareholders of Sierra National Bank, Petaluma, voted here yesterday to end two of the bank's voting trusts at a meeting.

A suit against directors of the bank filed Monday by minority stockholders Dr. Alfred and Molly Auerbach and L. E. (Bud) Castner which sought a temporary injunction against the meeting was too late to stop the vote. The suit seeks damages of $5 million.

The vote was 37,811 shares to 350 shares in favor of terminating one of the trusts and 21,093 to 271 in favor of terminating the other.

The two voting trusts were originally set up to prevent the bank from being taken over by means of a manipulation of stock and would have precluded the purchase of 20,024 shares of stock by Clyde Charlton, a Sierra stockholder and head of Pacific Coast Holdings and Bell Savings and Loan Association, from five of the directors of the bank.

The result was described by Ray Gambonini, board chairman as an overwhelming endorsement by shareholders of a plan to keep Sierra functioning as an independent bank instead of being absorbed in a chain. It had been reported that both Central Valley National and United States National banks were interested in taking over Sierra.

"If this unfounded personal suit continues in spite of its rejection by the stockholders it will be strongly resisted by the bank and its directors," Gambonini said.

Marin City Official Chides Attitudes Since Shoot-Out

Marin County officialdom's attitude toward Marin City has turned to hostility since the Aug. 7 shoot-out at the Hall of Justice and this change now threatens the community's two-year federal planning grant, Marin City's community coordinator charged last night.

The coordinator, Jack Williams, made the charges in a 13-page report presented to the Marin City Council.

In addition to William's charges, council chairman Rev. Samuel Banks said he had been told that the county's planning director, Werner von Gundell was planning to appear before the Marin County Board of Supervisors Tuesday and ask that the 701 planning grant be canceled.

Marin City has a two-year $50,000 federal grant, including $25,000 of in-kind services from the county, to prepare plans for the development of the community. The grant expires June 4 of next year unless extended, on action requiring county support.

Williams said that a July 24 memo from the county planning department indicated that the department would approve a six-month extension.

As a result of the attitude change since the Aug. 7 shoot-out, Williams said, the county is now seeking to end the project.

Williams also said that he and other Marin City residents have been subject to undue harassment from the county since the shoot-out.

"After the shoot-out, a Marin City Council member recently entered the Civic Center and was requested to leave with the officer what was considered a dangerous weapon . . . his natural comb," Williams said.

"A member of the community registered a complaint that treatment of Marin City blacks at the Civic Center while conducting business has changed," he said. "Many of the questions raised by county staff, after the shoot-out, as to the ability of the council and its staff appear to be methods for the established leadership to avoid addressing fundamental issues and problems of housing, employment and dialogue.

"It appears the county staff is misinformed, or deliberately trying to split the community — my business relationship with county staff prior to the shoot-out was good."

Williams's report, which was read in part at the meeting, contained an Aug. 31 memo from von Gundell canceling Marin City's use of a county vehicle because ". . . of your refusal to comply with the requests to return the county vehicles to the motor pool, the unkempt condition of such vehicles when they are finally turned in, failure to report mileage of such vehicles . . . and excessive mileage which is substantially beyond budget allowances."

Williams termed the charges "a lie."

He also called on the county not to extradite Angela Davis to Marin County for trial, saying that such a move ". . . could have a damaging effect on the present tense relationship between Marin City and the County of Marin.

"We must direct our energies toward correcting this relationship.

"To extradite Angela would be to assassinate Marin City."

"Why are they down on us?" asked one member of the audience.

"Because the white folk was highly offended when a superior court judge got killed by 'those niggers!' " answered councilmember Peggy Bullock. "They are real uptight."

Williams said that a major problem now is that county planning department officials have refused to attend Marin City meetings to aid in the 701 project.

Williams said that staff member Thomas Cordill is supposed to attend council meetings but has been to only two meetings in the last year.

The council let Williams read about half of his attack on the county officials' attitudes, then zeroed in on the immediate problem: how to keep their federal program from being canceled.

Banks told the other members that Von Grundell was reportedly going to ask the program's cancellation on the basis that it was so far behind schedule.

"Why didn't he come down here and tell us that," said Mrs. Bullock.

The council called a special meeting for 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Manzanita Center and told Williams to be sure both von Grundell and Cordill were in attendance.

"We've got to find out what they are going to do," Banks said. The council also indicated they hoped for a large showing of community support at the meeting.

Reshaping Of Safety Group Asked

Marin County Safety commissioners, stymied by their frequently absent chairman, yesterday called for a reorganization and stricter operating procedures.

Sgt. Robert Bertrand of the sheriff's office, who was elected chairman last February, has missed more than half the meetings. Vice chairman Bette L. Riebeling reported that more than 80 accident cases have piled up for commission review, and the backlog keeps increasing.

"Where are the reports on these cases?" asked the other commissioners.

"They're in a briefcase in West Marin," replied Mrs. Riebeling. She said Bertrand, who patrols West Marin, has all the papers with him, and without his attendance, the commission cannot review the accident cases.

To make matters worse, the county counsel ruled that of seven members who attended the meeting at the Civic Center yesterday, only four could vote because the other three were "nominees" of regular members without power to vote.

The eight member commission lacked a quorum yesterday so it could not elect a new chairman.

Richard I. Uchida, personnel analyst, was asked by fellow members to get reorganization started.

Uchida said he would contact Bertrand to get the accident reports so that business can be conducted at the next meeting set for 9 a.m. Nov. 19 at Civic Center.

Tires, Rims Stolen

Fifty tires and rims valued at a total of $2,136 were stolen from a Mill Valley Refuse Co. building at 1625 Francisco Boulevard between 4 p.m. Wednesday and 4:30 a.m. yesterday, San Rafael said today.

Von Gundell Denies Marin City Charges

Marin County Planning Director Werner von Gundell, who will recommend a cutback in the Marin City planning program Tuesday, today denied a charge that the cutback has anything to do with the Aug. 7 shoot-out at the Hall of Justice.

Jack Williams, community coordinator of the Marin City planning program, declared that the county is retaliating against the black community because of the shoot-out.

Von Gundell denied that, saying his staff has been discussing a reorganization of the Marin City planning program since July.

Von Gundell said this is the problem he faces:

The Marin City planning program is partially financed by Title 701 of the Housing Act of 1954. Thus, it is commonly referred to as the Marin City 701 program.

The total planning program is $75,000 with $50,000 in federal funds and $25,000 in county in-kind contributions. The program runs from June 4, 1969 to June 4, 1971.

He cannot justify the use of $25,000 worth of in-kind (county staff time) contribution because there just is not that much work. Thomas E. Cordill, county planner, spends one-half his time on the Marin City Program, but this comes to only $8,000 or $9,000 per year. Cordill is also assigned to work on the Bolinas Lagoon master plan.

Can't the county contribute other staff time such as secretarial or planner's time to fill out $25,000 in-kind contribution?

"That would be just make-work type of thing," said Van Gundell. "Besides, we can't just put in time only. We must produce some concrete product according to the contract."

Therefore, Von Gundell will recommend to the Marin County Board of Supervisors Tuesday that the county in-kind contribution be cut to about $15,500.

Since the 701 program is based on 2-to-1 cost sharing (two federal and one county), the federal portion would be cut to $31,000. This would reduce the $75,000 Marin City planning program to a total of $46,500.

Since the bulk of the federal portion goes to paying Williams and a part-time secretary, Von Gundell will recommend that Williams and his staff be terminated. The rest of the program would be continued by an outside consultant, Larry Smith and Associates of New York, who will study community potential. The Marin City Council has already agreed on that consulting firm, said Von Gundell.

The end product of the planning program will be a master plan for Marin City.

Williams also complained that his use of a county car has been terminated.

That is true, sain Von Gundell. The car mileage allotted for the Marin City 701 program has been used up, he explained. "They have been using the county planning department's car mileage. I withdrew use of the county car because the costs were running too high."

Von Gundell said that on July 31 he sent a memorandum to Williams, asking that the county car be turned in and private cars be used at seven cents per mile. The car was returned on Aug. 21, and the county garage reported that it was in bad condition, said Von Gundell.

The trouble with the Marin City program is that there is dual authority, said Von Gundell. The planning director is responsible for overall technical and administration control, and the Marin City Council has day-to-day operation control. Assignments to Williams primarily comes from the Marin City Council, said Von Gundell. "The Marin City Council wants more authority vested in the community, and I agree. I am so recommending."

Ranch Hand Succumbs At Crash Scene

A 65-year-old Petaluma ranch employee died today when his car struck an embankment on Stony Point Road, north of Roblar Road, at 4:50 a.m.

Manuel Garcia Tome, 2743 Stony Point Road, was pronounced dead on arrival at Hillcrest Hospital.

The Sonoma County Coroner's office said Tome had reportedly felt ill this morning and that an autopsy would be performed to determine if he died from the accident injuries or of natural causes.

He had been employed as a milker at the Harry Milden Ranch on Stony Point Road.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at the Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma.

Tree Replacement Plan Due Discussion

A proposed ordinance establishing a policy for replacement of trees on city property which must be cut down will be discussed by the Fairfax City Council at an adjourned meeting at 8 p.m. tonight at the Fairfax Women's Club.

The council will also receive a report from the planning commission on site proposals for the proposed public safety building.

College And Water Bonds Are Opposed

The Irate Taxpayers of Marin voted last night to oppose two Marin Junior College District measures and the Marin Municipal Water District's measure on the Nov. 3 ballot.

Unhappy with land management by the water district, the group also voted to oppose the incumbent, Dr. Leo L. Stanley, in the race for a water district board seat, according to Winifred Frederick, spokesman for the taxpayers.

Opposition to the college measures came after District Supt. John A. Grasham said the college board could levy an additional $1 in the tax rate for building authorized by the state whether the measures pass or not, Mrs. Frederick said.

Although he said he doubted the board would levy the tax, Grasham could not promise future boards wouldn't even if the measures are passed, according to Mrs. Frederick.

The measures would replace a capital improvements tax with an operations tax and provide $16.9 million in bonds for construction.

The $11.5 million water district Measure H was opposed because of low rental rates for the Meadow Club and Big Trees Camp as well as pollution of Phoenix Lake, Mrs. Frederick said.

Dr. Stanely, who is running against engineer Roy Foreaker, was opposed for the same reasons, she said.

The group also accused the water district board of misleading the voters by failing to say that the Russian River project for which part of the bond money is designated is tied into the Eel River project strongly opposed by Lake County residents.

Clemson University is adopting a five-day weekly class schedule.

Three Arrested On Drug Charges By Ross Police

Ross police responding to a report of a strange car on Crest Road yesterday arrested an 18-year old youth on suspicion of possessing marijuana and hashish, possession of an open alcohol container in an automobile and contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

The other two occupants, both 17, were booked into juvenile hall following the arrests at 4:50 p.m., police said.

Booked into Marin County Jail was Barry William Rippon, 18, of 2065 Mill Road, Novato. He posted $2,500 bail and is to appear in Marin Municipal Court Tuesday.

Police said a large sack containing beer cans and cartons was found on the front seat. A plastic bag containing vegetable matter and a vial of hard green substance resembling hashish were found in the open glove compartment, police said.

'Walk Against Hunger' Account Now $16,700

Marin's "Walk Against Hunger" today had $16,700 in the bank, a little over one month since 1,000 participants trudged 20 miles to earn pledged donations.

D. R. Swing, manager of Crocker Citizens Bank in San Anselmo said today he has seen three more donations in the morning mail, not yet added to the account. No cutoff date for the fund-raising has yet been set, he said.

March organizers estimated that $20,000 to $30,000 had been pledged.

When the fund collection phase ends, the money is to be divided among the Marin Economic Opportunity Council, the American Freedom From Hunger Foundation and the South Korean campaign of Meals for Millions, to provide food for needy youngsters in Marin, the U.S. and in Korea, Swing said.

Bolinas Man Gets Reduced Charge

Bruce D. Gomm, 27, of Bolinas pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a reduced charge of petty theft stemming from an incident at a Bolinas restaurant early in the morning of Oct. 8.

Sheriff's deputies who answered a call to Tarantino's Restaurant had found Gomm stuck halfway through a window with the owner of the restaurant holding him by one leg.

Gomm is to be sentenced Nov. 20.

RESOLUTION NO. 70-338

RESOLUTION OF INTENTION OF THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF THE COUNTY OF MARIN, STATE OF CALIFORNIA, TO LEASE REAL PROPERTY OF THE COUNTY OF MARIN IN THE VICINITY OF THE JUNCTION OF MEADOWSWEET DRIVE AND SANFORD STREET, SUBJECT TO TERMS AND CONDITIONS HEREIN SET FORTH, AND FIXING THE TIME, PLACE AND DATE OF PUBLIC MEETING FOR CONSIDERING BIDS AND RESCINDING RESOLUTION NO. 70-318.

WHEREAS, the County of Marin, State of California, will be on the date of the execution of the Site Lease herein referred to, the owner in fee of approximately 2.69 acres of real property (the "Site") situated at the junction of Meadowsweet Drive and Sanford Street in the Town of Corte Madera, State of California; and

WHEREAS, this Board of Supervisors has approved plans and specifications for construction of certain improvements (the "Facilities") on the Site and has found and determined that it is in the best interests of the County to lease the Site for the purpose of permitting the lessee to cause the Facilities to be constructed thereon for the benefit of the County of Marin and the Town of Corte Madera, State of California;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin, as follows:

1. This Board of Supervisors hereby declares its intention to lease the Site subject to the following terms and conditions:

(a) The minimum rental shall be $210,000 payable upon execution of the Site Lease. A copy of a proposed form of Site Lease, entitled "Proposed Site Lease" (the "Site Lease") is on file in the office of the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors and sets forth substantially the terms on which the County will lease the real property and may be examined by any interested person.

(b) The successful bidder shall be required to cause the construction on the Site of the Facilities as shown in said plans and specifications and as described as the Facilities in that certain lease entitled "Proposed Project Lease" (the "Project Lease"). A copy of a proposed form of the Project Lease is also on file in the office of the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors and sets forth substantially the terms under which the County will sublease the Site and the Facilities from the successful bidder.

(c) The name of the successful bidder will be substituted for the "Authority" in both leases and the successful bidder must assume all of the obligations of the "Authority" as defined in the leases, except that the successful bidder must deposit in cash with a bank designated by the County as escrow holder all funds which the leases now require the Authority to provide under the Project Lease, and no Authority bonds will be issued for the Project. Copies of the plans and specifications for the Facilities and the construction bids received thereon are on file in the office of the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors and may be examined by any interested person.

(d) The successful bidder shall be required to lease back to the County the Site and the Facilities for the term specified in the Project Lease and for the rental payments to be calculated as nearly as possible sufficient to amortize certain bonds proposed to be issued by the Marin County-Corte Madera Public Library Authority. Bids on said bonds are scheduled to be received by said Authority at the Chambers of the Board of Supervisors at 10:00 A.M. (P.S.T.) on October 13, 1970. The Resolution of said Authority authorizing the issuance of said bonds is also on file in the office of the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors.

(e) Sealed bids for the Site Lease will be received by the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors in the Chambers of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin, Civic Center Administration Building, San Rafael, California 94903, up to the hour of 2:00 P.M. on November 3, 1970. The bids shall be opened by the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors at the regular public meeting of the Board of Supervisors on November 3, 1970, and at that time and place oral bids will be received in accordance with Section 25531 of the Government Code of the State of California.

(f) Except for any bid submitted by a public agency or municipal corporation, each bid must be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check payable to the order of the County of Marin, or by a bid bond in favor of the County of Marin executed by the bidder as principal and by a satisfactory corporate surety authorized to do business in the State of California, in the penalty amount of $75,000 as a guarantee that the successful bidder will execute the Site Lease and the Project Lease. Subject only to the conditions authorized in the leases, said deposit and the proceeds thereof will be forfeited to the County if the successful bidder fails or refuses to execute the leases on or before November 13, 1970, after notification of award and submission for signature; otherwise, the deposit accompanying the successful bid will be returned upon execution of the leases. The deposits accompanying rejected bids will be returned upon execution of the leases by the successful bidder or upon expiration of the time allowed for award, whichever is earlier.

(g) The Board of Supervisors reserves the absolute right (1) to reject for good cause, in the Board's discretion, any of the bids submitted, (2) to award to the bidder submitting the bid determined in the Board's discretion to be the lowest bid submitted by a responsible bidder, or (3) to reject all bids submitted. Each bidder agrees by submitting a bid to provide the Board of Supervisors with additional evidence of its ability to perform under the terms of the leases, if so requested. The Board of Supervisors will award the Site Lease or reject all bids submitted not later than November 13, 1970.

2. Notice of the adoption of this resolution and of the time and place for the receipt of sealed bids and of holding said meeting shall be given by publication of this resolution in a newspaper of general circulation in the County of Marin pursuant to Section 6066 of the Government Code of the State of California and by posting this resolution not less than 15 days before November 3, 1970, in three public places in the County.

3. No commission shall be paid by the County of Marin to any real estate broker or any other person, and cost of the publication of this resolution shall be paid by the successful bidder.

4. Resolution No. 70-318 entitled "Resolution of Intention of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin, State of California, to Lease Real Property of the County of Marin in the Vicinity of the Junction of Meadowsweet Drive and Sanford Street, Subject to Terms and Conditions Herein Set Forth, and Fixing the Time, Place and Date of Public Meeting for Considering Bids" heretofore adopted by this Board of Supervisors on September 22, 1970, is hereby rescinded.

Soviets Mum On U.S. Plea For Generals

MOSCOW (UPI)—The U.S. embassy asked the Soviets a second time today to release two army generals and an army major held incommunicado since their plane strayed across the border Thursday from Turkey in bad weather. There was no response.

An embassy spokesman said the embassy had asked the Soviets to release the officers and their plane as soon as the Soviets confirmed the plane had landed in Armenia.

"A new approach has been made today to the Soviet authorities requesting them to expedite the departure of the passengers and the plane since it was clear it was an accidental landing," the embassy said.

The embassy also made a formal request today to be allowed "consular access" to the Americans, meaning permission to send an embassy official to interview them. The consular convention states that such permission must be granted in two to four days.

A spokesman for the Turkish embassy said the ambassador also visited the Soviet Foreign Ministry and presented a request for consular access to a Turkish colonel with the Americans aboard the light plane.

Consular access is the diplomatic term for visits to persons held in custody by another country. The generals and a Turkish colonel were aboard the plane piloted by a U.S. Air Force major.

Despite the incident, diplomatic circles in Moscow said they believed no major international incident would arise over the matter, despite the current strain in U. S. -Soviet relations and Soviet demands that Turkey return two men who hijacked a Soviet airliner.

The Beechcraft plane carrying Maj. Gen. Edward C. D. Sherrer, 57, of Shawneetown, Ill., and Brig. Gen. Claude Monroe McQuarrie Jr., 45, of Ft. Benning, Ga., was reported missing Wednesday.

The Russians announced Thursday the craft "violated Soviet airspace" and landed in Armenia, less than 12 miles inside Soviet territory.

The news agency Tass said the two generals, the plane's pilot, U.S. Maj. James P. Russell, and a Turkish liaison officer, Col. Civat Danli, all were "in good health."

Shoot-To-Kill Orders: Chile In Curfew

SANTIAGO (UPI) — Troops with shoot-to-kill orders today enforced martial law imposed in a nationwide effort to find gunmen who wounded Chile's army commander in an apparent attempt to keep Marxist Salvador Allende from becoming president Saturday.

Gen. Rene Schneider was shot three times Thursday morning on his way to his office. The Military Hospital said he underwent an extremely delicate 1-1-2 hour operation Thursday night and was in extremely critical condition today.

"His general condition at this time is extremely serious," the medical bulletin said.

Police sources said there had been widespread arrests but they declined to confirm local press reports a former police detective had been arrested and charged with the shooting.

The city appeared near normal today with end of the 1:30 a.m. to 6 a.m. curfew but officials of the leftist workers unions called for a two-hour protest strike this afternoon.

"The government will not cease in its obligation to find and punish those responsible for this criminal attack," said President Eduardo Frei in a television and radio address Thursday night, announcing imposition of martial law.

"The government has taken all the means necessary to assure that the electoral process ends normally," Frei said. The modified form of martial law Frei invoked is a step short of a state of siege, which requires congressional ratification.

Troops patroled cities and towns from the Atacama desert on the north to the mountains on the south with authority to make summary arrests, search homes without warrants, censor information media and to shoot to kill any person who does not approach to be identified when challenged.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

The Stereotype Skyjacker Held To Be A Sometimes Mama's Boy

Van Dellen

Dr. David Hubbard, Dallas psychiatrist who interviewed 20 skyjackers in federal prisons, concluded that the emotionally disturbed men have a desire to escape reality by creating fantasy in the air. Waving a gun and demanding to be taken to Havana gives them a sense of bigness. They leave behind them a lifelong littleness.

Many of these men are not motivated by political feelings but "to stand up like a man" and "to fly like a bird." Obvious exceptions include the recent episodes involving the Arabs. According to Medical World News, Dr. Hubbard found that the stereotype skyjacker was a mamas' boy living a marginal existence, longtime unemployed, AWOL or on the lam. The majority commandeered planes following acute personal failures or periods of deep dperession. They want to be punished and return home to surrender.

PSYCHIATRISTS FIND symbolism in many of our activities. Most of these men had domineering, violent, alcoholic fathers and fanatically religious mothers. The hijackers usually sided with the mother and when they directed the pilots to fly to a hostile country they turned their backs on their "Fatherland,"

Dr. Hubbard also found the hijackers passive and sexually confused. In all probability their first sexually aggressive acts took place when they poked guns at airline stewardesses. None molested a hostess; they stood in awe of a determined woman because she is symbolic of their mothers On several occasions, stewardesses bluffed them out of hijacking.

MANY SKYJACKERS wanted to be pilots, and 12 of the 20 interviewed took flying lessons or were active parachutists. Piolots were also held in awe and no one could be greater than astronauts. The publicity associated with space flight programs and the stories of other hijacking of planes to Cuba stimulated their fantasies of power in the sky. They also expect punishment, but Dr. Hubbard believes that a death penalty or 20 years in jail will excite them all the more and increase rather than decrease, skyjacking. As might be expected, he recommends psychiatric care, which obviously must be done after the crime.

SYMPTOMS OF ANEMIA

. T. writes: What are the symptoms of pernicious anemia?

REPLY

The commonest symptoms are weakness, sore tongue, numbness, and tingling of the extremities. Loss of appetite and diarrhea also may develop. In time, pallor and flabbiness ensue. Lack of coordination and aralysis of the lower extremities may take place unless injections of vitamin B12 or liver are given.

NOT DISSOLVED

Mrs. B. writes: When a small lump is found in a woman's breast, is it removed surgically or can it be dissolved?

REPLY

Via surgery. Any chemical strong enough to dissolve the lump would also injure the noral breast tissue. With surgery, it also is possible to study the tumor in order to decide if it is benign or cancerous.

BUNIONS

Mrs. S. S. writes: What can be done about bunions on the inside of feet (around the big

If pads do not help, the bunions should be removed surgically.

Sewer Panel Settles Fuss Over Study

The Southern Marin Sanitary District Advisory Committee last night settled several disputes over formation of a special assessment district to finance a $190,000 study of sewage problems throughout most of Southern Marin.

William Hargreaves, advisory committee chairman, said the results will be presented to the Marin Municipal Water District directors at a hearing Nov. 12.

Last month, the water district board nearly shelved the whole assessment district idea when splits developed in the advisory committee.

BOUNDARY ARGUMENT

At the water board's Sept. 23 hearing, advisory committee members argued over boundaries for the proposed assessment district, who should administer the study and how much it should cost, and whether the water district should be the agency to provide sewage treatment for all of Southern Marin.

Last night, the advisory panel agreed that the water board should abandon its Sept. 23 resolution setting boundaries for the proposed assessment district. Instead, the water district should exclude Tiburon Sanitary District and the City of Belvedere, should set a $190,000 limit on the study's cost, and should refer to the work outlines hammered out by the committee, Hargreaves said.

COMMITTEE ASKED

The advisory panel will ask the water board to appoint a new committee to select an administrator for the survey, Hargreaves explained. The committee would consist of the water district's general manager William R. Seeger, one water district director, and a member of the advisory committee.

Hargreaves' panel also recommended that outside consultants be used as much as possible in the survey.

Hargreaves said that if the assessment district is formed, his committee will meet quarterly to review survey progress.

Last night's agreements left one question unresolved, Hargreaves pointed out. That is the Richardson Bay Sanitary District's stand that a new district should be formed to handle area-wide sewage, rather than have the water district go into the sewage treatment business. The decision on this may depend on results of the survey, he said.

The assessment district is planned to finance the study by a one-year levy of approximately 12 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Nominees Picked For Defunct Panel

Three Marinites, thanks to an agenda error, were nominated to serve on a defunct commission Wednesday night by the Marin County Council of Mayors and Councilmen.

Dean N. Meyer of Mill Valley, A. W. Gatov of Kentfield and Denis T. Rice, Tiburon mayor, were nominated to serve on the Bay Area Transportation Study Commission, which went out of existence almost two years ago.

Novato City Mgr. Charles A. Brown, asked about the nominations today, said that the three were supposed to have been nominated for the new Metropolitan Transportation Commission, but that the agenda of the meeting in Novato had incorrectly listed the defunct commission. Brown said that he felt the intention was clear when the vote was taken Wednesday, however.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors will select one of the three to be the county's representative on the 19-member commission, created under a new law effective Nov. 23.

The commission will have the power to pass on all applications for federal transportation funds, and is to draw up a Bay Area transportation plan by June 30, 1973.

Robbery Suspect Arrested During Hunt For Burglar

Corte Madera police, searching yesterday for two men involved in the armed robbery of a service station, came up with a burglary suspect instead.

Officers said today they stopped Michael Gordon Mosier, 18, of 152 Prince Royal Passage, Corte Madera, on Seminole Avenue because he was acting suspicious and answered the description of one of the armed robbers of Merrit's Chevron Station.

Police said in the back of Mosier's vehicle was a shoe box with 25 stereo tapes believed stolen Oct. 10 from an auto owned by Randel Thompson of 21 Seminole Drive, Corte Madera.

Mosier was held in the county jail in lieu of $6,250 bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Officers said Mosier was cleared of any connection with the merritt service station robbery.

Doris Day's Son Testifies On Manson

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Producer Terry Melcher testified today he auditioned Charles Manson but was unimpressed with the hippie cult leader either as a singer or guitar player.

The bearded Melcher, 28-year-old son of actress Doris Day, said he made no move to sign Manson to a recording contract but tried to line him up with another recording executive.

Melcher was called to the witness stand by the prosecution in the Tate-LaBianca murder trial of Manson and three female codefendants to explain his association with the chief defendant. Melcher said he went to the Spahn Ranch where the so-called Manson Family was living. He said Manson led him down a trail to a creek bed and there sang and played his guitar against a background of a score of young girls.

"Charley sat on a rock and sang about 10 or 15 songs," Melcher said. "The others were sitting on the ground."

Prosecutor Vincent Bugliosi asked the witness, "were you impressed with Mr. Manson's performance?"

"I wasn't too impressed by the songs. I was impressed by the whole scene."

Under further questioning Melcher said, "I was impressed by Charley's strength and his obvious leadership of these people. I was impressed by their being able to survive out there in the country camping out."

"How did you feel about Manson as a singer?"

"Average. I wasn't impressed on the level to want to pursue this although I knew someone who might."

In an opening statement Deputy District Attorney Vincent Bugliosi said the Benedict Canyon home where actress Sharon Tate was slain on the night of Aug. 8, 1969 was a "hate house" for Manson because Melcher rejected him.

Melcher was the previous tenant of the house owned by Rudolph Altobelli.

Paradise Bowling Alley Destroyed

PARADISE (UPI)—A predawn explosion and fire destroyed a bowling alley today. Authorities said the blast might have been deliberately set next to a wall.

The Pine Bowl on Clark Road was closed at the time of the blast, and there were no injuries.

Fire department investigators estimated damage at $100,000. They said the blast apparently occurred next to a wall.

TV REVIEW

Old Radio Sportscasts Gave Thrills

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Anyone who grew up being mesmerized by the fabulous word magicians in the heyday of radio sportscasting is probably hooked forever on the fames men play.

The process got into the blood—an early catechism, a permanent litany. Twenty-five years later, you sit on the beach of a little Mexican village, a million miles from your childhood, and when the newsboy comes by with the English-language Mexico City paper, you grab it and look first to see how the Dodgers did.

The sportscasters, to me, are less important and less colorful now because there is television, and the ability to see the picture oneself eliminates the need for much of the imagery of the word magicians. Only on radio, with remarkable sportscasters like baseball's Vin Scully and basketball's Chick Hearn, does the craft still truly thrive, a reminder of the glory years and gifted gabbers.

Growing up, one expected—and really wanted—the embroidery of a Bill Stern, the drama of a Ted Husing, the matchlessly intelligent color of a Red Barber, for they were the only picture we had unless you actually attended the game.

Radio sportscasting was thrilling then because of the individual effort required from each listener as well as from the announcer. It was rather like existentialist reporting. Nothing really existed in a precise way except as imagined by the listener from an embroidered account by the announcer. It was a sort of forerunner of the "new journalism."

Today, things are probably more accurate, what with television, instant replay, and science giving the liberal arts a bad time generally. And of the major sportscasters working regularly on the networks, I don't think there's much doubt that NBC-TV's Curt Gowdy is the best. He knows when not to talk on television, but when he speaks he usually has something to say, and he is authoritative and tough and nobody's patsy. There are times he reminds you of radio's oldtime sports dramatists.

I wonder what ever happened o Carmen Falcone and Tony Minisi.

Walker Jury Is Unable To Agree

A jury in Marin Superior Court failed to agree yesterday after 15 hours of deliberation whether former San Quentin inmate Tommy Lee Walker Jr., 25, was guilty of two counts of battery on prison guards.

The first trial involving a San Quentin matter to be held in the Hall of Justice since the Aug. 7 shootout ended with the jury voting 11 to 1 for conviction on both counts.

Since a unanimous decision is required in criminal cases, Judge E. Warren McGuire declared a mistrial and ordered the case placed on Monday's calendar for setting a new trial date.

Walker, released from San Quentin last month, is free on $10,000 bail posted by the Soledad Brothers Defense Fund.

During the trial, which was held under heavy security, a group of young persons wearing Soledad Brothers badges followed the proceedings.

At the beginning of the trial, which started Oct. 8, the morning after a nearby courtroom had been bombed, Walker's attorney, Robert Birkie of San Rafael, said he planned to call Soledad Brother George Jackson as a witness.

Judge McGuire, however, refused to allow Jackson to be brought to court, saying that he seemed to have little connection with the case and was not even at San Quentin on Aug. 15, 1969, the day, Walker allegedly hit the guards.

Jackson is charged along with two other men with the murder of a Soledad Prison guard and is the brother of the youth who participated and died in the August shootout by bringing guns into a courtroom.

During the Walker trial jury deliberations, which were spread out over three days, the first foreman elected, John Geniles of San Rafael, resigned saying he hoped that would break the deadlock. The second foreman, Gordon Parr, also of San Rafael, was no more successful, however.

The lone holdout for acquittal, Mrs. Lorraine Simonds of Novato, was thanked yesterday by Walker. She refused to discuss the reasons for her vote, saying it might prejudice a second trial.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Jerry R. Herman, who prosecuted the case, said the new trial will probably be held in January or February.

Income Down, Spending Up, State Reports

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State general fund income fell 3.2 per cent and spending rose 12.3 per cent during the first three months of fiscal 1970-71 in comparison with the first quarter a year ago.

Controller Houston I. Flournoy reported Thursday that July-September revenues totaled $711.85 million, or $23.41 million lower than the same three-month period in fiscal 1969-70. Spending was $120.81 million higher than last year for a total of $1.1 billion.

Flournoy said the revenue drop was mainly caused by a change in scheduling of allocations from the pooled money investment income expense account. Another factor in the decrease, he said, was a decline in personal income tax revenue because more Californians paid their state tax before the April 15 deadline.

The controller said business inventory property tax relief and an increase in health care benefits were "the most significant contributors" to the growth in expenditures this year.

Angela Won't Accept Marin Extradition

I-J Special Report

NEW YORK — Angela Y. Davis yesterday moved to fight extradition to Marin County to face kidnap and murder charges.

"I refuse to consent to the State of California," Miss Davis said when asked in a brief courtroom appearance if she would consent to a warrant issued in Marin ordering her extradition.

Judge Thomas Dickens of New York State Supreme Court set a hearing on her move to fight the order for Nov. 5.

Marin authorities allege that Miss Davis bought the guns used in an ill-fated escape attempt by three San Quentin Prison inmates Aug. 7.

A shot-out at the Marin Hall of Justice left Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Superior Court, two of the inmates and an accomplice, dead.

Under California law a person who purchases guns used in a capital crime is guilty of the crime.

City Relents On Strike Demotions

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The City Council, in a peace gesture, has rehired 18 probationary firemen dismissed during the two-week strike by fire fighters seeking higher pay.

The council acted Thursday night on the recommendation of Fire Chief Winston O. Wilson with the approval of City Manager R.L. Rathfon.

In other action, the council rescinded the demotions of 22 probationary captains and engineers as well as reduced the one-step pay cut for 343 permanent firemen from one year to six months.

The walkout began Oct. 7 and ended Wednesday after Superior Court Judge William M. Gallagher ordered the firemen to return to their jobs. He said the walkout left the city in a dangerous situation without adequate fire protection.

Film Picked To Build Yerba Buena Center

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— San Francisco's Redevelopment Agency named a joint venture firm Thursday to finance and build a $200 million center for sports, conventions and business south of Market street.

Developer picked for Yerba Buena Center was Schesinger-Lyman Jee of Berkeley and financier Alfred E. Schesinger of San Francisco.

The complex is to include an underground exhibition hall, a 14,000-seat sports arena, a 2,200-seat theater, a hotel, parking garages, an airline terminal, an Italian cultural and trade center and an extension to Bay Area Rapid Transit District tracks.

Land in the area will not be sold out to the developers but will be leased for 99 years. When the center is completed that should bring the city $500,000 a year, he predicted.

Involved are 87 acres and Hermann predicted construction would start next fall on the Fourth, Market and Folsom streets.

The developers have put together a partnership including the Del Monte Corp. New York's Pressrich bond house, Pacific National Equity Company, Diversified Builders and Meyers Brothers Parking, a division of Radio Corporation of America.

15,000 Jews Dance In Moscow

MOSCOW (UPI) — More than 15,000 Jews sang and danced Thursday night in front of the Central Synagogue in the largest spontaneous demonstration of its kind in Moscow in recent years.

The occasion was the religious holiday Sinchat Torah, celebrating the giving of the Ten Commandments to Moses and the completion of one year's reading of the Jewish Torah or scriptures.

The predominantly young crowd ignored heavy rains to celebrate, blocking Arkhipova Street in the heart of Moscow.

There were no attempts to curb the merrymaking and no police appeared.

Inside the temple, an overflow congregation of more than 2,000 persons gathered at sundown to sing "Havah Neranenu" (Let us rejoice!).

Rita Abrams To Sing At Tiburon Church

Rita Abrams, who gained fame for her recent song about Mill Valley, is scheduled to perform Sunday at 5 p.m. at the Community Congregational Church of Tiburon.

Joining the former Mill Valley school teacher in the concert at the church, 145 Rock Hill Drive, will be Lynn Elder, a friend.

Getting The Most Value Of Key Concern To Buyer

Getting the most value for your money seems to be a growing concern of practically everyone these days.

Perhaps nowhere is this more evident than in home furnishings where homemakers are insisting on quality and long life more than they are on fancies of the moment.

"Considering that most home furnishings are big-ticket items, it's no wonder that homemakers operating under tight budgets want to make sure that they're getting their money's worth," notes Sally Ames, interior design consultant to the Spring Air Mattress Company, Chicago.

BUT HOW can you be sure you're getting value in home furnishings? Here's what Miss Ames recommends, much of which applies to home furnishings in general as well as to bedding:

1. Buy from a reputable local retailer. Community merchants depend on your business. They can't stay in business long if they sell you shoddy merchandise.

2. Bone up on what you intend to buy. A little time spent reading consumer's guides, homemaking magazines, and books on home purchases will make you more of an expert on everything from mattresses to refrigerators.

3. BE ALERT for genuine sales, but don't be misled by deceptive pricing. At various times during the year, retailers will stage sales of merchandise made by nationally-known manufacturers. For the most part, these represent honest values.

"But watch out for artificially high prices that are marked down to make you think you're getting a bargain," Miss Ames said. "One of your best protections is a suggested list price carried in advertising."

4. Pay more to get more. A low price alone is no indicator of value. In home furnishings, it's almost always true that a higher price goes along with better materials and extra features that add up to years of longer use.

ASK QUESTIONS and look for supporting evidence. Manufacturers with value to offer will usually call attention to their features on hang tags and descriptive literature. They will also see that the retail salesman is acquainted with the features.

7. Think ahead and buy furnishings that won't become obsolete. You're safer with styles that have stood the test of time than with the latest "in" look.

8. Check the guarantee. A good guarantee will state specifically what's covered and how it will be honored. A guarantee is even more valuable if it carries the name of a nationally-known firm.

"Careful, intelligent shopping will turn up many good values in home furnishings," Miss Ames said.

Care Necessary For Furnishings

Proper care is a necessity for keeping furniture looking its best — even after years of wear — and for maintaining its life and true function.

And who knows better how to care for furniture than the man that makes it!

Here are some hin'ts for caring for home furnishings gathered from furniture manufac'urers exhibiting in the American Furniture Mart:

KEEP a file of hang-tags and labels which tell details of fiber content and care of upholstered furnishings. Usually manufacturers test the fabrics and include the result of testing on these tags. You can easily keep such a file in a small card box or as part of your recipe file.

To keep your upholstered furniture clean and looking its best, vacuum it weekly. Never brush any fabric with a stiff wire or fiber brush for that will only destroy the fibers.

DIRECT sunlight can fade fabrics, so avoid lengthy exposure to the sun.

Use only the polishes recommended for furniture. A self-polishing floor wax, used on furniture, might soften the finish.

Prompt action is important when treating stains on fabrics. Pre-test each color for bleeding and shrinkage by first testing your cleaning method on a hidden area of the fabric. Use only warm water and never soak a fabric when cleaning it.

To evenly distribute wear, turn and rotate loose cushions on sofas and chairs weekly.

Don't assume a cushion or pillow cover is washable simply because it boasts a zipper. If you have lost the manufacturer's tag, don't take any chances by washing a removable cover. Send it to the dry-cleaners to be sure.

Use cotton-tipped swabs dipped lightly in baby oil to clean tiny crevices in hand-carved wood furniture.

Gas Ranges Flexible

One big advantage of a new gas range is the flexibility it affords today's homemaker. The models equipped with modern features provide a world of convenience in virtually every cooking operation.

On top of the range, for example, burners are adjustable all the way from the lowest "warn" setting to an efficient "high" flame for swift boiling of water, and there is an infinite number of settings that may be obtained in between. The better ranges have thermostatic control on one of the burners. This automatically prevents burn-overs, scorching and spill-overs.

All-in-one oven meals can be programmed to cook for a preselected time interval. When this time elapses, the temperature automatically lowers to a "hold" or "keep warm" setting. Thus, the homemaker may go shopping, visiting or be at work, confident the meal will be ready when she returns.

Many of the new gas ranges boast built-in griddles that bring back the fun of preparing pancakes, omelets and French toast. The griddle is handy for cooking a batch of hamburgers for hungry teen-agers. Some ranges enable you to remove the griddle and replace it with a grid, provinging a handy fifth burner.

There is another side to the range flexibility story, particularly for homes with problem kitchens. Rather than being limited to either a free-standing or standard built-in model, today's homemakers may select different sizes, burner patterns, designs, features and colors.

For example, there now are slide-in models that fit between cabinets, high console models that appear to hang on the wall or mount over a cabinet for eye level and counter-height cooking. Compact units are available to fit in small spaces. Large families will appreciate the over-size and double-oven assemblies or even the under-the-counter oven built-ins.

The Bold Bathroom Gaining Popularity

Create the bold bathroom!

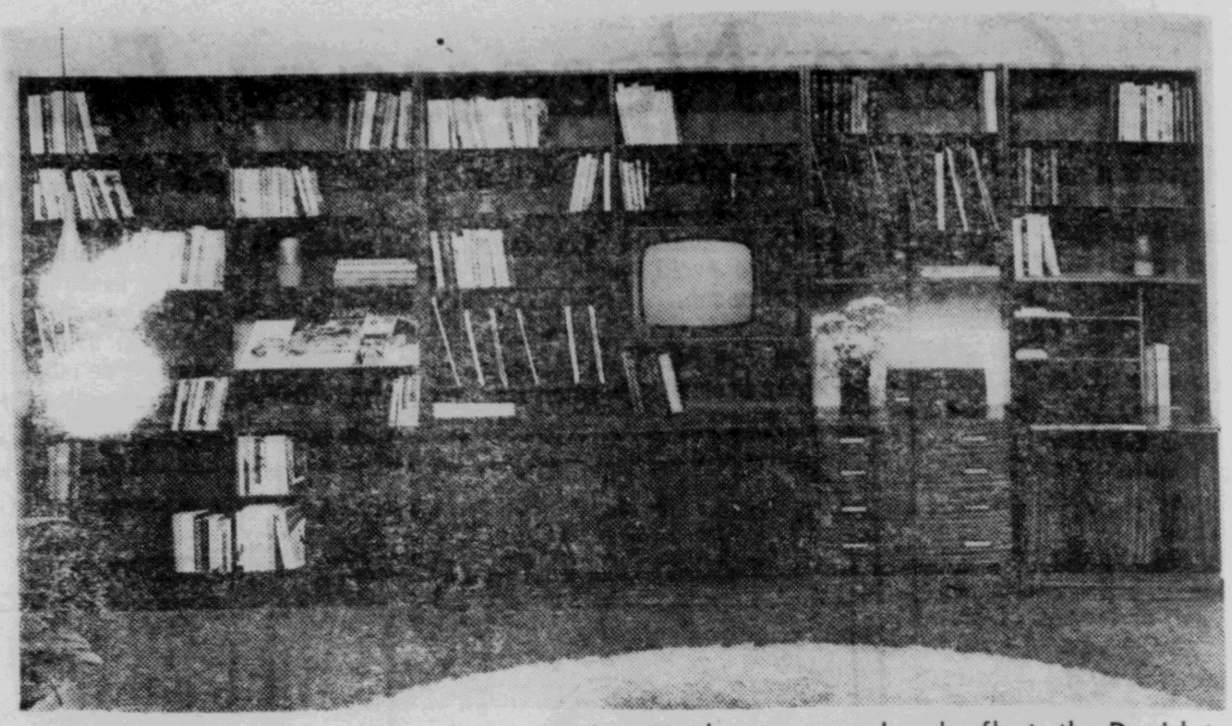
"Homeowners are finding that the bold bathroom is also the beautiful and practical bathroom," reports Robert Huff, home improvement director for Marlite Paneling.

He adds that the use of modern colors and new decorating techniques can be incorporated into a wide range of bathroom plans. One of the most popular is the master bath that utilizes a divider wall to create additional privacy.

"When people take this step, they then are ready to add other features, such as a sunken tub and dressing area. It's much the same as the family shopping for a new car. If they decide to move from a four-door sedan to a sportier model, they soon add air conditioning, a more comfortable interior, and possibly contrasting stripes," Huff points out.

IN BOTH cases, the house and the car, the quality approach will help ensure an excellent resale value.

"Marlite panels designed especially for decorators, such as textured paneling and decorative murals, now are worked into new and remodeled bathroom layouts by homeowners to fit their own needs and preferences" Huff adds.



A WALL UNIT system, freestanding and adaptable to a wide variation of cabinets and bookcases, demonstrates strikingly the good design that makes Danish furniture so appealing, according to Scandinavian Designs of San Rafael. It is available in either teak or rosewood and reflects the Danish tradition for creative design by designers who know their materials and who cooperate closely with the great Scandinavian craftsmen to produce furniture that is both functional and beautiful.

Give Dull Doors A Lift

What do you do about "crummy flush doors" asks an aesthetic housewife.

"The doors have absolutely no personality. They were painted twice and the paint soaks into the wood. They never have the finished look of paneled doors."

Some decorators upholster doors, using leather, imitation leather or handsome fabric.

There are patterned or solid papers, vinyls and other coverings that can be used. The pattern should be determined by the decorating schemes used in the house. Doors in the same area should be kept uniform.

Playroom For Growth

There are two sure-fire ways to keep active, growing youngsters from tearing up the house.

Either insist that they let off steam outdoors, or else give them a room of their own that's specially designed to take hard treatment.

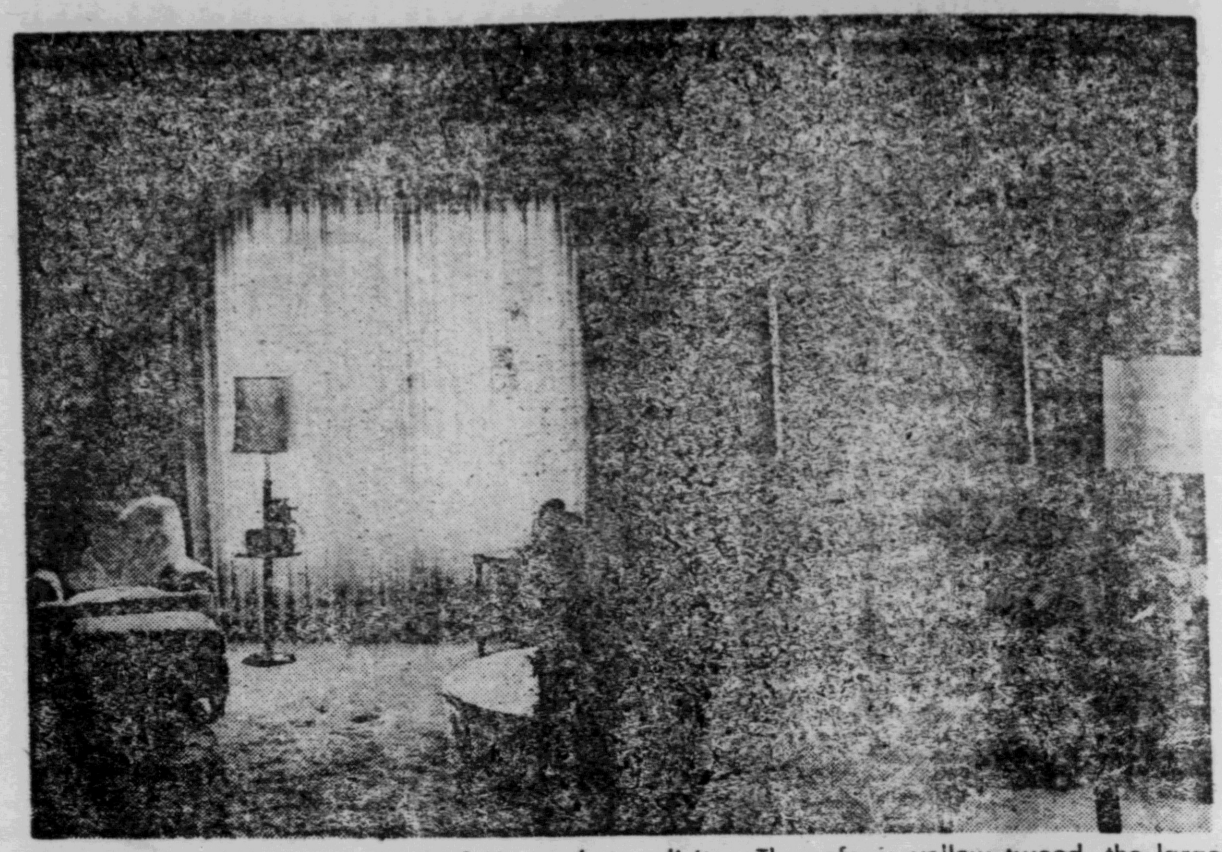
Since the first alternative involves the uncertainties of weather, it's a wise idea to invest in a separate playroom. Besides saving wear and tear on the rest of the house, a playroom gives youngsters a place in which they can do the things they want in their own way.

EVENTUALLY, kids will grow to appreciate such a room for the freedom it offers, and will take increasing pride and responsibility in seeing that it's kept in good order. Thus, the room becomes an important step in their growth process.

Actually, the term "playroom" is misleading.

Children need more than just a place to spread out their toys. A well-designed room for children should also serve as a parlor where friends may be entertained; a study where young minds can grow; a museum for treasured possessions; and an "activities center" where each child can develop his latent talents and creative interests apart from the distractions of the adult world.

THE LOCATION of the room isn't important. It may be combined with the child's sleeping quarters, or, if space is limited, it can be in the basement or attic.



THE LIVING ROOM at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Butler in Tiburon is furnished by John deVries of John deVries Interiors of Kentfield with warmth and comfortable simplicity. The sofa is yellow tweed, the large chair bright yellow and white print. The draperies are natural linen, wall and carpet a soft sage green.

What is important is the decor and furnishing of the room. The decorative theme should reflect the interests of the child himself, and the furnishings should be carefully chosen for practicality as well as good looks.

Don't try to second-guess the youngsters on design. Have them take an active part in planning the room and they're almost certain to be pleased with the final result.

PERHAPS THERE'S an active Cub Scout in the family. If so, an interesting scouting theme can be achieved by using heavy canvas to create a "tent canopy" over a set of bunk beds. Or if the youngster is a sports enthusiast, try accentuating one wall with large color photographs of professional athletes in action.

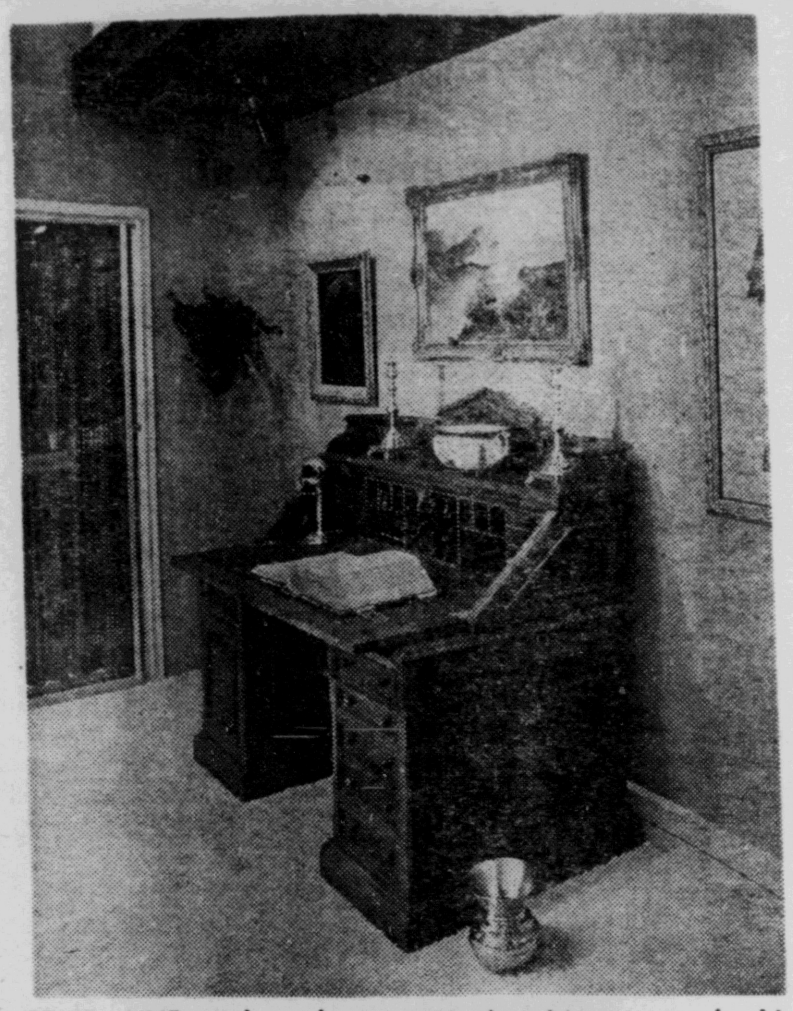
Mirror For Illusion

Small rooms in a home can be easily and dramatically expanded through strategic use of mirrors, a noted Southern California decorator has suggested.

Mirroring, carefully placed, can add length and width to any room says Carole Eichen, Fullerton interior designer who specializes in decorating subdivision model homes. It eliminates the closed in feeling and lightens the room considerably, she notes.



SOLID LINE and substantial cabinetry mark this 19th-Century-styled knee-hole desk, one of the items in the collection of Maurine Bolen Interiors in the Essex Center, 412 Red Hill Avenue, San Anselmo. The unusual desk has concealed compartments, inlay work and fine details.

Shape Kitchen To Fit Need

According to Hotpoint's Kitchen Planning Service, the homemaker can select from four basic kitchen floor plans — U-Shaped, L-Shaped, Corridor, and One-Wall.

There are variations of each of these plans caused by door and window locations, but nevertheless, each basic shape will retain its essential advantages and disadvantages.

Experts rate these basic designs as follows:

The U-Shaped kitchen continues to be a floor-plan leader. It adapts easily to efficient work patterns and, properly designed, this shape affords ample counter and storage space.

TO BE effective, however, a U-Shape requires maximum space. If squeezed into an 8x8 foot area, the corners waste space and are overly expensive. The U-Shape is often used in connection with a family room, with one arm of the 'U' as a room dividing peninsula.

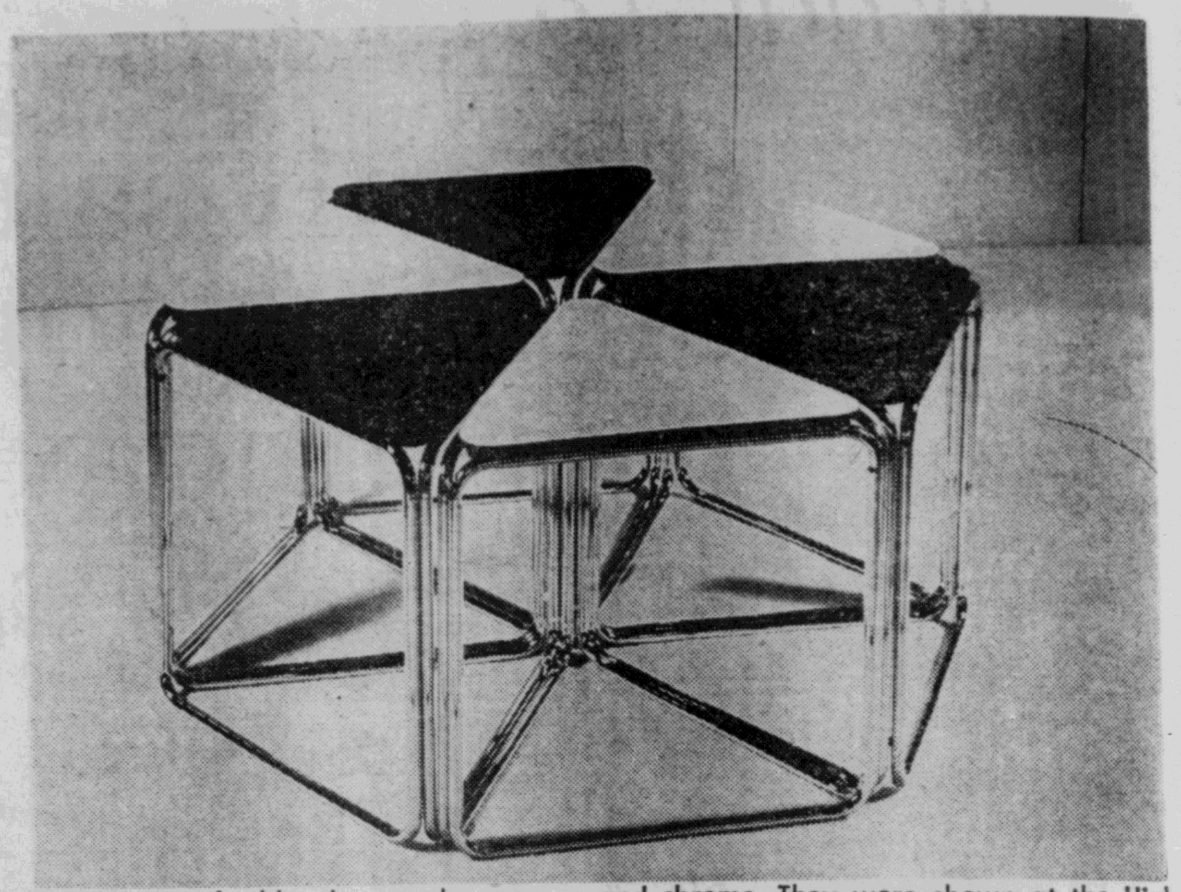
Second in popularity is the L-Shaped kitchen. The "L" utilizes two walls and allows great flexibility in placement of appliances and storage and snack areas.

The arrangement has space for a breakfast area or dining room. When the kitchen is used as a dining room, however, there is no separation of the dining and kitchen facilities.

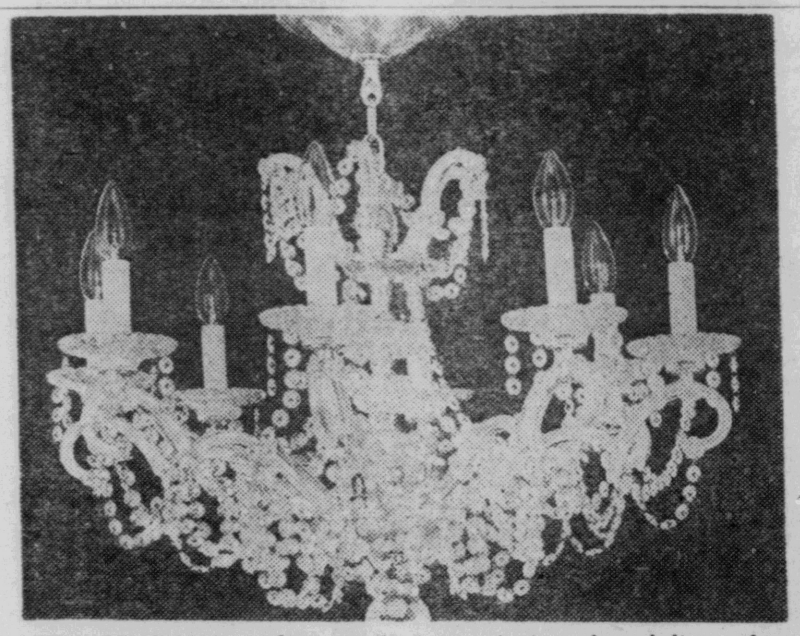
THE CORRIDOR arrangement is a favorite for apartments because it adapts readily to efficient work patterns and saves installation costs. Often part of one side is used as a snack bar or room divider.

The Corridor kitchen usually has a door at each end, resulting in an inefficient traffic pattern through the work triangle, although careful planning can easily eliminate this problem.

While the two-wall kitchen utilizes all its space, very often it is arranged with a too-narrow aisle or insufficient space between appliances. This results in unsafe or uncomfortable work patterns for the homemaker; open appliance doors often block the aisle.



A MINI-MAXI set of tables that can be converted to varying shapes and sizes from triangle to hexagon are practical and distinctive and light, a combination of smokes glass and chrome. They were shown at the High Point National Furniture Mart and are to be shown at Western Furniture, 1848 Fourth Street, San Rafael.



17TH CENTURY craftsmen fashioned the chandeliers that adorned castles and buildings of state, and it was during this period that an Austrian jeweler developed secret process of making, and the product still bears his name "Strauss" jewel. The secret process has been used for decorating chandeliers and the chandeliers are on display at Marin Lights, 650 Irwin Street, San Rafael.

MODULAR WALL SYSTEMS furniture, such as Systems 70 shown above, open new dimensions in home furnishings. The selection show features a pumice-rubbed, hand-finished glaze which blends with either light or dark tones of fabrics and wallpapers and includes lattice or plain cabinet doors and is available at Interior Systems, 2750 on the Mall, Northgate.

Chose Colors To Flatter

When decorating or redecorating your home, pick the colors you like best and which are the most becoming to you and plan your color scheme accordingly — regardless of period or current fashion fads. And, unless you're a hermit, make certain the entire family is considered during the selection process.

It's a good idea to take swatches of existing colors — i.e., a bit of drapery fabric, a patch of wallpaper, or a tiny tuft of carpeting — when pruchasing new items. This way you'll make sure your color choices will blend while the furnishings are still in the store — not at home, when it's too late.

WHEN contemplating new items, try to avoid too many new colors. Stay within the shades or hues of the existing color scheme to maintain a coordinated look.

And remember to use color for a purpose. Vivid tones can brighten a dark room. Sunny colors can add warmth to a room with a northern exposure and cool colors can add serenity to a room facing south or with large windows.

Crush Marks

To remove crush marks on carpet, or pressure marks left by furniture, try a steam treatment. Hold a steam iron just above the carpet, without pressing down on the iron. When the spot has been steamed for a few seconds, brush pile gently with your fingers to restore the carpet's original appearace.

What To Look For When Buying TV

There is more to buying a television set than arranging for the financing. In fact, price alone should never be the deciding point when purchasing a set.

Prices can be confusing since they range from less than $100 for a small-screen black-and-white set to more than $2000 for a home entertainment system which includes color television, stereo and tape player. Quality color television sets will range from $400 to $800 this year.

As a guide to a sounder approach to this home entertainment investment, design engineers for Teledyne Packard Bell in Los Angeles give these tips:

COMPARE the square inches of actual picture provided by the television screen. All manufacturers must specify television sizes according to the actual viewing area, rather than the size of the picture tube. It determines the brightness and clarity of your picture. The higher the voltage, usually the better the picture. The set you buy should have at least 1,000 volts for each diagonal inch of viewing area. The present 25-inch set with newer technical refinements, for example, should have approximately 24,500 to 25,000 volts for a well-defined picture.

Automatic color control and automatic noise inverter are important for good color reception. Preset fine tuning allows setting of the channel once and does away with constant fiddling with the set. In some color sets, there are electronic provisions called automatic frequency control (AFC) or automatic fine tuning (AFT) that does the fine tuning for you. These devices are to color TV what AFC is to FM radios, locking in the best picture electronically and automatically.

MANUFACTURERS are currently in a race to achieve higher color picture brightness levels. Ask to view black matrix type color tubes, those that combine improved phosphor with a new process that surrounds the screen's nearly one million tiny dots with a black coating. Black matrix or surround offers brilliance, color purity and color fidelity not found in conventional tubes.

For added convenience, the set should have a remote control ready feature, with wireless controls available at time of purchase or later.

Check noise level. First, make sure that you already have a good antenna and are receiving a clear signal. Turn to an unused channel in your area. If there are little dots of snow, the ratio between noise and picture is good. If you see big snowballs, the ratio is out of whack.

BASIC CONTROLS should be easy to reach. This includes on-off, volume and channel selectors for both UHF and VHF. All sets should have a control for color intensity and one for hue even though the set maker states that you will like his "pre-set" picture without further adjustment.

Consider the furniture styling of a table model or a console. A television set now is a functional part of a room's decor and should be bought with its appearance in mind.

Check the cabinetry for craftsmanship. Is the styling attractive? Is the finish clean and rich? Do the appointments, such as grill cloth, blend with the rest of the set? Is the design something you can live with as a fine piece of furniture for a number of years? Don't let the electronics terminology confuse you. Transistors are smaller than tubes and permit use of printed circuits. This is a space-saver. Transistors cut down on heat and thus lengthen the life of parts.

Decorate To Personal Taste

If every room were ideally designed, your decorating problems would be much fewer. But because many rooms are very definitely not well designed, due to whatever variances may have entered, you have to use a few tricks.

If the problem is a room that is practically square, you want to avoid turning it into a box. The trick is to give one wall a very different treatment than the other three.

TRY papering one with an attractive pattern, then painting the others in a plain color picked up from the patterned paper.

Is the problem a low ceiling? The answer is to emphasize vertical lines. Let draperies hang ceiling-to-floor, rather than keeping close to window top and bottom. Avoid using a valance or short drapes.

REVERSE the process for the high ceilinged room. Top the window with a horizontal valance from which drapes can loop gracefully low. You can also "bring down" the ceiling by painting it with a warm tone. Large-sized furniture helps, too.

Perhaps you have the problem of a rather dark room. Widen the window effect by using extension drapery rods beyond the window margins.

Hanging the draperies actually beside the window, rather than over it widens the visible glass and lets in all available light.

WHEN furnishing the room, try to use light wood and bright colors in upholstery, carpeting and draperies.

A HOME MUSIC, Quatron, shown above, is the world's first automatic 8-track stereo tape changer, which provides up to 13 hours of continuous, non-repetitive music, and is also available for commercial background music. Now on display at Cox TV and Sound Center, Northgate One Shopping Center.

Wallcovering Scenic Touch

The summer's over, the unpacking's done, the photos are ready for the family album, and most of us have settled down for another year at home — with some happy memories of places we've been and things we've seen, whether here or abroad.

Now, of course, is the time to take a good look at that home, and perhaps spruce it up a bit — with wallcoverings that can show you where you were, inspire you for next vacation, or act, simply, as landscapes of the imagination. . .as well as guides to new decorating ideas, colors, and periods.

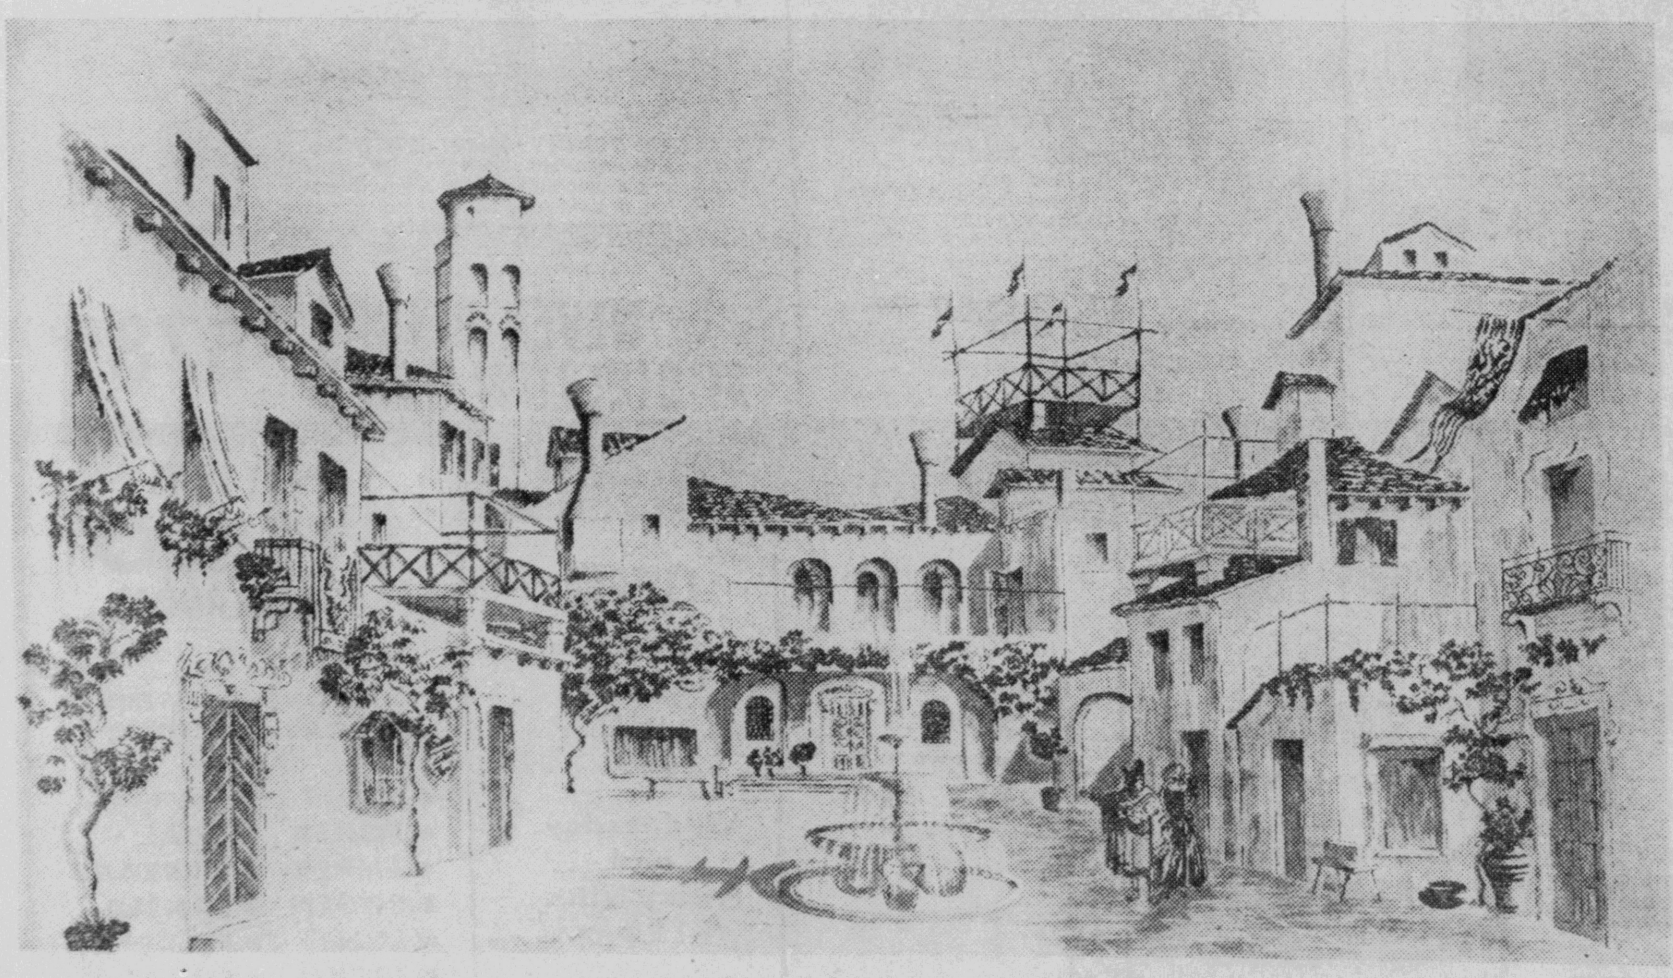
THERE ARE a lot of new scenic designs created with just those ideas in mind, in the new collection called Panorama Vinyl Scenics, Volume II, by James Seeman Studios, Inc.

These are all hand-printed to give you maximum color and design fidelity, pre-trimmed so that you can install them yourself or have it done by a professional paperhanger, and since they're all on durable vinyl, they can be scrubbed and washed and always look fresh.

If you went to — or want to go to — Italy, you'll enjoy having the "Sorrento" or "Portofino" mural. The first has a see-through vine and a villa veranda on the right, hillside cottages on the left, and in the center, for real perspective, the bay as far as the eye can see. There's a bay in "Portofino," too, and this curving, charming scene is grille-framed, top and sides, so that it looks just like a window wall. With "Canaletto," you have Venice as seen by the great 18th Century master in superbly etching-like detail — so Italy's well covered in the Panorama Collection. And speaking of covering, each of the murals comes with enough additional ground so that the whole effect will cover about 18'8" of wall-space.

Now that we've returned to the Northern Hemisphere, you might like to set your belongings against the background of "Old Whaling Town," a mid-1800's scene, or the clear, welcoming "Lighthouse," very much for sea-and-sky fanciers, and again, very strong in terms of wall depth and dimension.

The scenics are available in San Rafael at Morwear Paint Store, Mazza Fuller Paints, Marin Color Service, House of Color and Empire Paint Co.



A RUSTIC VIEW, entitled "Little Spanish Town," centered around a fountain is another vinyl scenic from the new collection of James Seeman Studios Inc.

Carpets Fron

Carpet now has changed from a luxury item to the most practical way of finishing floors. Once relegated to the living room, it has now moved throughout the home and is now suitable for any floor area including bathrooms, laundry rooms, kitchens, play areas and other almost unheard of places — walls.

To avoid boredom in the old concept of "wall-to-wall carpeting", many decorators and architects are coordinating different areas with entirely different pile fibers in like or dissimilar patterns and prints. By using contrasting colors or contrasting types of carpet one can designate particular areas.

Shag and cut pile can be perfect coordinators for practical and functional reasons as well as for creation of mood and atmosphere.

FUNCTIONALLY, cut pile is extremely good for heavily traveled areas such as halls, stairs and entrances and to denote formal advent of the 5/ pile carpet, hard such as kitchen and laundry alive and warm comfort and noise

An interesting use of the companion cut pile and shag carpets would be to do a music or stereo room. Now that carpets have moved to the walls, a plush carpet could be "walled" with a floor done in shag.

MANY homes have kitchen family room areas with no dividing walls. The cut piles can be used in kitchen area and the dining area and the companion shag can be used in the seating area. Thus, you have used carpet to take the place of walls and physically separate the activity area.

Anytime one has a large area or system of rooms that need to be treated as a whole decoratively and yet need to be separated into smaller activity or conversational areas, cut pile and shag companion rugs are the answer.

Chandeliers Return From Near Extinction

From the edge of extinction, chandeliers have returned to add light, charm and beauty to dining rooms. The surge is due both to the generally increased acceptance of installed lighting fixtures in recent years and the trend to bring formality back into the dining room.

Furniture manufacturers and interior designers are combining to separate the dining room from the informality that characterizes modern living. Chandeliers are becoming a key part of the more formal ensemble. They co-ordinate furnishings, add focal high lights, provide light that flatters diners and add sparkle to glassware and tableware.

Homeowners have a wider selection of chandeliers than ever, according to the Home Lighting Institute, there is a chandelier to complement any style or period of furnishings and to accommodate any decorating budget.

A tour of lighting showrooms presents contemporary, provincial, Victorian, Williamsburg, ranch, Georgian and many modernistic and transitional chandelier styles. Most chandeliers today are shielded and designed to provide comfortable, glare-free light. Discomfort was a principal shortcoming of earlier models.

Here's a tip from the institute. Though many chandeliers generally give enough light in the area where they are used, some are basically decorative. These use low-wattage bulbs of various types that create dramatic effect but little light. Decorative chandeliers should be supplemented with other light sources.

Turn Blank Wall Into Gallery

NEW YORK (UPI)—Turn that blank wall in den, family or living room into a family portrait gallery.

That's a suggestion from the Professional Photographers of America (PP of A).

"A wall of family photographs, tracing the family's history, makes an extremely attractive and interesting decorative device," says Bill Bell, of Albuquerque, N.M., chairman of the PP of A's portrait division.

"It also provides the family with a strong link to its past and gives the children a real sense of belonging."

TO COME up with the necessary photographs for your family gallery, some careful, and often fascinating, research may be involved. Photographs of older family members often are kept in unsual places, quite apart from the traditional family album.

Family Bibles are a favorite hiding place for photographs as well as birth certificates, marriage licenses and other treasured family records.

Often an ancestor's photograph has been found tucked into a favorite book on a library shelf. And tragically, old pictures that could be treasures have been thrown into files of other family papers and records and are damaged.

"EVEN though a photograph is damaged," said Bell, "all is not lost. Your family photographer can either restore the photo or knows of a reliable studio where this work can be done.

In assembling the gallery, don't overlook present family members. A current family portrait, in color, is an interesting and compelling finishing touch.

The clothes, background and pose of the family members however, should be consistent with the setting in which the pictures will be displayed.

AN INFORMAL pose and casual clothing usually are desirable for a more informal room like a den. A living room gallery calls for dress-up clothes and a more formal sitting.

Some families choose to use same frame types in their portrait gallery; others like to vary frames, which lends distinctiveness and variety to the display. In the latter case, select ornate, oval or oblong frames for the older pictures and simpler oblongs for the more modern photographs.

Heating Check Is Good Idea

"It is a good idea," says the National Better Heating-Cooling Council, "to call in a reliable heating contractor once a year to have him clean thoroughly and check over the system — and now's the perfect time to do it."

The contractor will clean the system, adjust all controls, replace any worn parts. He should check chimney or flue, the central heating plant, and the distributors in each room.

This once-a-year inexpensive check-out will greatly increase the efficiency of your heating, will help lower fuel bills and reduce the chance of a breakdown on winter's coldest morning.

Choice Of Mattress Long Term Matter

Buying furniture is mostly a matter of personal preference for a particular style.

But in choosing bedding, the decision rests on more fundamental questions — size, construction, durability, cost, comfort. Even a poor mattress lasts so long that it might be ten years before you can legitimately discard it, and that is a long time to live with a mistake.

There are basically two types of mattress sold today, innerspring and foam models. And there are two distinct types of foam — latex foam and urethane foam. The latex foam is a top quality product that sells in the same price range as the best innersprings. The urethane foam is, on average, the lowest priced bedding sold.

BOTH TYPES of foam mattresses are essentially mattress-sized pads of foam covered with a ticking. This means they are smooth-surfaced with no tufts or buttons. They are flexible, and can actually be rolled up to negotiate a doorway or staircase. They are dustless, noiseless, lightweight and cool.

The latex foam units are also mildew proof, extremely durable, and very comfortable. The fact that they never need turning, and their easy handling, make foam mattresses best for supersize beds.

Innerspring mattresses are the best known type. They vary widely in construction, and cost. Many makers stress special design features such as reinforced edges, pocketed coils, rustproofed springs, or variable firmnesses in their ads.

LOOK FOR a smooth surface without tufting buttons, stout handles for convenient turning, ventilators on the sides to admit air, and ample cushioning material over the springs. A matching boxspring is a must, and a written guarantee is important.

Size is vital. A couple needs at least a queensize and preferably a kingsize bed. The standard double bed simply is not big enough for two people to sleep comfortably. Even in a small bedroom, squeeze in a big bed. At least you won't be cramped at night, and that's the important thing.

Early American Bridges Age Gap

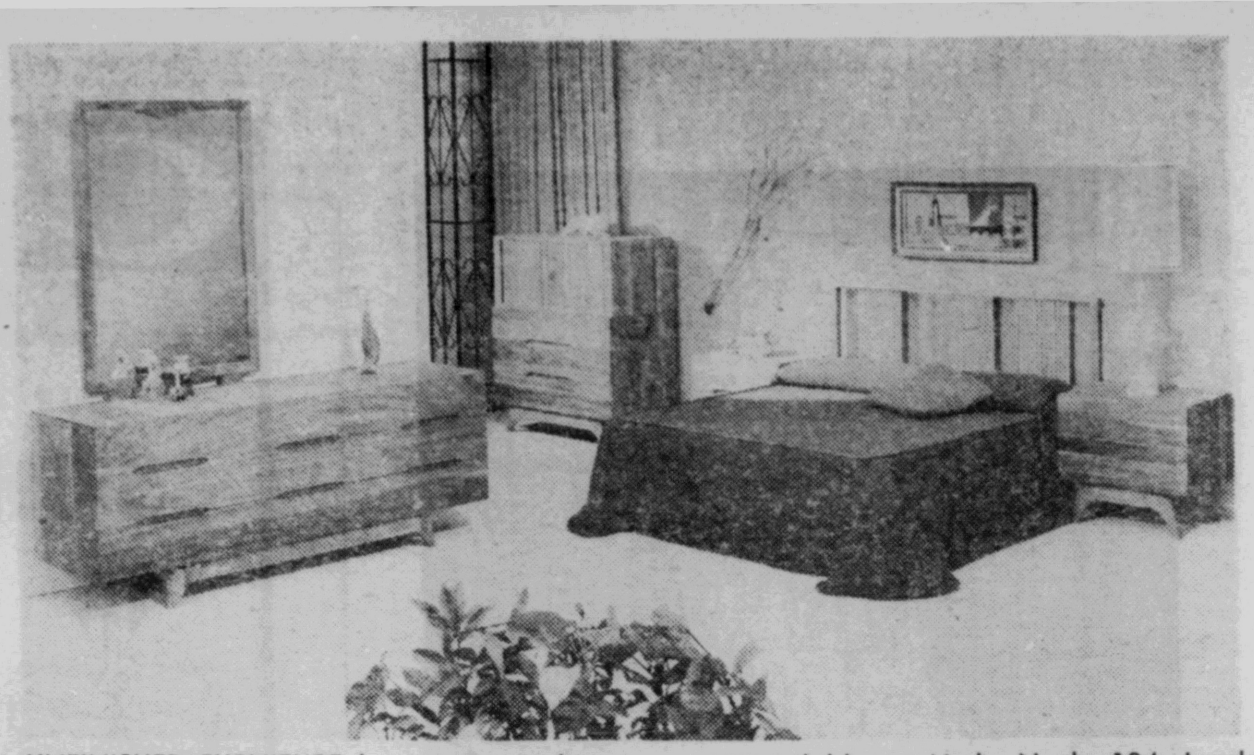
Early American furniture bridges the generation gap. To women of all ages, traditional American furniture remains one of the most sought-after styles of furniture.

There's a good reason for this continued loyalty.

First of all there's variety. American traditional furniture is a whole family of styles. It ranges from the formal, elegant look of Sheraton inspired furniture to the casual, homey appearance of captain's chairs and trestle tables.

AND EARLY American furniture has grown with the times. It's not limited to exact reproductions of authentic pieces used in another century with no relevance at all to modern day living. Look closely at the next wing chair you see. Chances are it's a recliner, with all the comfort of that particular breed of chair. And that traditional Colonial sofa may very well turn out to be a convertible — which provides necessary sleeping space.

Along with this modernity of function, Early American furniture, as it is made today, has all the easy maintenance features American women expect. Durability, convenience and comfort are built into this furniture inspired from the designs of another era. Many of the more informal pieces — book shelves, desks and children's furniture — have plastic finishes, a protection against hard use. Fabrics are treated to resist stains. Much of the cushioning is long-lasting latex foam rubber, which is both resilient and luxuriously comfortable. And latex foam cushions don't need plumping or turning, a handy feature Virginia Dare or Martha Washington would have liked.



UNFINISHED FURNITURE has come a long way from the old "pine crate" days as illustrated above the elegant walnut bedroom set, available at Nude Nook, 124 Jacoby Street, San Rafael, which stocks unfinished furniture for every room of a home.

The Cool Look Of Modern Can Blend

Remember when the look of metal was dismissed as "too cold," or too mechanical? Now the shine of steel, aluminum and brass is everywhere. And it's now considered "pretty cool," and undoubtedly is becoming one of the classics of tomorrow.

Sleek, reflecting surfaces of metal compliment many textures: wood, glass, enamel, cane, leather, velvet and even canvas.

THIS IS the Modern Look. Its beauty is provided through structure and materials rather than surface ornamentation.

The wide selection of modern furniture now manufactured in this country is virtually "International." Design influences and production techniques are interchanged among many countries: the United States, Italy, Germany, Britain, and the Scandinavian countries.

If you're a traditionalist, however, and long for just a "dash" of the international "with it" feeling of modern, any number of the new glass and steel tables will be handsome in an 18th century atmosphere.

Beautiful designs of any era have an affinity. Modern interiors, for example, become more exciting, even more modern, when a Chippendale chair is added for contrast.

Dining Room In Comeback

By DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI) — The dining room, virtually extinct only a few years ago, has made a comeback.

Today, the dining room occupies about 142 square feet of space a room averaging nearly 12 by 12 feet in approximately 63 per cent of all new single family homes. It accounts for 8.7 per cent of thetotal cost of the average $28,900 home.

STANDARD features generally include wood flooring or carpeting rather than tile, at least two windows, and a hanging chandelier. What's more, the dining room is three times more likely than the living room to be treated with expensive wallpaper and, in 28 per cent of new homes, even includes built-in storage.

That's the word of people who keep an eye on such things: the marketing experts for B. Brody Seating Co., Chicago manufacturer of dining furniture. Henry O. Radloff, vice president of Brody's dinette division, said "There's no question but that the dining room once again is an essential . . . Homemakers appear to have had enough of dispensing methodical meals in the kitchen or in a tight little island connected to the living room. They want to serve graciously in a separate room designed for the purpose and away from the clutter that's part and parcel of food preparation."

IN FACT, Radloff said, "Today's homemaker is demanding a choice of spaces and places to serve food both formally and informally."

In addition to a dining room, the average home now being built devotes approximately 154 square feet to the kitchen, and 87 per cent of these kitchens are designed to accommodate table seating for at least four peopeople," he said.

Geographical differences influence both home and dining room design.

For example, the one-story ranch home was an all-out national favorite accounting for 71 per cent of new homes built in 1968. The one marked exception was the Northeast region, where nearly one-third of the best-selling houses were of traditional two-story design.

STICKLERS for the classic and the conventional, Radloff said, Northeasterners also built more homes with larger, separate dining rooms than any other region in the nation. Some 76 per cent of all new homes in this area had separate dining rooms that averaged 150 square feet in size.

Separate dining rooms were least popular in the West with only 53 per cent of new homes having this accomodation. Their average size was 128 square feet as opposed to 142 square feet nationally.

Wood flooring was the preference throughout the nation, with the Northeast leading with 78 per cent and the West trailing with 35 per cent, Radloff said.

An intimate conversation grouping is created with the oval plate glass top, gold leaf base coffee table. Wall to Wall custom plush pile carpeting in wedgewood blue. Window treatment compliments the Triadic concept of the entire room with the use of dutch blue velvet tie-back draperies floor to ceiling. Fleur de Lis Wall decor finished in gold leaf enhances the gold leaf coffee table base. Massive Crystal chandeliers overhangs center of conversation sitting area. SPACE SAVING

Worried about fitting a kingsize bed into a less than royal size bedroom? There are lots of ways to minimize the size of the bed. For instance, keep your end tables off the floor. Try a do-everything headboard that contains lighting, books, ashtrays, and other bedside conveniences. Another reminder — a latex foam rubber kingsize mattress will fold up for trouble-free delivery and never has to be turned.

Combine Tile With Carpet

The concrete slab, popular as it is in home construction, creates a problem. It must be covered. Traditionally, this meant tiling.

Today, however, a combination of carpeting and tile may be the answer.

In recent years, carpeting and underlays have been improved. Many builders now put a moisture proof, mildew proof, latex foam carpet underlay directly over bare concrete and cover it with carpeting. This method, pioneered by commercial buildings, requires no expensive floor preparation because the foam rubber pad hides all but major defects.

Study Center Aids Scholar

The collegian who lives in a modern dormitory is probably better equipped to study effectively than the student who lives at home.

But with proper room planning, the home-based student can close the gap.

This is the belief of Jack P. Solovy, president of Corco Inc., which has completed more than 30 million dollars worth of design and furnishings work for colleges and universities in the past 15 years.

"Academic achievements depend, in the long run, on the student's attitude, ability and diligence," Solovy said. "But the development of good study habits essential for learning can be greatly influenced by the student's physical environment."

IN A MODERN dormitory, the student usually has the advantages of such valuable study aids as carefully planned work space, excellent lighting and built-in furniture that is designed to aid study as well as take hard wear, he said.

Solovy pointed out that if home study conditions are less than ideal, they can be improved by adapting basic dormitory design principles to the home.

HERE ARE SOME of Solovy's suggestions:

1. Adequate work space is a must. There should be enough flat working surface to allow materials to be spread out without piling books or papers on top of each other.

Searching for buried reference materials is time-consuming, lengthens study periods, and can prove discouraging.

Solovy noted that Corco designers often solve this problem by providing large built-in desks with broad working surfaces.

"Most homes, however, because of the restrictions of existing furnishings or small rooms, won't accommodate a large, free-standing desk," Solovy said, "and it wouldn't be practical to make a permanent installation."

IN SUCH A case, he suggested using inexpensive shelving mounted on wall brackets as a work area. Even an extremely small room can usually accommodate such an arrangement without obstructing traffic lanes, and shelving can easily be removed when it's no longer needed.

2. If one is not already available, invest in a well-designed, comfortable chair. The person whose body isn't properly supported while sitting for long periods can become fatigued quickly.

3. Check the lighting. When work areas are not adequately lighted, eyes can become strained and the student is apt to tire more easily.

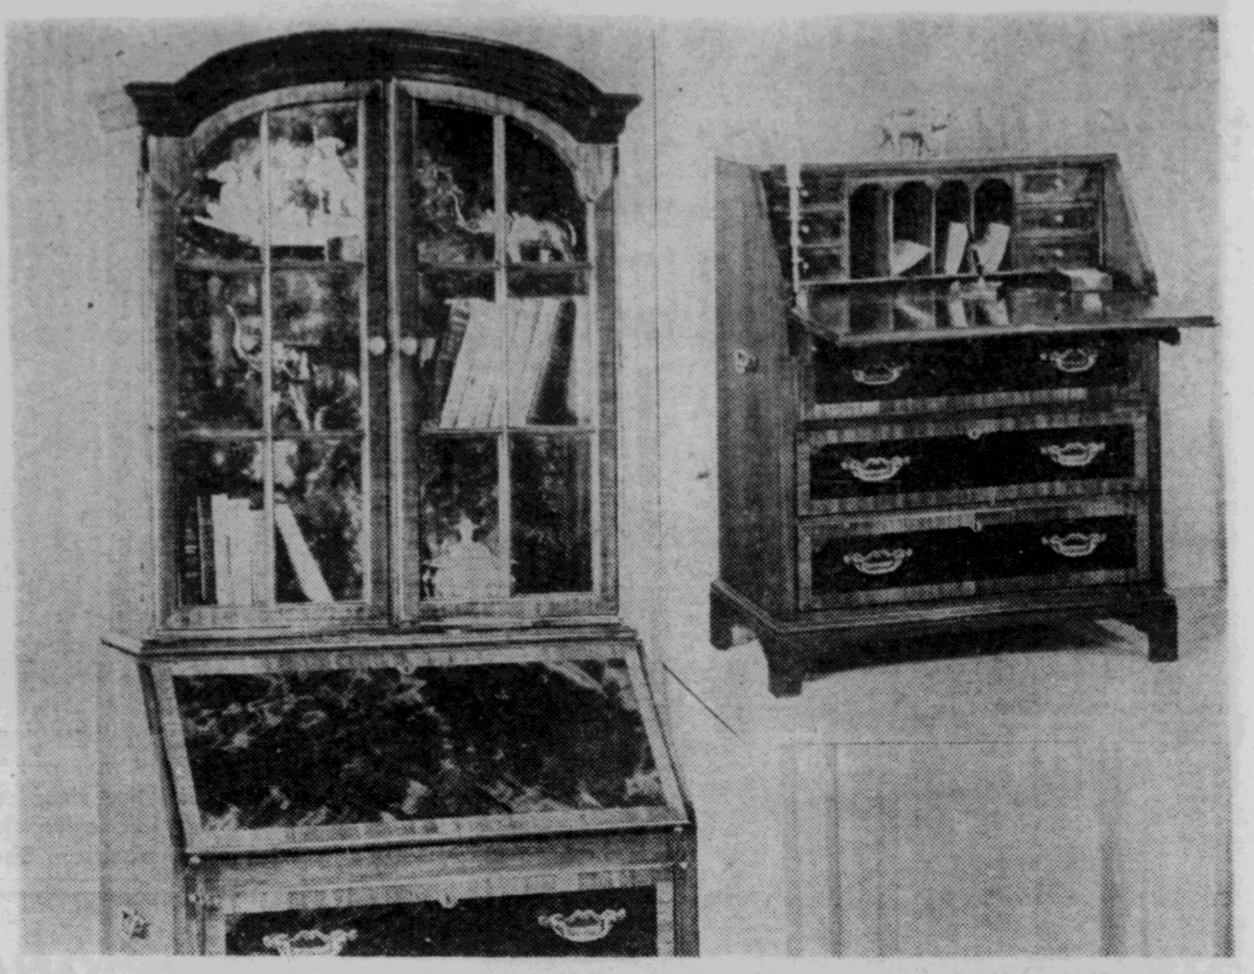
"EVEN WHEN lighting is sufficient for normal needs," Solovy commented, "it may not be adequate for prolonged study. But, increasing the amount of general lighting from ceiling fixtures, providing additional soft lighting from table lamps, or a combination of the two, will usually remedy a lighting problem."

4. Eliminate as many distractions as possible. The stuffed animal collections and bright pennants, that seemed so cheerful before a bedroom became a study area, may disrupt concentration.

"The student's room certainly need not be monastic," Solovy noted, "but clutter of any kind, whether it's an over-abundance of decorations or scattered clothing, can interfere with the orderly process of learning."

HE EXPLAINED that the Corco staff tackles the problem of clutter by providing plenty of storage space. Extra-large desk drawers, commodious closets with floor to ceiling doors that allow easy access to the contents, and drawer space in built-in beds are used by designers to provide needed storage.

He suggested that the home situation could be helped by adding a storage chest, rearranging the closet and adding extra shelves, or taking advantage of space under the bed.



ONE OF an increasingly rare finds is this secretary desk from Wasser's Furniture Accents in San Anselmo. An exact and faithful copy of a desk by William Kent in 1720 it is made of solid mahogany with swirly crotch grain and striped African mahogany veneers. One of a number of handsome desks featured by Wasser's, the detailed hand work shows in the many tiny interior drawers and the locking lid and lower drawers.

Many Uses For Spare Bedroom

NEW YORK — In today's lexicography, there's one phrase — the "spare room" — whose definition has become obsolete.

The room behind the closed door once reserved for the sometime sleep-over guest now serves in a multi-purpose role: it might be a hobby room; it might double as the family music room or study.

Sleeping facilities, of course, are provided, but, chances are, they're surrounded by such props for the family good life as a stereo system, TV, or even a mini-refrigerator to make the one-time "spare room" the room that is now used most unsparingly.

BEST OF all, such a room doesn't have to be large to be effective -- it merely has to be trim, interesting and functional.

Furnishings should reflect an integrated look for sleeping and living with, perhaps, a place to read and relax, to indulge in a hobby, or just to think and plan.

Gone – forever, we trust – are the dull and conventional colors that once prevailed in the "spare" room. Color it to suit your fancy: choose a warm, appealing color scheme for an unspoken welcome, or be daring in even a small room with a fresh, interesting palette of colors inspired by a bold wallpaper or fabric on one wall or a color kaleidoscope which elaborates a distinctive jewel of an accent rug.

ONE NEW YORK decorator recently proved that an area rug could delineate the boundaries of a "room within a room" when she hung a tiny, brilliant orange and red rug over a concealed bed to establish a separate guest area within the confines of a larger family room.

And if you've chosen the basics — the sofa or bed and the storage pieces — for that not-so-spare room, add a few pieces for the comfort of both that unexpected guest and your family in their every-day use of the room. A comfortable lounge chair, a desk that can be your at-home "office", a little table for snacking, are all highly practical insurers that your "spare room" will be used full time.

A SUPER BEAN BAG CHAIR is the latest in furniture fashion . . . and it's "beans" are polystyrene pellets. They adjust to you to form a chair, a cushion, or a bed thats so comfortable you'll be reluctant to get up. Patterns are available in either football or pear shape at Marin Fabric Center in San Rafael.

Living Room Focal Point Of Dwelling

If a single room can be called the most important one in your house from a visual standpoint, it is the living room. This room is usually the focal point of a home . . . the one most visitors see first, establishing the mood and decorative theme for the rest of the house.

But the most tastefully decorated living room is lost if not seen in the proper light. Good, balanced lighting should be an integral part of any home decorating plan.

Whether you plan an elaborate installation with built-in light sources and rewiring or a more economical and simple treatment, three basic types of lighting will apply: overall illumination, light for specific work areas and decorative or accent lighting.

A few decades ago, builders planned rooms with central overhead fixtures, giving no thought to other light sources. This type of fixture is not as common today but is still excellent for overall illumination. It should complement, rather than dominate, the rest of the lighting treatment.

Overall lighting is necessary to fill in between pools of light from table or floor lamps, eliminating harsh contrasts between light and shadows. Three-way bulbs are ideal with such lamps, changing the light level for TV viewing, conversations or other activities.

Areas of the living room used for sewing or reading should be illuminated with adequate yet comfortable and glare-free lighting. Floor, table and wall-mounted lamps or spot lights recessed in the ceiling are some of the lighting units which can be used.

Accent lighting is employed purely for its artistic or decorative effect. It can vary from tiny, recessed, incandescent spotlights highlighting a painting or piece of sculpture to "washing" a wall with fluorescent tubes concealed behind a valance board.

All of these lighting techniques will be treated in detail at a later date in this column. Combined, they can add that extra touch of dramatic creativity that sets your living room aside from the ordinary.

BUDGET LUXURY

Shag carpet tiles with foam rubber backing provide a luxurious floor covering at budget prices. Since the tiles have their own built-in padding, there's no need for additional underlay. The shag surface completely conceals the fact that the carpet is made of tiles.

Removing Wax

Candle wax on your carpet? Rub an ice cube quickly over the wax, blot with a clean towel or tissue. The wax will become brittle and can be easily picked up. Be sure not to get the carpet too wet from melting ice.

THE WARMTH of traditional formal decor is just as much a part of country living as it is the city's dressier life. With a heritage from the grand houses of early American Colonial times, American Traditional is at home in town or suburb. Handsome formal fabrics are used in the living room here, the velvet in stryne pattern on the sofa complemented by a cut velvet wing chair. All are at Yeager's Carriage House, 2503 Cleveland Ave., Santa Rosa.

Dividing Small Quarters

It doesn't take a crowd to constitute an over-population problem in today's shrinking world. When living space is at a premium, even two people may show occasional symptoms of ochlophobia (fear of crowds), alternating with claustrophobia (fear of enclosed spaces).

And building industry forecasts indicate a trend toward even smaller living quarters, not only in new city apartment construction, but in individual houses as well.

FOR MANY of today's couples, as well as for single careerists sharing or living alone, the notion of a separate guest room, work room, or even dining room already borders on sheer extravagance, reports interior designer Mary Ann Wills.

"That's why we see more emphasis than ever before on dual-purpose decorating, otherwise known as making one room do the work of two — or more," she explained. "The 24-hour sofa, the desk that expands for dining, the seat that's also a storage cube — they're all a part of the space-stretching game."

A favorite — and most effective — device for marking off activity areas and maintaining a sense of order in the overworked room has been the floor-to-ceiling divider that occupies virtually no space itself.

NOW THERE'S a new idea in dividers, just introduced by the Galway division of Burwood Products Company, Traverse City, Mich.: crystal clear panels in three distinctive patterns, to be teamed up with square modern poles.

"The crystal panels play marvelous tricks with light to provide a sense of privacy without a closed-in feeling," said Miss Wills, who serves as the company's decorating consultant.

Spots And Stains

Almost every carpet or run is the victim of spots or stains from time to time. Most of these accidents of spilling and dropping can be taken care of with little trouble.

Since carpet is an especially durable home furnishing, it can withstand a great many accidents wi'hout being ruined.

THE DANGERS of spots and stains can be minimized if the housewife will follow these three rules: (1) act quickly when anything is dropped or spilled on the carpet. Remove spots and stains before they dry. (2) have necessary cleaning equipment always at hand. (3) try to identify what caused the spot or stain and remove it by following directions carefully.

There are two types of cleaning material which should be kept on hand at all times for quick spot cleaning of carpets and rugs. These are (1) special purpose carpet cleaning detergent and (2) non-flammable dry cleaning fluid. They are really the only two which are suitable for home use. Others about which ycu may hear are useful in the hands of skilled cleaners but may do considerable damage if not properly used.

GENERAL procedure in cleaning spots from your carpet is as follows:

Step 1: Remove excess materials. In the case of liquids, absorb with a clean white cloth or other absorbent material. If semi-solid, scrape with a spoon or spatula or use a sponge.

Step 2: Apply a dry-cleaning fluid, blotting gently and working from the edges of a spot or stain toward the center.

Step 3: Apply the detergent solution described above. Use a clean cloth and blot gently from the edge of the soiled area toward the center, blotting occasionally with a dry, clean cloth to absorb excess olution.

Step 4: Dry the carpet.

TAKEN INTO CUSTODY — John Linley Frazier, suspected slayer of five persons in Soquel, bows his head as sheriff's deputies handcuff him outside a remote cabin near the massacre scene — the palatial home of Dr. Victor M. Ohta. His arrest came early today. (UPI Telephoto)

Deputies Arrest Suspect In Massacre At Soquel Mansion

Drop-Out Mechanic Is Seized At Dawn

SANTA CRUZ (UPI) — Sheriff's deputies today arrested John Linley Frazier, charged with the slaying of Victor M. Ohta and four others, less than a mile from the scene of the mass murders at Ohta's mountaintop mansion.

The suspect, a 24-year-old Santa Cruz mechanic who "dropped out" and became a hippie, was picked up at 7:30 a.m. in a heavily wooded area staked out by officers since soon after the killings Monday night.

An hour later, Santa Cruz County Sheriff's Assistant Lou Keller told newsmen the man in custody was definitely Frazier.

He was brought out of the mountainous, heavily timbered terrain and taken to the Santa Cruz County Jail.

It was reported that shooting occurred during the capture, but this could not be confirmed. There were no reports that anyone was wounded.

Other investigators at the scene searched it for evidence, particularly for any indication that anyone else was involved.

When Frazier was charged in a warrant Thursday, prosecutors said the "present evidence" indicated there were no others involved.

WIFE IN CUSTODY

Sheriff's officers said they located Frazier with the help of his estranged wife, as well as hippies. She was in protective custody today.

Officers said the Fraziers had been separated for several months, and the wife told them Frazier had been living in a cabin near the home of the murdered family since then. She said she helped him move out of the cabin two days before the slayings.

A search of Frazier's old cabin in the area turned up a pair of binoculars and some shoes that had not been there Wednesday, indicating someone had been in the cabin during the night.

The hunt had turned to Frazier Thursday after hippies in the area gave police information about him.

The suspect is an auto mechanic "who dropped out and entered the hippie-style life", according to sheriff's deputies. The FBI joined the hunt for him Thursday.

The suspect was seized shortly before funeral services were scheduled to be held for the Ohtas today.

WARRANT ISSUED

Peter Chang, Santa Cruz county district attorney, announced late Thursday that a warrant had been issued for John Linley Frazier. Chang declared that "on the present evidence we are seeking one person," in the killing of Dr. Victor Ohta, his wife, two sons and secretary.

Asked how one man could have bound five persons, blindfolded them and then shot them beside a swimming pool, Chang replied: "It sounds ridiculous, but it's possible that it happened."

Frazier, 24, had lived in a cabin near the $300,000 Ohta mansion until two days before the Monday slayings. He has a criminal record and was

NIXON AT U.N.

U.S.-Soviet Ties Highlight Speech

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — President Nixon invited leaders of the Soviet Union today to join him in building a "new road" to peace by ending the arms race and competing instead of leading the world to economic and social progress.

In a speech to the 25th anniversary session of the General Assembly of the United Nations, Nixon made this appeal:

"I invite the leaders of the Soviet Union to join us in taking that new road—to join in a peaceful competition, not in the accumulation of arms but in the dissemination of progress; not in the building of missiles but in waging a winning war against hunger and disease and human misery in our own countries and around the globe.

"Let us compete in elevating the human spirit, in fostering respect for law among nations and in promoting the works of peace. In this kind of competition, no one loses and everyone benefits."

In his second speech before the world organization since becoming President, Nixon said there were many sound reasons why the United States and the Soviet Union should seek a new course towards peaceful rivalry.

Nixon cautioned against underestimating the "seriousness of the disagreements" between Moscow and Washington but cited four specific areas that he said provided a basis for U.S.-Soviet cooperation.

He listed these as:

—Avoiding a nuclear exchange that would cost the lives of tens of millions of people.

—Reducing "the enormous cost of arms" and redirecting resources toward progress.

—Increasing trade and contact.

—Competing in the "global challenge of economic and social development."

Nixon did not refer specifically to a hardline U.N. speech two days ago by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, but his reference was clear when he remarked pointedly:

"I see no point in responding in kind to traditional cold war rhetoric. The facts of the recent past speak for themselves. An effort to score debating points is not the way to advance the cause of peace."

The major thrust of the speech dealt with improvement of Soviet-American relations. There were no major surprises or explicit new offers in the address although Nixon stressed the need for the two super powers to prevent war in the Middle East.

He touched only briefly on his recent Indochina peace plan which included a proposal for a standstill cease-fire.

Of America's role in the world, Nixon said: "We can with complete honesty say that we maintain our strength to keep the peace and not to threaten the peace. The power of the United States will be used to defend freedom and never to destroy freedom."

In the Middle East, he said, the United States and Russia should work for "continuation of the cease-fire and the creation of confidence in which peace efforts can go forward."

In mentioning his Vietnam peace proposals he urged the United Nations to register its concern about treatment of prisoners of war taken captive in the conflict.

At another point, the President told the assembly:

"In Southeast Asia, let us agree to a cease-fire and negotiate a peace. In the Middle East, let us hold to the cease-fire and build a peace.

"Through arms control agreements, let us invest our resources in the development that nourishes peace."

Fairhills Residence Destroyed By Blaze

Fire today swept through the spacious San Rafael home of building contractor Spero P. Spiliotis leaving a charred shell.

As firemen wearing breathing apparatus fought the blaze inside the home at 490 Fairhills Drive, Spiliotis stood outside with an expressionless face. He had built the four-bedroom home nine years ago and estimated its worth at about $40,000.

Firemen said no one was home when the fire erupted at 9:57 a.m. The blaze was completely out at 10:30 a.m. as fire crew began mop-up operations.

Fire Chief Vance Trivett said early indications point to the fire having started in the master bedroom. Its floor was burned through.

He said it was too soon to estimate damage or determine a cause.

Spiliotis said a neighbor had spotted the fire and phoned the fire department. He said he learned of the fire while at his Northgate Industrial Center office.

"My wife was at work and the children are at school," he said, but wondered about the fate of the family's cats. "I don't know if they got out or not."

As Spiliotis spoke, his wife arrived. She said the family had already received many offers from neighbors for a place to spend the night.

A small crowd of neighbors gathered at the smokey scene to watch two pumper trucks and 12 firemen fight the blaze.

Pilot Crashes Plane Into Filled Church

SAN JUAN, Tex. (UPI)—A small plane smashed into the Shrine of San Juan Catholic Church at high noon Friday, sending about 100 priests and worshippers fleeing from the crumbling, burning ruins.

The pilot of the single engine Piper Cherokee called a nearby airport tower demanding that all Methodist and Catholic churches in South Texas be evacuated. Twenty-seven minutes later, he crashed the aircraft into the San Juan church and died.

Police said the 60 priests and about 40 persons worshipping inside the white stone structure got out safely.

"We were in the house of God and he protected us," the Rev. John Ward said.

Charles Wardroup, chief of the control tower at the nearby airport at McAllen, Tex., said the pilot of the plane called at 11:33 a.m.

"He called on an emergency frequency to advise fire departments to evacuate all Methodist and Catholic churches from Weslaco to Mission and from Hidalgo to Edinburgh," Wardroup said.

All are towns in the Lower Rio Grande Valley of Texas.

San Juan is six miles across the border from Mexico.

"We queried the pilot as to why the churches should be evacuated," Wardroup said. "He said, 'Due to a serious plot.'"

13th Student Is Arrested In Arson, Rioting Charges

KENT, Ohio (UPI)—A Kent State University student was arrested today by deputy sheriffs under an indictment handed down by a special state grand jury which investigated the campus killings of four students last spring.

Peter C. Bilek, 22, of Rochester, N. Y., the 13th person arrested of the 25 indicted, is a junior at Kent. He was charged with arson and first degree riot and freed on $5,000 bail.

While deputies continued their arrests, students held a series of campus workshops to discuss the grand jury's report on its month-long investigation of the incidents at Kent from May 2 to May 4 when the four students were killed.

A group of students presented Kent President Robert I. White with a petition which said the university's problems were caused by "outside agitation." The petition was signed by 2,100 students, who said they were at the school "primarily for an education."

The workshops, part of a campus "civil liberties moratorium," examined such topics

NEW YORK (UPI)—A federal court judge today ordered three unions that closed down the nation's largest commuter line with a wildcat strike to return to work immediately.

Judge Jack Weinstein signed the temporary restraining order at 10:35 a.m., six and a half hours after electricians turned off all electrical power on the Long Island Railroad, which carries 90,000 commuters daily to and from their jobs.

Swinging Bedrooms Make The Scene

While psychologists say the bedroom atmosphere should be subdued, with nothing to jangle the ear or eye, decorators have other ideas. They say the bedroom should swing, and they've let loose with a riot of ideas to prove it.

"Bold contrasting colors, glittering glass and chrome, and unorthodox combinations of textures are making the scene in the bedroom these days," reports Sally Ames, consultant to a leading mattress manufacturer.

She notes that the days when the bedroom was the last room in the house to be decorated are practically gone. Today, the homemaker spends as much attention on making her bedroom attractive as she does on any other room.

"NO DOUBT the youth movement has had its effect," Miss Ames says. "Teen-agers make their bedroom their headquarters. Young married couples in small apartments often turn their bedrooms into 'auxiliary' living rooms. Both groups like unusual decorations, and this feeling has spread to other age groups as well."

Today's young homemaker wants to break out of the traditional mold and to surround herself and family with all of the excitement of the best in contemporary design, according to Miss Ames, consultant to the Spring Air Mattress Company, Chicago.

ONE EVIDENCE of the swinging feeling is the growing popularity of psychedelic patterns on bedspreads, draperies, and wall coverings. Another is the use of bright and saucy accent or area rugs on highly polished dark wood floors.

"Brightly painted or lacquered wood furniture is also big in the bedroom, and goes right along with the paint-it-yourself mania that has caught the fancy of many families," Miss Ames said.

For accents, homemakers are choosing ultra-modern bubble lamps, chrome and glass shelving for a bedroom library or knick-knack collection, and even inflatable lounge chairs.

"While standard bedroom furniture still is in vogue, the craze for something colorfully different is surely setting new trends," the consultant said.

But no matter what decorating trend you follow, Miss Ames points out that sleeping remains the bedroom's ultimate purpose and that the most important piece of fruniture in the room still is the bed itself. A quality mattress and spring will not only provide years of service but will also assure the type of restful sleep everyone needs.

Cleaning Tips For Furniture

Keeping furniture well-groomed is no problem today since there are so many products on the market to make it easy for you.

For the best results, however, here are some tips to keep in mind.

For cleaning and polishing, clean cloths are essential. A dirty cloth will scratch wood surfaces and smudge soil on plastics. Use a soft, lint-free absorbent cloth and always rub with the grain of the wood.

WOOD furniture should be dusted several times a week and given a thorough cleaning once a year. Surfaces should be washed with a sudsy mixture of mild soap or detergent and water and your clean cloth from which most of the water has been wrung. Then the old film should be removed with turpentine or a cleaner-conditioner if numerous layers of wax have accumulated. Following this, a fresh coat of wax or liquid polish should be applied.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Consumer Report

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon plans to give consumers a pre-election promise to release the government's own data on the quality of various products, administration sources said today.

The disclosure program will include some brand-by-brand comparisons, long sought by consumer advocates but bitterly opposed by business.

Sources said the announcement will be made before the Nov. 3 election in hopes of boosting Republican candidates.

The information would include data on new cars and tires, one source said. He said it would not tell the consumer that a Ford is better than a Chevrolet or vice versa, but would disclose the government's own criteria in car selection, and how each brand performs.

My Lai Interlude

FT. HOOD, Tex. (UPI)—Col. George Robinson banged his gavel at 1:35 p.m. to reconvene the court martial of the first American to be tried in charges stemming from the My Lai massacre. He called the court into session for only one purpose—to announce its suspension.

Ossie Brown, the chief defense attorney for S. Sgt. David Mitchell, was hospitalized Thursday with an undetermined ailment. Robinson, the military judge at Mitchell's court martial, said the trial would be postponed indefinitely presumably until Brown could return to court.

An ambulance picked up Brown Thursday morning at a motel in Killeen, Tex., the central Texas town outside Ft. Hood. The ambulance took Brown to a hospital in nearby Temple where he is reported in satisfactory condition.

UAW Assessment

DETROIT (UPI) — The United Auto Workers Union, within two or three weeks of draining a $120 million strike fund to its last reserves, has moved to assess the union's 900,000 working members to support the 38-day strike against General Motors Corp.

The UAW's ruling International Executive Board (IEB) met here Thursday and indicated it will ask a special financial convention Saturday to boost dues to nonstriking members. Sources said the increase was likely to be $10 monthly and raise an extra $9 million a month.

The Union is currently paying out about $14 million a week in strike benefits to 350,000 workers who struck GM at midnight, Sept. 14, and some others idled by the strike.

Tanks For Israel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States will supply Israel with 200 modern tanks in a $500 million arms aid program, the Washington Post said Friday.

The newspaper quoted informed sources that Israel would receive the M60 tanks — best in the American arsenal — over a one-year period.

The tanks, built by the Chrysler Corporation at a cost of from $200,000 to $220,000 each, are considered by American military experts superior to any produced by the Soviet Union. The Egyptian armed forces are equipped with Soviet T54 and T55 tanks. They have not been supplied with the more modern Soviet T72 tanks.

Radio Bomb Alert

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chairman Dean Burch of the Federal Communications Commission has asked broadcasters to cooperation in keeping bombed-out radio stations on the air.

In a letter to President Vincent T. Wasilewsky of the National Association of Broadcasters, Burch asked the organization "to take all appropriate steps of assistance to ensure that no station in this country is silenced by dynamite."

Burch did not spell out what type assistance he had in mind, but an FCC spokesman said the implication was that broadcasters should lend equipment or power to any station whose facilities are bombed.

Mexican Blackout

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—An evening rush hour power failure blacked out this city of 8 million for one hour and 13 minutes Thursday. Thousands were trapped in subways and office building elevators.

The blackout that occurred just before sunset extended to cities of neighboring states as far as 75 miles away. Within minutes it plunged this capital and other towns into total darkness that prevailed until power began to be restored at 7:40 p.m. (9:40 p.m. EDT).

Algeria Balks At Allowing Leary To Talk

ALGIERS (UPI) — Algerian authorities today refused authorization for Black Panther leader Eldridge B. Cleaver to stage an international news conference to introduce Timothy F. Leary, advocate of free use of the drug LSD and a fugitive from U.S. justice.

The Algerian Information Ministry gave no explanation for the cancellation of the conference, originally called for Thursday by Cleaver, "information minister" of the militant Black Panther movement.

Informed circles said, however, Algerian authorities refused authorization to hold it today because Cleaver did not clear the matter with them first and because of possible embarrassment in Algeria's relations with the United States.

Announcing the conference, Cleaver said he would also present Bernardine Rae Dohrn, 28, a fugitive from the United States on the FBI's most wanted list.

Although formal diplomatic relations between the United States and Algeria were broken by Algeria at the time of the six-day Arab-Israeli War in 1967, both countries maintain small missions in each other's capital.

Officials Call Church Bombing Vicious, Psychotic, Despicable

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Gov. Ronald Reagan said it was "vicious," Mayor Joseph Alioto called it the work of a "psychotic crew" and Police Chief Alfred Nelder declared it was "despicable."

All three were discussing the exploding of a time bomb Thursday outside a Roman Catholic church as 300 policemen from 15 departments joined mourners at a funeral for a patrolman killed during an attempted bank holdup.

There were no serious injuries, but the bomb blew a three-foot-deep hole in the ground, discolored the stucco front of St. Brendan's Church and hurled nails, screws and bolts as far as 400 feet.

Reagan, who asserted the bombing was part of the "fiendish tactics" of revolutionaries, declared: "It gives you some idea of the viciousness of the jungle animals that are loose among us and must be contained."

Alioto told reporters, "We're going ahead with the funeral service immediately to show these bums they can't scare us out."

"We're not going to turn this city into a police state," he added. "But there's a lot of room for rough, tough law enforcement within constitutional limits . . . and this is going to be done. Believe me!"

A $5,000 reward is being offered "for information leading to the arrest and conviction" of those who planted the bomb, Alioto said.

"The terrorists will be defeated and brought to justice," he asserted.

Nelder remarked: "A man lays down his life doing his duty and we come to pay tribute to him at a mass and then someone does this. It just makes you wonder what we are coming to."

The services were for Patrolman Harold L. Hamilton, 32, who was killed Monday during a robbery attempt at a Wells Fargo bank branch. James Sanchez, 27, accused of the attempt, was wounded critically.

Nelder said three of Hamilton's small sons were in the church vestibule when the bomb exploded, 13 minutes before the scheduled start of services.

"If the intention was to injure, kill or maim police, the fact of the matter is that it almost did that to some children—particularly the Hamilton children," Nelder added. There were 20 other youngsters in the church.

Rock Atop Auto Fatal To Driver

SAN FERNANDO, Calif. (UPI)—A 22-year-old graduate student died at Holy Cross hospital Thursday of injuries suffered when a 50-pound rock was dropped from an overpass onto his car.

The rock caved in the roof of William Hoyt's four-door sedan Wednesday night. A passenger, Stephen Freed, 22, was hospitalized for treatment of shock.

Authorities said several rocks had been dropped from the Peoria Street overcrossing onto the Golden State Freeway in Sun Valley in the past year.

Banned Defoliant Used By Soldiers

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. command said today troops of the U.S. Army's Americal Division used 5,500 gallons of the controversial chemical "Orange" to kill vegetation in the war zone even after its use was forbidden in Vietnam.

The military said "appropriate disciplinary measures" may be forthcoming, depending on the outcome of the investigation, which is still underway.

Communiques also reported the loss of two American helicopters to Communist ground fire in Vietnam and a Viet Cong ambush against a Cambodian convoy on a part of Highway 4 southwest of Phnom Penh which the Cambodian Command had declared safe.

The U. S. Command disclosed today that one American was killed and 55 were wounded in last Sunday's Communist shelling of an Allied navy base in the Mekong Delta. Officials had originally said U. S. casualties at the base, 165 miles southwest of Saigon were light.

The U. S. Command said today an investigation by its inspector general's office showed the Americal Division sprayed "Orange" from helicopters and ground units in the northern sector of South Vietnam in May, July and August.

American troops were ordered on April 17 to halt the use of "Orange," which the National Cancer Institute said produces a higher than normal rate of deformities in the offspring of mice and rats. It is used to defoliate the heavy jungle and undergrowth in Vietnam. It contains the herbicide 2,4,5-T.

Spokesmen for U. S. military commander Gen. Creighton W. Abrams said the investigation was still going on and "depending on the outcome of the investigation, appropriate disciplinary measures will be considered." The spokesmen declined to elaborate.

Offending Sewage To Be Impounded

I-J Special Report

MENLO PARK — The Air Force announced yesterday it has found a solution for its sewage problem atop Mount Tamalpais — its men at the radar station will swim in it.

The Air Force station has been under fire from the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board for allowing its partially treated sewage to trickle down the mountain into Alpine Lake, which provides drinking water for the Marin Municipal Water District.

The board got the word yesterday, however, that emergency funds will be sought by the Air Force to impound all sewage wastes at the station for use in the existing swimming pool. The emergency funds also would provide for tertiary treatment of the waste to meet standards assuring their suitability for body contact, the board was told.

The amount of money needed was not mentioned, but Col. Lee A. Sarter Jr., commanding officer at Hamilton Air Force Base, which has jurisdiction over the sewage problem, promised that the work will be completed by Oct. 15, 1971 — if the funding is approved at higher levels.

His letter said that the construction schedule was based on gettting the funds by Dec. 1.

An Air Force attorney last month had asked the regional board to give the station time to study the health hazard this winter, but the board made it clear then that it would enact a cease and desist order against the station at its October meeting if the Air Force did not come up with a schedule to eliminate the problem.

The station's present system is to spray its treated sewage, some 17,000 gallons a day, on a field, where it is supposed to percolate into the soil. In rainy weather, however, it runs down the mountain.

In other business, the regional board ordered Gilardi's Resort on the Petaluma River to construct a septic tank and leach field system by Dec. 1, or be certified to the attorney general for prosecution for dumping raw sewage into the river. The penalty for violating the board order can run up to $6,000 a day.

The board has been pushing for five years to stop the discharge, and a new state law gives it power to act against polluters far more directly and swiftly than under the previous law.

Water Control Board Backs Novato Bonds

I-J Special Report

MENLO PARK — Novato Sanitary District's proposed $5.5 million bond issue won unanimous support yesterday from the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board.

The support was voted at the request of district officials who said that there was confusion in the district over the board's position on the bond measure, to be voted Dec. 8 in a special election.

The confusion, according to district officials, arose last month when the regional board ordered the district to anticipate joining adjacent sewage agencies in a subregional treatment system.

The board made it clear yesterday that the bond measure and the need for a long-range regional system were not in conflict.

Yesterday's support of the bond measure came as the board also set a deadline of Feb. 1, 1973, for construciton of the improvements to be built with the bond money. The improvements include removing discharges from Novato creek and instad putting them through a 300-foot outfall near Hamilton Air Force Base.

This outfall, however, will not meet the board's long-range program of discharging into deep water. The 300-foot pipe will not clear the mud flats at low tides.

The board also gave the district until Jan. 1 to submit a time schedule to develop a subregional system, and authorized the executive officer to go to the attorney general for "proper legal relief and civil monetary remedies" if the deadlines are not met.

The monetary remedies provide for a fine up to $6,000 a day.

The adjacent sewage agencies that would be included in the subregional system are the City of Petaluma, Sonoma Valley County Sanitation District, Hamilton Air Force Base and Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District. The board's staff reported that each had been informed of the notification given last month to the Novato district, but that no response had been received from any.

The board adicated that it soon will consider orders against three other agencies to force them into a subregional system.

Scientists Think Pulsar Doubles Speed Of Light

LONDON (UPI)—Two British scientists said today their studies have turned up electromagnetic fields trillions of miles from earth which are traveling at twice the speed of light.

The report appeared to challenge some of the findings of Albert Einstein involved in his theory of relaitvity and were expected to touch off arguments among physicists around the world.

In part, the Einstein theory holds that the speed of light is 186,282 miles per second and that this is the absolute limit.

The new phenonenon was described by Dr. John S. Allen and Geoffrey Endean of the department of engineering science at Oxford University in the latest issue of the magazine Nature.

The Allen-Endean report was on electromagnetic fields whirling around the Crab nebula, a huge cluster of stars more than 5,000 light years from earth.

It said the fields achieve twice the speed of light—or about 372,000 miles per second.

Replying to their own question as to whether this denies Einstein's equations of 1905, Allen and Endean attributed their findings to the violence of the processes going on in the Crab nebula.

Inside the Nebula, the report said, is a collapsed star, or pulsar, about 10 miles in diameter that radiates 100 times more energy than the sun.

The pulsar is so dense, Allen and Endean said, that a piece of it the size of a sugar cube would weigh 100 million tons. The report said the pulsar rotates 33 times a second.

The findings were based on mathematical and astrophysical calculations that followed experimental observations carried out by other scientists.

Lane Change Flips Car, Driver Hurt

A 23-year-old Napa man was treated Wednesday for a fractured foot and multiple bruises suffered when his car rolled over on Highway 101 near the Marinwood exit at 10:30 a.m.

The California Highway Patrol said Loren E. Vanderschoot was southbound on the freeway when he swerved to the left to avoid a car driven by Mary V. Perry, of Sebastopol, which made a lane change in front of him.

His car hit the center divider and overturned, throwing him from the vehicle, officers said. He was taken to Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Rafael for treatment.

Mrs. Perry was cited by the highway patrol for making an improper lane change resulting in an accident.

Atlanta was first known as Terminus where four rail lines met.

GOV. REAGAN GETS TO CORE OF ECOLOGY

PALO ALTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan, traveling between campaign stops Thursday, tossed an apple core from his limousine window into the ivy on the edge of a freeway.

Asked later why he did it, the Republican governor said the core was "humus" and would benefit the soil. He added he was benefitting ecology and not littering.

He did not comment when asked if apple cores violated state antilitter laws.

Kettenhofen Gets Reinecke Support

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke yesterday endorsed Ernest N. Kettenhofen of Sleepy Hollow, Republican nominee for the State Board of Equalization.

Reinecke called Kettenhofen "a man who wants to do a job for California." He said he has the welfare of the homeowner, the small businessman and the family farmer at heart."

Kettenhofen is seeking the Third District seat being vacated by Paul R. Leake, Woodland newspaper publisher. The district covers 25 counties, including Marin.

Jury Asked To Probe Official In Petaluma

The Sonoma County Grand Jury has been asked to investigate charges of misconduct on the part of Paul Stanley, Petaluma Planning Commission chairman.

Attorney Leroy J. Lounibos Sr. said he had made the request because he feels the city failed to investigate fully charges made against Stanley at the Oct. 5 city council meeting.

At that meeting, Lounibos said Stanley had made telephone threats to three clients, warning them not to oppose a planned apartment unit at 833 Petaluma Boulevard North.

On Oct. 13, the council met with Stanley behind closed doors, but took no action in public.

Mayor Helen Putnam said today that the council had attempted to investigate the charges fully, but that none of the three persons allegedly threatened would appear to substantiate the complaint.

"The council at this moment has the matter open and under investigation; however, in the light of the accusers' present refusal to appear before the council, I find it difficult to give credence to the statements made . . ." Mrs. Putnam said.

Lounibos said he hoped the grand jury investigation would be extended, if necessary, to other elected and appointed city officials.

He said he expected that 25 to 50 witnesses would be called and said the 1970 grand jury might not be able to complete the entire investigation and that the 1971 grand jury may become involved.

Victor de Carli and Francis Lazio, both Lounibos's clients, reported that Stanley called them and threatened pressure against their businesses if they raised objections to apartments planned by C and S Enterprises of San Rafael. The third person allegedly threatened has not been named.

Stanley denied the charges of misconduct and said he would welcome a grand jury investigation to clear the air.

Fairfax Planners Approve Changes

The Fairfax Planning Commission last night recommended that the city council approve proposed new sign and zoning ordinances.

The sign ordinance which would allow one square-foot of sign for each foot of storefront up to 100 square feet was passed on without change, secretary Ernestine Healy said.

The only significant difference between the old and the proposed new zoning ordinance is the boundary of the business district, Eckles said.

The business district under the proposed ordinance would be restricted more to Sir Francis Drake and Center boulevards and Bolinas Avenue, he said.

as "war and civil liberties," "legality of current injunctions and how to fight them" and "student rights and obligations of the law."

The grand jury report blamed agitators and "permissive" administrators for the disturbances which culminated in the shooting deaths of four students by National Guardsmen.

Student body president Craig Morgan, one of 25 persons indicted by the grand jury, drew up the plans for the day of quiet discussions of the implications of the report. Morgan is charged with second degree riot, an indictment which shocked the campus.

All classes were to go on as scheduled. Morgan urged students to gather in small informal groups during the day to discuss the events of the past week.

The 13 named so far in the indictments include a professor, five students, six former students and one person not connected with the university.

Windows Broken At Braverman's

Three plate glass windows at Braverman's furniture store, 208 Greenfield Avenue, were broken Wednesday evening, San Anselmo police reported today.

Police said four shots, apparently from a pellet gun, were fired through the windows between 7:20 and 8:30 p.m.

The assistant manager of the store said the vandalism appeared related to San Francisco Typographical Union 21's strike against the Independent-Journal, which has protested firms advertising in the I-J.

No estimate of the value of the windows was available.

Two Panels Of Jurors Running Low

I-J Special Report

FAIRFIELD — Two panels of 75 prospective jurors were nearly exhausted today as a jury went unselected in the trial of seven men arrested during the Valentine's Day Labor demonstration outside the Independent-Journal in San Rafael.

Only 14 members of the panels remained as jury selection entered its fourth day before Judge William E. Jensen in Solano County Superior Court. A total of 61 prospective jurors have been dismissed by defense or prosecution challenges, with one seated.

The seven defendants are charged with various felonies, including assault on a police officer, and misdemeanors arising from the demonstration, which drew more than 600 persons to the I-J building in support of striking printers.

Youth Is Moved To County Jail; Knife Incident

A 17-year-old Marinwood youth, who was rearrested early yesterday morning along with three other boys in a stolen car, was moved from Marin Juvenile Hall to the county jail today after he reportedly brandished a knife.

Held in jail as a California Youth Authority parole violator was James Charles Kisling.

The other three, Kenneth Brown, 17, of San Rafael; Robert Piver, 12, of Fairfax, and Allen Bernard Tigger, 17, of Novato, were held at Juvenile Hall. Brown and Piver had escaped earlier form the hall.

The four youths were arrested after someone called sheriff's deputies at 4:30 a.m. yesterday to say there was a suspicious looking car on Montecito Road near San Rafael.

The car had been reported stolen earlier from a San Rafael man.

He said most of the apartments would be studio units.

Study Reports Teens Smoking More Today

By THOMAS PLEDGE

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UPI)—A new study reported by University of Illinois researchers has bad news for those who hope young people are being weaned away from cigarettes.

Its conclusion is that a larger percentage of teen-agers may be smoking now than before the federal government put its weight behind the warning on the pack: "Cigarette smoking may be hazardous to your health."

The researchers checked smoking habits among 23,724 public and private school students in north central Illinois. They came up with evidence of a "new wave of smokers."

They concluded there are signs of a sharp increase in smoking by girls between the ages of 13 and 15. The girls tended to equate cigarettes with maturity and were more determined to continue smoking than were boys, the report said.

The researchers reported that all the television admonitions, the classroom warnings, and even the example of nonsmoking parents apparently have less influence on a teenager's decision about cigarettes than do the habits of friends.

Starting in early 1966, when precautionary health warnings first became mandatory on cigarette packages, Profs. William H. Creswell, Warren J. Huffman and Donald Stone, plus a group of graduate students, set out to examine the smoking habits of students in grades 7 through 12 in Rockford, Ill., and surrounding Winnebago County.

The study, financed by a $184,500 grant from the Department of Health Education and Welfare, was broad enough to indicate the teen-age smoking trend in the Midwest, and probably the nation, Creswell said.

The findings were correlated with those of a similar study conducted in 1958 among 9th through 12th grade students in Portland, Ore. —prior to the surgeon general's report linking smoking and some types of cancer.

The results appeared to indicate that teen-agers are going counter to an over-all trend that dropped cigarette sales by over 2 million packages daily during the 1960s.

In comparing the two studies, the researchers found that 23.8 per cent of Rockford high school students were smokers in 1968 compared to 23.3 per cent of those in Portland in 1958 —only a 1-2 per cent difference, but one that Cresswell said may be statistically significant.

For the purposes of comparison only the Rockford city figures were matched with Portland, excluding the rural Illionois youngsters.

The smoking rates of boys in the two cities were roughly equal, but there were striking differences among freshmen and sophomore girls in high school. In Rockford, 13.8 per cent of the ninth grade girls when researchers made a were smokers, compared to only 6.3 per cent of those checked in Portland. In 10th grade the Illinois girls led 19.5 per cent to 13 per cent.

—The proportion of regular smokers—those who had at least a cigarette a day—was about equal between boys and girls in the upper grades. But more girls than boys said they intended to keep on smoking.

—State and local ordinances against teen-age smoking had no apparent influence on a youngster's cigarette habits. However, most young smokers said they were concerned about the effect of cigarettes on their health.

—An unusually high percentage of smokers were absent indicated teen-age smokers are when researchers made a second or third visit to a school. The report said this indicated teen-age smokers are more prone to illness, play hookey more often, or are more likely to be suspended or drop out of school. The smokers also generally had poorer grades and lower academic aspirations, the report said.

—A high proportion of regular smokers had parents who smoked, usually the father. The level of education among smoking parents was lower than that of nonsmoking parents.

—Regular classroom teachers had more influence on teenagers' feelings about cigarettes than mass media advertising or lectures by outsiders. Individualized instruction appeared to have the most impact.

—The smoking "clique" was evident among both boys and girls, with smokers seldom associating with nonsmokers and vice versa. Smokers also tended to be dissatisfied with their age and wished to be older.

Innocent Plea To Rifle Count

Michael Owens, 19, of 4 College Park, Larkspur, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a felony charge of having a loaded rifle on the College of Marin campus last Sunday night.

A preliminary hearing was set for Nov. 10.

Owens was arrested about 10:10 p.m. when a sheriff's deputy stopped his car as it came out of the college dental laboratory area. The deputy said that Owens, who appeared to be drunk, had a carbine and a pellet rifle in his car and could not explain what he was doing there.

Union Pacts Giving Higher Pay Hikes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Labor Department reports that major union contracts signed during the first nine months of this year have provided the workers covered with annual pay increases averaging 9.6 per cent compared to increases averaging 7.6 per cent during all of 1969.

It also said construction industry workers appeared to be faring best of all the recent contracts, with average annual increases amounting to 14.4 per cent.

Germans Develop Electric Vehicles

BONN, GERMANY — West Germany is pushing research and development of electric powered motor vehicles in efforts to strike out at pollution and noise.

The development is being spearheaded by Bonn's Transport and Science Ministries and a number of university and industrial research institutes.

Results have already begun to emerge. Mercedes makers Daimler-Benz recently introduced a 66-person bus with a hybrid power system. The test model uses a diesel motor with generator for power on the open road and runs on five batteries (3.5 tons) on city streets.

The buses special power system produces a more comfortable ride and a better performance than conventional diesel powered vehicles. Maximum weight of the bus with passengers on board is 16 tons.

SUSPECT

released by the California Youth Authority in 1965.

The suspect—also known as Pascal, his mother's present name — was described as a "white, male American with brownish hair, combed to one side and reaching his collar."

His estranged wife who last saw him when he left the cabin recalled he was wearing a three-quarter inch beard, a beige straw hat with a wide brim and a red, white and blue band, a green coat, dark trousers, which might have been jeans, and ankle high moccasins.

The wife, whom the district attorney did not name, was quoted as saying that when he left the cabin, he had a pistol in his waistband, a backpack of food for several days, expensive binoculars and a book on Tarot.

Tarot is a medieval method of telling fortunes with playing cards. The names of Tarot cards were signed to a note left by the killer under a windshield wiper of Dr. Ohta's Rolls Royce outside the hilltop mansion which had been set on fire.

The note declared "World War 3," opposed materialism and vowed death to those who "misuse the environment."

Sheriff's deputies have determined that .38- and .22-caliber pistols were used in the killings and an unnamed friend of Frazier's told detectives the hunted man owned a .38-caliber Smith and Wesson revolver.

One of Dr. Ohta's two surviving daughters said there had been a .22-pistol in the house which overlooks the Pacific Ocean.

Another unnamed friend told police Frazier had said he had been in the Ohta house where he had taken a pair of binoculars.

That friend also quoted Frazier as saying that those who lived like the Ohtas were too materialistic and "should be snuffed," a district attorney's affidavit said.

Victims in the shooting were Dr. Ohta, 47, a Japanese-American eye surgeon; his wife, Virginia, 41; their sons, Victor Taggart, 11, and Richard Derrick, 12; and his secretary, Mrs. Dorothy Cadwallader, 38.

Innocent Pleas To Burglary Charge

Two San Rafael youths pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of attempting to burglarize a San Rafael bowling alley early yesterday morning.

A preliminary hearing for John L. Mott, 19, and John Lin Motta, 18, was set for Tuesday.

The pair was arrested at 2:15 a.m. when police said they saw them fleeing from the Country Club Bowl where a burglary had been reported taking place.

Mayor's Garbage Can Blown Up

Novato Mayor Douglas M. Merrill's garbage can was blown up about 9 p.m. yesterday, police reported.

Merrill said that he felt it was the work of a prankster and not aimed at him. Several garbage cans were on Vineyard Road, having just been emptied. Merrill felt that the pranksters just happened to pick the one in front of his home at 2060 Vineyard Road.

Police were trying to determine the explosive used in the can.

Hearing Is Set On Pot Possession

A preliminary hearing was set yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for Nov. 3 for David Harold Chapman, 28, of Forest Knolls, charged with possessing marijuana and drinking wine in public in Sausalito.

Chapman was arrested Oct. 13 after a Sausalito policeman saw him and a companion on the steps of El Monte Lane drinking wine and beer. As the officer approached, Chapman swallowed the handmade cigarette he was smoking, the officer said, but three plastic bags containing suspected pot were found in his jacket pocket.

Six Education Issues At Stake

By ROBERT P. LAURENCE

(Third of four articles)

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Education issues are at stake in six of the 20 propositions on the Nov. 3 ballot.

One of the measures, Proposition 5, would require the Board of Regents of the University of California to meet openly in public. Now the board meets behind closed doors whenever it wants.

"We, the people, have a right to know how the decisions affecting our tax money, and our sons and daughters, are made; who is making them and why," claims Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, author of the proposed constitutional amendment.

Other education measures on the ballot would allow early legislative school appropriations, permit part of the teachers' retirement fund to be invested in stocks, designate the speaker of the Assembly an ex-officio member of the state college trustees, authorize an extra non-civil service deputy superintendent of public instruction in the state Department of Education, and allow counties to appoint their school superintendents rather than elect them.

Presently, other government bodies must meet in public. (The Legislature still is not legally required to meet in public session, but does as a practice.)

Proposition 5 "conforms the law governing the activities of the board of regents to that governing" other governmental bodies, according to Bagley.

But Sen. John L. Harmer, R-Glendale, opposes the measure, arguing that opening up the regents' meetings could lead to disruption.

"The presence of television and the press at a crucial point in the decision-making process can be inhibiting when the issue is a highly charged, emotional one," Harmer says. "Decision affected by disruptive presence is not consistent with the California electorate's desire to separate the regents of the university from politics as completely as possible."

But Bagley notes that the regents would retain the power to prevent disruption at meetings and to hold closed meetings on matters affecting national security and personnel.

Proposition 4, another proposed constitutional amendment, would allow the legislature to make school appropriations before passage of the state budget if the budget bill is delayed. Presently the constitution forbids passage of any other appropriation bill before the budget, except emergency bills recommended by the governor or appropriations for legislative salaries and expenses.

Under the present system, school assistance bills are "not enacted until long after the fiscal year begins, making it impossible for school districts to plan with assurance," argues Assemblyman Victor V. Veysey, R-Brawley, chairman of the Assembly Education Committee, and Assemblyman March K. Fong, D-Oakland, a member of the committee.

"Spare your local school officials the agony and inefficiency of setting budgets in June and then learning in August or September how much the state has appropriated," they say.

But Assemblyman Robert H. Burke, R-Huntington Beach, another education committee member, argues that the appropriation for school finance is contained in the budget bill itself, and that the school assistance bill contains only supplemental funds.

Proposition 6 would amend the state constitution to allow investing part of the teachers retirement fund in common stocks. Approved by the Legislature and endorsed by the California Teachers Association, it has drawn no opposing arguments on the voters' pamphlet.

Investment of other public retirement funds is already allowed.

"Increased investment earnings obviously will benefit both taxpayers and teachers," say Assemblymen E. Richard Barnes, R-San Diego, chairman of the Joint Legislative Retirement Committee, and Jack R. Fenton, D-Montebello, who signed the voters' vamphlet argument.

Proposition 7 would add the speaker of the Assembly as a voting member of the State College Board of Trustees.

Assemblyman William Campbell, R-Hacienda Heights, author of the proposed amendment, says the speaker is already expected to attend trustee meetings and take part in state college affairs, but is denied a vote. The statement is also signed by Sen. Albert Rodda, chairman of the Senate Education Committee.

Campbell argues that the speaker already has voting privileges on the University of California Board of Regents and should have the same power on the trustees.

But Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, opposes the measure, maintaining that politicians should instead be removed from the higher education boards.

"Too often elected officials have exploited the university and state colleges for their own political purposes," he says. The presence of political figures "tends to polarize public opinion and to prevent the constructive resolution of the serious problems facing higher education in California."

Proposition 8 would allow the appointment of an additional non-civil service deputy superintendent of public instruction in the state Department of Education.

Presently under the state constitution, the board of education is required to appoint one deputy and three non-civil service associate superintendents named by the superintendent. Under the proposed amendment the board would be permitted — not required — to appoint two deputies and three associates, all nominated by the superintendent.

However if Proposition 14, a measure to revise Civil Service provisions, also passes, there could be two deputies and four associates.

The author of the Legislature-approved measure, Assemblyman John Stull, R-Luecadia, argues that the last such additions in the department of education were made in 1947, and that education has mushroomed in the state since then.

But the measure would lead to "Educational leadership on a political basis rather than a professional basis," objects Assemblyman L.E. Townsend, D-Torrance.

Proposition 9 would allow counties to appoint rather than elect their school superintendents. The proposed constitutional amendment by Assemblyman Robert Wood, R-Greenfield, would permit local voters to make the posts appointive. The elected county boards of education would then name the superintendent.

The superintendent "should be the best qualified person for the job rather than a politician," argue Wood, Mrs. Fong, and Sen. Donald L. Grunsky, R-Watsonville, in the voters' pamphlet argument.

Cancellation Of Election Sought

MONTREAL (UPI)—The separatist Parti Quebecois demanded today that the Quebec government cancel Sunday's Montreal city election because of "the climate of panic provoked by the events of the past two weeks." There was no word about the fate of kidnaped diplomat James R. Cross.

The party, which seeks independence for Quebec through peaceful means, said the political atmosphere of the province is so tense from separatist terror and the accusations of politicians that the election would be a farce.

There was silence for the fifth day from the terrorists of the Front de Liberation du Quebec (FLQ) on the fate of British Diplomat James R. Cross, kidnapped 18 days ago.

The last such word from the FLQ, a letter from Cross "to the authorities," was found Sunday, the day after the FLQ killed its other hostage, Quebec Labor and Immigration Minister Pierre Laporte. He was strangled with the chain of his religious medal.

Police said they had run out of clues, after more than two weeks of the most intensive manhunt in Canadian history.

"We're getting a bit anxious," said Inspector J.R. Melancon of the Quebec Provincial Police.

"Nothing has led to anything. There are no clues," he said.

"We're raiding blind," said another police officer. "All we can do now is investigate tips."

Controversy continued about the effect of the kidnap crisis on the oCntreal city elections scheduled to be held Sunday.

The administration of Jean Drapeau, mayor for 13 of the last 17 years, is opposed by the Front D'Action Politique (FRAP), a coalition of leftist groups.

Montreal Archbishop Paul Gregoire proposed formation of a special committee to help ease the problems of those arrested under the emergency War Measures Act, which suspends civil liberties.

Police said they had released 102 persons, rounded up earlier in the raids on suspected separatist sympathizers to locate the kidnapers, but 232 others were still in jail.

Geothermal Resources Are Hailed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Geothermal resources in the Imperial Valley are capable of producing 15 times as much electrical power as Hoover Dam, the State Geothermal Resources Board was told Thursday.

James Van Logan, general manager of the Imperial Valley Development Agency, told the board at the windup of a two-day hearing that the steam and hot water wells could produce 20,000 megawatts of power.

Sen. John A. Nejedly, R-Martinez, told the board that it should urge the state to accelerate California's development of the resources.

This, Nejedly said, would help solve the air pollution problems and help fill the water and electricity demands of the future.

Van Logan also said, "Geothermal production of power is pollution free.

He also said distilled water produced from the steam from the wells could amount to 4.5 to 5.5 million acre-feet of water. He said the yield of the state water project will be 4.4 million acre-feet.

Secret Talks Over Long Labor Dispute

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Representatives of Bechtel Corp. and International Officers of the Plumbers and Pipefitters union met secretly Thursday in an attempt to work out a lengthy labor dispute involving construction of a multimillion-dollar power plant in southern Nevada.

Management and labor officials did not reveal the location of the meeting because the controversy has caused many tempers to flare, according to a spokesman in Las Vegas, for Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev.

Cannon was instrumental in bringing labor and management together in an attempt to solve the dispute at the Fort Mohave power plant near the Colorado River about 100 miles from Las Vegas.

The Las Vegas local of the Plumbers and Pipefiiters Union originally had jurisdiction at the construction site. Following more than 30 wildcat walkouts against Bechtel Corp., the international union took jurisdiction away from the Las Vegas local and gave it to two Los Angeles locals.

The maneuver threw about 250 southern Nevada plumbers and pipefitters out of work.

Cannon as well as Clark County officials objected to the loss of work for southern Nevada residents and were successful in getting labor and management together for the first time Oct. 15 in a meeting at Phoenix.

Bechtel is building the $200 million coal-burning power plant which will be operated by Southern California Edison. A portion of the plant is to be in operation in about a month and the entire facility is to be operative by next spring.

During the preliminary meeting in Phoenix both sides reached agreement whereby some southern Nevada plumbers and pipefitters would be put back to work.

The agreement called for the immediate return of 20 or more apprentices from the southern Nevada area. An agreement in principle said as many Nevada workmen as possible would be returned to their jobs.

The following meeting here was designed to work out a formula for returning southern Nevada workers to the jobs.

Novato Boy, 14, Is Hit While On Bicycle

An 11-year old Novato boy was treated at Novato General Hospital yesterday for scrapes after he was struck by an auto while sitting on his parked bicycle eastbound on Vineyard Drive in Novato about 3:15 a.m.

Officers said Timothy A. Brown, of 2901 Vineyard, was hit by a car driven by George Louis Tocalino, 60, also of Vineyard Drive (no street number given). According to the California Highway Patrol, Tocalino said he was blinded by the sun and did not see the boy.

Incorrect Quote

Esther Anne Smart of Larkspur, nominee of the American Independent Party for state Senate, was quoted incorrectly yesterday by the Independent-Journal as advocating "another bridge or two" between Marin and San Francisco. She called for "another bridge or tube."

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Gregory's Gone, Not Forgotten; Les Tonneaux Takes Its Place

A new name in Marin County restaurants is Les Tonneaux in Corte Madera.

Translated from the French, this means The Barrels and refers to the wine barrels which project from the walls of the dining room as part of the restaurant's remodeling.

Remodeling work, by the way, has been going on for several months. You must have noticed it if you have eaten recently at what was previously Gregory's Restaurant.

Yes, the name of Gregory's is being surrendered, not without some regrets by owners John Napoli, Angelo Camilleri and Bernard Epstein, for it was a good name and brought them a continuous flow of business. And if original owner Gregory Seubert should ever move back to Marin and reopen another place, it should be his to use again.

But it is the custom of creative restaurateurs to want their own thing - in name as well as in substance. With a different personality emerging here, perhaps it is right that the change be carried all the way.

Redecorating is still going on and should be finished by grand opening time - Nov. 10, 11 and 12. Most of the work that remains to be done is in the bar and lounge. A brick facing has already appeared behind the bar and the piano bar has been moved to the banquet room, which will have new wall decor and carpeting for sound damping and small tables. This room can still be used for parties at lunchtime and for dinners during the week when there is no nightly entertainment.

For a simple dish but a very satisfying one, I suggest the wiener schnitzel. Bernard's version is different from Gregory's - but that's what makes eating at different restaurants interesting. It could be pretty dull if every chef cooked exactly the same way as every other chef.

PRETTY DORI GREEN, who has been piano entertainer here since early this year, has picked up a 12-months contract in Santa Barbara at The Harbor Restaurant on Stearn's Wharf that was just too good to turn down. As her contract at Gregory's was expiring, she decided to move to the southland. With winter coming on in Marin, maybe she was smart. She'll do well there.

There is still weekend music at Les Tonneaux, but the last I heard a regular entertainer had not been signed - something which may happen any day.

TABERNA in San Rafael, closed for the past couple of weeks, is expected to reopen again by early next week - probably Tuesday. This will give it time to get ready for its third anniversary celebration on Thursday, Oct. 29.

As usual, the celebration will include a buffet dinner from 8 p.m. The regular entertainers, Terry Ryan and the Midnight Sons, will play for dancing.

They will also continue to play here Friday and Saturday nights and Taberna will continue open seven days a week from 11 a.m. to 2 a.m., featuring its early evening cocktail hour with hot and cold hors d'oeuvres. At this point I am not sure about other food service and neither are the owners Bob Czyz and Roland Ledtke, who were swamped with phone calls when they closed, pleading for a reopening.

More about food service as soon as this has been determined.

THE MUSTARD SEED RESTAURANT has closed in the Strawberry Town and Country Village, but plans to reopen elsewhere as soon as a place is found for their vegetarian operation. They are still looking.

Michael Peri, 234 Hawthorne Avenue, Larkspur is the one to contact if you know of a suitable location.

BUFFALO MEAT is not a regular offering of very many restaurants in the Bay Area (there are none that I know of in Marin), although some places may serve it on occasions as a one-time specialty.

Yet in recent years it has become very popular with the comeback of buffalo herds. An average buffalo weighs about 1,800 pounds but the meat is usually very tender, particularly that of the young bulls and is sold commercially by some meat wholesalers - though not inexpensively.

In Marin County, the new Buffalo Smoke House, which opened Tuesday at 1707 Fourth Street, San Rafael, has it as an everyday menu item - buffalo steaks, stews and burgers. Dinner (not including dessert) runs $5.50 with buffalo steak as the entree, which actually isn't bad. Regular beef steak and lobster combination goes at $7.50 and lobster tails at $5.75. Other dinners featured are roast beef au jus at $5, broiled steak $4.50, buffalo stew $3.50 amd barbecued ribs at $3.

Buffalo stew and burgers are a la carte lunch specialties at $1.75 and $1.25 respectively, along with barbecued beef, beef burgers, sandwiches, salads and a diet plate.

Buffalo Smoke House is open seven days a week from 11 a.m. to 2 a.m. (except Sundays when it opens at 5. Lunches are served from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and food service is renewed from 5 to 10 p.m. (both the lunch and dinner menu). After 10 p.m., beef stew and barbecued beef can usually be obtained.

Owners Tom Reddock and Tom East, who use the first names of Buff and Max respectively to avoid confusion, have remodeled this place, giving it an appropriate western atmosphere. They have a wine and beer license and have a bar which serves during the entire time the restaurant is open.

It's very neat and clean and should prove popular both as a specialty house and to business people in the West End and nearby areas.

FRED CHERRY'S WINE DISCOVERY SHOP probably will not get moved from San Anselmo to its new Sausalito location until the middle of next month. And that means a corresponding delay before the restaurant operation starts up again at Cafe Bon Vin, San Anselmo by George Loizos, who has applied for an on-sale wine and beer license.

Meanwhile Cherry is holding California and Provincial Nights each month and his following of Les Bon Vivants has grown to 1,100 members. Next California night is next Wednesday when the Mirassou family brings in its wines and favorite recipes for this banquet. And another International Night in San Francisco is planned for Nov. 11, featuring the wines and food of Australia - a black tie affair.

CHEF WALLY PRICE at Bernard's Executive Lounge, San Rafael is now preparing a regular Thursday night bouillabaisse - a sort of lazy man's cioppino (without the clamshells in the Italian version). Tab is $3.50, which includes gobs of hot French garlic bread to help in the mopping up operations.

CHRIS BOLTON of Cloud 5, Novato and three members of her staff have returned from Germany. While the purpose of this trip probably was not connected with the restaurant business (but to get away from it), undoubtedly some ideas must have been picked up for new additions to the German side of the Cloud 5 menu.

SINGER-GUITARIST Don Snyder has returned to the Bay Area after a year, having been working in Palm Springs and in motion pictures.

He has opened for an extended engagement at Chumley's at the top of Ghiradelli Square in San Francisco.

Novatan Arraigned In Marijuana Case

Robert Morrison Gould, 19, of 25 Corona Court, Novato, has been arraigned in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of possessing marijuana when arrested by the California Highway Patrol Tuesday.

He is to return to court next Wednesday to enter a plea.

Charge Reduced In Assault Case

A reduced misdemeanor charge of battery has been filed in Marin Municipal Court against Richard Ralph Martinez, 40, of San Francisco, formerly charged with attempting to rape a San Rafael housewife.

Martinez had been arrested after the 29-year-old woman whom he had met in a bar complained that he tried to rape her in a parking lot in July. He denied this and said that the woman panicked when he tried to kiss her and that he shook her by the shoulder to try to calm her.

A jury trial on the battery charge has been set for March 8.

Hollis Says Friese To Keep Reed Job

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

County Schools Supt. Virgil S. Hollis has relented on his cancellation of superintendent service to the Reed School District as of Oct. 31.

Hollis said today he is willing that his assistant, Stanley Friese, remain longer on loan to the Reed district "to help them in their problem of transition until a permanent superintendent is hired."

Friese, he emphasized, will not be that permanent superintendent. "He will return to the county office," said Hollis.

Also, Friese will continue to report to the county board of education on his stewardship of the Reed district. His next report is scheduled Nov. 2, Hollis said.

Friese's Oct. 9 report to the county board, in which he said he "had to step on a lot of toes" since taking over as interim superintendent of the Reed district, brought a blast from Reed Trustee Leo Souza, who contended the interim superintendent should report only to the district board. On Souza's motion, the Reed board voted 3-1 to send a letter to Hollis objecting to Friese's reporting to the county board.

Hollis promptly notified the Reed board that the contract for the county to provide an interim superintendent would be canceled as of Oct. 31.

The county superintendent said today several members of the Reed board had urged him to relent on the deadline created cause of the difficulties rraeted for the district if it had to find another temporary superintendent. He said he had agreed to allow Friese to remain longer "to help them out," possibly as long as Der. 31, the terminal date of the original agreement of last June for the county to furnish superintendent services.

He emphasized that the contract was for the county schools ofice to furnish superintendent services, not a contract between the Reed district and Friese. Although paid by the Reed district, Friese remains a county schools employee and is obligated to report to the county board, Hollis stressed.

Meanwhile, a new set of brochures has been prepared by the Reed district in its search for a permanent superintendent, and the screening committee named to go over applications has been reactivated.

When the screening committee was set up following resignation last spring of Supt. Robert D. Gaw, the Reed board removed itself entirely from the process of winnowing candidates. Members of the screening committee were selected by various citizen committees in the district and by the Reed District Parent-Teacher Club, not by the board.

The committee presented two names from among some 60 applicants. Both were rejected by the board.

A new law effective next month eliminates the requirement that a district superintendent hold teaching and administrative credentials. Under the Teacher Licensing Law of 1970, signed July 30 by the governor, no credential is necessary for a superintendent. This could mean that the Reed district could recruit outside the education profession.

Chairman Gordon C.Wright of the Reed board said no move for such recruiting has been made yet, but "we might do it." The job is advertised to pay $22,000 to $26,000 per year.

Football Death Plane Had Earlier Mishap

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI) — Documents presented at a hearing into the crash of the Wichita State University football team's chartered airplane indicate the plane had maintenance problems partly resulting from an earlier accident.

Thirty persons, including 13 starting football players, the team's head coach and the school's athletic director, were killed Oct. 2 when one of two chartered airplanes crashed in the Colorado rockies en route to Logan, Utah, and a game ith Utah State.

An Oklahoma City mechanic, Henry H. Oltermann, 37, file a written report Thursday with the National Transportation Safety Board inquiry panel saying the right engine of the aircraft which crashed used 40.5 gallons of oil and the left engine used 27.5 gallons of oil in the nine days before the crash.

After the plane was ferried to Oklahoma City from Las Vegas, Nev., Oltermann said he added 80 gallons of oil to the right engine and 15 gallons to the left Sept. 24. He said he also put two gallons of hydraulic fluid in the landing gear struts, which are similar to shock absorbers.

As the plane was being taxied for a hop over Oklahoma City to Will Rogers World Airport, the left main landing strut and the nose wheel strut "went flat" and the plane sagged so low propeller blades tore up the ground, he said.

As a result of this incident, Oltermann said he had to replace the propeller and fix the landing gear. Oltermann will testify before the inquiry board in person later in the hearing.

Marin's Program For U.N. Provides Wry Commentary

Marin will observe the 25th anniversary of the United Nations with a program tonight at the Festival Theater in San Anselmo.

The program, featuring San Francisco Supervisor Dianne Feinstein as speaker, originally was scheduled for the Civic Center. It was moved to the Festival Theater because the Civic Center now is closed at night as a part of security measures adopted after the Oct. 8 courtroom bombing.

The fact that it no longer is safe to have public night meetings in Marin County's No. 1 public building says a great deal about the state of civilization in our county, and the respect for law, order and mutual responsibility on which civilization rests.

The fact that the Civic Center therefore is not available for a program celebrating the birthday of the United Nations affords another wry commentary.

THE UNITED NATIONS was born amid high hopes a quarter-century ago in San Francisco.

It has not, to date, fulfilled those high hopes. It has failed to keep the world free from war. It has failed to bring the degree of international cooperation which its founders envisioned. It has failed to prevent unilateral actions by the great powers, secret treaties among nations great and small, the imposition of dictatorships upon people who did not ask for them.

There are those who therefore call it a failure, a Communist front, a worse-than-useless expense saddled principally upon the United States.

THE UNITED NATIONS Building is for New York a tourist attraction comparable to the Civic Center for Marin County.

Hundreds of people from throughout the world — from fascist countries, communist countries, democracies, autocracies — work in the United Nations Building. There, in scores of tongues, leaders from countries as disparate as the United States and the Byelorussian Soviet Socialist Republic debate matters of national and world import. Thousands of tourists throng the building's halls. Pickets protesting something as far away as Rhodesia or Outer Mongolia are not-unusual sights outside its doors.

In December, 1964, three Cubans fired a rocket across the East River at the United Nations Building. Their aim was bad.

That was as close as the U.N. skyscraper, with its thousands of windows, has come to being closed by a bomb.

THE UNITED NATIONS is 25 years old. The United States of America is nearly two centuries old. Marin County is well beyond its first century mark.

Those who attend the program at 8 o'clock tonight at the Festival Theater will be honoring a world organization that, for all its shortcomings, seems to have succeeded a little better in its first 25 years in subjecting disagreements to civilized discussion than our nation and county have done in their much longer lives.

Perhaps the U.N. is really the hope of the future which its founders dreamed it might be.

About That Ecology Flag

The San Rafael Board of Education is mulling over what response to make to a student request that San Rafael High School be permitted to fly a green ecology flag beneath the Stars and Stripes and the California Bear Flag on the school's flag pole.

We really don't see a sound reason for not allowing a third flag on the pole. However, if a third flag is to be run up, it should mean something. Flying a green flag won't do anything for the ecology.

We have a suggestion for the school board: Why not make the ecology flag a symbol of a clean campus — which is the most direct and immediate way the students can contribute to improving the environment? Let the flag be flown when the campus is clean, but not when the campus is littered.

The ecology flag then would be a banner of honor which the school could fly with pride.

When Government Sells Names It's Misuse Of Information

(Reprinted from Washington Evening Star.)

Government agencies have no business contributing to the flood of unwanted mail that the average American has to deal with. Yet many federal agencies regularly sell lists of names and addresses they accumulate in the course of carrying out their official responsibilities. This is a boon for some businesses and lobbyists, but a nuisance and an invasion of privacy for most of those whose names are thus sold.

Ironically, an admirable piece of law-making, the Freedom of Information Act of 1967, is used by many agencies as justificiation for selling the names and addresses. And contradictorily, an exemption in the same law, guarding against invasion of privacy, is used by other agencies to refuse to sell the lists.

Representative Horton of New York earlier this year introduced a bill to prohibit sales of mailing lists for "commercial or other solicitation" or for illegal uses. His investigation of the matter, on a constituent's complaint, put an end to a dangerous practice by the Internal Revenue Service — selling lists of gun collectors, a good way to advertise where guns could be stolen.

Countless groups of Americans, such as airplane pilots, amateur radio operators and boat owners, still are subject to having their names sold from federal records set up for other purposes. Horton's bill deserves congressional approval, in the absence of executive action that would straighten out the variant policies of the agencies.

One point not clear in Horton's proposal is whether the wording would ban the sales of lists for vote-solicitation and lobbying purposes. Buyers of the IRS gun-collectors' list included the Firearms Lobby of America and Citizens Against Tydings. Without getting into the merits of the Maryland senator's fight with the gun lobby, the ban on sales of federal mailing lists should be applied unmistakably to lobbyists as well as commercial users.

Volunteer Bureau Needs More Drivers

I would like to use this means of expressing my thanks for the publicity that you have given to the Volunteer Bureau of Marin, and especially to our effort to develop a volunteer driver program for the people of the county. I would also like to thank the many good citizens who have offered to drive their own cars to transport patients to docor and dental appointments. These patients would otherwise have been deprived of needed medical and dental care.

Marin County is deeply indebted to several business firms and agencies for help in providing this service. So far we have had enough, but our supply is running out, and the number of requests for transportation increases daily. Volunteers can be assured their services will be deeply appreciated by those who are being helped.

Why Issue Bonds Without A Vote?

Several days ago you threw a "brickbat" at the Marin County Board of Supervisors because of a joint venture with Corte Madera in which bonds were issued without voters' approval. I concur.

Since reading the above I have been doing much thinking, and have arrived at the conclusion that answers are needed to the following questions:

1. Why is it necessary to have a provision in our laws that allows the issuance of bonds without a vote of the people?

2. Why would any elected representative or officer want to issue bonds without reference to a vote of his constituents?

Sierra Club Letter Not Endorsement

I am extremely disturbed that a letter recently sent by the Sierra Club to a number of public figures in California has been misconstrued and advertised as "the nearest thing in the history of the Sierra Club to an endorsement. . ."

It is our practice to review conservation battles after the dust has settled and to send letters of gratitude to those public figures who in some way contributed to the success of the projects. We find that many of these men are pleased with such a personal courtesy, and we ourselves, of course, are always appreciative of the help we recevie from public officials. It is highly unfortunate that an incorrect and political interpretation was placed on this communication. . .

The Sierra Club has never endorsed candidates and does not contemplate doing so. . .

MICHAEL McCLOSKEY
Executive Director
Sierra Club
San Francisco

(The Sierra Club letter was addressed to Sen. George Murphy, Representatives Donald H. Clausen, Jeffery Cohelan, William S. Mailliard, Phillip Burton and Paul McCloskey, and state Senate candidate Peter H. Behr. It said: "I wanted to let you all know how much conservationists are indebted to you all for your successful efforts to rescue Point Reyes National Seashore." It went on to cite each of the recipients by name, lauding Behr for an "inspiring campaign. . .to rally public opinion" and Murphy for "personally persuading the President." It was read at a Murphy campaign dinner by Behr, who termed it "the nearest thing in the history of the Sierra Club to an endorsement." — Editor.)

Government Ties Itself Into Knots

Years ago, when employed in the land department of the Southern Pacific Co., I was struck with the duplication of effort involved as California made do with 58 counties, 58 assessors, 58 tax collectors, and their concomitant offices and staff, to say nothing of other non policy making bureaus of a similar routine or clerical nature. In theory, many of these could be consolidated. . .

On a national level, still fartheir back, President Hoover set up a study group of what had become a mindless governmental monster of duplicating appendages, all of them doing their self-serving thing. Without editorializing on pork barrel and myriad self interest groups his recommendations died aborning.

Recently, the city manager of a Southern Marin city was quoted to hold the belief that cities should not only license businesses: they should "regulate, extend regulation and generally increase interest in the operation." In other words, go from the governmental to proprietary. . .

Sum it up with cliches — Parkinson's law — you can't beat city hall — perpetuation of the species — you're still talking about thousands of little offices, hundreds of thousands of people, and millions of machines, all doing the same thing their neighbors are doing across the hall or on the other side of the county line.

History relates the Germanic tribes beat Rome and I believed the history books when I read it. I don't now. A modern parallel is the British Empire which toppled of its own weight.

Tennessee Senate Election Clear-Cut Test For Nixon

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

NASHVILLE — The Senate election in Tennessee will be one of the best barometers of whether the political strength of the President is rising or falling.

It is a crucial, clear-cut, head-on test for the Nixon administration.

The reason: One candidate is sharply pro-administration, his opponent sharply anti.

Richard Nixon wanted it this way. The candidates made it so.

DEMOCRATIC Sen. Albert Gore is a dedicated, determined, unwavering populist-liberal who is a vigorous opponent of nearly everything Mr. Nixon stands for.

His Republican opponent, Congressman William Brock, is a dedicated, determined, unwavering conservative who is a vigorous supporter of nearly everything President Nixon stands for. The President personally asked him to run.

The collision could hardly be more complete or the outcome more conclusive.

THE RESULT of this election, more clearly than almost anywhere else in the country, will:

— Increase opposition to or support for the whole range of Nixon policies, foreign and domestic.

— Directly reflect the vote-producing popularity of the President and his policies in congressional elections.

— Reveal whether the substantial trend to the conservative right here is the wave of the future or is about to recede.

— Indicate whether forceful political liberals in the tradition of Cordell Hull, Estes Kefauver and Gore are on the way out in Tennessee and in the South generally and whether forceful conservatives like Representative Brock are on the way in.

That's the stake in the Gore-Brock contest.

NO TENNESSEE voter can fairly claim that he has no choice, only an echo.

Gore is a long-standing easy-money man who thinks the federal government should regulate more than it now does, including interest rates, and who votes for larger appropriations rather than smaller.

Brock is an economic conservative who would like to see the government doing less regulation rather than more and who has one of the most consistent voting records in Congress when it comes to cutting spending.

Both are men of means conducting well-financed campaigns. They are honest, honorable and outspoken in their convictions.

Tennesseans will know what they are getting.

THIS IS THE FIRST time Senator Gore has been seriously challenged in his long career in politics. He could see it coming.

In national politics this state has been moving consistently to the right and away from the Democratic party. It went Republican in four of the last five presidential elections — twice for Eisenhower and twice for Nixon. During this period — '52 to '68 — the only Republican nominee the state rejected was Barry Goldwater in the Johnson landslide of 1964.

Senator Gore himself saw how much political trouble he was in when he won his fourth-term nomination with only 51 per cent of the vote.

Neither side feels at all secure today. At this stage the evidence is it could go either way and that the final outcome will be close.

THE WHITE HOUSE is doing everything it can to help Brock. His election is important to President Nixon's future.

We have recently been in Illinois and California where the trend was adverse to incumbent GOP Senators Ralph Smith and George Murphy. The Republicans must retain these seats and defeat Gore if President Nixon's all-out campaign effort is to reach its goal of capturing the Senate.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Why Did ACLU Attempt Radical Speaker Secrecy?

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — The answer as to who and what was behind the suit to block publication of the House Internal Security Committee's report on radical revolutionaries who got fancy fees for lecturing at universities may rest in the committee itself.

A committee member is strongly suspected by his colleagues of being involved in the American Civil Liberties Union's surprise attempt to enjoin the committee's report — an unprecedented legal action, so far as is known.

The suspected member is a militant civil libertarian with reputed ties with the ACLU; he disapproved of the investigation and sniped at it throughout its duration; the ACLU obviously was in possession of an advance copy of the report because it quoted from the document in the injunction petition filed in a federal court before the report was released — in flat defiance of the court's temporary restraining order.

STILL UNKNOWN is why the ACLU sought to suppress the committee's findings.

The ACLU professes to be a vigorous foe of secrecy and great champion of the "people's right to know." Yet the express purpose of its sudden suit was to bar the publication of the names of "radical revolutionaries" who were paid thousands of dollars for delivering extremist lectures to college students.

The committee's findings are explicit on that, as follows:

At the 134 colleges and universities surveyed, 1,168 outside speakers delivered 1,411 talks for which they received $909,335 in honoraria. A considerable percentage of highly paid lecturers were communists, radicals and a wide range of other militants and extremists.

Concludes the report:

"If, in a sampling of 3½ per cent of the institutions of higher education, payments of this magnitude are derived by such individuals, the Congress and the people of the United States have a right to conclude that the campus-speaking circuit is certainly the source of significant financing for the promoters of disorderly and revolutionary activity among students. Such speaking engagements are not only revenue producing, but afford a forum where the radicalization process may be continually expanded."

PROMINENTLY listed among the "radical revolutionaries" who were paid thousands of dollars for lecturing at colleges are the following:

Angela Davis, H. Rap Brown, Stokely Carmichael, Rennie Davis, David Dellinger, Herbert Aptheker, Tom Hayden, Abbie Hoffman, William Kunstler, Jerry Rubin, J. Mark Rudd, Claude Lightfoot, Bobby Seale. The committee found that in many instances extremists were selected as lecturers where student funds were involved. Declares the report:

"Analysis of the fees shows that students (through student funds) and not college and university administrators are primarily responsible for giving radical orators a campus platform . . . Where school administration is involved in invitation and payment of fees, it was found most campuses provide a balanced diet of speakers.

"The movement of the New Left quite candidly published a 'guide' of names, addresses and fees charged by a list of some 100 radical Pied Pipers of pernicious propaganda."

You Can't Avoid Spotlight When You Get Public Office

When you're famous (even just a little bit famous), the world is always watching, as Sausalito City Councilman Stephen Fraser learned the other day.

Fraser was driving a van on Highway 101 near the Waldo Grade when he noticed the ominous flashing red light of a highway patrol car directly behind him.

According to Steve, the officer made "one of those eloquent little gestures" which mean the jig is up and he pulled over to the side of the road.

A bit nervous that some of his constituents would see him in the predicament, the city councilman got out of his van through the righthand door — away from the highway. He says he edged over to the patrol car with his face carefully averted from the road.

He stood with his back to the freeway while the patrolman was writing the citation (for no outside rearview mirror). When it was all over, Fraser sneaked back to his van and jumped in —through the righthand door again — breathing a sigh of relief that no one could possibly have recognized him, thanks to his cautious maneuvers.

That night at a political dinner County Supervisor Michael Wornum called out to Fraser: "Say, Steve, wasn't that you I saw being stopped by the highway patrol today?"

IT MAY BE time for the Sausalito City Council to take another look at a leash ordinance it has discussed — on and off —for several years.

Tuesday a male husky dog jumped a fence into the yard of Carole Lester and attacked the city's best-known and best-liked ducks, Peter and Patsy, Mrs. Lester's pets for the past 13 years. Patsy was killed instantly and Peter maimed beyond recovery.

The ducks were subjects of a charming book "To Make a Duck Happy," written by Mrs. Lester and published last year.

Mrs. Lester called police and made a small investigation of her own. She learned the dog was not a neighborhood dog, but probably one of the mutts that roam Sausalito creating problems.

A leash law won't bring the two friendly little ducks back, but it could save some other owner the grief of losing a well-loved pet.

PERSONS WHO READ about Mrs. Jeanne Creemer, new volunteer fireman for the Tamalpais Valley Fire Department, may recall the all-women civil defense fire squads formed in Sausalito during World War II..

Although the women never fought an actual fire, they were always prepared for battling blazes which could have been caused by incendiary bombs, according to Mrs. Edward R. Souza, who served as a fire captain and squad leader.

Firefighting was a family affair for the Souzas. Edward served 42 years as a volunteer fireman for the Sausalito department and the couple's son, Robert, is now a firefighter with the department.

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

It Wasn't All So Beautiful Before The 'Spoilers' Came

Fusselman

"Urban Planner Backs Open Space Preservation Buying." That was the heading of a story in the I-J Wednesday. It puzzled me so I read the article, then it wondered me.

The gentleman was the speaker at a meeting of the Marin Conservation League the evening before. Here are some excerpts from the article:

"Buying up open space in Marin County to preserve it may be cheaper for taxpayers than developing the land," he told the group of 80 who were present.

He said "housing developments create corresponding service requirements such as schools, sewers and police which cost the taxpayers money."

"The contention that houses do not pay their way is correct," he told the audience.

He based his conclusions on long-term benefits to the taxpayers on a study his firm recently concluded in Palo Alto. He predicted the same results if a land use study were made in Marin County.

HE SUGGESTED that citizens form regional districts, taxing themselves to preserve nearby open space.

"Our program is a selective one. We recommend that the most vulnerable land should be purchased first."

Stalling actions such as zoning potential open space lands for one-acre lots may be used, he said, to prevent development of vulnerable lands until studies have been conducted to determine the best long-range use of vacant land in Marin County. But, he warned, "The way to keep it open is to buy it. You dare not wait."

LATE IN SEPTEMBER I was sitting in the front seat of a friend's car at the parking lot of the pharmacy on San Anselmo and Bolinas avenues. The car was headed west. Suddenly my attention was attracted by the graceful swaying of some beautiful tall trees along Bolinas.

How day dreaming will go along! I thought of the early pictures of Ross Valley areas, showing isolated homes with picket fences around them, homes surrounded by acres and acres of unattractive barren land (open space). It would have remained that way if the "spoilers" had not come along and built the nice friendly homes for themselves, such as those on Bolinas Avenue, and planted trees and shrubs and lawns to provide the frame for the most wonderful open space one can find anywhere, which I saw that September afternoon — the limitless blue sky.

The speaker gave as examples of areas to be preserved, the North Ridge area of Mill Valley — Larkspur — Corte Madera and the Nicasio Valley area.

AS I READ the article, my thoughts went to the Del Mesa area, Kent Woodlands and Greenbrae, with their lovely homes surrounded by gorgeous bloom, trees and shrubs. You know what?

I couldn't feel sorry that the spoilers had made it all possible for nice families to came here to live, where their children could grow up in such wonderful surroundings.

Then I wondered where those 80, present at the meeting, lived themselves — and where the speaker lived in Sausalito? Yes, it really wondered me.

Seashore Auto Use Report Hit

An ad hoc committee has been organized to protest reported plans to let public auto traffic use roads in remote areas of Point Reyes National Seashore.

Jerry Friedman of Inverness was named chairman of the ad hoc committee formed Tuesday night at a meeting of interested conservation group representatives and individuals in Inverness. It was the second such meeting in recent weeks.

Friedman said the ad hoc committee has no formal name yet. The committee has set a goal of obtaining a National Park Service hearing in San Rafael, similar to the park officials' "pre-planning" hearing last month on the public's wishes for the seashore.

Friedman said citizens stressed at the hearing that autos were not wanted in the remote areas. He said however, plans have been made to open roads on which vehicles now are banned.

The ad hoc committee plans to circulate petitions and begin a letter and postcard drive to gain the park service hearing, Friedman said.

Redondo's Ethnic Plan To Be Given

A Redondo Beach School District trustee Tuesday will outline that district's multi-ethnic studies program for parents, teachers and administrators of the San Anselmo School District.

Supt. W. Kenneth Lowry said Redondo Beach trustee Helen Colwell will discuss her district's program with the curriculum advisory council from 1 to 3 p.m. at the Red Hill School library and district teachers, parents and administrators from 3 to 5 p.m. at the Wade Thomas built-use room.

Lowry said the Redondo Beach program is adaptable to San Anselmo because the communities have a similar ethnic composition and economy.

He said that city's multi-ethnic studies differs from others because it emphasizes social contact besides text and class study. He said it has a sister city in Mexico with which student exchanges are made. Such exchanges are also made with a school district in Watts, he said.

Pen Paintings At Bookstore

An exhibit of monotype pen paintings by Enid Foster of Sausalito will be at the Tides Bookstore in Sausalito during November.

Monotype pen is a process in which a painting is done on a pane of glass and then transferred to paper. The painting then is completed with colored pens.

Miss Foster's paintings are all of witches.

Jewish Center Sets Candidates' Night

Three candidates for different offices will participate in a candidates' night at the Marin Jewish Community Center, at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Scheduled to participate in the session at 200 North San Pedro Road, Santa Venetia, are Joseph A. Forest, candidate for the state assembly from the Seventh District; Ernest C. Zunino, seeking a Municipal Court judgeship, and Ernest N. Kettenhofen, running for the state Board of Equalization Third District seat.

Ravenna Arsenal Back In Operation

RAVENNA, Ohio (UPI)—The Ravenna Arsenal, one of the largest ammunition manufacturing operations in the nation, re-opened today after a three-week strike.

Members of the United Steelworker Local 4581 began returning to work Thursday night. The local and Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., which operates the facility under a Defense Department contract, reached tentative agreement on a new contract Wednesday.

Some 1,200 workers struck Oct. 2 when the old contract expired. The new contract calls for a raise of 82 cents per hour within three years, improved fringe benefits and a 10th paid holiday.

Issue Of Buying Water Systems On Ballots In Two Communities

Residents of Point Reyes Station and Inverness Park will vote Nov. 3 on whether to float bonds to acquire two privately owned water systems.

A $250,000 bond issue is proposed to be paid from taxes assessed in the two communities, set up as an assessment district within the North Marin County Water District.

The bond funds would buy the Point Reyes Water Co. and Inverness Park Water Co. from James J. Downey, drill new wells, install new treatment equipment and pipelines, and expand the system to serve this portion of the water district — which draws its water supply for its major portion in and around Novato from different sources.

There are 339 registered voters in the area. Two-thirds approval is necessary for the bonds, despite a recent contrary ruling by the California Supreme Court.

The bond issue would either be sold by public sale or would be turned over to the Farmers Home Administration, a subsidiary of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, for a 40-year loan.

Eugene S. Churchill, general manager of the North Marin County Water District, said the latter system is what the district hopes to use. An application for a Farmers Home Administration loan was filed about three months ago. If that agency grants the loan, it will take over the bond issue at 5 per cent interest with 40 years for retirement. By public sale, the bonds probably would command about 7 per cent interest with 25-year retirement.

The two methods make a great deal of difference in the tax rate necessary for bond retirement. Under Farmers Home Administration financing, the highest tax rate would be 73 cents per $100 assessed valuation in fiscal 1971-72, dropping to a low of 33 cents in 1995-96, Churchill said. Public sale of 25-year bonds would call for a maximum rate of about $1.07 in 1971-72 and a minimum of about 8.7 cents in 1995-96.

These figures are based on projections of increased assessed valuation from the present $1,690,234 to $4,195,114 in 1995-96.

Besides the tax rate, acquisition of the two water systems would be accompanied by some increase in water charges.

The North Marin County Water District proposes to meter Point Reyes Station-Inverness Park water use. Most customers now pay flat monthly charges.

The proposed schedule calls for a minimum of $3.50 monthly for the ordinary residential user, to include the first 400 cubic feet of water. Additional use would be at 30 cents per 100 cubic feet.

Inverness Park Water Co. charges residential users a minimum of $2.25 per month. Those with more than 50 square feet of lawn or garden to irrigate pay an additional three cents per square foot.

Point Reyes Station Water Co. charges a flat $2 per month to 95 of its customers. The other 67 have metered service. Minimum charge to them is $1.50 a month, with the water used charged at 30 cents per 100 for the first 700 cubic feet and declining rates above that.

Despite the low rates, residents of both Inverness Park and Point Reyes Station have complained frequently about their water service. On several occasions use of the water has been outlawed because of impurities. Also, there has been inadequate water for fire fighting some times.

North Marin County Water District proposes to augment the supply from a well in Papermill Creek, and to erect a new 100,000-gallon storage tank.

It proposes to use $93,000 of the bond issue to acquire the properties of the two water companies. It would also buy from Toby Giacomini the property on which a present storage tank is located. The remainder of the money would go to upgrade the system.

Giacomini is co-chairman with Adeline Arndt of the West Marin Citizens for Better Water, a group promoting the bond issue which produced the argument in favor of it to accompany sample ballots. No argument against the issue was presented.

Highway Projects For Marin Gain Commission Nod

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — State Highway projects in Marin totalling $4.8 million have been approved by the state Highway Commission for funding during fiscal 1971-72, according to state engineer John A. Lagarra.

The sum is in addition to $3.6 million earmarked to begin the $14 million Novato freeway bypass, reported in yesterday's Independent Journal.

Projects approved were: Richardson Bay bridge widening, $2.7 million; addition of one northbound lane on Highway 101 from the Golden Gate Bridge 4.1 miles almost to the Richardson Bay Bridge, $675,000; improvement of the alignment and drainage on portions of Route 1 near Stinson Beach and at Panoramic Highway near Mill Valley, $315,000; widening of Sir Francis Dake Boulevard between East Laurel Grove Avenue and Maple Avenue in Kentfield, $550,000, and purchase of highway rights-of-way, $516,000.

Cartons Available For UNICEF Drive

Coin cartons to make Halloween contributions to the United Nations Children's Fund are available at homes displaying the UNICEF sign in Terra Linda and after school at Bernard Hoffman and St. Isabella schools, according to UNICEF volunteer Mrs. Peter B. Howard.

Lucas Valley children may pick up their donation cartons at 185 Mount Lassen Drive or at Dixie School while Marinwood donors may obtain theirs at the Marinwood Community Center, Mrs. Hayward said.

Ten Are Sentenced For Drunken Driving

Ten persons have been sentenced by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein of Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving.

Dennis Gentry Tobin, 26, of 208 Corrillo Drive, San Rafael, arrested July 10 on Highway 101, was placed on probation for one year and fined $150.

Edward Newburn Hayes, 46, of 63 Grande Paseo, San Rafael, arrested March 10 on Highway 101, has also been placed on probation for one year and fined $150.

David Eugene Tolson, 38, of San Francisco, arrested in Ignacio March 6, was placed on probation for two years and ordered to spend one weekend in jail.

Elza Edward Tibbets, of 715 Center Boulevard, Fairfax, arrested Nov. 23, 1969 on Highway 101, was placed on probation for three years and sent to jail for five months.

David Alan Landauer, 33, of San Francisco, arrested April 12 on Highway 101, was placed on probation for one year, fined $100 and ordered to spend one weekend in jail.

Harry Edgar Manuel, 57, of 102 Ensenada Drive, Novato, arrested Jan. 20 on Highway 101, was placed on probation for one year, given a 15-day jail sentence and fined $150.

Robert Bruce Melcher, 41, of San Francisco, arrested Aug. 23 on Panoramic Highway, was placed on probation for one year and fined $100.

John Leonard Worley, 39, of Daly City, arrested Sept. 6 on Highway 101, was placed on probation for one year, sent to jail for five days and fined $250.

Gordon Elmer Dresser, 45, of 883 Fourth Street, San Rafael, was placed on probation for two years, given a five-day jail sentence and fined $250.

Legislators' Proposition Positions

Marin's two state legislators have endorsed separate propositions on the November general election ballot.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, endorsed Proposition 18, which would allow counties to divert one-quarter of their gas tax revenues to transit.

Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, endorsed Proposition 20, a $60 million bond measure to finance recreation and wildlife facilities along the State Water Project.

Bagley said he was mailing a letter at his own expense to Marin voters urging them to vote for the proposition, strongly opposed by highway interests. Bagley said he also was launching a two-day flying tour of the state in support of the proposition.

Bagley termed the proposition "unquestionably the most important measure on this year's ballot" because it would finance needed transit systems and may be the last such chance to do so for years because of legislative opposition.

McCarthy said the bond measure was "essential if recreational facilities are to be ready for the people when these water projects come into being."

Headline Wrong

A headline on a story in yesterday's Independent-Journal incorrectly indicated that Mitchell Andrew Howie, 20, of Tamalpais Valley pleaded guilty to a charge of possessing marijuana as the story correctly stated, Howie pleaded innocent.

Unattended Campus Dogs Are Booted

The College of Marin may have been going to the dogs but not any more. New campus rules put into effect this week outlaw canines from running loose on campus, entering buildings or being tethered and left unattended.

The new rules, which have been approved by the student body executive council, college district trustees and college cabinet, went into effect Wednesday.

At the request of the college, five humane socitey officers patrolled the campus Wednesday in search of dogs. They nabbed three and cited one owner, according to Christopher Arend, study body president.

"We hope to have the (humane society) dog catchers here at least once a week," said Arend. "Yesterday's (Wednesday's) collection went without incident."

Last year when the dog catchers went on campus, students hung signs from building windows proclaiming "Keep Dogs on Campus."

"The students were very cooperative," Mel L. Morse, executive director of the humane society, said yesterday. "It was their idea to ask us (society) to come on campus."

The new rules, which were drafted by the students, are expected to be expanded by the board of trustees to encompass all animals on campus, not just dogs.

A fact sheet drafted by the students on the dog problem says about 50 persons have been bitten on campus by dogs during the last three years and the college is spending about $50 a week cleaning up dog droppings. An intangible, the report also says, is the lowering of morale among maintenance men because of this extra duty.

Discussion On Housing For Low Incomes Slated

The need for low-cost housing in Petaluma and the advantages of a housing authority will be considered at a meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m. at St. Vincent's Parish Hall, Petaluma.

The meeting, sponsored by the Sonoma County People for Economic Opportunity, will include Wallace K. Shepherd, acting executive director of the Marin Housing and Redevelopment Agency, speaking on the mechanics of housing authorities.

The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors is scheduled to consider establishment of a housing authority at its meeting Tuesday at 11 a.m.

An advisory committee headed by Supervisor Arthur R. Ruonavaara is expected to recommend that an authority be formed in the eight cities of Sonoma County as well as unincorporated areas.

All Happiness Now: Dillon Beach Counted

Uncle Sam now knows not only that Dillon Beach is on the map — but that it has people in it. Seventy five people, in fact.

The community in the far northern corner of Marin fretted as national census time came and went, and no one showed up to count noses.

Led by William M. Purvis, Dillon Beach neighbors turned to radio talk shows, TV stations and newspapers to complain when their efforts with federal census officials seemed fruitless.

Leonard Isley of Los Angeles, regional director for the census finally heard about Dillon Beach on a telecast and promised immediate action.

Last week, Marie MacDonald of San Francisco arrived in the coastal village, counted the people and used Purvis's telephone to speed the results to Isley, and also to a census official in Washington, D.C.

Purvis, a semiretired investment counselor and amateur columnist, yesterday voiced satisfaction about it all.

"Seventy five people aren't going to make a great difference — but we like to know we've been counted."

Disabled Veterans Up Since Vietnam

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Veterans Administration reports that compensation payments to veterans disabled while on active duty since the beginning of the Vietnam War now total $285 million a year.

It said in three years the number of such Vietnam era veterans receiving the disability compensation has soared from 8,287 to 188,353. Such payments are made not only for battle injuries but for any disability, including accidents and diseases, incurred while on active duty.

In the left foreground is a faience (French porcelain) rabbit on an English pub table. The home is one of those open for a tour Wednesday.

TWO BABY GRAND Steinway pianos, back to back, are an extraordinary feature of the living room-dining area in the home of Jack Howland, AID, on Wolfback Ridge. The mirror wall with its Baccrat crystal sconces relfects a dining table of plate glass on brass saw horses. Mrs. Michael Harris stands near a wall displaying original art from an antique Imari plate to a Joshua Reynolds painting and a 14th century erotic East Indian carving.

Specialty Style Homes Open On Tour

A wide variety of life styles in Sausalito will be represented in the house tour Wednesday given by the Sausalito Nursery School.

Guests will visit a refurbished tug-boat; a mansion built in 1880 that was part of the Miller-Lux estate; a flat near the waterfront in one of the oldest homes in Sausalito; and two houses on Wolfback Ridge .One is a Mario Corbett designed house that has a view of seven counties and the other, a contemporary home with oriental influence designed and built by a 70-year-old woman.

The tour, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Thomas Hook, will begin at 12:30 p.m. with a champagne reception at the Deck House at 660 Bridgeway, and will continue until 4:30 p.m.

Nursery School mothers will act as hostesses in the homes and point out the many interesting objects in each house.

Hostesses will be Mmes. Arthur Taylor, Walter Wright, Donald Albert of Sausalito and Sam Coombs and Robert Henson of Mill Valley.

Homes on the tour, together with some of the points of interest are:

The bachelorette apartment of Susan Chandler Blue on the waterfront is said to be in one of the oldest homes in Sausalito. Owned by a sea captain and his wife, it was probably the only house in the south end of town before the road and development were in existence.

The flat was furnished through auctions, Goodwill, etc., more or less on a shoe string. Decor includes a priest's robe made into a wall hanging, a collection of primitive art and contemporary art done by Susan herself.

Two houses with spectacular views on Wolfback Ridge are those of Jack Howland, A.I.D., and Mrs. W.F. Thompson.

Howland's home was built in 1947 by designer Mario Corbett. Pictures of it appeared in "Life" magazine in 1948, when it was called one of the most unusual houses in the country, and since then it has doubled in size. The Bay, Pacific Ocean and seven counties can be seen from the deck.

Unusual features in the living room-dining area are a pair of Steinway baby grand pianos, a Japanese tea ceremony table and original art by Buffano, Reynolds, Lautrec and Picasso. A huge slab of glass on brass saw horses forms the dining table.

Leading to a bedroom-sitting room with fireplace is a wrought iron spiral staircase, and bathrooms are exceptionally luxurious.

Mrs. Thomspon designed and had her home built in an unusual combination of contemporary and oriental styles. Double Chinese doors open into a garden, and the house itself built of adobe and redwood, is entered through two more double doors that open into an atrium with a fish pond, plants and an enormous philodendron.

Adjoining the atrium through shoji screens is a room done in Japanese furnishings including genuine ta tami beds.

The unique museum-like home of Ted and Lillian Williams, built originally in 1880 by the Miller part of the Miller-Lux estate, is a funky interpretation of the 19th century grand manor life style.

It contains authentic French antiques which Mrs. Williams selects on her numerous jaunts to Europe. Special points of interest are a late 17th century Armoire that had belonged to Louis XIV and an Italian Renaissance table of Frank Lloyd Wright's, some amazing stuffed and china animals, and fur rugs and bed spreads.

A Peterson tug boat laid down in 1949 and operated out of Alameda is the home of Mrs. Ted Nash. The engine was replaced with cement to carry the same weight, and Sidney Koalkin, a ship builder, transformed the boat into a home.

Pictures of beavers gave it the name of "The Beaver." Furnished in blues and greens, the house has in the shower an extraordinary sculpture of driftwood shaped like a skeleton.

Mrs. Donald Albert is ticket chairman. Tour proceeds will go toward support of the Sausalito Nursery School.

ONE OF THE attractive rooms in the home of Jack Howland on Wolfback Ridge is this bedroom-sitting room with its fireplace and floor-to-ceiling window with ocean view. It is reached by a wrought iron spiral staircase. Louis XV armoire doors form the headboard of the bed, and night stands are English Regency. Lamps are 18th century bronzes. Members of the Sausalito Nursery School, which sponsors the house tour including this house, are left, Mrs. Donald Albert and Mrs. Gloria Sparrow.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

If Husband Won't Seek Help Wife Should Leave With Kids

DEAR HELEN:

I have been married five years, have two darling toddlers and a husband who is driving me crazy.

He claims to be a "saver" but "miser" is a better word. Every time I need something for the house or family I get the third degree: Is it on sale? Can we do without it? What have we done to deserve it? When I have bought items the kids needed badly (out of the grocery money), he has made me take them back. One day I bought some material to make myself a pair of slacks. I got called filthy names. Thank goodness I have a girl friend who gives me hand-me-downs. It's been "Wear out what you've got" ever since we were married.

He does the housework sometimes —not to be nice but because I "can't do it right." When he comes home he inspects the house — his precious belongings —to see if the kids or I have harmed them. If the children accidentally break something they get beaten. I can't protect them by hiding the breakage. He even counts our glasses.

He belittles me in front of friends, never shows affection —says he's too old for love, though he's under 40. I'm 29. He hates to go out, mainly, because of the expense, and we have to refuse invitations because I couldn't "pay back." He doesn't like people —even himself. A favorite saying of his is, "I'll sure be glad when I'm dead and gone from this filthy, cheating world." He thinks everyone is out to get him.

Really, Helen, we have a lovely home, nice kids, a moderate income, and I try to be a good wife. I enjoy people and like to laugh, but there's no laughter for the children and me when he's home.

Even our priest said I should walk out on him to keep my sanity and save the children, but I consider marriage vows are forever. He wouldn't go to a counselor because it costs money.

Your advice will be most welcomed —so long as it's free. I want to keep the family together. But I may go crazy trying. — ALMOST A NERVOUS WRECK

DEAR ANW:

Your family may be living under one roof, but they're not together. Nor is a marriage forever even though you don't separate physically.

The "love, honor and cherish" part of your vows has already been strained to the breaking point. Perhaps the threat of a total break might bring your husband to the professional help he needs. If not, I'd suggest you follow your priest's advice.—H.

DEAR HELEN:

When I was 18, I ran away from home and got involved with Bill, a man twice my age. We had two children, but he left me before the second was born.

I vowed I was through with men, but then I met Brian, and he convinced me to change my mind. We've been happily married for over a year. The kids call him Dad and love him as much as I do.

But a month ago their real father came back into the picture. He has never given us any support — not even his name. But now he claims the children. We were about to start adoption proceedings when this happened. Brian wants to be their real Dad all the way. Bill says "No."

I think Bill might fade away if we offered him a big sum of money, but must we buy my children back from a man who never wanted them? — N.P.

DEAR N.:

A small fee to a good lawyer can save you paying a large sum to a scoundrel. Call one right away. — H.

Time To Get The Family In Shape For The Skiing Season

Chilling winds, warm clothes and little red noses signal skiing mothers that it's time to get their families in shape for a safe and enjoyable winter on the slopes.

Put the whole family in the skiing mood with the types of group exercise even the smallest child will enjoy. Running works as a season-starter — especially running with ski poles. This builds your family's wind and leg muscles and ski coordination. While you're runing, have one person set the pace by starting with a jog. Work into a run and add an occasional sprint or two.

If that one tires them out, try getting the kids ready for the slopes while they get ready for bed. Have them stand with the balls of their feet on the edge of a thick book placed on the floor. By lowering the heels and lifting, they'll develop the balance and leg muscles.

Many families enjoy during-the-week armchair skiing as much as the real thing. Sit in chairs with their ski boots on. One at a time, lift each leg so it becomes parallel with the floor. Hold it there a few seconds, lower, and try it with the other leg. Repeat this several times, and they'll find that a few mintues of this type of armchair skiing will develop strong muscles to withstand a full day on the slopes.

Most parents know how important properly functioning equipment and well-adjusted bindings are to the safety and enjoyment of their family's skiing. Children grow up and some parents grow out during the summer months. Weight changes such as these necessitate minor start-of-the season binding adjustments by your ski shop.

In addition to a binding-check, look over the bottoms of your family's skis. A smooth running surface aids control — a safety element important to all skiers. Last spring's gouges should be cleaned and warmed before poking holes in their sides. Fill the area with the drippings from a lighted filling candle and, while still warm, smooth it over with a knife blade. Once the patch cools, even off with a piece of smooth sandpaper.

ON BEING BLACK

Black Voodoo Queen Marie Laveaux Is Paid Tribute At Halloween Time

By SANDRA HAGGERTY

This is the month for the appearance of ghosts, witches and other magical and mythical spirits — when children sit wide-eyed as they listen to weird stories about sorcerers and their unnatural powers.

Most black people, especially those from the South, have for generations heard stories about the greatest sorceress of them all — the black voodoo queen, Marie Laveaux.

Originally African snake worshipers, the voodoo cult was brought to this country via the West Indies. It particularly flourished in New Orleans. Though called voodoo by most, the sect is also referred to as hoodoo.

MARIE LAVEAUX reportedly lived and died (several times) in the 19th century in New Orleans. She was said to be a stunningly beautiful woman who could place a hex like no one else. And once she had fixed you, "you were fixed for good!"

To the believers, she was both respected and feared. Parents would tell their children that Marie Laveaux — not the boogy-man — would get them if they didn't behave. Her name always caused an immediate, positive shift in behavior.

Marie was also a shrewd business woman and soon peddled her power for sizable fees. Her gris-gris (the trinkets of her craft — rocks, dolls, powders, herbs, human hair, cat's bones) were said to be the most powerful in the world.

It is interesting that the voodoo cult was a predominantly female cult with the queen the most important figure. Occasionally there was a king or witch doctor on the scene, but he was always on the side lines. This initially all-black cult attracted a few whites who became zealous followers.

OVER THE years, the cult had several brushes with the law. They were accused of being cannibals, charlatans and the like — and were eventually forced underground. Consequently, it is almost impossible for an outsider to participate in or gain information about its activities.

Long after the death of Marie Laveaux, one could purchase various voodoo novelties at local drugstores in New Orleans — Get-Your-Man Oil, War Powder, Come-Back Oil, Go-Away Drops, Get-Rich Today Powder and Eliminate-Your Competition Oil. Probably these novelties were merely scented water and powders. In Marie Laveaux' day they were often concocted of cats' dung and human hair or ground rose petals — depending upon the purpose of the gris-gris. Positive gris-gris had to smell good and negative gris-gris had to smell terrible.

Supposedly, voodoo cults no longer exist, but it is whispered among older blacks that there are still many active participants and believers in voodoo.

Robert Tallant's book, "Voodoo in New Orleans," provides fascinating reading on the subject.

WHILE RESEARCHING Marie Laveaux in local public and college libraries, I learned that books on the subject of witchcraft, astrology and black magic are currently "short lived" in libraries. They simply disappear, and pages in the various reference books on the subject are torn from the books. Mix that bit of information in this year's brew.

Anyway, as the witches and sorcerers haunt you this Halloween, be assured that somewhere, even today, there are those who are paying tribute to the powerful Marie Laveaux.

Fall Scarves

Scarves will be a very important accessory on the fall scene. The Glentex fall '70 collection includes a wide selection of autumn oriented printed squares in plaids, paisleys, foulards and conversation motifs.

Coiffure Styles

Off-the-face coiffures, smooth tops and a variety of chignons will make the fall headlines. Helene Curtis has created face-hugging waves by using falls under tight fitting cloche hats for daytime. For dramatic evening looks, her styles are off-the-face with a peacock burst of feathers fanning out from looped chignons.

White Rugs And Walls Are Now Favorites

NEW YORK (UPI)—The filth of our cities, the dirt in the air, do not deter the homemarker at all when she starts decorating.

For instance, the clear and creamy whites are moving up rapidly as a favorite color in floor coverings.

Robert V. Dale, vice-president of style and design for a rug mill, said "some people may be surprised, but white is rapidly becoming one of the most popular carpet colors. It's apparent that the decorating concept of 'start with white and fill the colors' is making a large number of converts among homemakers across the country.

"Obviously, a white carpet is the perfect foil for any color you wish to introduce in a room."

Running closely behind white as a floor "neutral" is something Dale called "Berber", a multi-color combination of black, brown and white. Despite its strong coloration, Dale said, this mixture blends well with almost any other color in a room and permits a homemaker to change her decor at will . . ."

Dale said the new neutrals have more personality than the former "play it safe" beiges that dominated floors a decade ago.

Dale noted that golds, which had reigned with the greens as the top colors of the 1960s, are giving way to lighter tones bordering on yellow. He finds increasing demand for bright canary and jonquil. The orange family also is gaining strength.

In surfaces, the shags continue the most popular in the nation, Dale continued. But some new textures are being used. His firm, for instance, is using pile yarns in several thicknesses to give the texture a more varied look and feel.

Good For Feet

Backless wooden clogs are good for feet, in the opinion of some medical experts, who believe the new shoe fashion exercises feet, supports arches, aids circulation and provides foot comfort for those who must stand for long perids. However, a Danish pediatrician warns that the clogs are not suitable for the feet of growing children.

Trucks Are Designed For Women

By PAMELA H. REEVES

CHICAGO (UPI) — There's something new on the scene for American women — trucks.

Thousands of women are now as much at ease in the driver's seat of a pickup truck as they are in a car.

Manufacturers have replaced bulky trucks of old with streamlined, convenient vehicles which respond readily to a soft touch and appeal to the eye as well.

There are trucks with power brakes, power steering, air conditioning and thermostatic heat control, and campers with toilets and showers, gas stoves and ovens, bedding and Am-Fm stereo radios.

THE NUMBER of campers seen in many neighborhoods seems to be increasing. Women apparently are appreciative of the newly-designed vehicles, which are used for shopping as well as for family campouts.

MANUFACTURERS PREDICT a heavy increase in camper units when more women shed preconceived notions that truck driving is unpleasant.

Dora Green is one woman who became convinced that driving a camper is "as easy as driving a car." With her husband, Ludwig, she plans to travel from Chicago to Canada this fail to see her father.

"I love it," she said, smoothing her hands over the table in the newly-acquired "honeymoon cottage" which they bought after trading in a larger camper.

Coming this Saturday in Marin Magazine
Special features you'll enjoy:

A Marin artist has been capturing in watercolor the beauty of Marin's landscape before it disappears under the onslaught of development. The story of the artist, Henry Walter Smith, is told by writer Gil Pearson in the Marin Magazine, the Independent-Journal supplement, Saturday, and Smith's art work covers several pages. Familiar scenes take on added meaning under his skillful touch as one comes to the realization that they are disappearing with time.

The annual show of the Chrysanthemum Society of Marin has been a crowd pleaser for years, carrying on a tradition, yet at the same time offering something new. The latest in the chrysanthemum world is the growing of chrysanthemum bonsai and the Marin Magazine carries the story of Dr. Norton J. Schlesinger of Mill Valley, who has had success growing the miniature mums, creating plants of his own design.

The College of Marin, Marin's cultural center, has grown beyond all expectations and has placed two financing proposals before the voters for decision Nov. 3. A status report of the college's current plans and financing picture rounds out the feature stories in the Saturday supplement.

HANGING POTS — Rough, earthy ceramics by Dale Roush plus weaving by Cynthia Sterling Williams create a stunning exhibition at Dominican College's San Marco Gallery.

ART REVIEW

Weaver, Potter Are Quality Craftsmen

By LAURA DEVENDORF

Weaver Cynthia Sterling Williams and potter Dale Roush are both highly sensitive craftsmen. And the combination of their talents in an exhibit through Nov. 13 at Dominican College's San Marco Gallery only multiplies the satisfaction they individually give.

Miss Williams handles fragility and strength with equal grace. One bold geometrically patterned "headboard tapestry" is especially lush with its natural browns and grays, lacings of twine, purple wrapped cord and tassels ending in fluffs of white. It is all substance. Others by the artist have more the element of air.

Such are Miss Williams's window curtains. These thin fragile cobwebs spun through with rippling threads and beads are made even more gossamer by the morning sunshine playing shadow patterns behind them.

And she also combines the delicate with the bold, stretching net-like designs between thickly woven bands and coloring these weavings in deeper tones of slate, mustard, rust, gold, purple and brown.

Roush's element is more one of earth. And he glorifies the very earthy quality of the clay itself, letting it appear raw, but inscribing and imprinting it with calligraphic scrawls and deep flowered designs.

His handling is as freely natural as the ground itself whether applied to stately chimneys, huge footed tubs cut deeply with organic designs, spattered plates or in an assortment of vessels which come in simple, determined shapes such as modified cylinders and cones.

This easy freedom is repeated in Roush's hanging pots. Rope-strung from wood beams, their finishes vary from understated glazes to rough sand. Their shapes can suggest cauldrons or upside down ancient war helmets. And their surfaces might be only simple ribbings or have areas embellished with almost gingerbread ornateness.

Throughout this exhibit both Roush and Miss Williams express a great affinity for natural things, their imperfetcions as well as their refinements. And both artists have lovingly incorporated both aspects in their work. Which is probably why there is a particular sense of harmony and genuine completeness about this weaving and ceramics exhibition.

Hunt For Town Manager Narrows

The Corte Madera Town Council, meeting in closed session last night, narrowed the field to 10 applicants seeking the position of town manager.

Councilman Robert P. Simmons said today that the council in two weeks will begin oral interviews of the remaining applicants for the position vacated in September by Ronald L. Usher.

About 45 applications were received for the job.

Severe Frosts Cut Napa Grape Crop

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Partly because of severe frosts early this year, the Napa Valley grape crop "turned out to be about 40 per cent lighter than last year," a Christian Brothers Wines official reports.

Brother Justin FSC also told newsmen Thursday that all grape flowers were not properly pollinated and that there had been some sun burn.

Cash, Radio Taken

Burglars took an undetermined amount of cash and a radio from Vita-Fresh Donut and Coffee Shop at 811 Fourth Street sometime prior to 4:10 a.m. today, San Rafael police reported.

McGovern Admits Top Post Interest

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—Sen. George McGovern says he is definitely interested in the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination and will announce his plans after the Nov. 3 elections.

McGovern said here Thursday he is making an assessment of support around the country for the positions he has taken.

"If I do decide to run I expect to make a rather early announcement shortly after the 1970 elections," he said.

Nixon Adds More Campaign Stops

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has added two more stops—Miami Beach, Fla. on Tuesday and Omaha, Neb. on Thursday—to the campaign swing he plans to make next week.

The previously announced schedule includes appearances in Palm Beach, St. Petersburg and Talahassee, Fla.; Mt. Prospect and Rockford, Ill.; Dallas; Rochester, Minn., and Anaheim, Calif.

Wage Report Filing Deadline Announced

Nov. 2 is the deadline for businesses to file California unemployment wage reports and contribution returns for the third quarter of 1970, according to Charles J. Brady, auditor-in-charge for the state Department of Human Resources Development in San Rafael.

Penalty and interest will be charged late filers. Those needing help with returns may obtain it at Brady's office, 877 E Street.

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies now being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from the California and National Parent-Teacher Association magazines and the Parent's Magazine, unless otherwise noted. FAMILY

"On A Clear Day You Can See Forever" — Lively, entertaining musical with Barbra Steisand playing several parts, a Bronx college student, a London cockney guttersnipe and an aristocratic English woman. Good fun for the whole family.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Adam at 6 A.M." — A film about young people, made by young people, presents this drama about a young man's quest for a more meaningful way of life. It captures something of the gap and polarities dividing us as a nation.

"Airport" — Outstanding star-studded cast in this gripping story of the workings of a large airport during a paralyzing blizzard. Build up very intense and may be too exciting for the younger children.

"Dr. Zhivago" — With magnificent scenery and music the story of Dr. Zhivago's life in Russia during the revolution is told in flash back. A monumental version of prize winning novel.

"Kelly's Heroes" — Irreverent World War II satirical comedy, melodrama about a group of soldiers who combine forces in stealing 16 million in gold bullion from behind the German lines. Big cast gives excellent performances.

"Monte Walsh" — That time in American history when Eastern progress came rolling over the old wild West. It is a serio-comic study of lonely dispossessed men with no job market for their skills.

"Patton" — Excellent characterization by George C. Scott who portrays an indomitable spirit that could achieve its destiny only in wartime. A strong film makes use of violence and frequent profanity.

"Sicilian Clan" — Head of a Mafia clan arranges a jail break. The contrast between their professional and personal morals is well dramatized. Film travels slowly over too familiar roads. English subtitles.

"Sunflower" — Emotional melodrama tells of a woman who travels to Russia after the war to trace her last husband. What to do when she finds him is the core of the film plot. Well acted.

"Where Eagles Dare" — An excessively brutal, tense, explosive World War II adventure about a mission to rescue an American General held captive in a castle on a mountain top.

"Cheyenne Social Club" — Two carefree cowpokes inherit a bawdy house with six prostitutes. It is adult material masquerading as family fare. It lacks wit, taste and honesty.

BORDERLINE

(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Angels Unchained" — Motorcycle riders and hippie commune dwellers join forces against antagonistic townspeople. Sex, cursing and violence. All find the price of peace is high.

"Bird With Crystal Plumage" — In this Italian made film one terrifying sequence after another creates sustained terror and horror as a psychopathic killer with a knife, stalks his women victims. Some very bloody death scenes.

"Goodbye Columbus" — Sophisticated, very frank comedy about a love affair between college aged couple which survives a dispute over the use of contraceptives, founders in the end on a choice of values.

"Gypsy Moths" — Sky divers in mid-air acrobatics are featured in this well photographed film. Nudity, explicit sex scenes in an illicit love story makes it unsuitable for the immature.

"Losers" — Would you believe a motorcycle gang sent on a mission by the government to rescue a CIA agent in Vietnam? They do so with maximum ugliness. South Vietnamese are portrayed with racial hatred. (Film Information)

"Lovers and Other Strangers" — Amusing, well acted comedy about a couple who have been roommates and decide to marry. Series of vignettes about their relative's martial affairs are intercut into the wedding preparations. Bedroom scenes crude and profanity abundant.

ADULTS ONLY

"Barbarella" — Sex oriented tale is based on a French adult comic book world of sex, sadism and perversion in a pseudo-science fiction setting of the distant future. A gilded corruption pervades the whole garish gimmicked-up thing.

"Landlord" — This slick, sally satire works effectively to emphasize the stupidity of racist attitudes. A rich young man becomes romantically and otherwise involved when he buys a tenement in a black ghetto in Brooklyn. There is nudity, sex and cursing.

"Performance" — This strange film is offensive, pretentious and confusing. A London racketeer in trouble with his underworld associates takes refuge in the weird house of a freaked-out former rock star. He shares their far out psychedelic and sexual games that are shockingly explicit.

"Thomas Crown Affair" — A sophisticated tale of a female insurance sleuth becoming an intimate companion of a thrill seeking millionaire to trap him for masterminding robberies of banks.

"M-A-S-H" — Hilarious, subtle anti-war comedy of three army suregons who develop outlandish life-style to survive the gore that passes before their eyes. Sex, nudity and profanity.

60-Year-Old Man Is Still Growing

LES SABLES DOLONNE, France (UPI)—Edmond Durand, 69, said Thursday doctors have told him he is still growing despite his age.

Durand, who is 7 foot 1 inch tall, said he began growing again at the age of 36 and physicians said he will probably continue growing until he dies.

The course is sponsored by the Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Department and will be taught by Eleanor Babat, former program director of the Oakland Children's Fairyland and director of the New Children's Theater in San Francisco.

Radical Convicted In Gun Purchase

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A secretary of the Black Panther Party in Berkeley was convicted Thursday of falsifying statements in the purchase of shotguns.

Sharon Hazel Williams, 24, was convicted of a federal charge of falsely telling a Watts gun dealer who sold her three 12-gauge shotguns, that she was not under indictmen for a crime punishable by a sentence of more than a year.

U. S. Attorney Richard Kirschner presented evidence that Miss Williams was under indictment in New York for possession of heroin.

She is also awaiting trial in connection with a shoot-out between Black Panthers and police here last December.

She was ordered to return to the court of U. S. Dist. Court Judge David W. Williams for sentencing Nov. 16.

$3.25 Million Street Bond Issue Is On Novato Ballot

Novatans will go to the polls Nov. 3 to pass judgment on a $3.25 million bond issue for street improvements — Measure D on the ballot. Passage will require approval by two-thirds of those voting.

The money, according to Public Works Director Clifford E. Temps, will be used to improve long neglected major collector streets and for work the city must do in connection with the state's planned Highway 101 bypass of the city.

The latter obligation of the city, called "freeway accommodation work" by Temps, will cost about $500,000 and must be done whether or not the bond issue passes.

The city council this year levied a five-year tax of 30 cents per $100 to pay for freeway accommodation work.

However, the proposed bond issue would cover this work as well improve collector streets and if it passes, Temps said, the 30-cent tax will be used to retire the bonds.

Passage therefore, according to Temps, would require no increase in the tax rate, at least not for the five years that the city is already saddled with the 30-cent tax the city fathers found unavoidable.

If the bond issue fails, Temps said, Novatans will still be taxed, but all the revenue must be devoted to freeway accommodation while collector streets, given only minimum essential repair, must continue to suffer until such time as a bond issue does pass.

Tentative plans call for selling the bonds over a five-year period as the money is needed, he said.

If 24-year bonds are sold, redemption would require a tax rate ranging from 28.3 cents in fiscal 1971-72 to a high of 39 cents in fiscal 1974-75 then drop gradually to a low of 2.3 cents in 1994-95, averaging out at 22.4 cents annually.

An 18-year redemption program would average 30.1 cents annually.

This is the third time that a bond issue for street improvement has been before the voters and Temps said yesterday that if it again fails to pass, "we'll try again every six months until it does pass."

In the argument accompanying the ballot, proponents state that street mileage has increased since incorporation through annexation and development from 47 to 87 miles, an 85 per cent gain. But cars using those streets have increased from 9,084 to more than 25,000, a 175 per cent increase. This has been accompanied by a 223 per cent increase in pedestrian accidents and a 260 per cent increase in vehicle accidents.

An additional argument in favor is that use of bond issue money to improve collector streets and do freeway accommodation work will free between $170,000 and $250,000 in gasoline tax revenue for other streets in the community badly in need of repair.

No argument opposing the bond issue accompanies the sample ballot.

Freeway accomodation work, according to Temps, includes:

Signalization of two intersections at a cost of $100,000, at Novato and Rowland boulevards and Redwood and Rowland boulevards to accommodate the planned Rowland offramp from the freeway.

"Substantial improvements" at a cost of $250,000 on Diablo Avenue and Novato and South Novato boulevards to accomodate increased traffic.

Channelization of the intersection of Rowland and South Novato boulevards at a cost of $100,000.

Widening of Delong Avenue at a cost of $50,000 from existing Highway 101 to the new bypass.

The balance of the money to be spent on collector streets would pay for reconstruction of:

The Ignacio Boulevard connection across San Jose Creek to San Jose Junior High School and to the Marin Junior College campus, giving a direct route to that area from the Ignacio overpass on Highway 101.

Reichert Avenue crossing of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad.

Center Road from Lu Sutton School to Wilson Avenue.

Feliz Road from Simmons Lane to San Marin subidivision.

Tamalpais Avenue from Novato Boulevard to Center Road.

Railroad Avenue from the new railroad crossing to Olive Avenue.

Olive Avenue from Highway 101 to Fourth Street.

Vallejo Avenue from Highway 101 to Seventh Street.

Fourth Street from Grant Avenue to its north end.

Seventh Street from Grant Avenue to Vallejo Avenue.

U. S. Presence In Japan Reduced

TOKYO (UPI) — The United States maintains 126 military bases, occupying about 76,500 acres, in Japan, the Japanese Self Defense Agency reports.

This is a reduction in U.S.-occupied land of 16 per cent in the past two years the agency said, but pointed out that American base land totals about one-sixth the area of Tokyo and is 90 times bigger than the site of the 1970 world exposition in Osaka.

HONG KONG (UPI) — The United States will donate about $176,000 to Hong Kong welfare agencies during the 1970 under the U.S. Government's Far East refugee program.

The funds are to help provide social services to refugees from Communist China and are channeled to several local voluntary agencies under an annual contract.

KING OF HEARTS

West leads the king of hearts, and your friend will want to bet on South if the defenders take the first two heart tricks. East can then return his singleton club, but West never regains the lead. The defenders get two hearts and one trump.

You may win the bet by saying that East takes the first trick with the ace of hearts and returns the singleton club. If declarer then leads a trump, East steps up with the ace of trumps to lead a low heart to West's queen. West returns a club, and East's ruff defeats the contract.

A CLUB TRICK

But if your friend bets on the defense, you win the second trick with a club, cash the king of diamonds, overtake the queen with dummy's ace of diamonds and lead the ten. East must put up the jack of diamonds, and you discard your losing heart. Now West cannot gain the lead to give East a ruff.

MORE TWISTS

If your friend wants to bet on declarer, adopting this line of play, have East lead a fourth diamond. South must ruff with the ten to shut West out. Now South leads the king of spades to drive out the ace. East leads a fifth diamond. If South ruffs with an honor, West's nine of trumps becomes established; and if South does not ruff high, West will take the setting trick at once with the nine of spades.

TWIST REMAINS

In short, with best play on both sides, South goes down. But one twist remains. If your friend bets on the defense, let him. He collects a penalty of 50 points, but South collects 100 for the honors, scoring a profit despite all!

DAILY QUESTION

Partner bids one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ — 9 6 2
♥ — K Q 10 6
♦ — 6 4 3
♣ — 8 7 3.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

The hand is not quite worth a response. If your partner opened with one heart, you would raise to two hearts, counting something extra for the picture cards in partner's suit.

O'Brien To Speak At Sausalito Hotel

A $100-a-plate breakfast for Charles A. O'Brien, Democratic nominee for attorney general, will be held at 7:45 a.m. next Thursday at the Alta Mira Hotel, Sausalito.

Reservations are being handled by Leonard M. Sperry of Belvedere, chairman of Marin County Citizens for O'Brien, and by Democratic headquarters in Mill Valley.

O'Brien, chief deputy attorney general, will address the breakfast.

ALMANAC

Today is Friday, Oct.23, the 296th day of 1970.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1915 about 2,500 women marched in New York City, demanding the right to vote.

In 1942 the British VIII Army launched an offensive at El Alamein, Egypt, to start a campaign that was to sweep Axis forces out of North Africa.

In 1947 the state of Maine was declared a disaster area as forest fires caused damage estimated at $30 million.

In 1955 Ngo Dinh Diem was chosen to take over the South Vietnamese government in the country's first election. He later was assassinated.

A thought for today: Carl Sandburg said, "Time is a sandpile we run our fingers through."

Woman With Seven Aliases Gets TV

McPhail's appliance store in San Rafael told police Wednesday that a woman who has seven known aliases bought a $628 color television set on June 3 and has not paid for it.

After the woman had not paid within the 30 days alloted, the store at Third and C streets learned from the Marin Credit Bureau that the buyer, Mrs. Elmer Gunnar, who last gave a San Francisco address, has made similar "purchases" under the names Florence Brown, Lorraine Brown, Elizabeth Mitchell, Elaine iMtchell, Nicol Hammond and Lorraine Gunnar, police said.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Good Outlook For American Heritage

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. My late husband was given shares of American Heritage by a friend. Are they worth keeping? — F. H.

A. Unless you are in need of increasing your income, I would hold these shares for possible growth. American Heritage Life Investment is a life insurance and real estate service holding company, operating primarily in the Southeast and California. Life insurance in force gained over 12 per cent; premium income rose 15 per cent; investment income increased 13 per cent; and capital gains added 5 cents a share to earnings last year. The company's investment assets in 1969 were 44 per cent in cash, governments and bonds, 26 per cent in mortgages, and 8 per cent in common stock, with the remaining 22 per cent in other non-specific investments. The heavy investment in bonds helped to restrict portfolio shrinkage in the recent market decline. An expanding sales force, improved profitability in health and accident business and higher interest return on investments should lift 1970 earnings above the (adjusted) 61 cents a share reported in 1969.

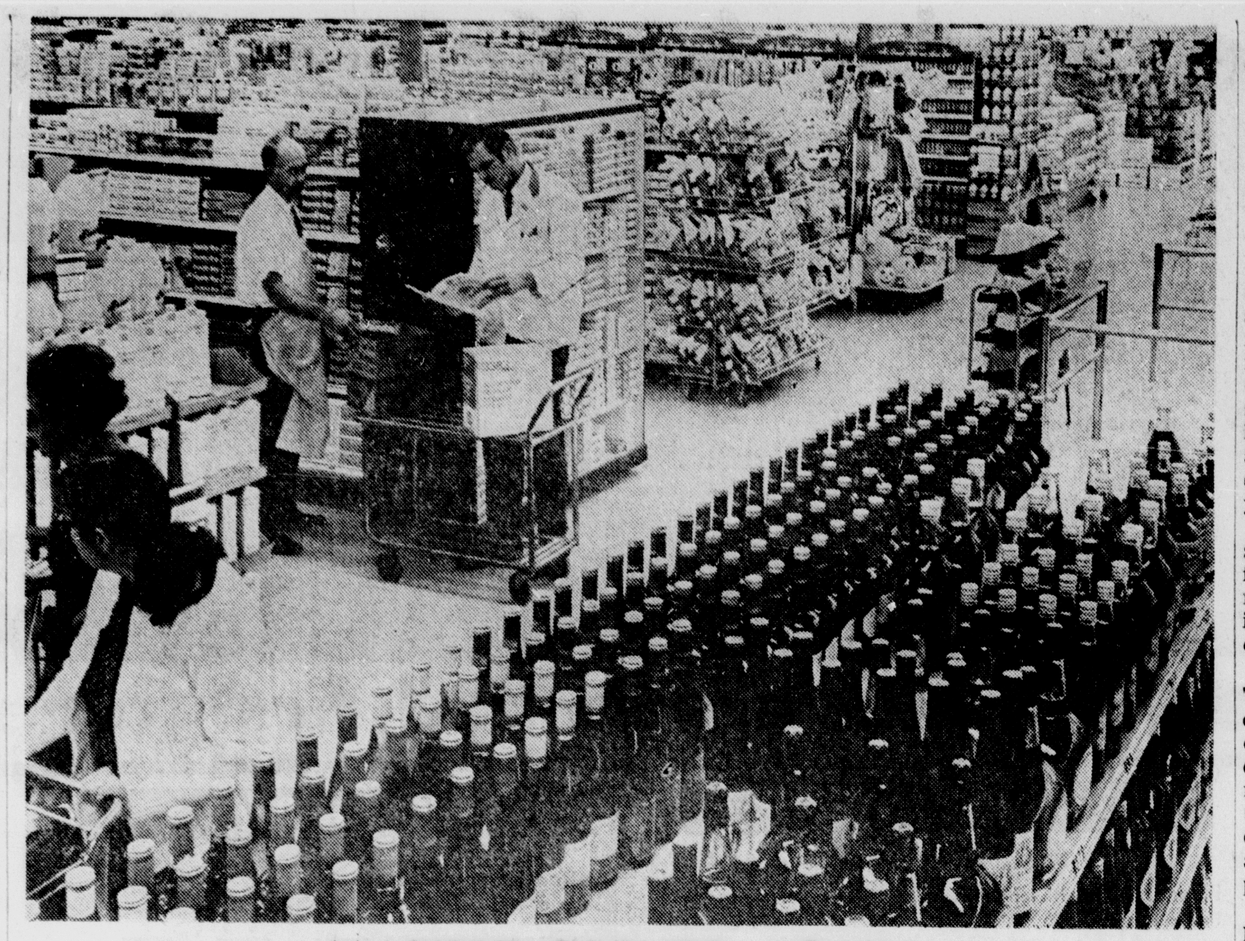
Q. Can you tell me what is wrong with Harvard Industries? Shares have taken a nosedive. Do you think they will recover? — M. H.

A. Not immediately. Harvard Industries is struggling with industrywide problems as well as internal issues. Since aerospace and electronic products accounted for 43.7 per cent of sales in 1969, and U. S. Government business contributed some 40 per cent of revenue, company has been severely affected by stretchouts and cutbacks on Defense Department contracts and the general softening in the economy. For the nine months ended June 30, 1970, sales dropped 7.8 per cent from the restated year-earlier level; and a net loss of over $3 million, or $1.31 a share, was sustained. Also contributing to this poor showing were depressed conditions in the housing market (where Harvard has a sizeable commitment) and higher interest costs. Pending lawsuits against the operations of Alsco, Inc. (acquired in 1969) are seen as potentially unfavorable, for it is uncertain what the final effect will be on Harvard's financial position. This is a situation I would rather watch than hold.

Mine Operators Use More Machinery

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — With coal being burned in record quantities by power plants to generate electrical energy, mine operators are turning more and more to time-saving and cost-reducing machinery.

One continuous mining machine recently developed by Joy Manufacturing Company is capable of cutting and collecting up to 12 tons of coal a minute, a quantity equal to the per man output for three full working days in the industry's pick and shovel era. The machine is operated by one man.



MARKET OPENED AGAIN

A long vacant supermarket became active again as Cala Foods moved into Marinwood after remodeling the store once occupied by Lee Bros. at Miller Creek Drive and Miller Creek Road. Staff members checking shelf stocks are department head Wally Walberg and store manager Walter Leptein. In moving into Marinwood, Cala has given up its store in Santa Venetia.

Stock Market Makes Small Gain In Quiet Trading

NEW YORK (UPI) —The stock market finished with small gain in quiet trading Friday.

Near the final bell, advances were leading declines, 690 to 551, while the Dow Jones industrial average was up 0.96 at 758.83 after being ahead between 1 and 2 points most of the session.

Volume amounted to around 10,000,000 shares, versus 9,000,000 shares Thursday.

Closing prices included: AT&T 43 1-8 off 1-8; Bethlehem Steel 21 1-4 off 1-4; Chrysler 24 5-8 up 3-8; DuPont 118 off 1-2; Ford 49 1-4 off 1-2; General Electric 86 up 7-8, and Gen Motors 72 up 1-8.

Analysts noted that the market has entered into a "drifting phase" and was likely to follow this pattern at least until after the November elections, or until some motivating news appears.

One analyst observed that Wall Street seems to be less optimistic about chances for an economy recovery in the fourth quarter as a result of the strike at General Motors Corp.

Prices showed a steady tone in routine trading on the American Stock Exchange.

A Surprise Leader At Kaiser Golf Tourney

NAPA, Calif. (UPI)—Jack Montgomery makes no bones about it. He'd like to take home a sizeable check one of these days.

The 29-year-old blond Texan hasn't won a golfing check in a long time. In fact, he has been off the tour for nearly two months.

Thursday in the opening round of the $150,000 Kaiser International Open golf tournament, he showed he will be the man to beat this week.

Montgomery, who dropped off the tour just before the Hartford Open during the Labor Day weekend, did everything right in the opening round of the Kaiser, bagging seven birds and not a single bogey for a sparkling seven under par 31-34 —65.

The effort gave him a stroke lead today over Ken Still, a two stroke edge over Bob Goalby, Ben Kern, Chi Chi Rodriguez, Mason Rudolph and Dale Douglass and a three stroke edge on seven others.

By contrast, defending champion Jack Nicklaus, Masters king Billy Casper and PGA champ Dave Stockton were six strokes back at 71.

Montgomery left the tour because he couldn't control his driver.

"It got so that I couldn't tell where I was shooting," said Montgomery. "That's when I decided it was time to go home and work on my game."

Accepting a new driver from a friend who used to beat him regularly a few years ago, Montgomery said he hit "at least a million shots and somewhere along the way I lost my duck hook."

With that, Montgomery, who won only $26,398 on the tour last year and $10,702 thus far in 1970, decided he would start a comeback in the Kaiser. On Monday, along with other "rabbits" he played in a qualifying round and shot a 68.

"I figured after that round that maybe I could go on to score well in the tourney itself and maybe take home a good check," Montgomery said. "I sure could use one these days."

Still, another player having his troubles this year, shot a 33-33-66 to stand just a stroke behind Montgomery. He did it with six birdies and no bogies.

A total of 79 players in the field of 155 shot par or better in the opening round, played at the Silverado Country Club's north and south courses. Play was from both the first and 10th tees to speed things up and it will be more of the same in today's second round. The cut will be made to the low 70 and ties today for the final two rounds over the north course only.

Seven players—Vern Novak, Tom Shaw, Dave Hill, Babe Hiskey, J. C. Snead, Roy Pace and Bert Yancey—were tied at four under 68, 10 players were at 69, 12 at 70, 20 at 71 and 23 at even par 72.

Both Silverado courses play to even par 72 but the north layout is considered a bit tougher. Montgomery and Still shot their fine opening rounds over the south on a perfect day for golf with the sun bathing the picturesque Napa Valley.

Nicklaus had no alibis for his opening round, which ran all the extremes. He started out by putting his drive on No. 1 into the left rough and took a double bogey six. Later, he missed four putts of three feet, but sank others of 15 and 10 feet for birds.

"It was just one of those rounds," said Nicklaus, "There really is no way to explain it."

Montgomery said just about the same of his round, adding:

"I'd take another one like that right now."

Haywood Considers Jumping To NBA

ABA Star Wants New Contract

DENVER (UPI) — An attorney for Spencer Haywood, most Valuable Player in the American Basketball Association last year, has asked the Denver Rockets to renegotiate a contract with the young athlete for $3.25 million.

The renegotiation request came only hours after published reports that the 21-year-old superstar was thinking of jumping from the ABA to the National Basketball Association.

LAST YEAR

Similar reports were circulated last season shortly before the 6-foot-6 forward, then a rookie, signed a six year pact for a record $1.9 million.

Don Ringsby, general manager and president of the Rockets, announced late Thursday that attorney Al Ross of Los Angeles informed him Haywood was unhappy with his present contract and wanted a new one.

Ringsby said the Rockets planned to consult with their attorneys over the situation. Haywood has been the nucleus of the Denver team and averaged 30 points and 19.5 rebounds per game last year.

OPTION

"There was nothing said about threatening to jump to the NBA," Ringsby said. "We have an option for a seventh year."

Haywood has not played at all this season because of a broken finger, but had been expected to resume play early next month.

Ringsby said he had not yet talked with Haywood about the situation. He said he presumed the former Olympic star, who signed with Denver despite two years of eligibility remaining at Detroit University, was in Los Angeles.

ENDORSEMENTS

"Many months ago, Ross presented Spencer with a contract for endorsements only," Ringsby said. "It was completely unreasonable and one-sided so I had my attorneys rework it and present it to Ross. Haywood apparently did this a couple of weeks ago, and this seems to be the contract under which they are working."

Earlier, J.W. Ringsby, chairman of the board of the Rockets, said he was unaware of reports that Haywood was considering moving to the NBA.

AT SAN RAFAEL

Tamalpais, Drake To Clash Tonight

Tamalpais and Drake will be getting each other on the rebound, so to speak, when the teams meet tonight, 8 o'clock, at San Rafael High School in the weekend's first Marin County Athletic League prep football game. (Stories on tomorrow's high school football games on page 26.)

Both the Indians of Mill Valley and the Pirates of San Anselmo have league records of one win and two losses coming into this game, which marks the halfway point in the 1970 season. And since no team in the last decade has won the MCAL championship with two losses, it's safe to say that Tam and Drake will be fighting for pride, rather than prizes, from here on out.

Last week the Indians lost, as expected, to San Rafael, while Drake was upset by lightly regarded San Marin. But the Pirates' fortunes may be on the rise, as halfback Jim Dominguez is scheduled to return to the lineup after missing two games with a ligament tear in his leg.

Color this contest a tossup. The teams are almost identical offensively, relying predominently on the rushing game to move the ball. For Tam, halfbacks Clifford Hall and Bill Washington are the main threats. Drake has Dominguez, John Loane and Steve Hale.

Drake coach Bob Franceschini has plenty of respect for Tam. "They're a very explosive club with outstanding running backs and adequate line," he says. "If we can hold Hall and Washington from breaking loose, we'll have a good chance."

Mike Davlin, Tam's coach, indicated his team will have to stop the Pirates' passing attack as well as their formidable rushing. "They'll be up, but we should be up, too," he said.

HE'S ANTI-CLAY

Maddox Declares Day Of Mourning

ATLANTA (UPI)—Gov. Lester Maddox, who failed to halt next Monday night's bout between Cassius Clay and Jerry Quarry, has gotten in his last word by declaring Monday "a day of mourning."

He urged Atlantans Thursday to boycott the fight and added hopes that "Clay gets beat in the first round—flattened for a count of 30." However, Mayor Sam Massell of Atlanta came back with a proclamation to call Oct. 23-26 "Sports Spectacular Weekend", noting that two college football games, an international motorcycle race and professional football and basketball are being held in the city along with the Clay-Quarry fight. Massell said the events show that Atlanta has "something for everyone" and is a city of "good sportsmanship."

Maddox has opposed the fight from its inception because of Clay's refusal to enter the Army, a move that cost Clay the heavywight title three years ago and brought him a five-year prison sentence that is under appeal. Maddox said Clay's appearance is "an insult to Georgians who have fought for their country and served in uniform." He criticized city officials for allowing the fight to be held and urged patriotic groups to "let the city know" how they felt. "All citizens who love their liberty appreciate sacrifices of their fellow Americans," he said, urging Atlantans "to pray that the cause of American freedom by spread any further affront to the memory of their loved ones.

"All citizens are implored to abstain from participating in or contributing to any action which would demean the sacrifice made by those Americans who have answered their country's call," he added.

Cardinals Trade Taylor

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Carl Taylor, a journeyman major-leaguer with experience in the infield, outfield and behind the plate, was traded to the Milwaukee Brewers today by the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Cardinals acquired Taylor a year ago from the Pittsburgh Pirates in exchange for Dave Giusti and Dave Ricketts.

The Cardinals shipped Taylor to Milwaukee along with minor-league pitcher Jim Ellis in exchange for catcher Jerry McNertney and pitchers Jesse Huggins and George Lauzerique.

Miss Walsh Loses To Virginia Wade

MANCHESTER, England (UPI) — England's Virginia Wade gained revenge for last week's defeat when she beat 18-year-old Sharon Walsh of San Rafael 6-4, 6-3 yesterday in the quarterfinals of the Dewar Indoor tennis tournament.

Patti Hogan of La Jolla, threatened with disqualification after a series of temper tantrums, finally beat Scotland's Winnie Shaw 8-10, 7-5, 6-4 in another match.

Miss Hogan was told by umpire Bertie Bowron, "Behave or I will disqualify you" when she climaxed a series of outbursts by slamming a ball high into the stands late in the second set.

Miss Hogan, upset by doubtful line calls, replied, "I wish you would, it would save me a lot of aggravation," but she went on to win the two hour, 22 minute match and reach the semifinals.

The 20-year-old Californian produced some brilliant attacking tennis in between her shows of temperament and was well in control at the finish.

Miss Wade's semi-final opponent will be Francoise Durr of France, who overwhelmed Scotland's Joyce Williams, 6-2, 6-0.

Top-seeded Tom Gorman of Seattle, Wash., reached the semi-finals of the men's singles by eliminating 39-year-old former British Davis Cup player John Barrett, 3-6, 7-5, 6-3.

Knicks Tip Warriors In Closing Seconds

NEW YORK (UPI)—The San Francisco Warriors head for home today after completing their first road trip of the young National Basketball Association season with a 1-2 record.

At Madison Square Garden Thursday night, the defending NBA champion New York Knicks scored the last five points to turn back the Warriors, 95-92.

2-3 RECORD

It marked the first time in five starts that the Warriors failed to top the 100-point mark. And the loss left them at 2-3 in the Pacific Division race.

Mike Riordan, one of the Knicks' super-subs, was the rallying figure for New York as he scored nine of his 15 points in the fourth stanza, including the last three in the final 40 seconds. His tie-breaking field goal came after Walt Frazier netted a pair of free throws with 1:41 remaining to tie the game at 92-92.

San Francisco fashioned a 54-47 halftime lead mostly on the work of Jerry Lucas. The former Ohio State All-America scored 11 of his 19 points and collected 19 rebounds before the half.

DEFENSE FALLS

After battling to a 75-75 standoff at the three-quarter mark, the Warriors held a two-point advantage with less than two minutes to play before collapsing on defense.

Nate Thurmond shared high-point honors with Cazzie Russell of the Knicks with 20 apiece.

San Francisco returns to action Saturday night against the new Portland Trail Blazers at the Oakland Arena.

Hindman Is Only 49er Still On Injury List

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The casualty list of the San Francisco 49ers should stand at one when game time rolls around Sunday against the improved Denver Broncos.

The only non-participant will be defensive end Stan Hindman, who is still nursing a bum leg.

Linebacker Dave Wilcox (knee) is geared for a return to the starting lineup and guard Randy Beisler (back and neck) should see plenty of action, although it is doubtful he will start. Both sat out last Sunday's 20-20 tie against the New Orleans Saints.

Coach Dick Nolan also revealed Thursday that wide receiver Dick Witcher is ready for duty. Witcher has been out for the past three weeks with a shoulder separation. However, Nolan has indicated that rookie Preston Riley will start against the Broncos.

Raider Linebacker Conners To Start Against Steelers

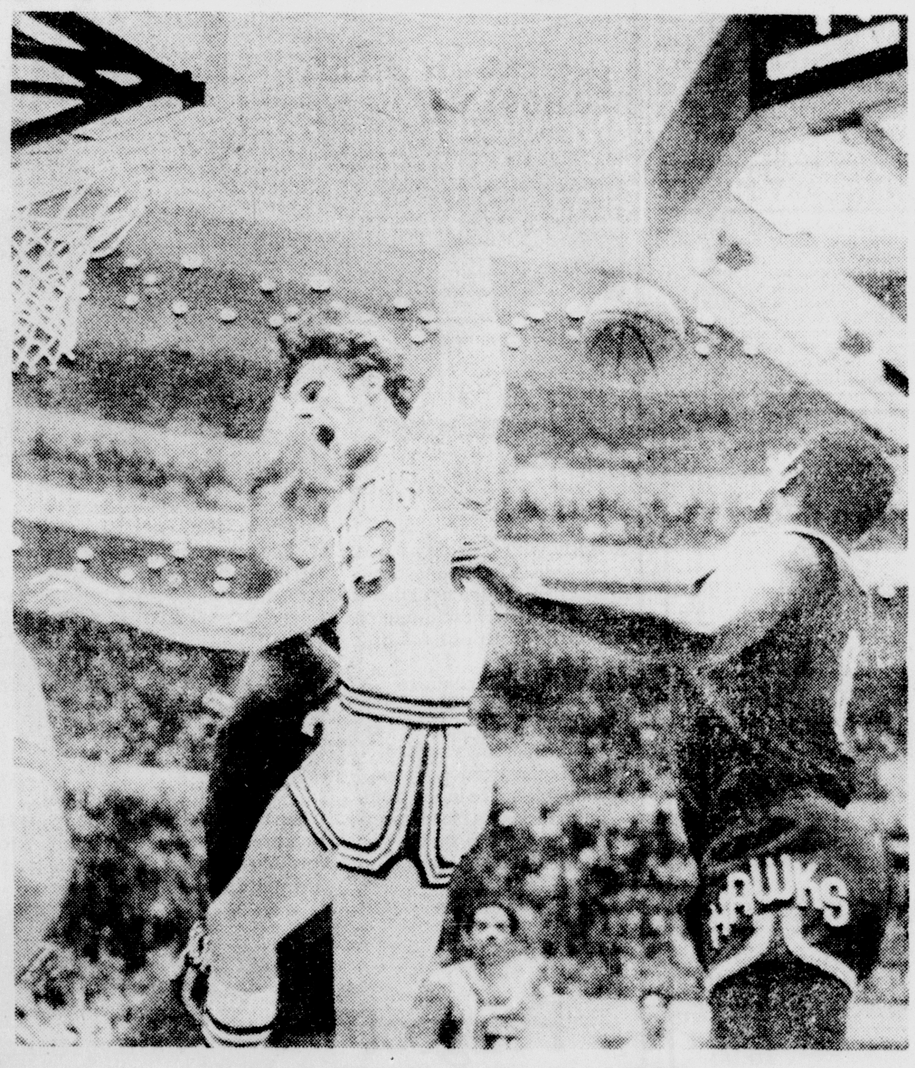
OAKLAND (UPI)—Dan Conners has had his first taste of regular season contact and he wants more. He'll get more as a starter Sunday when the Oakland Raiders host the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Conners, who broke a bone in his right arm against the San Francisco 49ers in a pre-season game, played a little at his old middle linebacker spot Monday when the Raiders dumped Washington, 34-20.

"I made a tackle on the first play," he said Thursday. "That felt good; to know I could still do it."

During his lonely sideline vigil, Conners stayed in shape by running daily but admits he needs playing time to get sharp.

"I think one game will do it," he said. "But it will have to be a physical game. A rout wouldn't help much."



ONE THAT DIDN'T STOP

Winless Seals Host Winless Penguins

OAKLAND (UPI)—By the end of tonight, there should be only one team in the National Hockey League without a win. That is, barring a tie.

And the California Golden Seals, who are 0-5-1, hope it won't be them. They host the equally luckless Pittsburgh Penguins (0-3-2) at the Oakland Arena.

The Seals came close to their initial campaign victory two nights ago, but fell apart in the final period and managed only a 2-2 tie against the St. Louis Blues.

"We have to return to the basic way of playing this game and maybe it'll come against Pittsburgh," general manager Frank Selke said Thursday. "We're not getting enough goals to take the pressure off and we go into a defensive shell.

Redwood To Host San Rafael

The Redwood High School Giants will have the home field advantage, and little else going for them tomorrow when they host the speedburning San Rafael Bulldogs at 2 p.m. in Larkspur.

The Bulldogs, who have won four of five games this year, should roll to their third straight Marin County Athletic League victory over what may be the weakest Redwood team ever. The Giants have failed to notch a win in any of their five games, including two MCAL contests.

In fact, this game is probably the biggest mismatch of the 1970 MCAL season. It pits the league's most prolific offense against the most impotent; San Rafael is averaging well over 200 yards a game, while Redwood has scored just three touchdowns all season.

And to add injury to insult, the Giants will be without the services of half their first string backfield. Quarterback Bob Brown is out with a bruised knee, and fullback Andy Anixter has resprained an ankle.

Sophomore Daryl Edralin, who handled the club during most of last week's 26-0 loss to Burlingame, will call signals. "The kids seem to perk up a little when he's in," says Giant coach Phil Roark.

San Rafael, on the other hand, is healthy, as has been the case all season. "So far this year we've been pretty fortunate," says coach Bob Muster.

Muster doesn't believe his team will suffer a letdown after last week's tough 14-0 win over Tamalpais. "We're a pretty hungry bunch," he says.

Prospects for a rainy day will help Redwood, since San Rafael's offense depends on speed. Flanker Scott Duncan makes the outside game go, while fullback Mark Farrar handles the inside running attack.

If both of them are bottled up,quarterback Dirk Gansloser can go to the air, primarily to split end Duke Besser, who was instrumental in the win over Tam.

UPSET MINDED SAN MARIN

Terra Linda Is Cautious

Terra Linda High School, sitting atop the Marin County Athletic League with a three win, no loss record, could very well run away from San Marin when the teams meet tomorrow at 1 p.m. at Novato High School.

But if the game is close, and close games are the thing this year in the MCAL, then the Mustangs, whose record is even at one and one, could pull a major upset.

"We're cautious of what San Marin can do," says Trojan coach Don Lucas. "Their whole ball club is a pretty feisty bunch of guys. They don't quit, they have tremendous quickness and they really play together as a team."

Mostly, however, the Trojans are cautious of what placekicker Urbano Boucsiequez can do. Last week he kicked field goals of 28, 43 and 41 yards to lead the Mustangs to a 17 - 10 upset of Drake.

Anywhere from the 35 yard line in, Boucsiequez is a threat. But against Terra Linda's league-leading defense, the Mustangs aren't likely to penetrate much farther too often.

"They've got an awful strong line," San Marin coach Bob Martin says, "and they've got good balance. I think we'll have to play for a break or two."

Both Terra Linda and San Marin made their own breaks to win last week. Linebacker Larry Mandin intercepted a Novato pass in the last quarter to set up a 7 - 0 Trojan victory, and halfback Marty Larsen had two interceptions in the final minute of the first half to set up the Mustangs' win.

Neither team has a spectacular offense, although Terra Linda, with Larry Kerr at quarterback, has been able to move the ball consistently in every game.

The game will be preceded at 11 a.m. by a non-league clash between the Novato Hornets and the Salesian Chieftains of Richmond.

Marin 'Cats Up Against Tough Foe

The Marin Catholic Wildcats better hope somebody up there likes them. They'll need all the help they can get tomorrow at 1 p.m. when they go against undefeated St. Patrick's High School at Corbus Field in Vallejo.

The Wildcats, coming off last week's 27 - 14 win over St. Elizabeth's of Oakland, will be out to even their 1970 record at three wins and three losses. But the powerful Bruins have other ideas.

Winners of their last 10 games including six this year, the North Coast League leaders have allowed just one touchdown this season. Last week they were particularly impressive in shutting out Menlo, 32-0.

For their part, the Kentfield boys have gained better than 300 yards in every game this year and should provide St. Pats with as stiff a test as anyone.

The only basis for comparison of the teams gives the Bruins a definite edge. They knocked off Salesian of Richmond, 12 - 0, and Marin lost to the Chieftains, 19 - 13.

Wildcat coach Rev. John Heaney is confident his team can move the ball against anybody. "We always knew we could run, and we figure we can pass, too," he says.

Fullback Pat Parnow and tailback Mark Lewis carry the Wildcats' running attack. Each has averaged better than 75 yards a game. The passing chorse belong to Steve Sherry, who, while no spectacular, has been effective, especially throwing to flanker Chuck Lauderback.

Pistons Keep Unbeaten String Going

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The one-two punch of Jimmy Walker and Dave Bing and the one-punch swing of Bob Lanier can really flatten a club.

Walker scored 29 points and Bing added 20 Thursday night as the unbeaten Detroit Pistons smothered the Atlanta Hawks, 120-101. Lanier caught opposing center Bob Christian with a left to the nose after a jostling session between the two rookie pros.

In other NBA action, New York edged San Francisco, 95-92, and the San Diego Rockets routed the winless Cleveland Cavaliers, 140-110.

Detroit, the only team in the National Basketball Association with a perfect record, won its sixth straight and bid to bear out pre-season reports the Pistons would wind up with Milwaukee in the Midwest Division playoffs.

The Pistons rolled to a 15-point halftime lead, 62-47, and when Atlanta closed the gap to 80-73 in the third quarter, drew away with a 14-point surge.

Pete Maravich collected nine field goals enroute to leading Atlanta with 23 points. Lou Hudson chipped in with 19 points for the Hawks.

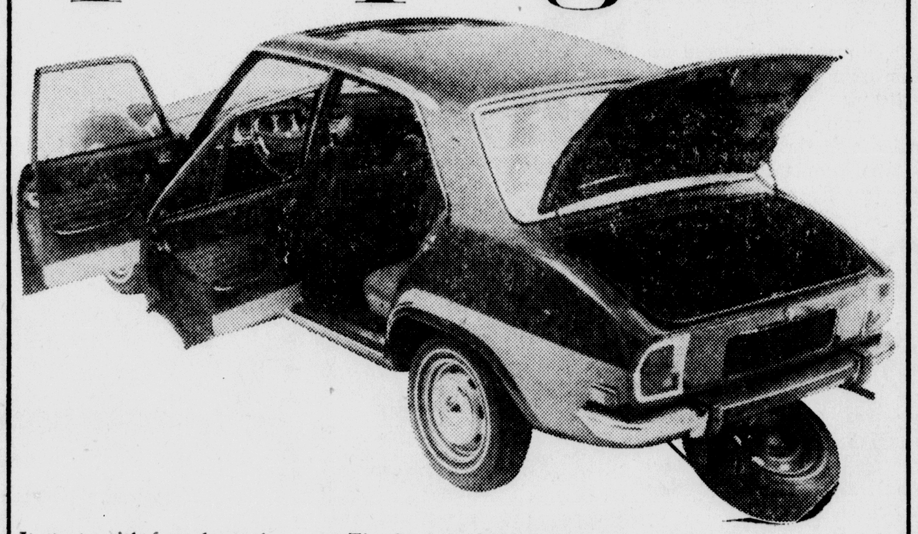
The Peugeot space program.



It starts with four doors that open wide. That swing out a full 85 degrees and hold there.

So, it's no trick to get in or out of the front or back of a Peugeot 504.

A sliding roof opens to the sky to let in plenty of sunshine and fresh air.

Unlike most cars built today, the spare tire doesn't take up valuable space in the trunk —but is locked in place underneath the trunk floor. So, you get additional room for baggage.

The front bucket seats are fully reclining, so you can stretch out —even go to sleep if you like when the day's driving is done.

Peugeot 504 $3,295 P.O.E.*

Three adults can sit comfortably in back. Or, put the armrest down and you've got two luxurious lounge chairs.

But all this spaciousness would be for nothing if the car didn't have a comfortable ride. That's why the Peugeot 504 has independent suspension on all four wheels—to soak up the bumps and potholes; and four-wheel disc brakes to slow you down quickly but gently.

The Peugeot 504—it's one import that thinks comfort and roominess is important.

Hunting In The Rain Can Be A Tough Job

By AL GIDDINGS

BEIBER, Lassen County — My wife, Mary, and I left Bob Wilson and his gang in the mountains above Cauley, Modoc County, earlier this week. Those fellows just get up too early — 5 a.m. — and it's about

We needed baths and some laundry service, and we thought we might spend a few days at a motel just to have the last week of this hunting in some comfort. Wilson and the boys hadn't killed any bucks by the time we left, but they were full of vim and vigor.

I TOOK a hunt in the Beiber country Monday and saw seven deer but no bucks. That evening, riding home, I saw about 20 deer, one forked horn. Only three-pointers are legal in the Lassen-Modoc areas. The deer seemed to sense the impending storm and were moving down off the mountains starting their winter migration.

Of course this pepped me up, so Tuesday morning I planned an early morning hunt, and when the time came it was raining hard enough to make things rough.

I took the jeep, and Mary as a scout, and Bruno, the dog, just to have some problems besides the rain. We also took the shotguns. There's a little backwoods pond that I've always got a duck or two from, but upon getting there, and it raining cats and dogs, we decided that there would be no ducks there this day. As we drove by, there were five mallards there! You know, the older I get the dumber I get!

IT RAINED and rained. So I just drove the jeep through all the deer country in the area. About noon it stopped raining, so I decided to go for a hike. Within five minutes I saw eight deer, again one had forks. I would guess that I jumped or saw close to 40 deer for the day, but nothing legal to shoot.

Hunting conditions were frustrating with the scope of the rifle getting wet, the binoculars getting blurred, and the mud and the cold wind. The dog was actually a big help. He would see many deer before I would, and by his actions I would know that something was cooking.

WITH THE migrating deer, you might have a chance in this area on the last weekend of deer season starting tomorrow. The locals don't want a storm; they would rather have their wild bucks still running than your bucks in the till. They have had a deer shortage so long that they are hoping only a few deer are taken this year so the herd can continue to build up again.

Now we're planning a final duck hunt. I think that will be fine, except the early morning temperature is forecast for 20 degrees. I think old age is beginning to creep up on me, or maybe it's that marvelous Marin County climate that makes this place seem so very, very cold.

Softball Game For Firemen

The Tiburon fire department softball team, coming off an undefeated, championship season in the Marin County Firemen's Association League, will be heavily favored to win for the fourth straight year tomorrow in the seventh annual Belvedere-Tiburon firemen's game at Judge Field in Tiburon.

Tiburon racked up 14 wins without a loss in league action and overall had a record of 30 wins and one loss. It was the team's most successful season since 1964.

Belvedere has only one victory in the series, a 35 - 34 decision in 1966.

Game time tomorrow is 2 p.m.

Stable Fire Damages: $500,000

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (UPI) —Garden State race track spokesmen estimate damages at $500,000 in the disastrous fire which killed 30 horses and destroyed a stable.

A trainer died of a heart attack during the blaze, which raged out of control for an hour late Wednesday and early Thursday.

The body of Thomas W. Rearson, in his late 60s, was found Thursday near the ruined Stable D, which housed 50 horses.

Stanford In 'Crucial' At USC

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

By midnight Saturday, the Stanford Indians will know whether they are closer akin to Cinderella or an immobile pumpkin.

At that hour their night game with UCLA in the Los Angeles Coliseum will have been history. A Stanford victory would give the Indians practically an unobstructed path to the Rose Bowl for the first time since 1952 with a 4-0 record in the Pacific-8 Conference and games remaining against Oregon State, Washington and California.

But the game means more than just clearing the Rose Bowl muddle.

The opposing quarterbacks — Stanford's Jim Plunkett and Dennis Dummit of UCLA — are being boomed as Heisman Trophy candidates. So far, Plunkett has a decided edge as the greatest yardage gainer in NCAA history, but one game could change things rather quickly.

Plunkett and Dummit rank 1-2 in total offense in the Pac-8 with 273.5 yards a game average to 231.5.

In another key Pacific-8 battle at Eugene, Ore., the USC Trogans, tied the UCLA at 2-1 in the conference, throw their devastating ground game against the Oregon Ducks, the nation's top passing team. USC is a 13 1-2 point favorite but the Ducks 3-1 can't be counted out of the race.

With sophomore quarterback Dan Fouts throwing and Bobby Moore and Bob Newland catching, the Ducks have the potential to whip any team in the conference. Matched against them will be a host of talented Trojan runners like Clarence Davis, Rod McNeill and Sam Cunningham.

In other games Saturday, San Jose visits Pacific at night and Fresno State 5-1 hosts Los Angeles State in another Pacific Coast Athletic Association night contest; Santa Clara travels to Neveda-Reno and the University of San Diego provides the opposition for St. Mary's Homecoming game.

NEW CITIZENS

Not Australia, But Wooded Marin Hills

Helen Oesterman of 23 Sienna Way in San Rafael thought — when her husband, Richard, left his native England in 1956 — that the family would find its new home in Australia.

But when he sent back to England for her, the call came from San Francisco, not Australia. He found the bay and the wooded hills of Marin to his liking and decided to stop here.

Mrs. Oesterman, too, has found the area to her liking and last month became a United States citizen. She left a lucrative career in the British film industry as a script girl where she worked on such films as "Let's Be Happy," with Tony Martin, a film produced by the Mirish Brothers, the same people who produced the comedy, "The Russians Are Coming, The Russians Are Coming."

As a script girl, or continuity girl, Mrs. Oesterman was responsible for checking the continuity of a film's story, checking thousands of small details in a film, such as clothing, hair styling and make-up over several days of shooting the same scene.

"You can imagine how ridiculous it would look," she said, "if in a love scene an actor wore one shirt one day and a different shirt when the scene was shot on another day."

She claims a photographic mind, which she says was helpful in checking the continuity of films. Memory also came in handy in helping her husband, a San Rafael mortgage broker and investment counselor, when he entered the last supervisorial election in Marin's First District.

"When Dick had to make a speech, I'd go over it with him in the car," she said. "I could remember it, word for word, and correct and prompt him."

Even though her husband withdrew from the supervisor's race, both the Oestermans remain active in the politics of their new country, working on the current campaign to reelect Ivy Baker Priest as state treasurer.

Politics and hobbies such as bridge and needlepoint have taken the place of her film career.

"When you work in the film industry," she said, "you give it your whole life, but when you give it up, it's completely gone, it's a completely new world. It's the most marvelous life for a person who's single or doesn't have children (she has two, Janice, 5, and Paul, 17, who has also applied for his American citizenship), but as you get a family, well, they become your career."

She says she has no plans to get involved in the local film scene, but will instead concentrate on her roles as a mother and housewife, and of course help with any future political plans her husband may have, "if that comes up."

Other Marin and Southern Sonoma residents naturalized last month are:

Petaluma Youths Held As Suspects In Burglaries

Two 16-year-old Petaluma Boys were arrested yesterday on suspicion of committing seven residential burglaries and attempting burglaries at seven other homes.

Michael Gregg of 3624 Petaluma Boulevard North and Gary Gypsy Nations of the Petaluma Hotel, were booked into Sonoma County Juvenile Hall.

Sgt. William Reed said he found the youths walking on Hill Boulevard near the home of George McGee, 132 Hill Boulevard, where theft of $90 cash had been reported.

Police said the boys were linked to other burglaries at 339 Walnut Street, 201 Kent Street, 17 Tenth Street, 18 Payran Street, 608 English Street and 204 Hill Boulevard.

The youths were also accused of attempting burglaries at 148 Payran Street, 407 and 413 Oak Street, 46 and 76 Raymond Heights and 412 West Street.

Judge Dismisses Gun Selling Charge

A felony charge, selling a machine gun, against Frank Thomas Garrison, 37, of Fairfax, was dismissed yesterday in Marin Municipal Courty by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. who ruled that Garrison had been the victim of entrapment.

Garrison had been accused of selling the gun to detective John Squier of Monterey, whom he met at a San Jose gun show in February. The officer also had said that Garrison had agreed to give him parts to make the World War II gun operable.

Fontez Defends Tax Lists In Newspapers

Several tax collectors attending a Northern California convention in San Rafael yesterday proposed eliminating annual publication of lists of tax delinquent properties to be sold at public auction.

However, the consensus, including Marin County Tax Collector-Treasurer Stanley J. Fontez, defended the publication of the list in newspapers as a useful tool in giving public notice.

"Lots of people have mortgages against the properties," said James Malstrom, Fresno County tax collector. "I think the newspaper publication is the best way to give notice."

"I agree with him," added Fontez. "You have an easy and simple record of the public notice"

Wallace Martin, tax collector of Humboldt County, charged that the tax sales publication "is harassment of the taxpayers."

A delegate from Santa Clara County complained that publicaltion costs keep rising. "It's an archiac, horse and buggy system."

Some 175 tax collectors and auditors from throughout the state registered for the conference at Holiday Inn, San Rafael. Marin County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell and Fontez were hosts for the two-day conference, which concluded today.

California tax collectors and auditors meet annually to discuss new legislation and methods of improving office efficiency.

Gerald E. Roth of San Rafael, president of the Micro-Datamation Corp., demonstrated the use of microfilm to record and file material directly from computer magnetic tapes, thus eliminating some of the mass of printed sheets that pour from computers.

"It's a good idea," commented Fontez. "Marin will probably be using it in a few years."

Mailliard Backs Sewage Proposal

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, today endorsed state Proposition 1 on the November ballot, a $250 million bond measure to upgrade sewage treatment facilities.

Mailliard said the proposition would provide needed matching funds so community sewage systems can qualify for federal grants, thus cutting the local share of such projects from 70 to 20 per cent.

If the state will fund 25 per cent of the costs, he noted, the federal government will increase its share from about 30 per cent to as high as 55 per cent. The proposition, Mailliard said, will help Marin and San Francisco to meet new state water quality standards and fight water pollution at the lowest possible cost.

OPEN EVENINGS AND SUNDAYS

By tomorrow the world will have changed . . .

Between today and tomorrow news which is unexpected and unforeseen will change YOU . . . your attitudes, your values, perhaps even your personal life. For all of us live on a turning world, on the very threshold - second by second - of the future.

We at the I-J can't know what the news will be but we DO know it will happen . . . and on a thousand fronts.

Which explains why we use the enormous "nervous system" of United Press International and the eyes and ears of its 6,000 reporters to keep us - and keep you - in sensitive touch with every country in the world.

Strange thing is that this vast network of words and wire is almost instantly connected to our newsroom in San Rafael. And even UPI's electronic magic which sends us photographs by tiny impulses over the wire.

The world will change but news of these "new" events will as inevitably reach us in time to reach you in every evening's I-J.

The point then, is that the strange and complex world of "what hasn't yet happened" will be reported to you when it does. The UPI and the I-J have their nerves ready . . . and plenty of paper for tomorrow.

AT HOME ON THE RANGE, STRANGE IN SAN RAFAEL

Looking 100 years late for the last roundup, Jack Oyler and Thor Weir of San Diego draw the puzzled stares of a group waiting for a bus on Third Street in San Rafael. Detouring yesterday from a ride through the Sierras to the wide open spaces of Canada, the pair were leading their two horses, a pack mule and a pair of dogs toward Mill Valley to visit a friend. The horseback ramble began in Bakersfield.

Sierra Bank Vote Ends Two Trusts

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Shareholders of Sierra National Bank, Petaluma, voted here yesterday to end two of the bank's voting trusts at a meeting.

A suit against directors of the bank filed Monday by minority stockholders Dr. Alfred and Molly Auerbach and L. E. (Bud) Castner which sought a temporary injunction against the meeting was too late to stop the vote. The suit seeks damages of $5 million.

The vote was 37,811 shares to 350 shares in favor of terminating one of the trusts and 21,093 to 271 in favor of terminating the other.

The two voting trusts were originally set up to prevent the bank from being taken over by means of a manipulation of stock and would have precluded the purchase of 20,024 shares of stock by Clyde Charlton, a Sierra stockholder and head of Pacific Coast Holdings and Bell Savings and Loan Association, from five of the directors of the bank.

The result was described by Ray Gambonini, board chairman as an overwhelming endorsement by shareholders of a plan to keep Sierra functioning as an independent bank instead of being absorbed in a chain. It had been reported that both Central Valley National and United States National banks were interested in taking over Sierra.

"If this unfounded personal suit continues in spite of its rejection by the stockholders it will be strongly resisted by the bank and its directors," Gambonini said.

Marin City Official Chides Attitudes Since Shoot-Out

Marin County officialdom's attitude toward Marin City has turned to hostility since the Aug. 7 shoot-out at the Hall of Justice and this change now threatens the community's two-year federal planning grant, Marin City's community coordinator charged last night.

The coordinator, Jack Williams, made the charges in a 13-page report presented to the Marin City Council.

In addition to William's charges, council chairman Rev. Samuel Banks said he had been told that the county's planning director, Werner von Gundell was planning to appear before the Marin County Board of Supervisors Tuesday and ask that the 701 planning grant be canceled.

Marin City has a two-year $50,000 federal grant, including $25,000 of in-kind services from the county, to prepare plans for the development of the community. The grant expires June 4 of next year unless extended, on action requiring county support.

Williams said that a July 24 memo from the county planning department indicated that the department would approve a six-month extension.

As a result of the attitude change since the Aug. 7 shoot-out, Williams said, the county is now seeking to end the project.

Williams also said that he and other Marin City residents have been subject to undue harassment from the county since the shoot-out.

"After the shoot-out, a Marin City Council member recently entered the Civic Center and was requested to leave with the officer what was considered a dangerous weapon . . . his natural comb," Williams said.

"A member of the community registered a complaint that treatment of Marin City blacks at the Civic Center while conducting business has changed," he said. "Many of the questions raised by county staff, after the shoot-out, as to the ability of the council and its staff appear to be methods for the established leadership to avoid addressing fundamental issues and problems of housing, employment and dialogue.

"It appears the county staff is misinformed, or deliberately trying to split the community — my business relationship with county staff prior to the shoot-out was good."

Williams's report, which was read in part at the meeting, contained an Aug. 31 memo from von Gundell canceling Marin City's use of a county vehicle because ". . . of your refusal to comply with the requests to return the county vehicles to the motor pool, the unkempt condition of such vehicles when they are finally turned in, failure to report mileage of such vehicles . . . and excessive mileage which is substantially beyond budget allowances."

Williams termed the charges "a lie."

He also called on the county not to extradite Angela Davis to Marin County for trial, saying that such a move ". . . could have a damaging effect on the present tense relationship between Marin City and the County of Marin.

"We must direct our energies toward correcting this relationship.

"To extradite Angela would be to assassinate Marin City."

"Why are they down on us?" asked one member of the audience.

"Because the white folk was highly offended when a superior court judge got killed by 'those niggers!'" answered councilmember Peggy Bullock. "They are real uptight."

Williams said that a major problem now is that county planning department officials have refused to attend Marin City meetings to aid in the 701 project.

Williams said that staff member Thomas Cordill is supposed to attend council meetings but has been to only two meetings in the last year.

The council let Williams read about half of his attack on the county officials' attitudes, then zeroed in on the immediate problem: how to keep their federal program from being canceled.

Banks told the other members that Von Grundell was reportedly going to ask the program's cancellation on the basis that it was so far behind schedule.

"Why didn't he come down here and tell us that," said Mrs. Bullock.

The council called a special meeting for 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Manzanita Center and told Williams to be sure both von Grundell and Cordill were in attendance.

"We've got to find out what they are going to do," Banks said. The council also indicated they hoped for a large showing of community support at the meeting.

Reshaping Of Safety Group Asked

Marin County Safety commissioners, stymied by their frequently absent chairman, yesterday called for a reorganization and stricter operating procedures.

Sgt. Robert Bertrand of the sheriff's office, who was elected chairman last February, has missed more than half the meetings. Vice chairman Bette L. Riebeling reported that more than 80 accident cases have piled up for commission review, and the backlog keeps increasing.

"Where are the reports on these cases?" asked the other commissioners.

"They're in a briefcase in West Marin," replied Mrs. Riebeling. She said Bertrand, who patrols West Marin, has all the papers with him, and without his attendance, the commission cannot review the accident cases.

To make matters worse, the county counsel ruled that of seven members who attended the meeting at the Civic Center yesterday, only four could vote because the other three were "nominees" of regular members without power to vote.

The eight member commission lacked a quorum yesterday so it could not elect a new chairman.

Richard I. Uchida, personnel analyst, was asked by fellow members to get reorganization started.

Uchida said he would contact Bertrand to get the accident reports so that business can be conducted at the next meeting set for 9 a.m. Nov. 19 at Civic Center.

Tires, Rims Stolen

Fifty tires and rims valued at a total of $2,136 were stolen from a Mill Valley Refuse Co. building at 1625 Francisco Boulevard between 4 p.m. Wednesday and 4:30 a.m. yesterday, San Rafael said today.

Von Gundell Denies Marin City Charges

Marin County Planning Director Werner von Gundell, who will recommend a cutback in the Marin City planning program Tuesday, today denied a charge that the cutback has anything to do with the Aug. 7 shoot-out at the Hall of Justice.

Jack Williams, community coordinator of the Marin City planning program, declared that the county is retaliating against the black community because of the shoot-out.

Von Gundell denied that, saying his staff has been discussing a reorganization of the Marin City planning program since July.

Von Gundell said this is the problem he faces:

The Marin City planning program is partially financed by Title 701 of the Housing Act of 1954. Thus, it is commonly referred to as the Marin City 701 program.

The total planning program is $75,000 with $50,000 in federal funds and $25,000 in county in-kind contributions. The program runs from June 4, 1969 to June 4, 1971.

He cannot justify the use of $25,000 worth of in-kind (county staff time) contribution because there just is not that much work. Thomas E. Cordill, county planner, spends one-half his time on the Marin City Program, but this comes to only $8,000 or $9,000 per year. Cordill is also assigned to work on the Bolinas Lagoon master plan.

Can't the county contribute other staff time such as secretarial or planner's time to fill out $25,000 in-kind contribution?

"That would be just make-work type of thing," said Van Gundell. "Besides, we can't just put in time only. We must produce some concrete product according to the contract."

Therefore, Von Gundell will recommend to the Marin County Board of Supervisors Tuesday that the county in-kind contribution be cut to about $15,500.

Since the 701 program is based on 2-to-1 cost sharing (two federal and one county), the federal portion would be cut to $31,000. This would reduce the $75,000 Marin City planning program to a total of $46,500.

Since the bulk of the federal portion goes to paying Williams and a part-time secretary, Von Gundell will recommend that Williams and his staff be terminated. The rest of the program would be continued by an outside consultant, Larry Smith and Associates of New York, who will study community potential. The Marin City Council has already agreed on that consulting firm, said Von Gundell.

The end product of the planning program will be a master plan for Marin City.

Williams also complained that his use of a county car has been terminated.

That is true, sain Von Gundell. The car mileage allotted for the Marin City 701 program has been used up, he explained. "They have been using the county planning department's car mileage. I withdrew use of the county car because the costs were running too high."

Von Gundell said that on July 31 he sent a memorandum to Williams, asking that the county car be turned in and private cars be used at seven cents per mile. The car was returned on Aug. 21, and the county garage reported that it was in bad condition, said Von Gundell.

The trouble with the Marin City program is that there is dual authority, said Von Gundell. The planning director is responsible for overall technical and administration control, and the Marin City Council has day-to-day operation control. Assignments to Williams primarily comes from the Marin City Council, said Von Gundell. "The Marin City Council wants more authority vested in the community, and I agree. I am so recommending."

Ranch Hand Succumbs At Crash Scene

A 65-year-old Petaluma ranch employee died today when his car struck an embankment on Stony Point Road, north of Roblar Road, at 4:50 a.m.

Manuel Garcia Tome, 2743 Stony Point Road, was pronounced dead on arrival at Hillcrest Hospital.

The Sonoma County Coroner's office said Tome had reportedly felt ill this morning and that an autopsy would be performed to determine if he died from the accident injuries or of natural causes.

He had been employed as a milker at the Harry Milden Ranch on Stony Point Road.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at the Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma.

Tree Replacement Plan Due Discussion

A proposed ordinance establishing a policy for replacement of trees on city property which must be cut down will be discussed by the Fairfax City Council at an adjourned meeting at 8 p.m. tonight at the Fairfax Women's Club.

The council will also receive a report from the planning commission on site proposals for the proposed public safety building.

College And Water Bonds Are Opposed

The Irate Taxpayers of Marin voted last night to oppose two Marin Junior College District measures and the Marin Municipal Water District's measure on the Nov. 3 ballot.

Unhappy with land management by the water district, the group also voted to oppose the incumbent, Dr. Leo L. Stanley, in the race for a water district board seat, according to Winifred Frederick, spokesman for the taxpayers.

Opposition to the college measures came after District Supt. John A. Grasham said the college board could levy an additional $1 in the tax rate for building authorized by the state whether the measures pass or not, Mrs. Frederick said.

Although he said he doubted the board would levy the tax, Grasham could not promise future boards wouldn't even if the measures are passed, according to Mrs. Frederick.

The measures would replace a capital improvements tax with an operations tax and provide $16.9 million in bonds for construction.

The $11.5 million water district Measure H was opposed because of low rental rates for the Meadow Club and Big Trees Camp as well as pollution of Phoenix Lake, Mrs. Frederick said.

Dr. Stanely, who is running against engineer Roy Foreaker, was opposed for the same reasons, she said.

The group also accused the water district board of misleading the voters by failing to say that the Russian River project for which part of the bond money is designated is tied into the Eel River project strongly opposed by Lake County residents.

Clemson University is adopting a five-day weekly class schedule.

'Walk Against Hunger' Account Now $16,700

Marin's "Walk Against Hunger" today had $16,700 in the bank, a little over one month since 1,000 participants trudged 20 miles to earn pledged donations.

D. R. Swing, manager of Crocker Citizens Bank in San Anselmo said today he has seen three more donations in the morning mail, not yet added to the account. No cutoff date for the fund-raising has yet been set, he said.

March organizers estimated that $20,000 to $30,000 had been pledged.

When the fund collection phase ends, the money is to be divided among the Marin Economic Opportunity Council, the American Freedom From Hunger Foundation and the South Korean campaign of Meals for Millions, to provide food for needy youngsters in Marin, the U.S. and in Korea, Swing said.

Bolinas Man Gets Reduced Charge

Bruce D. Gomm, 27, of Bolinas pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a reduced charge of petty theft stemming from an incident at a Bolinas restaurant early in the morning of Oct. 8.

Sheriff's deputies who answered a call to Tarantino's Restaurant had found Gomm stuck halfway through a window with the owner of the restaurant holding him by one leg.

Gomm is to be sentenced Nov. 20.

Three Arrested On Drug Charges By Ross Police

Ross police responding to a report of a strange car on Crest Road yesterday arrested an 18-year old youth on suspicion of possessing marijuana and hashish, possession of an open alcohol container in an automobile and contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

The other two occupants, both 17, were booked into juvenile hall following the arrests at 4:50 p.m., police said.

Booked into Marin County Jail was Barry William Rippon, 18, of 2065 Mill Road, Novato. He posted $2,500 bail and is to appear in Marin Municipal Court Tuesday.

Police said a large sack containing beer cans and cartons was found on the front seat. A plastic bag containing vegetable matter and a vial of hard green substance resembling hashish were found in the open glove compartment, police said.

RESOLUTION NO. 70-338

RESOLUTION OF INTENTION OF THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF THE COUNTY OF MARIN, STATE OF CALIFORNIA, TO LEASE REAL PROPERTY OF THE COUNTY OF MARIN IN THE VICINITY OF THE JUNCTION OF MEADOWSWEET DRIVE AND SANFORD STREET, SUBJECT TO TERMS AND CONDITIONS HEREIN SET FORTH, AND FIXING THE TIME, PLACE AND DATE OF PUBLIC MEETING FOR CONSIDERING BIDS AND RESCINDING RESOLUTION NO. 70-318.

WHEREAS, the County of Marin, State of California, will be on the date of the execution of the Site Lease herein referred to, the owner in fee of approximately 2.69 acres of real property (the "Site") situated at the junction of Meadowsweet Drive and Sanford Street in the Town of Corte Madera, State of California; and

WHEREAS, this Board of Supervisors has approved plans and specifications for construction of certain improvements (the "Facilities") on the Site and has found and determined that it is in the best interests of the County to lease the Site for the purpose of permitting the lessee to cause the Facilities to be constructed thereon for the benefit of the County of Marin and the Town of Corte Madera, State of California;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin, as follows:

1. This Board of Supervisors hereby declares its intention to lease the Site subject to the following terms and conditions:

(a) The minimum rental shall be $210,000 payable upon execution of the Site Lease. A copy of a proposed form of Site Lease, entitled "Proposed Site Lease" (the "Site Lease") is on file in the office of the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors and sets forth substantially the terms on which the County will lease the real property and may be examined by any interested person.

(b) The successful bidder shall be required to cause the construction on the Site of the Facilities as shown in said plans and specifications and as described as the Facilities in that certain lease entitled "Proposed Project Lease" (the "Project Lease"). A copy of a proposed form of the Project Lease is also on file in the office of the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors and sets forth substantially the terms under which the County will sublease the Site and the Facilities from the successful bidder.

(c) The name of the successful bidder will be substituted for the "Authority" in both leases and the successful bidder must assume all of the obligations of the "Authority" as defined in the leases, except that the successful bidder must deposit in cash with a bank designated by the County as escrow holder all funds which the leases now require the Authority to provide under the Project lease, and no Authority bonds will be issued for the Project. Copies of the plans and specifications for the Facilities and the construction bids received thereon are on file in the office of the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors and may be examined by any interested person.

(d) The successful bidder shall be required to lease back to the County the Site and the Facilities for the term specified in the Project Lease and for the rental payments to be calculated as nearly as possible sufficient to amortize certain bonds proposed to be issued by the Marin County-Corte Madera Public Library Authority. Bids on said bonds are scheduled to be received by said Authority at the Chambers of the Board of Supervisors at 10:00 A.M. (P.S.T.) on October 13, 1970. The Resolution of said Authority authorizing the issuance of said bonds is also on file in the office of the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors.

(e) Sealed bids for the Site Lease will be received by the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors in the Chambers of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin, Civic Center Administration Building, San Rafael, California 94903, up to the hour of 2:00 P.M. on November 3, 1970. The bids shall be opened by the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors at the regular public meeting of the Board of Supervisors on November 3, 1970, and at that time and place oral bids will be received in accordance with Section 25531 of the Government Code of the State of California.

(f) Except for any bid submitted by a public agency or municipal corporation, each bid must be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check payable to the order of the County of Marin, or by a bid bond in favor of the County of Marin executed by the bidder as principal and by a satisfactory corporate surety authorized to do business in the State of California, in the penalty amount of $75,000 as a guarantee that the successful bidder will execute the Site Lease and the Project Lease. Subject only to the conditions authorized in the leases, said deposit and the proceeds thereof will be forfeited to the County if the successful bidder fails or refuses to execute the leases on or before November 13, 1970, after notification of award and submission for signature; otherwise, the deposit accompanying the successful bid will be returned upon execution of the leases. The deposits accompanying rejected bids will be returned upon execution of the leases by the successful bidder or upon expiration of the time allowed for award, whichever is earlier.

(g) The Board of Supervisors reserves the absolute right (1) to reject for good cause, in the Board's discretion, any of the bids submitted, (2) to award to the bidder submitting the bid determined in the Board's discretion to be the lowest bid submitted by a responsible bidder, or (3) to reject all bids submitted. Each bidder agrees by submitting a bid to provide the Board of Supervisors with additional evidence of its ability to perform under the terms of the leases, if so requested. The Board of Supervisors will award the Site Lease or reject all bids submitted not later than November 13, 1970.

2. Notice of the adoption of this resolution and of the time and place for the receipt of sealed bids and of holding said meeting shall be given by publication of this resolution in a newspaper of general circulation in the County of Marin pursuant to Section 6066 of the Government Code of the State of California and by posting this resolution not less than 15 days before November 3, 1970, in three public places in the County.

3. No commission shall be paid by the County of Marin to any real estate broker or any other person, and cost of the publication of this resolution shall be paid by the successful bidder.

4. Soviets Mum On U.S. Plea For Generals

MOSCOW (UPI)—The U.S. embassy asked the Soviets a second time today to release two army generals and an army major held incommunicado since their plane strayed across the border Thursday from Turkey in bad weather. There was no response.

An embassy spokesman said the embassy had asked the Soviets to release the officers and their plane as soon as the Soviets confirmed the plane had landed in Armenia.

"A new approach has been made today to the Soviet authorities requesting them to expedite the departure of the passengers and the plane since it was clear it was an accidental landing," the embassy said.

The embassy also made a formal request today to be allowed "consular access" to the Americans, meaning permission to send an embassy official to interview them. The consular convention states that such permission must be granted in two to four days.

A spokesman for the Turkish embassy said the ambassador also visited the Soviet Foreign Ministry and presented a request for consular access to a Turkish colonel with the Americans aboard the light plane.

Consular access is the diplomatic term for visits to persons held in custody by another country. The generals and a Turkish colonel were aboard the plane piloted by a U.S. Air Force major.

Despite the incident, diplomatic circles in Moscow said they believed no major international incident would arise over the matter, despite the current strain in U. S. -Soviet relations and Soviet demands that Turkey return two men who hijacked a Soviet airliner.

The Beechcraft plane carrying Maj. Gen. Edward C. D. Sherrer, 57, of Shawneetown, Ill., and Brig. Gen. Claude Monroe McQuarrie Jr., 45, of Ft. Benning, Ga., was reported missing Wednesday.

The Russians announced Thursday the craft "violated Soviet airspace" and landed in Armenia, less than 12 miles inside Soviet territory.

The news agency Tass said the two generals, the plane's pilot, U.S. Maj. James P. Russell, and a Turkish liaison officer, Col. Civat Danli, all were "in good health."

Shoot-To-Kill Orders: Chile In Curfew

SANTIAGO (UPI) — Troops with shoot-to-kill orders today enforced martial law imposed in a nationwide effort to find gunmen who wounded Chile's army commander in an apparent attempt to keep Marxist Salvador Allende from becoming president Saturday.

Gen. Rene Schneider was shot three times Thursday morning on his way to his office. The Military Hospital said he underwent an extremely delicate 1-1-2 hour operation Thursday night and was in extremely critical condition today.

"His general condition at this time is extremely serious," the medical bulletin said.

Police sources said there had been widespread arrests but they declined to confirm local press reports a former police detective had been arrested and charged with the shooting.

The city appeared near normal today with end of the 1:30 a.m. to 6 a.m. curfew but officials of the leftist workers unions called for a two-hour protest strike this afternoon.

"The government will not cease in its obligation to find and punish those responsible for this criminal attack," said President Eduardo Frei in a television and radio address Thursday night, announcing imposition of martial law.

"The government has taken all the means necessary to assure that the electoral process ends normally," Frei said. The modified form of martial law Frei invoked is a step short of a state of siege, which requires congressional ratification.

Troops patroled cities and towns from the Atacama desert on the north to the mountains on the south with authority to make summary arrests, search homes without warrants, censor information media and to shoot to kill any person who does not approach to be identified when challenged.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

The Stereotype Skyjacker Held To Be A Sometimes Mama's Boy

Dr. David Hubbard, Dallas psychiatrist who interviewed 20 skyjackers in federal prisons, concluded that the emotionally disturbed men have a desire to escape reality by creating fantasy in the air. Waving a gun and demanding to be taken to Havana gives them a sense of bigness. They leave behind them a lifelong littleness.

Van Dellen

Many of these men are not motivated by political feelings but "to stand up like a man" and "to fly like a bird." Obvious exceptions include the recent episodes involving the Arabs. According to Medical World News, Dr. Hubbard found that the stereotype skyjacker was a mamas' boy living a marginal existence, longtime unemployed, AWOL or on the lam. The majority commandeered planes following acute personal failures or periods of deep dperession. They want to be punished and return home to surrender.

PSYCHIATRISTS FIND symbolism in many of our activities. Most of these men had domineering, violent, alcoholic fathers and fanatically religious mothers. The hijackers usually sided with the mother and when they directed the pilots to fly to a hostile country they turned their backs on their "Fatherland."

Dr. Hubbard also found the hijackers passive and sexually confused. In all probability their first sexually aggressive acts took place when they poked guns at airline stewardesses. None molested a hostess; they stood in awe of a determined woman because she is symbolic of their mothers On several occasions, stewardesses bluffed them out of hijacking.

MANY SKYJACKERS wanted to be pilots, and 12 of the 20 interviewed took flying lessons or were active parachutists. Piolots were also held in awe and no one could be greater than astronauts. The publicity associated with space flight programs and the stories of other hijacking of planes to Cuba stimulated their fantasies of power in the sky. They also expect punishment, but Dr. Hubbard believes that a death penalty or 20 years in jail will excite them all the more and increase rather than decrease, skyjacking. As might be expected, he recommends psychiatric care, which obviously must be done after the crime.

SYMPTOMS OF ANEMIA

. T. writes: What are the symptoms of pernicious anemia?

REPLY

The commonest symptoms are weakness, sore tongue, numbness, and tingling of the extremities. Loss of appetite and diarrhea also may develop. In time, pallor and flabbiness ensue. Lack of coordination and analysis of the lower extremities may take place unless injections of vitamin B12 or liver are given.

Sewer Panel Settles Fuss Over Study

The Southern Marin Sanitary District Advisory Committee last night settled several disputes over formation of a special assessment district to finance a $190,000 study of sewage problems throughout most of Southern Marin.

William Hargreaves, advisory committee chairman, said the results will be presented to the Marin Municipal Water District directors at a hearing Nov. 12.

Last month, the water district board nearly shelved the whole assessment district idea when splits developed in the advisory committee.

BOUNDARY ARGUMENT

At the water board's Sept. 23 hearing, advisory committee members argued over boundaries for the proposed assessment district, who should administer the study and how much it should cost, and whether the water district should be the agency to provide sewage treatment for all of Southern Marin.

Last night, the advisory panel agreed that the water board should abandon its Sept. 23 resolution setting boundaries for the proposed assessment district. Instead, the water district should exclude Tiburon Sanitary District and the City of Belvedere, should set a $190,000 limit on the study's cost, and should refer to the work outlines hammered out by the committee, Hargreaves said.

COMMITTEE ASKED

The advisory panel will ask the water board to appoint a new committee to select an administrator for the survey, Hargreaves explained. The committee would consist of the water district's general manager William R. Seeger, one water district director, and a member of the advisory committee.

Hargreaves' panel also recommended that outside consultants be used as much as possible in the survey.

Hargreaves said that if the assessment district is formed, his committee will meet quarterly to review survey progress.

Last night's agreements left one question unresolved, Hargreaves pointed out. That is the Richardson Bay Sanitary District's stand that a new district should be formed to handle area-wide sewage, rather than have the water district go into the sewage treatment business. The decision on this may depend on results of the survey, he said.

The assessment district is planned to finance the study by a one-year levy of approximately 12 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Nominees Picked For Defunct Panel

Three Marinites, thanks to an agenda error, were nominated to serve on a defunct commission Wednesday night by the Marin County Council of Mayors and Councilmen.

Dean N. Meyer of Mill Valley, A. W. Gatov of Kentfield and Denis T. Rice, Tiburon mayor, were nominated to serve on the Bay Area Transportation Study Commission, which went out of existence almost two years ago.

Novato City Mgr. Charles A. Brown, asked about the nominations today, said that the three were supposed to have been nominated for the new Metropolitan Transportation Commission, but that the agenda of the meeting in Novato had incorrectly listed the defunct commission. Brown said that he felt the intention was clear when the vote was taken Wednesday, however.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors will select one of the three to be the county's representative on the 19-member commission, created under a new law effective Nov. 23.

The commission will have the power to pass on all applications for federal transportation funds, and is to draw up a Bay Area transportation plan by June 30, 1973.

Robbery Suspect Arrested During Hunt For Burglar

Corte Madera police, searching yesterday for two men involved in the armed robbery of a service station, came up with a burglary suspect instead.

Officers said today they stopped Michael Gordon Mosier, 18, of 152 Prince Royal Passage, Corte Madera, on Seminole Avenue because he was acting suspicious and answered the description of one of the armed robbers of Merrit's Chevron Station.

Police said in the back of Mosier's vehicle was a shoe box with 25 stereo tapes believed stolen Oct. 10 from an auto owned by Randel Thompson of 21 Seminole Drive, Corte Madera.

Mosier was held in the county jail in lieu of $6,250 bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Officers said Mosier was cleared of any connection with the merritt service station robbery.

Doris Day's Son Testifies On Manson

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Producer Terry Melcher testified today he auditioned Charles Manson but was unimpressed with the hippie cult leader either as a singer or guitar player.

The bearded Melcher, 28-year-old son of actress Doris Day, said he made no move to sign Manson to a recording contract but tried to line him up with another recording executive.

Melcher was called to the witness stand by the prosecution in the Tate-LaBianca murder trial of Manson and three female codefendants to explain his association with the chief defendant. Melcher said he went to the Spahn Ranch where the so-called Manson Family was living. He said Manson led him down a trail to a creek bed and there sang and played his guitar against a background of a score of young girls.

"Charley sat on a rock and sang about 10 or 15 songs," Melcher said. "The others were sitting on the ground."

Prosecutor Vincent Bugliosi asked the witness, "were you impressed with Mr. Manson's performance?"

"I wasn't too impressed by the songs. I was impressed by the whole scene."

Under further questioning Melcher said, "I was impressed by Charley's strength and his obvious leadership of these people. I was impressed by their being able to survive out there in the country camping out."

"How did you feel about Manson as a singer?"

"Average. I wasn't impressed on the level to want to pursue this although I knew someone who might."

In an opening statement Deputy District Attorney Vincent Bugliosi said the Benedict Canyon home where actress Sharon Tate was slain on the night of Aug. 8, 1969 was a "hate house" for Manson because Melcher rejected him.

Melcher was the previous tenant of the house owned by Rudolph Altobelli.

Paradise Bowling Alley Destroyed

PARADISE (UPI)—A predawn explosion and fire destroyed a bowling alley today. Authorities said the blast might have been deliberately set next to a wall.

The Pine Bowl on Clark Road was closed at the time of the blast, and there were no injuries.

Fire department investigators estimated damage at $100,000. They said the blast apparently occurred next to a wall.

TV REVIEW

Old Radio Sportscasts Gave Thrills

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Anyone who grew up being mesmerized by the fabulous word magicians in the heyday of radio sportscasting is probably hooked forever on the fames men play.

The process got into the blood—an early catechism, a permanent litany. Twenty-five years later, you sit on the beach of a little Mexican village, a million miles from your childhood, and when the newsboy comes by with the English-language Mexico City paper, you grab it and look first to see how the Dodgers did.

The sportscasters, to me, are less important and less colorful now because there is television, and the ability to see the picture oneself eliminates the need for much of the imagery of the word magicians. Only on radio, with remarkable sportscasters like baseball's Vin Scully and basketball's Chick Hearn, does the craft still truly thrive, a reminder of the glory years and gifted gabbers.

Growing up, one expected—and really wanted—the embroidery of a Bill Stern, the drama of a Ted Husing, the matchlessly intelligent color of a Red Barber, for they were the only picture we had unless you actually attended the game.

Radio sportscasting was thrilling then because of the individual effort required from each listener as well as from the announcer. It was rather like existentialist reporting. Nothing really existed in a precise way except as imagined by the listener from an embroidered account by the announcer. It was a sort of forerunner of the "new journalism."

Today, things are probably more accurate, what with television, instant replay, and science giving the liberal arts a bad time generally. And of the major sportscasters working regularly on the networks, I don't think there's much doubt that NBC-TV's Curt Gowdy is the best. He knows when not to talk on television, but when he speaks he usually has something to say, and he is authoritative and tough and nobody's patsy. There are times he reminds you of radio's oldtime sports dramatists.

I wonder what ever happened o Carmen Falcone and Tony Minisi.

Walker Jury Is Unable To Agree

A jury in Marin Superior Court failed to agree yesterday after 15 hours of deliberation whether former San Quentin inmate Tommy Lee Walker Jr., 25, was guilty of two counts of battery on prison guards.

The first trial involving a San Quentin matter to be held in the Hall of Justice since the Aug. 7 shootout ended with the jury voting 11 to 1 for conviction on both counts.

Since a unanimous decision is required in criminal cases, Judge E. Warren McGuire declared a mistrial and ordered the case placed on Monday's calendar for setting a new trial date.

Walker, released from San Quentin last month, is free on $10,000 bail posted by the Soledad Brothers Defense Fund.

During the trial, which was held under heavy security, a group of young persons wearing Soledad Brothers badges followed the proceedings.

At the beginning of the trial, which started Oct. 8, the morning after a nearby courtroom had been bombed, Walker's attorney, Robert Birkie of San Rafael, said he planned to call Soledad Brother George Jackson as a witness.

Judge McGuire, however, refused to allow Jackson to be brought to court, saying that he seemed to have little connection with the case and was not even at San Quentin on Aug. 15, 1969, the day, Walker allegedly hit the guards.

Jackson is charged along with two other men with the murder of a Soledad Prison guard and is the brother of the youth who participated and died in the August shootout by bringing guns into a courtroom.

During the Walker trial jury deliberations, which were spread out over three days, the first foreman elected, John Gentles of San Rafael, resigned saying he hoped that would break the deadlock. The second foreman, Gordon Parr, also of San Rafael, was no more successful, however.

The lone holdout for acquittal, Mrs. Lorraine Simonds of Novato, was thanked yesterday by Walker. She refused to discuss the reasons for her vote, saying it might prejudice a second trial.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Jerry R. Herman, who prosecuted the case, said the new trial will probably be held in January or February.

Income Down, Spending Up, State Reports

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State general fund income fell 3.2 per cent and spending rose 12.3 per cent during the first three months of fiscal 1970-71 in comparison with the first quarter a year ago.

Controller Houston I. Flournoy reported Thursday that July-September revenues totaled $711.85 million, or $23.41 million lower than the same three-month period in fiscal 1969-70. Spending was $120.81 million higher than last year for a total of $1.1 billion.

Flournoy said the revenue drop was mainly caused by a change in scheduling of allocations from the pooled money investment income expense account. Another factor in the decrease, he said, was a decline in personal income tax revenue because more Californians paid their state tax before the April 15 deadline.

The controller said business inventory property tax relief and an increase in health care benefits were "the most significant contributors" to the growth in expenditures this year.

Angela Won't Accept Marin Extradition

I-J Special Report

NEW YORK — Angela Y. Davis yesterday moved to fight extradition to Marin County to face kidnap and murder charges.

"I refuse to consent to the State of California," Miss Davis said when asked in a brief courtroom appearance if she would consent to a warrant issued in Marin ordering her extradition.

Judge Thomas Dickens of New York State Supreme Court set a hearing on her move to fight the order for Nov. 5.

Marin authorities allege that Miss Davis bought the guns used in an ill-fated escape attempt by three San Quentin Prison inmates Aug. 7.

A shot-out at the Marin Hall of Justice left Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Superior Court, two of the inmates and an accomplice, dead.

Under California law a person who purchases guns used in a capital crime is guilty of the crime.

City Relents On Strike Demotions

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The City Council, in a peace gesture, has rehired 18 probationary firemen dismissed during the two-week strike by fire fighters seeking higher pay.

The council acted Thursday night on the recommendation of Fire Chief Winston O. Wilson with the approval of City Manager R.L. Rathfon.

In other action, the council rescinded the demotions of 22 probationary captains and engineers as well as reduced the one-step pay cut for 343 permanent firemen from one year to six months.

The walkout began Oct. 7 and ended Wednesday after Superior Court Judge William M. Gallagher ordered the firemen to return to their jobs. He said the walkout left the city in a dangerous situation without adequate fire protection.

Film Picked To Build Yerba Buena Center

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— San Francisco's Redevelopment Agency named a joint venture firm Thursday to finance and build a $200 million center for sports, conventions and business south of Market street.

Developer picked for Yerba Buena Center was Schesinger-Lyman Jee of Berkeley and financier Alfred E. Schesinger of San Francisco.

The complex is to include an underground exhibition hall, a 14,000-seat sports arena, a 2,200-seat theater, a hotel, parking garages, an airline terminal, an Italian cultural and trade center and an extension to Bay Area Rapid Transit District tracks.

Land in the area will not be sold out to the developers but will be leased for 99 years. When the center is completed that should bring the city $500,000 a year, he predicted.

Involved are 87 acres and Hermann predicted construction would start next fall on the Fourth, Market and Folsom streets.

The developers have put together a partnership including the Del Monte Corp. New York's Pressrich bond house, Pacific National Equity Company, Diversified Builders and Meyers Brothers Parking, a division of Radio Corporation of America.

15,000 Jews Dance In Moscow

MOSCOW (UPI) — More than 15,000 Jews sang and danced Thursday night in front of the Central Synagogue in the largest spontaneous demonstration of its kind in Moscow in recent years.

The occasion was the religious holiday Sinchat Torah, celebrating the giving of the Ten Commandments to Moses and the completion of one year's reading of the Jewish Torah or scriptures.

The predominantly young crowd ignored heavy rains to celebrate, blocking Arkhipova Street in the heart of Moscow.

There were no attempts to curb the merrymaking and no police appeared.

Inside the temple, an overflow congregation of more than 2,000 persons gathered at sundown to sing "Havah Neranenu" (Let us rejoice!).

Rita Abrams To Sing At Tiburon Church

Rita Abrams, who gained fame for her recent song about Mill Valley, is scheduled to perform Sunday at 5 p.m. at the Community Congregational Church of Tiburon.

Joining the former Mill Valley school teacher in the concert at the church, 145 Rock Hill Drive, will be Lynn Elder, a friend.

Getting The Most Value Of Key Concern To Buyer

Getting the most value for your money seems to be a growing concern of practically everyone these days.

Perhaps nowhere is this more evident than in home furnishings where homemakers are insisting on quality and long life more than they are on fancies of the moment.

"Considering that most home furnishings are big-ticket items, it's no wonder that homemakers operating under tight budgets want to make sure that they're getting their money's worth," notes Sally Ames, interior design consultant to the Spring Air Mattress Company, Chicago.

BUT HOW can you be sure you're getting value in home furnishings? Here's what Miss Ames recommends, much of which applies to home furnishings in general as well as to bedding:

1. Buy from a reputable local retailer. Community merchants depend on your business. They can't stay in business long if they sell you shoddy merchandise.

2. Bone up on what you intend to buy. A little time spent reading consumer's guides, homemaking magazines, and books on home purchases will make you more of an expert on everything from mattresses to refrigerators.

3. BE ALERT for genuine sales, but don't be misled by deceptive pricing. At various times during the year, retailers will stage sales of merchandise made by nationally-known manufacturers. For the most part, these represent honest values.

"But watch out for artificially high prices that are marked down to make you think you're getting a bargain," Miss Ames said. "One of your best protections is a suggested list price carried in advertising."

4. Pay more to get more. A low price alone is no indicator of value. In home furnishings, it's almost always true that a higher price goes along with better materials and extra features that add up to years of longer use.

ASK QUESTIONS and look for supporting evidence. Manufacturers with value to offer will usually call attention to their features on hang tags and descriptive literature. They will also see that the retail salesman is acquainted with the features.

7. Think ahead and buy furnishings that won't become obsolete. You're safer with styles that have stood the test of time than with the latest "in" look.

8. Check the guarantee. A good guarantee will state specifically what's covered and how it will be honored. A guarantee is even more valuable if it carries the name of a nationally-known firm.

"Careful, intelligent shopping will turn up many good values in home furnishings," Miss Ames said.

Care Necessary For Furnishings

Proper care is a necessity for keeping furniture looking its best — even after years of wear — and for maintaining its life and true function.

And who knows better how to care for furniture than the man that makes it!

Here are some hin's for caring for home furnishings gathered from furniture manufacturers exhibiting in the American Furniture Mart:

KEEP a file of hang-tags and labels which tell details of fiber content and care of upholstered furnishings. Usually manufacturers test the fabrics and include the result of testing on these tags. You can easily keep such a file in a small card box or as part of your recipe file.

To keep your upholstered furniture clean and looking its best, vacuum it weekly. Never brush any fabric with a stiff wire or fiber brush for that will only destroy the fibers.

DIRECT sunlight can fade fabrics, so avoid lengthy exposure to the sun.

Use only the polishes recommended for furniture. A self-polishing floor wax, used on furniture, might soften the finish.

Prompt action is important when treating stains on fabrics. Pre-test each color for bleeding and shrinkage by first testing your cleaning method on a hidden area of the fabric. Use only warm water and never soak a fabric when cleaning it.

To evenly distribute wear, turn and rotate loose cushions on sofas and chairs weekly.

Don't assume a cushion or pillow cover is washable simply because it boasts a zipper. If you have lost the manufacturer's tag, don't take any chances by washing a removable cover. Send it to the dry-cleaners to be sure.

Use cotton-tipped swabs dipped lightly in baby oil to clean tiny crevices in hand-carved wood furniture.

Gas Ranges Flexible

One big advantage of a new gas range is the flexibility it affords today's homemaker. The models equipped with modern features provide a world of convenience in virtually every cooking operation.

On top of the range, for example, burners are adjustable all the way from the lowest "warn" setting to an efficient "high" flame for swift boiling of water, and there is an infinite number of settings that may be obtained in between. The better ranges have thermostatic control on one of the burners. This automatically prevents burn-overs, scorching and spill-overs.

All-in-one oven meals can be programmed to cook for a preselected time interval. When this time elapses, the temperature automatically lowers to a "hold" or "keep warm" setting. Thus, the homemaker may go shopping, visiting or be at work, confident the meal will be ready when she returns.

Many of the new gas ranges boast built-in griddles that bring back the fun of preparing pancakes, omelets and French toast. The griddle is handy for cooking a batch of hamburgers for hungry teen-agers. Some ranges enable you to remove the griddle and replace it with a grid, provinging a handy fifth burner.

There is another side to the range flexibility story, particularly for homes with problem kitchens. Rather than being limited to either a free-standing or standard built-in model, today's homemakers may select different sizes, burner patterns, designs, features and colors.

For example, there now are slide-in models that fit between cabinets, high console models that appear to hang on the wall or mount over a cabinet for eye level and counter-height cooking. Compact units are available to fit in small spaces. Large families will appreciate the over-size and double-oven assemblies or even the under-the-counter oven built-ins.

The Bold Bathroom Gaining Popularity

Create the bold bathroom!

"Homeowners are finding that the bold bathroom is also the beautiful and practical bathroom," reports Robert Huff, home improvement director for Marlite Paneling.

He adds that the use of modern colors and new decorating techniques can be incorporated into a wide range of bathroom plans. One of the most popular is the master bath that utilizes a divider wall to create additional privacy.

"When people take this step, they then are ready to add other features, such as a sunken tub and dressing area. It's much the same as the family shopping for a new car. If they decide to move from a four-door sedan to a sportier model, they soon add air conditioning, a more comfortable interior, and possibly contrasting stripes," Huff points out.

IN BOTH cases, the house and the car, the quality approach will help ensure an excellent resale value.

"Marlite panels designed especially for decorators, such as textured paneling and decorative murals, now are worked into new and remodeled bathroom layouts by homeowners to fit their own needs and preferences" Huff adds.

A WALL UNIT system, freestanding and adaptable to a wide variation of cabinets and bookcases, demonstrates strikingly the good design that makes Danish furniture so appealing, according to Scandinavian Designs of San Rafael. It is available in either teak or rosewood and reflects the Danish tradition for creative design by designers who know their materials and who cooperate closely with the great Scandinavian craftsmen to produce furniture that is both functional and beautiful.

Give Dull Doors A Lift

What do you do about "crummy flush doors" asks an aesthetic housewife.

"The doors have absolutely no personality. They were painted twice and the paint soaks into the wood. They never have the finished look of paneled doors."

Some decorators upholster doors, using leather, imitation leather or handsome fabric.

There are patterned or solid papers, vinyls and other coverings that can be used. The pattern should be determined by the decorating schemes used in the house. Doors in the same area should be kept uniform.

Playroom For Growth

There are two sure-fire ways to keep active, growing youngsters from tearing up the house.

Either insist that they let off steam outdoors, or else give them a room of their own that's specially designed to take hard treatment.

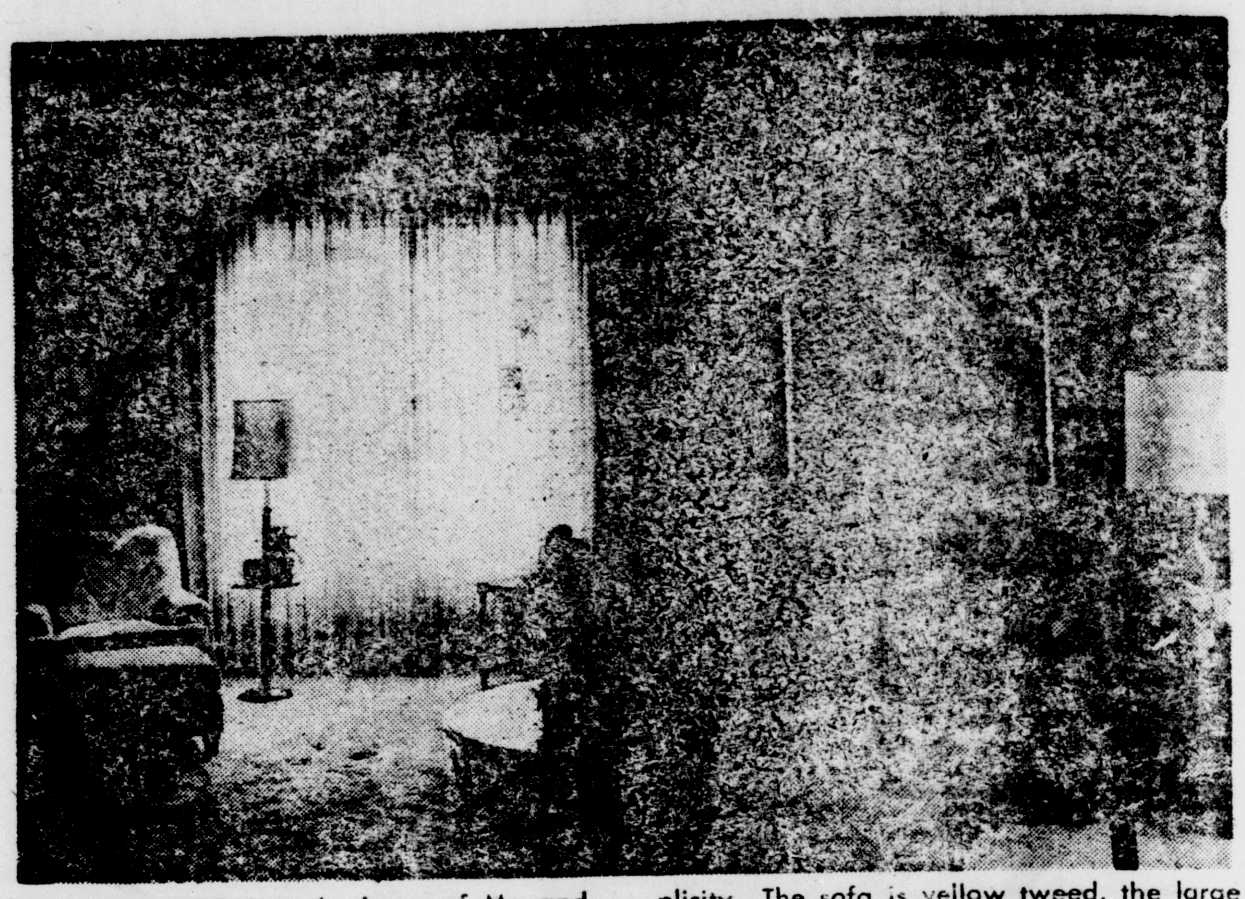
Since the first alternative involves the uncertainties of weather, it's a wise idea to invest in a separate playroom. Besides saving wear and tear on the rest of the house, a playroom gives youngsters a place in which they can do the things they want in their own way.

EVENTUALLY, kids will grow to appreciate such a room for the freedom it offers, and will take increasing pride and responsibility in seeing that it's kept in good order. Thus, the room becomes an important step in their growth process.

Actually, the term "playroom" is misleading.

Children need more than just a place to spread out their toys. A well-designed room for children should also serve as a parlor where friends may be entertained; a study where young minds can grow; a museum for treasured possessions; and an "activities center" where each child can develop his latent talents and creative interests apart from the distractions of the adult world.

THE LOCATION of the room isn't important. It may be combined with the child's sleeping quarters, or, if space is limited, it can be in the basement or attic.



THE LIVING ROOM at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Butler in Tiburon is furnished by John deVries of John deVries Interiors of Kentfield with warmth and comfortable simplicity. The sofa is yellow tweed, the large chair bright yellow and white print. The draperies are natural linen, wall and carpet a soft sage green.

What is important is the decor and furnishing of the room. The decorative theme should reflect the interests of the child himself, and the furnishings should be carefully chosen for practicality as well as good looks.

Don't try to second-guess the youngsters on design. Have them take an active part in planning the room and they're almost certain to be pleased with the final result.

PERHAPS THERE'S an active Cub Scout in the family. If so, an interesting scouting theme can be achieved by using heavy canvas to create a "tent canopy" over a set of bunk beds. Or if the youngster is a sports enthusiast, try accentuating one wall with large color photographs of professional athletes in action.

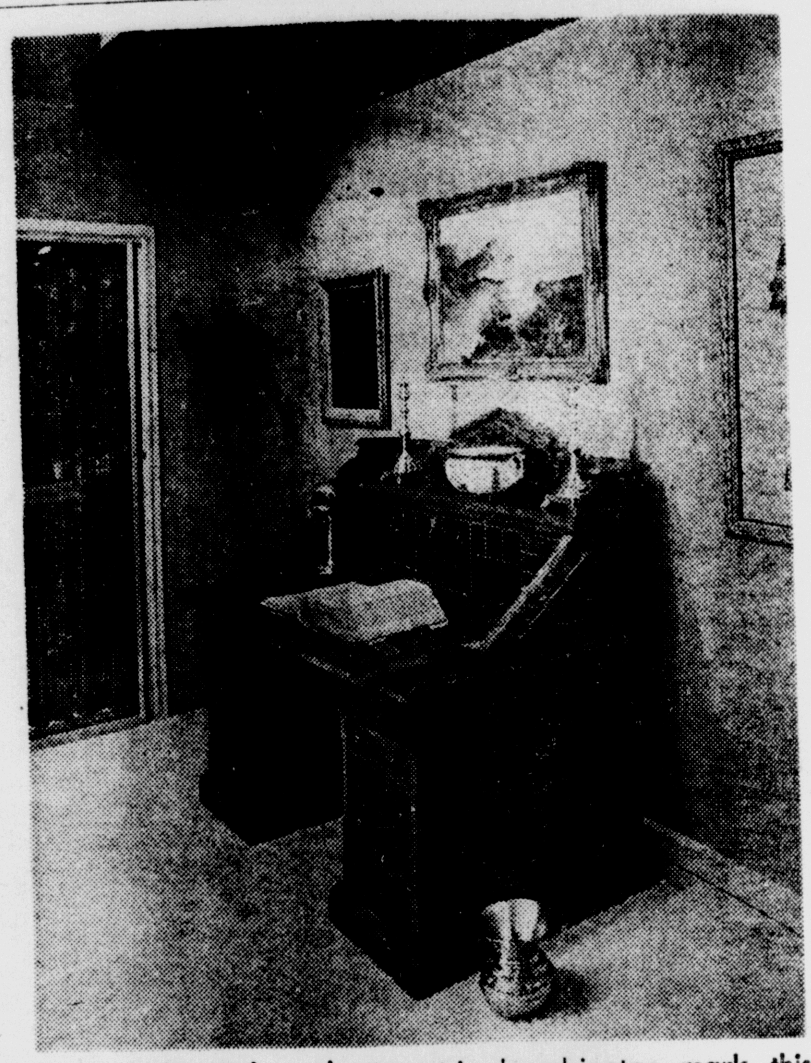
Mirror For Illusion

Small rooms in a home can be easily and dramatically expanded through strategic use of mirrors, a noted Southern California decorator has suggested.

Mirroring, carefully placed, can add length and width to any room says Carole Eichen, Fullerton interior designer who specializes in decorating subdivision model homes. It eliminates the closed in feeling and lightens the room considerably, she notes.



SOLID LINE and substantial cabinetry mark this 19th-Century-styled knee-hole desk, one of the items in the collection of Maurine Bolen Interiors in the Essex Center, 412 Red Hill Avenue, San Anselmo. The unusual desk has concealed compartments, inlay work and fine details.

Shape Kitchen To Fit Need

According to Hotpoint's Kitchen Planning Service, the homemaker can select from four basic kitchen floor plans — U-Shaped, L-Shaped, Corridor, and One-Wall.

There are variations of each of these plans caused by door and window locations, but nevertheless, each basic shape will retain its essential advantages and disadvantages.

Experts rate these basic designs as follows:

The U-Shaped kitchen continues to be a floor-plan leader. It adapts easily to efficient work patterns and, properly designed, this shape affords ample counter and storage space.

TO BE effective, however, a U-Shape requires maximum space. If squeezed into an 8x8 foot area, the corners waste space and are overly expensive. The U-Shape is often used in connection with a family room, with one arm of the 'U' as a room dividing peninsula.

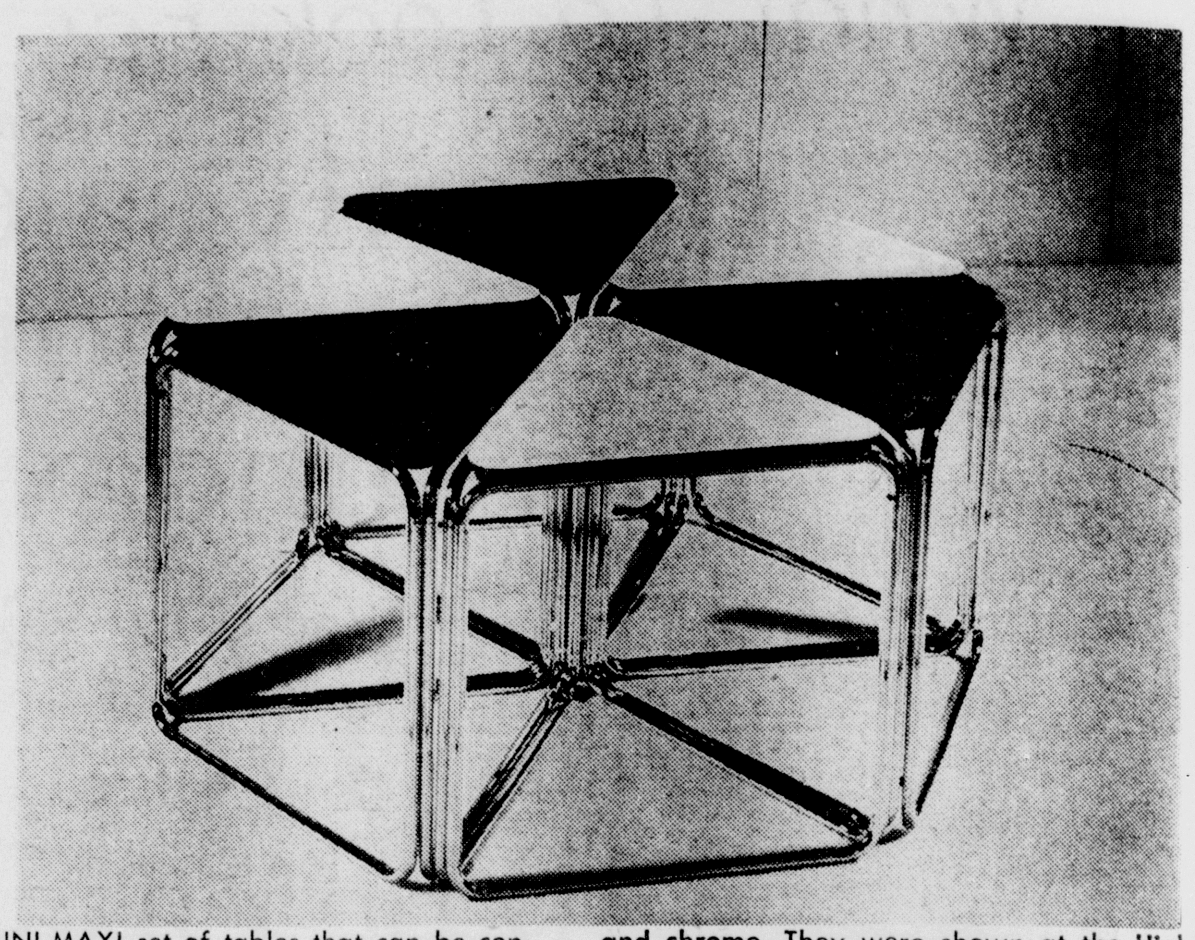
Second in popularity is the L-Shaped kitchen. The "L" utilizes two walls and allows great flexibility in placement of appliances and storage and snack areas.

The arrangement has space for a breakfast area or dining room. When the kitchen is used as a dining room, however, there is no separation of the dining and kitchen facilities.

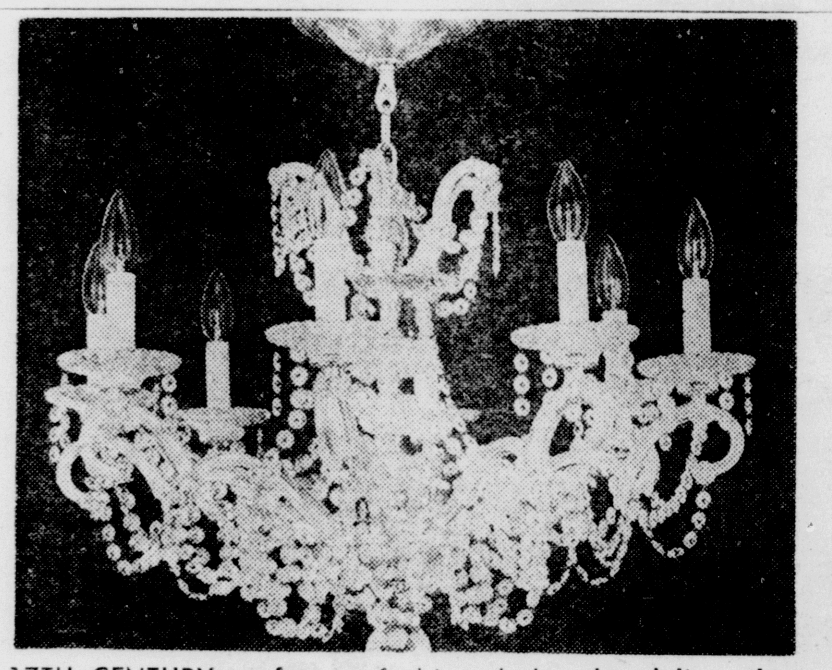
THE CORRIDOR arrangement is a favorite for apartments because it adapts readily to efficient work patterns and saves installation costs. Often part of one side is used as a snack bar or room divider.

The Corridor kitchen usually has a door at each end, resulting in an inefficient traffic pattern through the work triangle, although careful planning can easily eliminate this problem.

While the two-wall kitchen utilizes all its space, very often it is arranged with a too-narrow aisle or insufficient space between appliances. This results in unsafe or uncomfortable work patterns for the homemaker; open appliance doors often block the aisle.



A MINI-MAXI set of tables that can be converted to varying shapes and sizes from triangle to hexagon are practical and distinctive and light, a combination of smokes glass and chrome. They were shown at the High Point National Furniture Mart and are to be shown at Western Furniture, 1848 Fourth Street, San Rafael.



17TH CENTURY craftsmen fashioned the chandeliers that adorned castles and buildings of state, and it was during this period that an Austrian jeweler developed secret process of making, and the product still bears his name "Strauss" jewel. The secret process has been used for decorating chandeliers and the chandeliers are on display at Marin Lights, 650 Irwin Street, San Rafael.

MODULAR WALL SYSTEMS furniture, such as Systems 70 shown above, open new dimensions in home furnishings. The selection show features a pumice-rubbed, hand-finished glaze which blends with either light or dark tones of fabrics and wallpapers and includes lattice or plain cabinet doors and is available at Interior Systems, 2750 on the Mall, Northgate.

Chose Colors To Flatter

When decorating or redecorating your home, pick the colors you like best and which are the most becoming to you and plan your color scheme accordingly — regardless of period or current fashion fads. And, unless you're a hermit, make certain the entire family is considered during the selection process.

It's a good idea to take swatches of existing colors — i.e., a bit of drapery fabric, a patch of wallpaper, or a tiny tuft of carpeting — when pruchasing new items. This way you'll make sure your color choices will blend while the furnishings are still in the store — not at home, when it's too late.

WHEN contemplating new items, try to avoid too many new colors. Stay within the shades or hues of the existing color scheme to maintain a coordinated look.

And remember to use color for a purpose. Vivid tones can brighten a dark room. Sunny colors can add warmth to a room with a northern exposure and cool colors can add serenity to a room facing south or with large windows.

Crush Marks

To remove crush marks on carpet, or pressure marks left by furniture, try a steam treatment. Hold a steam iron just above the carpet, without pressing down on the iron. When the spot has been steamed for a few seconds, brush pile gently with your fingers to restore the carpet's original appearace.

What To Look For When Buying TV

There is more to buying a television set than arranging for the financing. In fact, price alone should never be the deciding point when purchasing a set.

Prices can be confusing since they range from less than $100 for a small-screen black-and-white set to more than $2000 for a home entertainment system which includes color television, stereo and tape player. Quality color television sets will range from $400 to $800 this year.

As a guide to a sounder approach to this home entertainment investment, design engineers for Teledyne Packard Bell in Los Angeles give these tips:

COMPARE the square inches of actual picture provided by the television screen. All manufacturers must specify television sizes according to the actual viewing area, rather than the size of the picture tube. It determines the brightness and clarity of your picture. The higher the voltage, usually the better the picture. The set you buy should have at least 1,000 volts for each diagonal inch of viewing area. The present 25-inch set with newer technical refinements, for example, should have approximately 24,500 to 25,000 volts for a well-defined picture.

Automatic color control and automatic noise inverter are important for good color reception. Preset fine tuning allows setting of the channel once and does away with constant fiddling with the set. In some color sets, there are electronic provisions called automatic frequency control (AFC) or automatic fine tuning (AFT) that does the fine tuning for you. These devices are to color TV what AFC is to FM radios, locking in the best picture electronically and automatically.

MANUFACTURERS are currently in a race to achieve higher color picture brightness levels. Ask to view black matrix type color tubes, those that combine improved phosphor with a new process that surrounds the screen's nearly one million tiny dots with a black coating. Black matrix or surround offers brilliance, color purity and color fidelity not found in conventional tubes.

For added convenience, the set should have a remote control ready feature, with wireless controls available at time of purchase or later.

Check noise level. First, make sure that you already have a good antenna and are receiving a clear signal. Turn to an unused channel in your area. If there are little dots of snow, the ratio between noise and picture is good. If you see big snowballs, the ratio is out of whack.

BASIC CONTROLS should be easy to reach. This includes on-off, volume and channel selectors for both UHF and VHF. All sets should have a control for color intensity and one for hue even though the set maker states that you will like his "pre-set" picture without further adjustment.

Consider the furniture styling of a table model or a console. A television set now is a functional part of a room's decor and should be bought with its appearance in mind.

Check the cabinetry for craftsmanship. Is the styling attractive? Is the finish clean and rich? Do the appointments, such as grill cloth, blend with the rest of the set? Is the design something you can live with as a fine piece of furniture for a number of years? Don't let the electronics terminology confuse you. Transistors are smaller than tubes and permit use of printed circuits. This is a space-saver. Transistors cut down on heat and thus lengthen the life of parts.

Decorate To Personal Taste

If every room were ideally designed, your decorating problems would be much fewer. But because many rooms are very definitely not well designed, due to whatever variances may have entered, you have to use a few tricks.

If the problem is a room that is practically square, you want to avoid turning it into a box. The trick is to give one wall a very different treatment than the other three.

TRY papering one with an attractive pattern, then painting the others in a plain color picked up from the patterned paper.

Is the problem a low ceiling? The answer is to emphasize vertical lines. Let draperies hang ceiling-to-floor, rather than keeping close to window top and bottom. Avoid using a valance or short drapes.

REVERSE the process for the high ceilinged room. Top the window with a horizontal valance from which drapes can loop gracefully low. You can also "bring down" the ceiling by painting it with a warm tone. Large-sized furniture helps, too.

Perhaps you have the problem of a rather dark room. Widen the window effect by using extension drapery rods beyond the window margins.

Hanging the draperies actually beside the window, rather than over it widens the visible glass and lets in all available light.

WHEN furnishing the room, try to use light wood and bright colors in upholstery, carpeting and draperies.

A HOME MUSIC, Quatron, shown above, is the world's first automatic 8-track stereo tape changer, which provides up to 13 hours of continuous, non-repetitive music, and is also available for commercial background music. Now on display at Cox TV and Sound Center, Northgate One Shopping Center.

Wallcovering Scenic Touch

The summer's over, the unpacking's done, the photos are ready for the family album, and most of us have settled down for another year at home — with some happy memories of places we've been and things we've seen, whether here or abroad.

Now, of course, is the time to take a good look at that home, and perhaps spruce it up a bit — with wallcoverings that can show you where you were, inspire you for next vacation, or act, simply, as landscapes of the imagination. . .as well as guides to new decorating ideas, colors, and periods.

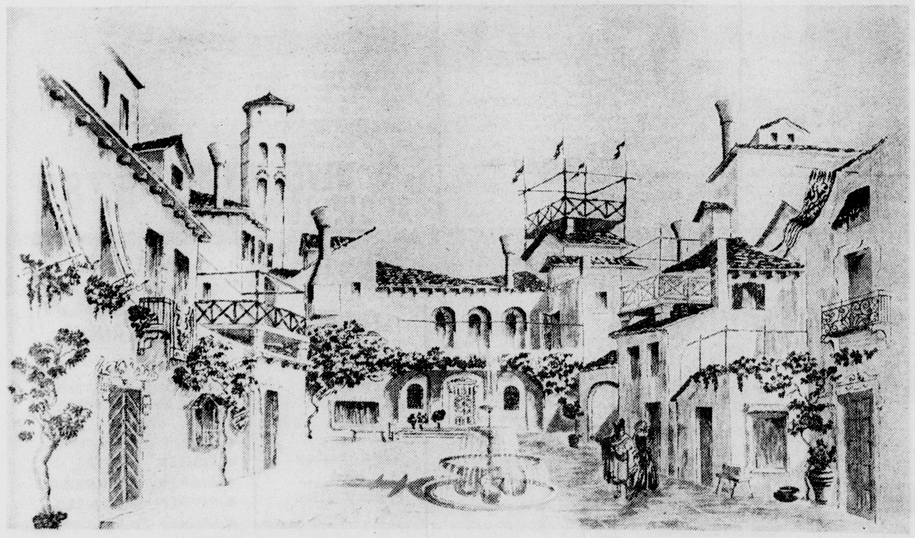
THERE ARE a lot of new scenic designs created with just those ideas in mind, in the new collection called Panorama Vinyl Scenics, Volume II, by James Seeman Studios, Inc.

These are all hand-printed to give you maximum color and design fidelity, pre-trimmed so that you can install them yourself or have it done by a professional paperhanger, and since they're all on durable vinyl, they can be scrubbed and washed and always look fresh.

If you went to — or want to go to — Italy, you'll enjoy having the "Sorrento" or "Portofino" mural. The first has a see-through vine and a villa veranda on the right, hillside cottages on the left, and in the center, for real perspective, the bay as far as the eye can see. There's a bay in "Portofino," too, and this curving, charming scene is grille-framed, top and sides, so that it looks just like a window wall. With "Canaletto," you have Venice as seen by the great 18th Century master in superbly etching-like detail — so Italy's well covered in the Panorama Collection. And speaking of covering, each of the murals comes with enough additional ground so that the whole effect will cover about 18'8" of wall-space.

Now that we've returned to the Northern Hemisphere, you might like to set your belongings against the background of "Old Whaling Town," a mid-1800's scene, or the clear, welcoming "Lighthouse," very much for sea-and-sky fanciers, and again, very strong in terms of wall depth and dimension.

The scenics are available in San Rafael at Morwear Paint Store, Mazza Fuller Paints, Marin Color Service, House of Color and Empire Paint Co.



A RUSTIC VIEW, entitled "Little Spanish Town," centered around a fountain is another vinyl scenic from the new collection of James Seeman Studios Inc.

Carpets From Luxury To Practicality

Carpet now has changed from a luxury item to the most practical way of finishing floors. Once relegated to the living room, it has now moved throughout the home and is now suitable for any floor area including bathrooms, laundry rooms, kitchens, play areas and other almost unheard of places — walls.

To avoid boredom in the old concept of "wall-to-wall carpeting", many decorators and architects are coordinating different areas with entirely different pile fibers in like or dissimilar patterns and prints. By using contrasting colors or contrasting types of carpet one can designate particular areas.

Shag and cut pile can be perfect coordinators for practical and functional reasons as well as for creation of mood and atmosphere.

FUNCTIONALLY, cut pile is extremely good for heavily traveled areas such as halls, stairs and entrances and is often used to denote formality. With the advent of the 5/64" gauge cut pile carpet, hard surface areas such as kitchens, bathrooms and laundry rooms become alive and warm with cushioned comfort and noise control.

Shags, too, are warm and inviting carpets. They are quite good for creating a relaxing mood and are good to use in lounges, resting or conversation areas. Thus with their utility established we may examine good coordinating examples.

IN A formal living room, a cut pile may be used. Family room, den, or library opening off the living room could be done in the companion shag. An informal living area stretching into a dining area can be beautifully coordinated with pile carpet in dining room and shag in living area.

Some living rooms have conversation pits. Shag carpeting can be used in the pit thus setting the stage for warm, intimate conversation. The plush carpet (pile) can be used around the rest of the room.

An interesting use of the companion cut pile and shag carpets would be to do a music or stereo room. Now that carpets have moved to the walls, a plush carpet could be "walled" with a floor done in shag.

MANY homes have kitchen family room areas with no dividing walls. The cut piles can be used in kitchen area and the dining area and the companion shag can be used in the seating area. Thus, you have used carpet to take the place of walls and physically separate the activity area.

Anytime one has a large area or system of rooms that need to be treated as a whole decoratively and yet need to be separated into smaller activity or conversational areas, cut pile and shag companion rugs are the answer.

FEMININITY is personified in this bedroom in shades of lilac in the shag carpet and the color restated in the chaise, bedspread liner and wall-covering for perfect coordination.

CARPETS AND RUGS are being designed only of texture, but also color and style with the concept of mix in mind, mixes not

A MIXTURE of lush colors make this luxuriant shag the basic ingredient for an elegant setting.

Chandeliers Return From Near Extinction

From the edge of extinction, chandeliers have returned to add light, charm and beauty to dining rooms. The surge is due both to the generally increased acceptance of installed lighting fixtures in recent years and the trend to bring formality back into the dining room.

Furniture manufacturers and interior designers are combining to separate the dining room from the informality that characterizes modern living. Chandeliers are becoming a key part of the more formal ensemble. They co-ordinate furnishings, add focal high lights, provide light that flatters diners and add sparkle to glassware and tableware.

Homeowners have a wider selection of chandeliers than ever, according to the Home Lighting Institute, there is a chandelier to complement any style or period of furnishings and to accommodate any decorating budget.

A tour of lighting showrooms presents contemporary, provincial, Victorian, Williamsburg, ranch, Georgian and many modernistic and transitional chandelier styles. Most chandeliers today are shielded and designed to provide comfortable, glare-free light. Discomfort was a principal shortcoming of earlier models.

Here's a tip from the institute. Though many chandeliers generally give enough light in the area where they are used, some are basically decorative. These use low-wattage bulbs of various types that create dramatic effect but little light. Decorative chandeliers should be supplemented with other light sources.

Turn Blank Wall Into Gallery

NEW YORK (UPI)—Turn that blank wall in den, family or living room into a family portrait gallery.

That's a suggestion from the Professional Photographers of America (PP of A).

"A wall of family photographs, tracing the family's history, makes an extremely attractive and interesting decorative device," says Bill Bell, of Albuquerque, N.M., chairman of the PP of A's portrait division.

"It also provides the family with a strong link to its past and gives the children a real sense of belonging."

TO COME up with the necessary photographs for your family gallery, some careful, and often fascinating, research may be involved. Photographs of older family members often are kept in unsual places, quite apart from the traditional family album.

Family Bibles are a favorite hiding place for photographs as well as birth certificates, marriage licenses and other treasured family records.

Often an ancestor's photograph has been found tucked into a favorite book on a library shelf. And tragically, old pictures that could be treasures have been thrown into files of other family papers and records and are damaged.

"EVEN though a photograph is damaged," said Bell, "all is not lost. Your family photographer can either restore the photo or knows of a reliable studio where this work can be done.

In assembling the gallery, don't overlook present family members. A current family portrait, in color, is an interesting and compelling finishing touch.

The clothes, background and pose of the family members, however, should be consistent with the setting in which the pictures will be displayed.

AN INFORMAL pose and casual clothing usually are desirable for a more informal room like a den. A living room gallery calls for dress-up clothes and a more formal sitting.

Some families choose to use same frame types in their portrait gallery; others like to vary frames, which lends distinctiveness and variety to the display. In the latter case, select ornate oval or oblong frames for the older pictures and simpler oblongs for the more modern photographs.

Heating Check Is Good Idea

"It is a good idea," says the National Better Heating-Cooling Council, "to call in a reliable heating contractor once a year to have him clean thoroughly and check over the system — and now's the perfect time to do it."

The contractor will clean the system, adjust all controls, replace any worn parts. He should check chimney or flue, the central heating plant, and the distributors in each room.

This once-a-year inexpensive check-out will greatly increase the efficiency of your heating, will help lower fuel bills and reduce the chance of a breakdown on winter's coldest morning.

Choice Of Mattress Long Term Matter

Buying furniture is mostly a matter of personal preference for a particular style.

But in choosing bedding, the decision rests on more fundamental questions — size, construction, durability, cost, comfort. Even a poor mattress lasts so long that it might be ten years before you can legitimately discard it, and that is a long time to live with a mistake.

There are basically two types of mattress sold today, innerspring and foam models. And there are two distinct types of foam — latex foam and urethane foam. The latex foam is a top quality product that sells in the same price range as the best innersprings. The urethane foam is, on average, the lowest priced bedding sold.

BOTH TYPES of foam mattresses are essentially mattress-sized pads of foam covered with a ticking. This means they are smooth-surfaced with no tufts or buttons. They are flexible, and can actually be rolled up to negotiate a doorway or staircase. They are dustless, noiseless, lightweight and cool.

The latex foam units are also mildew proof, extremely durable, and very comfortable. The fact that they never need turning, and their easy handling, make foam mattresses best for oversize beds.

Innerspring mattresses are the best known type. They vary widely in construction, and cost. Many makers stress special design features such as reinforced edges, pocketed coils, rustproofed springs, or variable firmnesses in their ads.

LOOK FOR a smooth surface without tufting buttons, stout handles for convenient turning, ventilators on the sides to admit air, and ample cushioning material over the springs. A matching boxspring is a must, and a written guarantee is important.

Size is vital. A couple needs at least a queensize and preferably a kingsize bed. The standard double bed simply is not big enough for two people to sleep comfortably. Even in a small bedroom, squeeze in a big bed. At least you won't be cramped at night, and that's the important thing.

Early American Bridges Age Gap

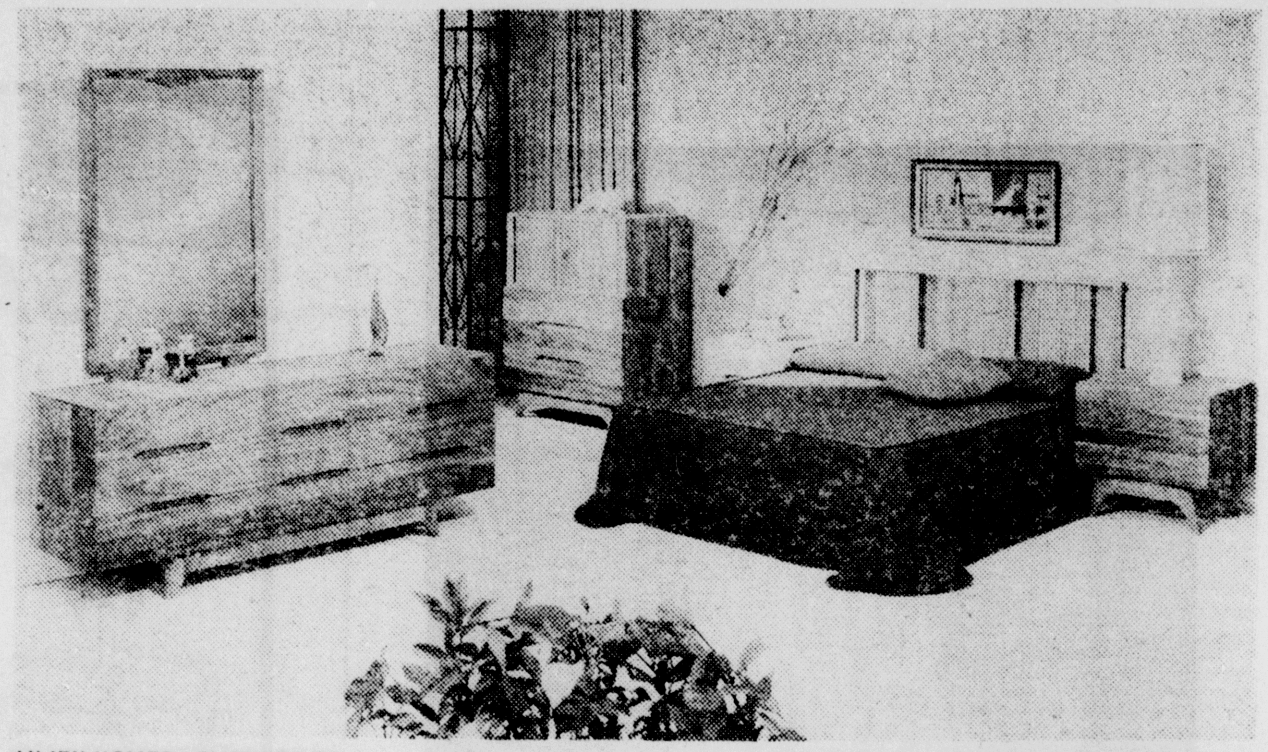
Early American furniture bridges the generation gap. To women of all ages, traditional American furniture remains one of the most sought-after styles of furniture.

There's a good reason for this continued loyalty.

First of all there's variety. American traditional furniture is a whole family of styles. It ranges from the formal, elegant look of Sheraton inspired furniture to the casual, homey appearance of captain's chairs and trestle tables.

AND EARLY American furniture has grown with the times. It's not limited to exact reproductions of authentic pieces used in another century with no relevance at all to modern day living. Look closely at the next wing chair you see. Chances are it's a recliner, with all the comfort of that particular breed of chair. And that traditional Colonial sofa may very well turn out to be a convertible — which provides necessary sleeping space.

Along with this modernity of function, Early American furniture, as it is made today, has all the easy maintenance features American women expect. Durability, convenience and comfort are built into this furniture inspired from the designs of another era. Many of the more informal pieces — book shelves, desks and children's furniture — have plastic finishes, a protection against hard use. Fabrics are treated to resist stains. Much of the cushioning is long-lasting latex foam rubber, which is both resilient and luxuriously comfortable. And latex foam cushions don't need plumping or turning, a handy feature Virginia Dare or Martha Washington would have liked.



UNFINISHED FURNITURE has come a long way from the old "pine crate" days as illustrated above the elegant walnut bedroom set, available at Nude Nook, 124 Jacoby Street, San Rafael, which stocks unfinished furniture for every room of a home.

The Cool Look Of Modern Can Blend

Remember when the look of metal was dismissed as "too cold," or too mechanical? Now the shine of steel, aluminum and brass is everywhere. And it's now considered "pretty cool," and undoubtedly is becoming one of the classics of tomorrow.

Sleek, reflecting surfaces of metal compliment many textures: wood, glass, enamel, cane, leather, velvet and even canvas.

THIS IS the Modern Look. Its beauty is provided through structure and materials rather than surface ornamentation.

The wide selection of modern furniture now manufactured in this country is virtually "International." Design influences and production techniques are interchanged among many countries: the United States, Italy, Germany, Britain, and the Scandinavian countries.

If you're a traditionalist, however, and long for just a "dash" of the international "with it" feeling of modern, any number of the new glass and steel tables will be handsome in an 18th century atmosphere.

Beautiful designs of any era have an affinity. Modern interiors, for example, become more exciting, even more modern, when a Chippendale chair is added for contrast.

Dining Room In Comeback

By DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI) — The dining room, virtually extinct only a few years ago, has made a comeback.

Today, the dining room occupies about 142 square feet of space a room averaging nearly 12 by 12 feet in approximately 63 per cent of all new single family homes. It accounts for 8.7 per cent of thetotal cost of the average $28,900 home.

STANDARD features generally include wood flooring or carpeting rather than tile, at least two windows, and a hanging chandelier. What's more, the dining room is three times more likely than the living room to be treated with expensive wallpaper and, in 28 per cent of new homes, even includes built-in storage.

That's the word of people who keep an eye on such things: the marketing experts for B. Brody Seating Co., Chicago manufacturer of dining furniture. Henry O. Radloff, vice president of Brody's dinette division, said "There's no question but that the dining room once again is an essential . . . Homemakers appear to have had enough of dispensing methodical meals in the kitchen or in a tight little island connected to the living room. They want to serve graciously in a separate room designed for the purpose and away from the clutter that's part and parcel of food preparation."

IN FACT, Radloff said, "Today's homemaker is demanding a choice of spaces and places to serve food both formally and informally."

In addition to a dining room, the average home now being built devotes approximately 154 square feet to the kitchen, and 87 per cent of these kitchens are designed to accommodate table seating for at least four peopeople," he said.

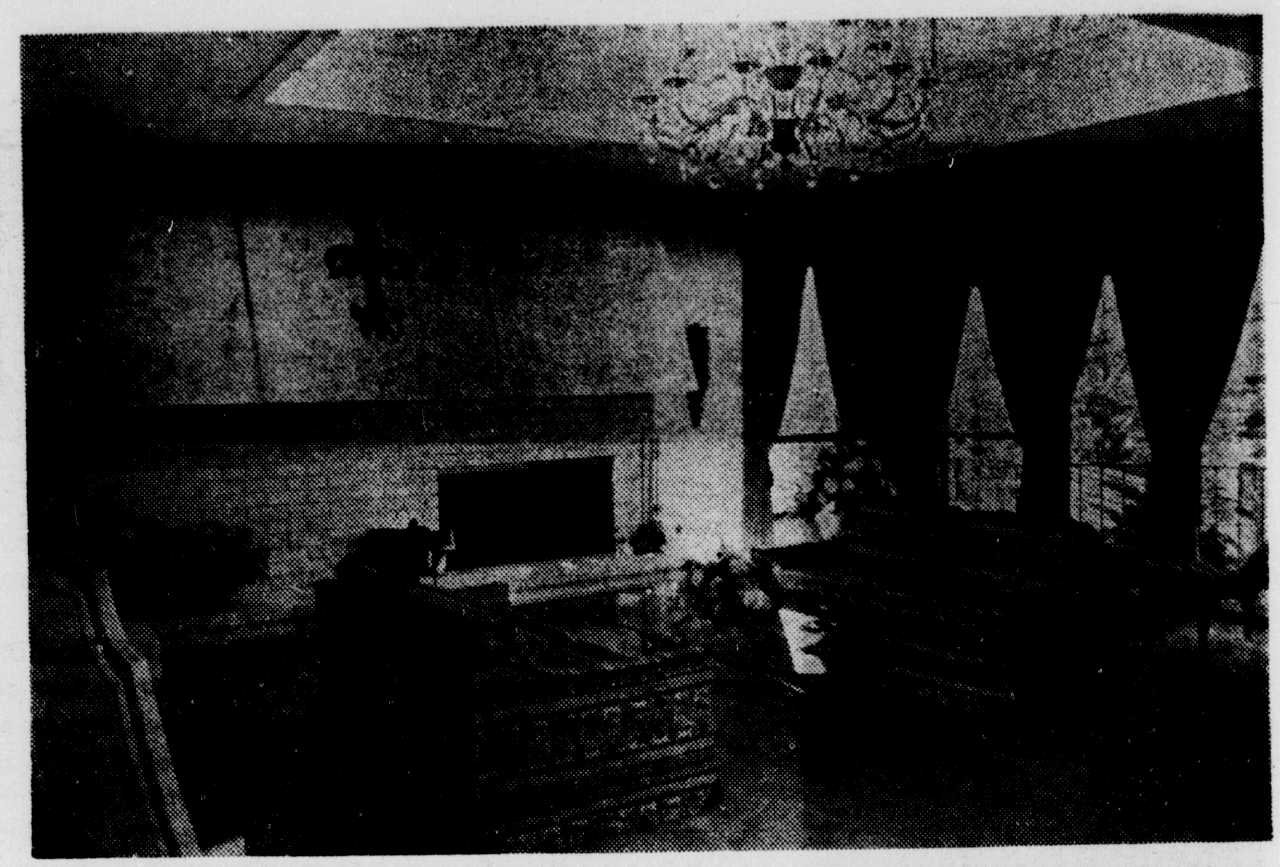
Geographical differences influence both home and dining room design.

For example, the one-story ranch home was an all-out national favorite accounting for 71 per cent of new homes built in 1968. The one marked exception was the Northeast region, where nearly one-third of the best-selling houses were of traditional two-story design.

STICKLERS for the classic andthe conventional, Radloff said, Northeasterners also built more homes with larger, separate dining rooms than any other region in the nation. Some 76 per cent of all new homes in this area had separate dining rooms that averaged 150 square feet in size.

Separate dining rooms were least popular in the West with only 53 per cent of new homes having this accomodation. Their average size was 128 square feet as opposed to 142 square feet nationally.

Wood flooring was the preference throughout the nation, with the Northeast leading with 78 per cent and the West trailing with 35 per cent, Radloff said.



MINI SOFAS Sofas covered in Wedgewood Blue cut velvet on oyster blue field, skirted base with tassels that match drapery tiebacks. An intimate conversation grouping is created with the oval plate glass top, gold leaf base coffee table. Wall to Wall custom plush pile carpeting in wedgewood blue. Window treatment compliments the Triadic concept of the entire room with the use of dutch blue velvet tie-back draperies floor to ceiling. Fleur de Lis Wall decor finished in gold leaf enhances the gold leaf coffee table base. Massive Crystal chandeliers overhangs center of conversation sitting area. Window bench, blue velvet tufted top, base in gold leaf and antique burnished white. Designed, correlated & created by Jerome Bellach, Bellach's Design Center, 777 Francisco Blvd., San Rafael, California — for the building contractor Johnny Ribeiro.

SPACE SAVING

Worried about fitting a kingsize bed into a less than royal size bedroom? There are lots of ways to minimize the size of the bed. For instance, keep your end tables off the floor. Try a do-everything headboard that contains lighting, books, ashtrays, and other bedside conveniences. Another reminder — a latex foam rubber kingsize mattress will fold up for trouble-free delivery and never has to be turned.

Combine Tile With Carpet

The concrete slab, popular as it is in home construction, creates a problem. It must be covered. Traditionally, this meant tiling.

Today, however, a combination of carpeting and tile may be the answer.

In recent years, carpeting and underlays have been improved. Many builders now put a moisture proof, mildew proof, latex foam carpet underlay directly over bare concrete and cover it with carpeting. This method, pioneered by commercial buildings, requires no expensive floor preparation because the foam rubber pad hides all but major defects.

Study Center Aids Scholar

The collegian who lives in a modern dormitory is probably better equipped to study effectively than the student who lives at home.

But with proper room planning, the home-based student can close the gap.

This is the belief of Jack P. Solovy, president of Corco Inc., which has completed more than 30 million dollars worth of design and furnishings work for colleges and universities in the past 15 years.

"Academic achievements depend, in the long run, on the student's attitude, ability and diligence," Solovy said. "But the development of good study habits essential for learning can be greatly influenced by the student's physical environment."

IN A MODERN dormitory, the student usually has the advantages of such valuable study aids as carefully planned work space, excellent lighting and built-in furniture that is designed to aid study as well as take hard wear, he said.

Solovy pointed out that if home study conditions are less than ideal, they can be improved by adapting basic dormitory design principles to the home.

HERE ARE SOME of Solovy's suggestions:

1. Adequate work space is a must. There should be enough flat working surface to allow materials to be spread out without piling books or papers on top of each other.

Searching for buried reference materials is time-consuming, lengthens study periods, and can prove discouraging.

Solovy noted that Corco designers often solve this problem by providing large built-in desks with broad working surfaces.

"Most homes, however, because of the restrictions of existing furnishings or small rooms, won't accommodate a large, free-standing desk," Solovy said, "and it wouldn't be practical to make a permanent installation."

IN SUCH A case, he suggested using inexpensive shelving mounted on wall brackets as a work area. Even an extremely small room can usually accommodate such an arrangement without obstructing traffic lanes, and shelving can easily be removed when it's no longer needed.

2. If one is not already available, invest in a well-designed, comfortable chair. The person whose body isn't properly supported while sitting for long periods can become fatigued quickly.

3. Check the lighting. When work areas are not adequately lighted, eyes can become strained and the student is apt to tire more easily.

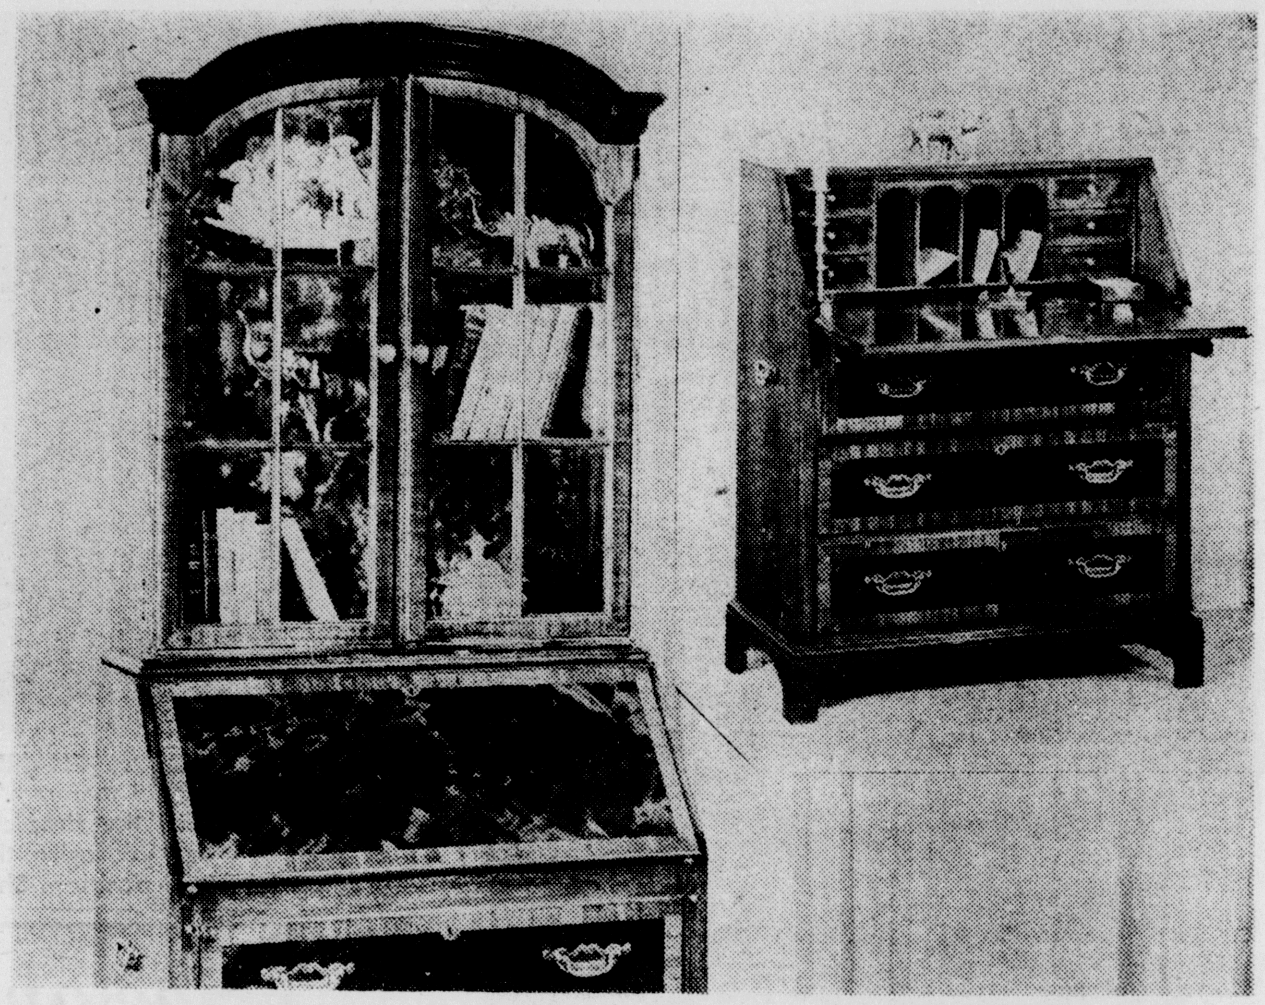
"EVEN WHEN lighting is sufficient for normal needs," Solovy commented, "it may not be adequate for prolonged study. But, increasing the amount of general lighting from ceiling fixtures, providing additional soft lighting from table lamps, or a combination of the two, will usually remedy a lighting problem."

4. Eliminate as many distractions as possible. The stuffed animal collections and bright pennants, that seemed so cheerful before a bedroom became a study area, may disrupt concentration.

"The student's room certainly need not be monastic," Solovy noted, "but clutter of any kind, whether it's an over-abundance of decorations or scattered clothing, can interfere with the orderly process of learning."

HE EXPLAINED that the Corco staff tackles the problem of clutter by providing plenty of storage space. Extra-large desk drawers, commodious closets with floor to ceiling doors that allow easy access to the contents, and drawer space in built-in beds are used by designers to provide needed storage.

He suggested that the home situation could be helped by adding a storage chest, rearranging the closet and adding extra shelves, or taking advantage of space under the bed.



ONE OF an increasingly rare finds is this secretary desk from Wasser's Furniture Accents in San Anselmo. An exact and faithful copy of a desk by William Kent in 1720 it is made of solid mahogany with swirly crotch grain and striped African mahogany veneers. One of a number of handsome desks featured by Wasser's, the detailed hand work shows in the many tiny interior drawers and the locking lid and lower drawers.

Many Uses For Spare Bedroom

NEW YORK — In today's lexicography, there's one phrase — the "spare room" — whose definition has become obsolete.

The room behind the closed door once reserved for the sometime sleep-over guest now serves in a multi-purpose role: it might be a hobby room; it might double as the family music room or study.

Sleeping facilities, of course, are provided, but, chances are, they're surrounded by such props for the family good life as a stereo system, TV, or even a mini-refrigerator to make the one-time "spare room" the room that is now used most unsparingly.

BEST OF all, such a room doesn't have to be large to be effective -- it merely has to be trim, interesting and functional.

Furnishings should reflect an integrated look for sleeping and living with, perhaps, a place to read and relax, to indulge in a hobby, or just to think and plan.

Gone – forever, we trust – are the dull and conventional colors that once prevailed in the "spare" room. Color it to suit your fancy: choose a warm, appealing color scheme for an unspoken welcome, or be daring in even a small room with a fresh, interesting palette of colors inspired by a bold wallpaper or fabric on one wall or a color kaleidoscope which elaborates a distinctive jewel of an accent rug.

ONE NEW YORK decorator recently proved that an area rug could delineate the boundaries of a "room within a room" when she hung a tiny, brilliant orange and red rug over a concealed bed to establish a separate guest area within the confines of a larger family room.

And if you've chosen the basics — the sofa or bed and the storage pieces — for that not-so-spare room, add a few pieces for the comfort of both that unexpected guest and your family in their every-day use of the room. A comfortable lounge chair, a desk that can be your at-home "office", a little table for snacking, are all highly practical insurers that your "spare room" will be used full time.

Living Room Focal Point Of Dwelling

If a single room can be called the most important one in your house from a visual standpoint, it is the living room. This room is usually the focal point of a home . . . the one most visitors see first, establishing the mood and decorative theme for the rest of the house.

But the most tastefully decorated living room is lost if not seen in the proper light. Good, balanced lighting should be an integral part of any home decorating plan.

Whether you plan an elaborate installation with built-in light sources and rewiring or a more economical and simple treatment, three basic types of lighting will apply: overall illumination, light for specific work areas and decorative or accent lighting.

A few decades ago, builders planned rooms with central overhead fixtures, giving no thought to other light sources. This type of fixture is not as common today but is still excellent for overall illumination. It should complement, rather than dominate, the rest of the lighting treatment.

Overall lighting is necessary to fill in between pools of light from table or floor lamps, eliminating harsh contrasts between light and shadows. Three-way bulbs are ideal with such lamps, changing the light level for TV viewing, conversations or other activities.

Areas of the living room used for sewing or reading should be illuminated with adequate yet comfortable and glare-free lighting. Floor, table and wall-mounted lamps or spot lights recessed in the ceiling are some of the lighting units which can be used.

Accent lighting is employed purely for its artistic or decorative effect. It can vary from tiny, recessed, incandescent spotlights highlighting a painting or piece of sculpture to "washing" a wall with fluorescent tubes concealed behind a valance board.

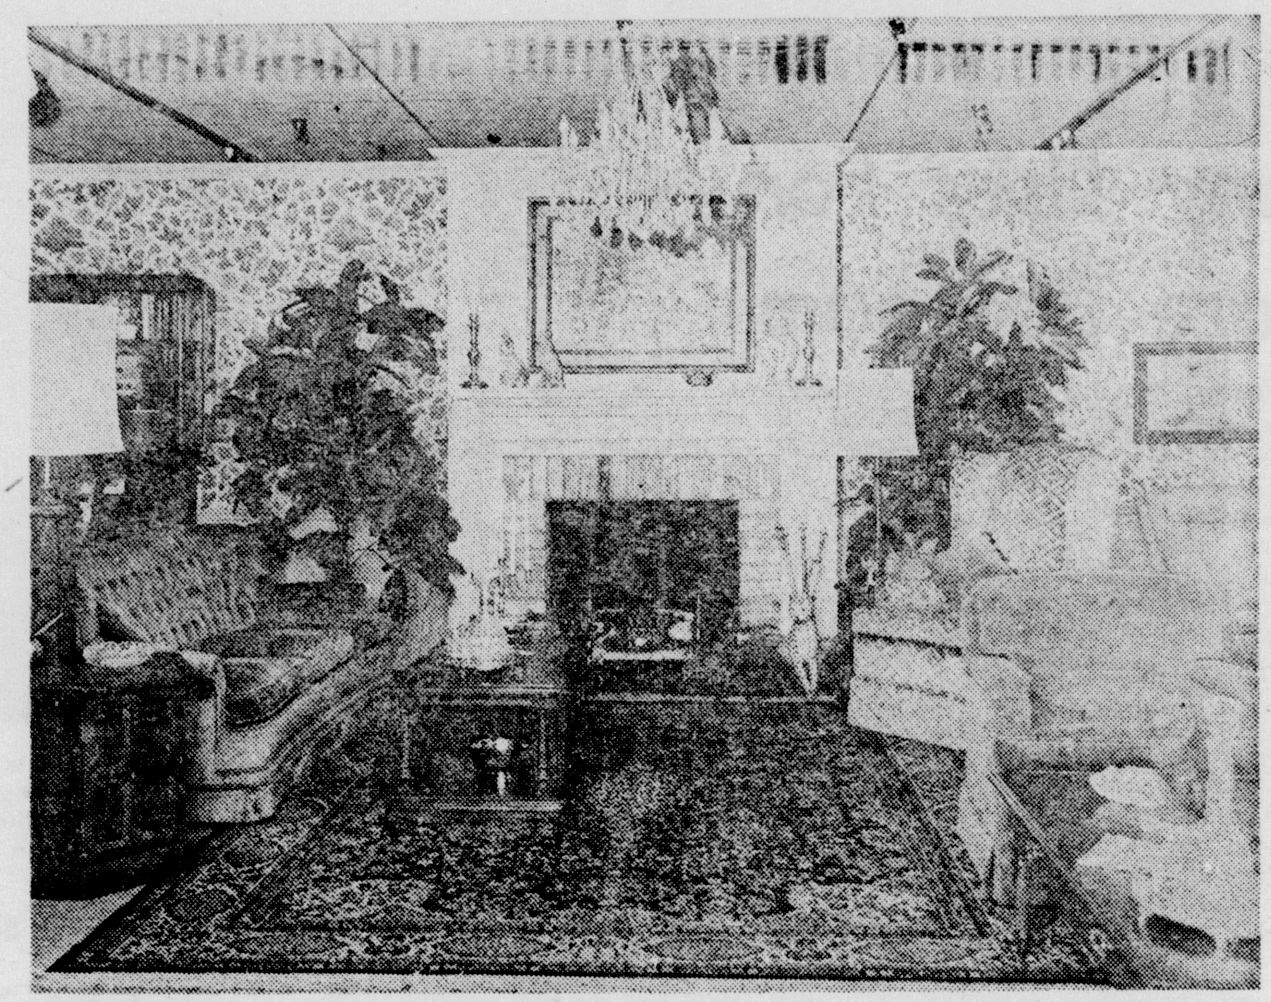
All of these lighting techniques will be treated in detail at a later date in this column. Combined, they can add that extra touch of dramatic creativity that sets your living room aside from the ordinary.

BUDGET LUXURY

Shag carpet tiles with foam rubber backing provide a luxurious floor covering at budget prices. Since the tiles have their own built-in padding, there's no need for additional underlay. The shag surface completely conceals the fact that the carpet is made of tiles.

Removing Wax

Candle wax on your carpet? Rub an ice cube quickly over the wax, blot with a clean towel or tissue. The wax will become brittle and can be easily picked up. Be sure not to get the carpet too wet from melting ice.



THE WARMTH of traditional formal decor is just as much a part of country living as it is the city's dressier life. With a heritage from the grand houses of early American Colonial times, American Traditional is at home in town or suburb. Handsome formal fabrics are used in the living room here, the velvet in stryne pattern on the sofa complemented by a cut velvet wing chair. All are at Yeager's Carriage House, 2503 Cleveland Ave., Santa Rosa.

Dividing Small Quarters

It doesn't take a crowd to constitute an over-population problem in today's shrinking world. When living space is at a premium, even two people may show occasional symptoms of ochlophobia (fear of crowds), alternating with claustrophobia (fear of enclosed spaces).

And building industry forecasts indicate a trend toward even smaller living quarters, not only in new city apartment construction, but in individual houses as well.

FOR MANY of today's couples, as well as for single careerists sharing or living alone, the notion of a separate guest room, work room, or even dining room already borders on sheer extravagance, reports interior designer Mary Ann Wills.

"That's why we see more emphasis than ever before on dual-purpose decorating, otherwise known as making one room do the work of two — or more," she explained. "The 24-hour sofa, the desk that expands for dining, the seat that's also a storage cube — they're all a part of the space-stretching game."

A favorite — and most effective — device for marking off activity areas and maintaining a sense of order in the overworked room has been the floor-to-ceiling divider that occupies virtually no space itself.

NOW THERE'S a new idea in dividers, just introduced by the Galway division of Burwood Products Company, Traverse City, Mich.: crystal clear panels in three distinctive patterns, to be teamed up with square modern poles.

"The crystal panels play marvelous tricks with light to provide a sense of privacy without a closed-in feeling," said Miss Wills, who serves as the company's decorating consultant.

Spots And Stains

Almost every carpet or run is the victim of spots or stains from time to time. Most of these accidents of spilling and dropping can be taken care of with little trouble.

Since carpet is an especially durable home furnishing, it can withstand a great many accidents wi'hout being ruined.

THE DANGERS of spots and stains can be minimized if the housewife will follow these three rules: (1) act quickly when anything is dropped or spilled on the carpet. Remove spots and stains before they dry. (2) have necessary cleaning equipment always at hand. (3) try to identify what caused the spot or stain and remove it by following directions carefully.

There are two types of cleaning material which should be kept on hand at all times for quick spot cleaning of carpets and rugs. These are (1) special purpose carpet cleaning detergent and (2) non-flammable dry cleaning fluid. They are really the only two which are suitable for home use. Others about which you may hear are useful in the hands of skilled cleaners but may do considerable damage if not properly used.

GENERAL procedure in cleaning spots from your carpet is as follows:

Step 1: Remove excess materials. In the case of liquids, absorb with a clean white cloth or other absorbent material. If semi-solid, scrape with a spoon or spatula or use a sponge.

Step 2: Apply a dry-cleaning fluid, blotting gently and working from the edges of a spot or stain toward the center.

Step 3: Apply the detergent solution described above. Use a clean cloth and blot gently from the edge of the soiled area toward the center, blotting occasionally with a dry, clean cloth to absorb excess olution.

Step 4: Dry the carpet.

Swinging Bedrooms Make The Scene

While psychologists say the bedroom atmosphere should be subdued, with nothing to jangle the ear or eye, decorators have other ideas. They say the bedroom should swing, and they've let loose with a riot of ideas to prove it.

"Bold contrasting colors, glittering glass and chrome, and unorthodox combinations of textures are making the scene in the bedroom these days," reports Sally Ames, consultant to a leading mattress manufacturer.

She notes that the days when the bedroom was the last room in the house to be decorated are practically gone. Today, the homemaker spends as much attention on making her bedroom attractive as she does on any other room.

"NO DOUBT the youth movement has had its effect," Miss Ames says. "Teen-agers make their bedroom their headquarters. Young married couples in small apartments often turn their bedrooms into 'auxiliary' living rooms. Both groups like unusual decorations, and this feeling has spread to other age groups as well."

Today's young homemaker wants to break out of the traditional mold and to surround herself and family with all of the excitement of the best in contemporary design, according to Miss Ames, consultant to the Spring Air Mattress Company, Chicago.

ONE EVIDENCE of the swinging feeling is the growing popularity of psychedelic patterns on bedspreads, draperies, and wall coverings. Another is the use of bright and saucy accent or area rugs on highly polished dark wood floors.

"Brightly painted or lacquered wood furniture is also big in the bedroom, and goes right along with the paint-it-yourself mania that has caught the fancy of many families," Miss Ames said.

For accents, homemakers are choosing ultra-modern bubble lamps, chrome and glass shelving for a bedroom library or knick-knack collection, and even inflatable lounge chairs.

"While standard bedroom furniture still is in vogue, the craze for something colorfully different is surely setting new trends," the consultant said.

But no matter what decorating trend you follow, Miss Ames points out that sleeping remains the bedroom's ultimate purpose and that the most important piece of fruniture in the room still is the bed itself. A quality mattress and spring will not only provide years of service but will also assure the type of restful sleep everyone needs.

Cleaning Tips For Furniture

Keeping furniture well-groomed is no problem today since there are so many products on the market to make it easy for you.

For the best results, however, here are some tips to keep in mind.

For cleaning and polishing, clean cloths are essential. A dirty cloth will scratch wood surfaces and smudge soil on plastics. Use a soft, lint-free absorbent cloth and always rub with the grain of the wood.

WOOD furniture should be dusted several times a week and given a thorough cleaning once a year. Surfaces should be washed with a sudsy mixture of mild soap or detergent and water and your clean cloth from which most of the water has been wrung. Then the old film should be removed with turpentine or a cleaner-conditioner if numerous layers of wax have accumulated. Following this, a fresh coat of wax or liquid polish should be applied.
